THE CUBAN MASS MEETING.—The mass meeting of all Cuban sympathisers in Charleston, proposed to be held this evening, has been postponed on account of the illness of the president of the Cuban Junta.

SUDDEN DEATH AT SEA.—Mr. J. D. Murphy took passage on the steamer Dictator for Charleston, as she was leaving Fernandina, but died at sea the same night. He appeared to be in fair health when he came on the steamer. His body was left in Savannah.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Berhans, well and favorably known as an attache of the Mills House under its former management, has resumed his old position in the office. Mr. John Campbell has resigned his office, and will go to Europe in a few days.

Captain James Armstrong, who has been seriously ill for some days, is now recovering.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP TENNESSEE.—With accustomed punctuality, Captain Chichester sounded his steam whistle early on Sunday morning—arriving from New York, with a large cargo, in excellent time. The Tennessee is on the "Thursday Line," and has elegant cabin accommodations, all on deck, a new feature in coastwise travel, and attractive to all who prefer a sea voyage without the necessity of going down below for a nap.

SPRING AND SUMMER FASHIONS.—The New York World, noting the fashions for the spring and summer, remarks that ladies of culture and taste are gradually retiring back upon a style of dress distinguished more for its quiet elegance, its subdued tints, its absence of exaggeration, than for its display of the eccentric modes which follow so fast upon one another. The bonnets, we are told, have suddenly achieved larger dimensions, and therefore somewhat increased importance. The new style is orthodox in its composition, and includes the elements of crown, brim and curtain.

CHARLESTON AND LIVERPOOL.—The agents of the New York Thursday steamship line have arranged with the well known Liverpool steam line of "Williams & Guion," from New York, for issuing through bills lading—Charleston to Liverpool. Hereafter cotton and other produce, leaving Charleston on Thursdays, will be reshipped at New York on the following Wednesdays, instead of ensuing Saturday, as heretofore. "Time" shippers will, doubtless, be very much pleased at this improved dispatch to Europe. Messrs. Wagner, Huger & Co., Broad street, or Mr. W. A. Courtenay, at Union wharves, will furnish bills lading and give full information.

A GENEROUS DONATION.—The Sisters of Mercy beg leave to acknowledge the receipt, per Mr. Theodore D. Wagner, of a check for $100, as a donation from Colonel Richard Lathers, for which they offer to the charitable donor their most sincere and grateful thanks, and the assurance that the prayers of the Sisters and orphans will be constantly offered for his welfare in return. The following note accompanies the check:

MILLS HOUSE, CHARLESTON, April 1.

Theodore D. Wagner, Esq.:

MY DEAR SIR—Enclosed please find a check for $100. Will you be kind enough to hand it to the Sisters of Charity as a small tribute to their pious efforts in ameliorating human suffering among all classes, sects and countries? I am yours, truly,

RICHARD LATHERS.

A NEEDED IMPROVEMENT.—The present condition of the White Point Garden is a disgrace to any civilized city. The railing is down and grass is growing on the sidewalks. In fact, the Battery has a most neglected and dilapidated appearance, and it is highly necessary that something should be done, and some improvement inaugurated, before the warm weather brings the promenaders to enjoy the sea breeze. The attention of the City Fathers, the Street Inspector, and of all persons clothed with authority, is directed to the present disgraceful condition of what was once the pride of the city, and they are requested and solicited to act on the aggressive immediately, and declare war against the weeds that now mar the beauty of the promenade.

FIRE.—About half-past 10 on Saturday night fire was discovered in the paint and oil store of Messrs. Vincent & Browne, No. 155 Market street. The alarm was promptly given, and the engines were soon at work. The stock was much damaged as was that of the fruit store adjoining, and both buildings were injured. Messrs. Vincent & Browne were injured for $2000 in Messrs. W. B. Heriot & Co.'s agency. The fire originated among some straw and boards in the rear of the store, and is supposed to be accidental. During the fire a policeman arrested a member of Hook and Ladder, No. 1, for some cause, but the members of the Comet Star came to the rescue, and the prisoner was taken from the clutches of the police. The transaction was evidently based on the old theory that "a fellow-feeling makes us wondrous kind." There was a report that a row occurred at the time, but the assertion is not supported by fact, as the firemen all affirm that they were as peaceful as lambs.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Academy of Music—Saturday Night.

The mixed bill at the Academy of Music on Saturday night failed to attract a numerous audience; chiefly, perhaps, because it is the habit in Charleston to run after plays which have a continental reputation, and to neglect those which are still on probation, or have no merit beyond giving a certain performer the opportunity of proving his proficiency in a particular line of action. One of this last named class—"Is she mad?" headed the bill, winning before the curtain fell the noisy applause of the galleries as well as the less uproarious approval of the dress circle and parquette. The plot of the play is this: An English baronet, Sir Bernard Harleigh (Mr. Mordaunt,) whose young and beautiful wife, Lady Viola (Miss Keene,) appears to be constantly pursued by an attractive swell of the period, Lord Brandon (Mr. Otis,) becomes furiously jealous, without any good reason, quarrels with Brandon, and throws him into the sea. Preyed upon by remorse, the baronet becomes a monomaniac. Putting the case pardoxically, he believes, when apparently sane, that his wife is deranged, and, when under the influence of his mania, thinks that his wife is faithless, and is eager to drive her from his sight. Sending for an old friend, Dr. Pungent (Mr. Wallis,) he imparts to him his secret. Dr. Pungent is misled for a moment, but soon discovers that it is the baronet, and not his wife, who is mad. A cousin of the baronet, Maunder (Mr. Hawk,) forces his way into the house, and sees enough to convince him that his kinsman is deranged. That a commission of lunacy may issue, and the control of his cousin's property pass into his hands, he introduces, as a witness, Lord Brandon, who is at once recognized by Lady Viola as the exquisite who was supposed to be murdered. Only a terrible shock will restore the mental equilibrium of Harleigh. His mind is carefully prepared, and he is confronted with Brandon, who is, in truth, the husband of Amabel (Miss Anderson,) the ward of Harleigh. Following her from place to place, he caused it to be believed that he was the lover of Lady Viola. Everything is cleared up. The cloud passes away, and the dramatis personæ promise each other an unlimited amount of stage happiness.

The whole play is arranged so as to afford full scope for the acting of Mr. Mordaunt (Harleigh,) whose vivid portrayal of the changing moods of the madman produced a striking effect. In his moments of despondency, when the brain is dazed and he "cannot remember;" in his bursts of passion, when the doting wife is driven from his presence; in the moments of frenzy, when the murderous handkerchief is before his eyes and will not hence; in the calmer intervals when the cure of his mad wife engrosses his thoughts—Mr. Mordaunt was admirable. In appearance, gesture, tone and thorough consistency, it was the most striking bit of acting which this gentleman has given us.

Miss Keene, the agonized wife, conscious of her husband's insanity and her own innocence, played with her usual graceful vivacity. Mr. Wallis was painstaking and effective as Dr. Pungent, and as much may be said for Miss Anderson (Amabel,) Mr. Otis (Brandon.) and Mr. Hawk (Maunder.)

The piece was loudly applauded, and the performers were called out when the curtain fell.

"An actress by daylight" is a bare thread of story which gives Miss Laura Keene an occasion of showing her versatility, and her power of changing instantly from the declamation of the "tragedy queen" to the hard common sense of an "unattractive curl-papered old woman," who has neither "talent, beauty nor heart." All this is done for the disenchantment of Adolphus Downright (Mr. Otis,) who has fallen in love with a famous actress, who, at the request of his father, invites him to call on her, and, disguised as the female already mentioned, succeeds in convincing him that actresses are very matter-of-fact somebodies and make pathos as a carpenter makes a stool. In the process the actress is herself smitten, and the end of it all is that Adolphus is called back, the father gives his consent, the wrinkles and false plaits vanish, and the famous actress and nascent poet join hands in earnest. Sketches of this class always go down well. The public is a born tuft-hunter, and the feeling which causes the "fast young man" to be anxious for intimacy with a concert singer, ballet-dancer, hack-driver, or the presiding spirit of an engine room, leads the mass of spectators to enjoy hearing an actress say, on the stage, that her first thought on treading the boards is "to look how much money there is in the house," and to be told, after a bit of thrilling declamation, "each time I do that I make two dollars and seventy-five cents." The audience applaud because these smart common-places sound natural, and appear to give them an idea of the private life of an actress. They do not pause to think that all this is acting just as much as the thrilling pathos of Mary Leigh or the brusquerie of Naomi Tighe.

Mr. Otis (Adolphus) made the most of the little he had to do, and Mr. Hawk was a capital Lawyer Downright.

The last piece was Toodles. This, to our taste, is always stupid enough, and was particularly unpleasant on Saturday night, because of the zest with which the hero gave himself up to the delights of a stage drunk. A drunken man, off the stage, is bad enough, and on the stage he is revolting just as the representation is true to life. It may sometimes be necessary, for stage purposes, to include an inebriate in the caste, but in the case of Toodles it seems to have no other object or excuse than to draw a guffaw from a few unfortunates who ought to know better. At the Academy of Music this drunken business fell flatly enough, and will not, we hope, be repeated.

The stage arrangements of the evening were very good. The different characters were well dressed, and above all—well gloved and well shod.

Frou Frou To-Night.

This evening the much-talked of and popular work of Meilhac and Halevy, bearing the sound-born and mysterious name of "Frou Frou," which has achieved so signal a success in Paris, and is now all the rage in New York, will be presented at the Academy, with entirely new scenery, properties and costumes. Everybody is going, to find out what Frou Frou means, and from what we can hear, the play will be a splendid success.

Magical Entertainment.

Sig. Rubini, who has a large experience as a magician and professor of the black art, has arrived in this city and will give a series of entertainments at the Hibernian Hall. In addition to the wonderful tricks performed, there will be a free distribution of prizes at the close of the entertainment. The performance will commence to-night.

ANOTHER RAILROAD WAR IN AUGUSTA.—The Constitutionalist, of yesterday, says: "At the meeting of the City Council on Friday night, Colonel W. J. Vason again presented a petition, supplemented by an affidavit, pronouncing the running of railroad trains by steam power through Washington street an unqualified nuisance in the damage of property and danger of human life, and calling upon the city fathers, in the exercise of the authority vested in that body by the Code, as affirmed by the recent decision of the Supreme Court, to name a day for the hearing of the question, and the determination of the issue renewed. Although the matter was referred to the consideration of the Mayor and the City Attorney, to be reported upon prior to a summoning of the authorities of the South Carolina, Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta, and of the Augusta and Summerville Railroads, to answer, show cause, &c., it may not be inferred that the question is to be thus evaded. The known pertinacity of Colonel Vason, supported by the sympathy of a number of other property-holders on Washington street who are willing to press the bill of indictment drawn against the railroads, is indication enough to show that another siege has been inaugurated which is not likely to be abandoned until the full strength of the new plan of campaign has been ascertained. In addition to the above speck of war, a threatening cloud has loomed up in another direction, indicating the imminence of a sort of quadrangular fight, in which will figure the Port Royal Railroad Company, the City Council, the Augusta and Summerville Railroad Company, and property-holders along the line of Walker street."

BILL HEADS printed on fine paper at $3, $4, $5, $6 50 and $8 50 per thousand, according to size, at THE NEWS Job Office.

CORONER'S INQUEST.—Coroner Whiting held an inquest on Saturday morning on William Hancks, formerly a sailor on the United States Revenue Cutter Racer, who fell from the fore-gaff of that vessel on the 28th of January last, while loosing a sail. He received then several fractures and other injuries, which resulted in his death, at the City Hospital, on Friday night. The jury rendered a verdict in accordance with the facts stated.

LOSS OF THE BRITISH BARK ELIZA.—The bark Eliza of Barbadoes, J. O. Sprague master, from Matanzas, which port she left on the 21st of March, and Key West on the 24th, where she put in for some repairs, bound for New York with a cargo of molasses. She experienced strong gales and heavy seas, and having sprung a leak was making for Charleston, when on the 31st March, the wind southwest, got sounding of five fathoms, tacked ship to the south southeast, when the vessel soon after struck on what they call the Calf Shoal, three miles southwest from Bull's Island Shoal, and after thumping heavily came off, and when the pumps were sounded found three feet water in the hold; as she was sinking fast concluded to run her ashore, which was done, and shortly after she filled with water, the deck now being covered. The officers and crew were taken up by the pilot boat Almeda, No. 8, Captain Wigg, and brought to this city, together with a few barrels of honey and some of the sails.

CRUMBS.—Mr. H. H. Ferenbach was arrested on Friday for charging some colored men what they considered an exorbitant price for stimulants. He gave bonds for his appearance in court.

Mr. Charles H. Day, the business agent of Miss Laura Keene, has left for Savannah to act as the avant courier of her company, and to prepare the Forest City for their theatrical treat.

The Western Union Telegraph Company announce that they will receive messages at and for all stations east of the Mississippi River, including St. Louis, and west of the Province of New Brunswick, for transmission during the night at half the usual tariff rates.

The Mayor's Court was something like a briefless barrister on Saturday, and the funds in the city coffers were not increased by a single fine.

The public exhibition of the Shaw School, (colored) in Mary street, will take place on Thursday next, at 10 A. M.

A letter received by a member of the Cuban Junta, of this city, from Trinidad, states that the daughter of Senor Ramon Hidalgo of that place, has been imprisoned for sending a servant to purchase some blue ribbon, and refusing to give her motives for the purchase. "It is reported that she will be shot!"

The fine band of the Eighth Infantry has not left the city, as has been stated, but will, we trust, favor the promenaders on the battery with their music during the summer afternoons.

CARROLL'S COTTON PLANTER.

The above MACHINE will be sent, Express paid, to any Station on the South Carolina Railroad on receipt of ELEVEN DOLLARS.

The advantages of the MACHINE are these:

It performs the operations of COTTON PLANTING as fast as the Mule walks, with some allowance of time for putting in the Seed.

Its allignment on the BED is so sure that the young plant may be perfectly ploughed without being covered, and the necessity of the Hoe, in a great measure, avoided.

It is simple, durable and obvious.
