Stormy Scene in the Corps Legislatif. PARIS, February 24 .- There was a stormy scene in the Cores Legislatif to-day. Ollivier announced that the government, in accordance with the iberal course it has marked out, proposed to abandon wholly the system of placing in the field and supporting official candidates for the Chamber. This met with great opposition from the Deputies of the Right, who burst into loud cries of disapproval, and caused a scene of confusion which lasted many minutes. M. Ollivier, nevertheless, persisted in speaking. He declared the government would not separate itself from what had been well done during the past eighteen years, but it could not act contrary to its own antecedents. It could not present the spectacle of men arrived at power and disowning their principles and acts. M. Ollivier was continually it was only when he closed speaking that order The Right immediately moved the order of the day, upholding the system of official candidatures. A stormy discussion ensued. M. Ollivier asked that the order of the day be not made a wote of want of confidence. The Deputies, of the Left declared they must support the minister because they were pledged to electoral freedom, but for no other reason. The question was then taken, and the order of the day, as moved by the Right, was adopted-187 against 56. Much agitation has been produced by this result, which is considered equivalent to a declaration of want of

THE NEW PARTY MOVEMENT.

The Orangeburg News Declares for "The Citizen's Party."

From the Grangeburg News, February 26.1 We call the attention of our readers to the article entitled "A Place in the Fight," which we clip from the editorial columns of The CHARLESTON DALLY NEWS. THE NEWS and CHARLESTON DARY NEWS. THE NEWS and ourselves are now in full accord as to the situation and the remedy, and we appreciate the tone of courtesy and sympathy in a common cause which characterizes the article, and which should mark the course of The Daily News, as the leading organ of the State.

This question, as to whether the State can be redeemed from its thrall of corruntion and be redeemed from its thrall of corruption and usurpation, and restored to the keeping of those whose interests and whose love for her will be guarantees that she will suffer no detriment in their hands, is a vital and imminent one.

The result of the elections this coming fall will settle this question for a decade of years, will settle this question for a decade of years, perhaps forever.

Does it not behoove us, then, to devote all our efforts, in a direction that has some promise of success, to break down the party machinery which impels the colored people to the like automatons, and to secure some of them to vote as the dictates of honesty shall like them they down the allies shakes of direct them, freed from the galling shackles of a party?

THE CHARLESTON NEWS suggests the Citizen's party as the term which shall define and include all our citizens, Democrats and Republicans, white and black, united by the bonds of common danger and common hope. It says:

"The Scylla of Democracy, no less than the Charybdis of Republicanism, must be avoided."

Let us unite, then, at once! Let the white people of the State sacrifice much; let them do their whole part towards bringing about that bright day of accord and peace, when the that bright day of accord and peace, when the colored voters will realize that their rights are in no jeopardy, and that their common and true interests will be promoted and secured by a union with the honest of our people against the corrupt and the ignorant.

Let this day dawn before the elections in October next, and let that election be the inauguration of that bright era of prosperity. Let every individual man do his part towards bringing about this consummation! bringing about this consummation!

Then shall our State bring forth her increase, her valleys shall bloom as the rose, her hills shall smile with plenty, and her people from the seaboard to the mountain shall rejoice and be glad!

THE LAST OF WHITTEMORE.

by His own Act. A Washington telegram of Thursday, to the New York Herald, says: Representative Whittemore is no more. The first district of South Carolina is without a representative. Justice is partially satisfied, Logan is nearly satisfied. Butler is only about one-tenth satisfied, and Whittemore feels cxultant that he has escaped expulsion—the full and complete punishment which his alleged criminality called for. When the time for was laid over.

Resolution to require the commissioner of the bureau of agricultural statistics to forthwith make a report of the State census taken under his supervision, was laid over,

A bill was introduced providing for the general elections, and the mamper of conducting the same.

The Speaker of the House attended in the Senate, when the following acts were ratified:
To amend an act entitled "2n act to fix the salary and regulate the pay of certain officers;" whether it could save him from a vote of expulsion, the results of the salary and regulate the pay of certain officers;" whether it could save him from that dishonor, and a hundred other knotty points, in which and a hundred other knotty points, in which ladies as well as gentlemen learnedly participated. Almost the moment after the journal reading was concluded, General Logan, chairman of the Military Committee and chief prosecutor, according to Butler, took the floor. Profound silence ensued. Every eye wasdered from Logan to Whittemore and from Whittemore to Logan. The latter looked firm and determined. The victim appeared scarcely less so. Whittemore appeared scarcely less so. Whittemore held a roll of manuscript in his hand, his last words before the intended execution, his last intended appeal for sympathy and self-vindication. Logan made no speech then, he simply turned for a moment to look toward the South Carolina victim, and then addressing Speaker Blaine observed that he yielded fifty-five min-utes of his time to Mr. Whittemore to say whatever he might desire, and would claim thereafter the remaining five minutes of his hour to close the debate. Logan sat down and as Whittemore rose a buzz went through the entire House. Ail in the gallery leaned forward to see and hear. Glasses were levelled at the member from South Carolina from every direction, and suppressed exclamations of "There he is," which is a work from hundred of line "That's he," were heard from hundreds of lips. Slowly and deliberately Whittemore unfolded his manoscript and placed it on the desk bei He then took a drink of water, cleared his throat and handed to one of the pages something, which the latter conveyed to Speaker Blaine. While the little messenger was Speaker Blaine. While the little messenger was thus running. Mr. Whittemore commenced his dying speech. He had not read more than half a page when down came the Speaker's gavel two or three times with a loud noise. Something was decidedly the matter thought everybody. Whittemore ceased his reading, as with a sudden jerk, and looked inquiringly at the Speaker. There was a surprise all over the house, on the floor as well us in the gallery. Blaine soon gave the explanation. The paper which had been carried by the page to the Speaker proved to be the resignation of Mr. Whittemore, accompanied by correspondence between the latter paried by correspondence between the latter and Governor Scott, of South Carolina, Its and Governor Scott, or South Carolina. Its reading caused a sensation. What was to be done under the circumstances was now the question. The Speaker ruled that Whittenare was no longer a member, and therefore was no longer a member, and therefore have not been done and the state of the sense of of the sens fore not entitled to be heard on the floor of the House. A few of Whittemore's friends and Whittemore himself made an effort to remedy the damage. Whittemore asked the privilege of withdrawing his letter, to which the Speaker bluntly said nay. It was too hate now. The unfortunate victim had sent up the evilence of his legislative extinction a little bit too soon. Had he kept the paper in his pos session until near the close of his speech his would have had no trouble, and would have been allowed to make his say uninterrupted. Then a very complicated parliamentary mud-dle ensued, the result of all of which was that dle ensued, the result of all of which was that the House backed up Mr. Blaine in his view that Whittemore was no longer a representative, and that therefore he could neither be heard nor expelled, and that the resolution of expulsion should be tabled. After this had been accomplished, Logan got the floor again and offered the motion of censure, which was adopted without a single dissentient vote, so that Mr. Whittemore really accomplished little for the protection of his honor by resigning, inasmuch as the censuring resolution was a inasmuch as the censuring resolution was a unanimous condemnation. Those who would have voted against expulsion felt that Whittemore had made a sort of confession by his ignominious retreat before expulsion. Clarke, Clarke. of Kansas, who was standing by Whittemore and conversing with the latter while the vote of censure was being taken, voted "aye," loudly and emphatically. Contributions are solicited toward establishing a public reading-room, library and evening school, devoted to the use of the merchant and the workingman, and for the better education of apprentices of this city.

We, the undersigned, feeling the great necessity and want of an institution of the kind, where the old and poor may gain information, and the young education, have taken the matter in hand, and in order to advance what we have under taken, would humbly beg that our fellow-citizen support and aid us in carrying out this object which will not only enlighten the minds of many, but enrich the youth in knowledge, good principles and morals. To do this, all we ask from our fellow-citizens is a small amount, and also contributions of papers, books, or other reading matter that will instruct the youths of all branches of labor.

One portion of the reading-room and library will be devoted exclusively to religious reading matter, and we will be thankful for contributions The institution will be placed in good and proper hands, and conducted in the same manner as those in other-cities.

Feeling that our appeal will not be in vain, we have selected a hall in the central part of the city, and are having the necessary repairs done.

Lists will be placed at the offices of the daily papers and bookstores for contributions, and the citizens will be called on personally. JAMES M. RABB.

THE SEASON AND ITS DANGERS. The human body is chiefly composed of tissues and fibres, as sensitive to every change in the condition of the atmosphere as the most delicate electrometer, or the quicksliver in a barometer

The stomach, the skin, the nerves, the lungs, and the excretory organs are especially liable to be affected by these variations, and the best defence against their disastrous tendency is to keep the digestive machinery, which feeds and nourishes the whole system, in good working order If the stomach is weak or disordered, neither the blood nor the bile can be in a healthy state; and upon the fitness of these two important fluids for the offices assigned to them by nature and the regularity of their flow, health in a great measure depends.

When the air is heavily laden with chilling vapors, as it often is at this season of the year, the digestion should be an object of peculiar care. CALCES:

CHARLESTON, May 16, 1868.

Mr. J. B. RUSSELL, one of our careful and intelligent Pharmaceutists and Apothecaries, has submitted to my examination the formula for the preparation of a Soothing Cordial prepared and invended by him. vended by him.

It affords me pleasure to express a favorable opinion of its safe and efficient adaptation to the particular cases of the diseases of children, which it is designed to relieve.

E. GEDDINGS, M. D.

Having had occasion to prescribe RUSSELL'S Soothing Cordial in severe cases of Bowel Com-plaints in children and delicate females, I have been much pleased with its effects. I consider it a valuable medicine in all cases, in which it may advisable to avoid the use of anodyne, and pa deularly for family use, as it is perfectly safe.
W. T. WRAGG, M. D.

OHARLESTON, S. C., 1869.

Dear Sir—I have used your Soothing Cordial for Diarrhoza in teething children, and find it a very excellent preparation. It has a great advantage over most preparations of the kind in containing o Opium or Narcotic.

When these are required they can be added in roportions applicable to the case.

I therefore can recommend its use in the affections for which it is designed.
Respectfully yours, &c.,
T. L. OGIER, M. D. CHARLESTON. S. C., 1868.

I certify that I have most successfully used Russell's Soothing Cordial in the Summer Complaints of infants. He has fully exhibited the Ingredients of his remedy, and the tedious method of preparation. I recognize the prescription—containing no anodyne whatever—as a most safe and erflections one in bowel affections of children. when much pain or restlessness attends the affection, doses of Paregoric can be added to the prescribed doses of the Cordial according to the age of the patient. The compound, though more often, acts in an efficient manner without any addition of anothre. dition of anodyne.
In the Diarrhea of the aged, in increased doses,

In the Diarrings of the agen, in increased doses, it is of great value as a remedy; never disagreeing with the stomach—increasing appeate, improving digestion, and acting as a slow but efficient astringent agent.

W. M. FITCH, M. D.

MOUNT PLEASANT, S. C., 1868. Mr. J. B. Russell:

Mr. J. B. Russell:

DEAR SIR—I have used your Soothing Cordial for children extensively in my practice, and most cheerfully testify to its merits. I have found u, without an exception, to accomplish all it claims, and consider it superior to anything in use for children.

Its freedom from anodyne of any kind recommandal use a perfectly safe preparation in the

its freedom from anoune of any kind recommends it as a perfectly safe preparation in the
