THE OPENING OF THE SAVANNAH AND CHARLESTON RAILROAD.—The Savannah Republican says: "We had an interview yesterday with a contractor on this road, and were pleased to learn that the 'last spike' will be driven in the course of a few days. There was yesterday a gap of only nine hundred feet, which will be closed to-day, and the road be opened for regular travel on the first of March—Tuesday next. We send greetings to our Charleston friends on the prospect of a speedy reunion."

RECLINE IN COAL.—The usual monthly sale of Scranton coal at auction took place in New York on Wednesday. The bidding was not spirited, and there was a considerable falling off from the rates at the last sale. The following is a comparison of prices obtained Wednesday and a month ago:

8,000 tons lump... 54 1/2 44 1/2 45 1/2 43 1/2 12,000 tons steamboat... 41 1/2 34 1/2 41 1/2 34 1/2 12,000 tons grate... 42 1/2 34 1/2 42 1/2 34 1/2 10,000 tons egg... 42 1/2 34 1/2 42 1/2 34 1/2 20,000 tons stove... 42 1/2 34 1/2 42 1/2 34 1/2 12,000 tons chestnut... 40 33 40 33

EDGEFIELD COUNTY SAVED FROM BANKRUPTCY. The Augusta Chronicle says: "It is not generally known how much depended upon the court fight decided last Thursday, besides the amount of the published ward, it was authoritatively stated in the city yesterday, by well posted parties, that if Colonel Bacon had lost the main, Edgefield County, South Carolina, would have been bankrupted. The fight was considered by the people of that county to be an Edgefield affair, and every dollar that could be pulled from the toes of old stockings, or resurrected from beneath the hearthstones, was staked upon the result. If, therefore, Dr. Gee had won the main, Edgefield County would have certainly been dead broke, and would have had to make application to the nearest registrar in bankruptcy, having jurisdiction, for relief."

A PARDON IN ADVANCE.—Referring to the arrest last week of High Constable Hubbard, on the charge of illegal detention of South Carolina prisoners within the limits of the State of Georgia, the Augusta Chronicle states that the carpet-bag Governor Bullock has sent a pardon to Hubbard in advance of his trial, and that when the Superior Court meets next week, a motion will be made by Hubbard's counsel to have his bond cancelled by virtue of Bullock's instrument. There is no doubt that if Hubbard should have come to trial he would have been convicted. Indeed, so assured was the prisoner, himself, of the result, that he had announced his intention of going to Atlanta, where the Superior Court met, preferring rather to let the money of South Carolina advanced by Governor Scott as bail be forfeited than to face a Georgia jury.

CRUMBS.—In the big chicken dispute, in Augusta, Georgia, on the 25th, Colonel Bacon won the $200 stake on the main, and $100 on the single fight—making, in all, the snug little pile of $300.

P. DeMars has received his appointment as postmaster at Orangeburg, and will enter upon the discharge of his duties next week.

THE NEW BUILDING OF THE BOARD OF TRADE.

Ever since its organization, on March 23, 1866, the Board of Trade has shown itself to be a live, wide-awake corporation, prepared to do all in its power to advance the business and forward the interests of Charleston. The want of a suitable place for holding its meetings, of the Board was early felt, and it was determined that this want should be supplied. With this end in view, every effort was made, and all resources exhausted; but it was not until a few months back that the plans assumed any definite shape, and the Board took steps to secure a building that would not only be adapted to the business purposes of the organization, and be an ornament to the city, but would furnish a suitable clubhouse and reading-room for our merchants and business men and their guests.

The fine three-story brick building on the west side of Meeting street, owned by Mr. L. D. Mowry, was purchased, and the contract awarded to Mr. David Lopez, who immediately commenced the renovation and improvements necessary to transform it from a private mansion to a building suitable for the Board of Trade. This transformation required both time and care, and after some months of unremitting labor, a result has been attained which places the Board in possession of a building, second to none devoted to similar purposes in other cities. In order to meet the requisitions demanded, it was necessary to tear down and rebuild the interior on a different model. The exterior and outer buildings were also remodelled, and the appearance of the front improved by the removal of the unsightly iron fence and the substitution of a low, neat railing, running toward the entrance. The balustrade around the piazzas was also replaced by one in a more modern and tasteful style. The whole building has been painted in the cream tint now so fashionable, and the exterior is both attractive and ornamental.

THE FIRST FLOOR. The main entrance is via a flight of granite steps leading boldly from Meeting street, the door opening on an alcove, the inner door of which has the letters "Board of Trade Rooms" on ground glass. The walls of the entrance-way are painted in imitation of variegated marble. The floor is covered with oil cloth of a tasty pattern, and the mat leading to rooms bears the significant inscription, "Welcome." The large room on the left of the entrance has been formed of the original rooms, and is fitted up as a reading-room for the club, with wainscot racks against the walls for the files of papers. All the furniture is of oak, the chairs and settees having green reed cushions. Over the white marble mantel pieces are two large and handsome mirrors, in dark walnut and gilt frames. The walls are of a neutral cream tint, with ornamental cornices handsomely shaded. There are three massive bronze chandeliers in this room, with an extension argand burner in the center of each for convenience in reading. The windows are shaded with lace curtains pendant from a green and gold canopy.

The smoking-room opens from the club-room, and is furnished in the same style, the carpets in each being of the best workmanship. This room has one large bronze chandelier of a handsome pattern, and is fitted up with every convenience. A private entrance opens on Meeting street, and visitors can pass through to the other apartments without being observed by the inmates of the club-room. A hat and cloak room, pantries and other conveniences are in the rear of the smoking-room. A cool, wide, double piazza extends the whole length of the building.

THE SECOND FLOOR contains the assembly-room, which is of the same size as the club-room, and though more plainly furnished is admirably suited to the purpose; all the chairs are of oak, and a long table extends down the room. A small room over the alcove is designed as a committee room, and over the smoking-room will be used as a dining and supper parlour. A wine-room, pantries, dumb waiter connecting with the kitchen, and all the water conveniences are in the rear of the dining-room. The carpets and all the furniture in this story are of the finest material, though not so elaborate as those in the lower rooms.

THE THIRD FLOOR is assigned to billiards and other amusements, the main room having two billiard tables of the Picquet pattern, and is supplied with all the paraphernalia necessary to the game. The smaller rooms can be used for smoking and other purposes. Wash rooms, and all conveniences for the use of visitors, are in the rear of the billiard-rooms.

THE FURTHER PARTS. The grounds are surrounded by a neat fence, and are laid out in garden, under the supervision of Mr. S. Webb. Some of the arboreta is already planted, but only a few of the trees yet completed. The contract for the whole building was awarded to Messrs. David Lopez & Son, and the work was done under their supervision. Messrs. Douglas & Miller were the painters, and the handsome finish of the interior reflects great credit on their skill in the use of the brush. The gas-fitting and plumbing was done by Mr. Padden, the chandeliers being furnished by Mr. Hayden. The wood work and plastering was done by Messrs. Lopez & Son, and the brick work by Mr. Cullen. The carpets and upholstery came from the establishment of Messrs. C. D. Carr & Co., and the furniture was made to order at a Boston factory, through instructions forwarded by Mr. D. F. Fleming.

The building is complete in every detail, reflecting credit on all engaged in its construction, an object of pride to the Board, and an ornament to the city. It will be ready for occupancy at a good price, among merchants, and advance the good prospects of the city than any public enterprise that has been undertaken for years. The club-room alone fits a want that has long existed. The rooms are in charge of Mr. Foster C. Black, a gentleman well known in the business community, whose urbanity of manner and extensive acquaintance, will add to the popularity of the new business rendezvous.

A MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.—On Friday evening, about 8 o'clock, a fatal accident occurred at the Forty-one Mile Turnout, on the South Carolina Railroad, resulting in the death of Mr. Baxter, who, for many years, occupied the position of pump-master at that point. The freight train had just taken water, and was backing on the turnout to allow the night passenger train to pass, when Mr. Baxter attempted to jump on the track, but missed his footing and fell on the track, the whole train of twenty-six cars passing over his body. A fireman on the cowcatcher saw the body, and called to the engineer to stop. This was instantly done, and the engineer, Mr. George Baxter, jumped off and ran to the spot. On turning the body and recognizing the features, he exclaimed, "Great God, it is my father!" and fainted. The body, which was terribly mangled, was taken to a neighboring house, together with Mr. George Baxter, who was still insensible. Medical attendance was promptly furnished, but at all accounts his condition was still critical. Mr. George Baxter's wife, who lives in the neighborhood, had been sick, and it is supposed that while endeavoring to give his some information regarding her, Mr. Baxter met with his death.

AMUSEMENTS.

Grand Opening of "Humpty Dumpty" at the Academy of Music.

To-night the admirable pantomime and burlesque company of Mrs. Oates return to the Academy boards and produce the celebrated fairy extravaganza of "Humpty Dumpty, or the Fair One with the Golden Locks," which has had no unprecedented success in every city in which it has so far been presented. The piece will be brought out, after many weeks of careful preparation, involving a heavy outlay, with entire new scenery, effects, costumes and fairy transformations, and the Oates Company, who have already achieved so high a reputation with our theatre-loving public, will doubtless excel themselves upon this occasion.

A large proportion of the more eligible seats in the Academy are already engaged, and there is every indication that the most brilliant audience that has yet filled the Academy will be gathered within its walls to-night.

Carolina Patti Coming. We are requested to announce that the celebrated prima donna, Carolina Patti, and the very fine operatic troupe, will give several concerts in Charleston about the middle of March. Carolina Patti is the sister of Adelina Patti, now Marquise de Caux, and the veritable Queen of Song. Carolina is said to be very nearly the equal of her famous sister; and our music-loving people will anticipate her coming with much pleasure.

The Bal Masque of the Schutz-Gesellschaft. To-night the Music Hall of the Academy will be lighted and bright as fairy land, for the German Lightermen, faithful children of Prince Carnival, have chosen this night for their long tailed masquerade ball. The whole civilized world will send up representatives, and all of America and Africa's golden sands will send their chosen ambassadors to the welcome ball. "Hoppe" shall return from the shades, "Lalla Rookh" may wear once more the robe of wondrous beauty, and queens and peasants, courtiers and tyrants, candy-sellers and exquisite, Solon Silages and Rochester the gay, will mingle and gossip, laugh and jest; in bewildering but bewitching confusion. The Rifle Club are determined that it shall be what the ladies call "a beautiful ball," and in perfect arrangement and good order it will be as general as all the entertainments which are conducted by Charleston Germans.

Close of St. Joseph's Fair. On Saturday night, after a gala season of two weeks, the fair for the benefit of St. Joseph's Church was brought to a close, and the Hibernian Hall has returned to its normal condition. The fair was well attended throughout, and a large amount realized for the church.

Future Attractions at the Academy.—Miss Laura Keane. Manager Ford has effected an engagement with Laura Keane's fine dramatic company, now playing to crowded houses in Washington. They will probably appear here during the week commencing Monday, March 4. The well earned fame of Miss Laura Keane, not less as a manager of rare taste and discernment than as an accomplished and uniformly successful actress, should secure for her a hearty welcome on her first appearance upon the Charleston boards.

Italian Opera. The McCulloch and Brignoli opera troupe will begin a short season at the Academy on Monday evening, the 21st proximo. Two years ago Miss McCulloch, our own charming Carolina prima donna, sang here, and left a most agreeable impression from her young fresh voice. Two years ago we hear, have wonderfully developed powers, and realized the fair promises of her novice. Miss Heane, contralto, is new here, but not unknown to the musical world. Her voice is said to be of superior quality, and her school excellent. Signor Petrilli, baritone, established himself as a favorite with a Charleston audience on his first visit. We need not speak of Brignoli. His voice has lost none of its silvery sweetness, and happily he appears in two operas in which he has established his fame—"Lucia" and "Trovatore." The troupe is accompanied by a very accomplished director in the person of Signor Gloria.

ACCIDENT ON THE SOUTH CAROLINA RAILROAD.—ANOTHER WARNING TO BOYS.—On Friday evening, about half-past seven o'clock, some boys, white and colored, were playing in the yard of the South Carolina Railroad, between Spring and Columbia streets. A train of empty cars was backing at the time, and one of the boys, said to be a negro, pushed a small white boy named Mike Walters under a car, saying, "I'm going to let you run over you." The other fellow could not extricate himself, the flange of one of the wheels struck his knee, fracturing and crushing the bone. His cries attracted attention, and he was taken to his home, and medical attendance called in. Amputation was found to be necessary, and the leg was taken off near the hip. The perpetrator of the deed is still at large. Attention has been frequently directed to the foolishly manner with which the boys, who congregate in the railroad yard, play around the passing trains. Death has already occurred and accidents are not unfrequent, yet neither these warnings nor the stern remonstrances of the employees of the company seem to have any weight.

BUSINESS NOTICES. BY REQUEST, that elegant painting at Walker, Evans & Cogswell's will be raffled. FEB 25 3.

Hyams, to take place to-morrow near the Old Postoffice, at 11 o'clock A. M. The terms will be observed, as accommodating, and the sale will be without reserve. FEB 23

AN ATTRACTIVE BUILDING SITE.—The large and well-located building lot, 65 by 180, on Rutledge avenue, next adjoining the beautiful residence and grounds of R. C. Gilchrist, Esq., will be sold to-morrow on easy terms. Any one wanting a building location on the most select and fashionable avenue in the city, will find this a good opportunity. Messrs. Leitch & Bruns announce the sale at 11 o'clock, at the Old Postoffice.

HENRY'S PATENT GANG PLOUGH.—One of the best uses which the inventive mind of man has made of machinery is its adaptation to agriculture. Farming is now made easy by the improved appliances of the age. Mr. Wm. S. Henery, a practical machinist of this city, who has already invented several labor-saving machines, has recently perfected a patent gang plough, which combines many striking advantages. A public trial will take place at the terminus of the omnibus line, near Magnolia.
