It provides that no minor under 18 and no female shall be employed in any cotton, wool-Jen, jute or silk manufactory for more than ten terruption of the ordinary running of the mills.

"Conscience money" seems to be more vogue la Great Britian than here: One payment of five thousand pounds sterling and several of one thousand each have been made in this way within a few years, and even loose sovereigns have been dropped into the British treasurer's letter-box. Why does all this money go to the public treasury? Why are these excited consciences never heard of as making restitution for private

-A mass meeting of bankers and merchants, held at Chileago on Saturday night, passed resolutions urging on Congress an immediate reduction of at least $50,000,000 in the rates of national taxation, in view of the fact that there will be a surplus of $125,000,000 in the treasury at the end of the fiscal year, and their belief that the payment of the public debt at the rate of $50,000.000 a year is all that can be reasonably asked of taxpayers. -The large increase in the wages of agricultural laborers in Ireland, which has taken place during the past twenty years, it is asserted, has not to the same extent improved the condition of the people, in consequence of the corresponding seri- for new political alliances will be afforded. ous advance in the cost of the prime necessaries of life. Thus, in 1849 the weekly cost per headof maintenance and clothing of the inmates of the Irish poorhouses and workhouses was 3714 cents, while in 1869 it amounted to 743 cents. So, too, on examining the feturns of the contract prices of the different articles of consumption in the workhouses of 1850 and 1870, it appears that with the exception of tea and sugar all other supplies have largely increased in price. The St. Louis journals report that the effect of the compressed air upon the men working in the caissons of the main piers of the bridge now building across the Mississippi, at that city, is highly injurious. Over fifty of the mea engaged In filling in the air chambers with cement have been prostrated by partial paralysis. In some Instances, a few days' rest has been sufficient to restore the workmen to health, but recently four of the men have died, and forty are still in the | Carolina Institute, from Commodore M. F. hospital, some very low, but the majority in a fair way of recovery. At the coroner's inquest held upon one of the persons who had died a fellow-workman testified that the men who observed strictly the sanitary regulations established by the engineers would not be injured, and that he never experienced any serious effects from the compressed air. The decease of his companion he attributed to intemperate habits. The use of spirituous liquors will undoubtedly weaken the lungs and render them unable to resist the pressure of two or three atmospheres. -Her Britannic Majesty's representatives at foreign courts are just now on a sort of diplomatic strike for higher wages, on the plea that the cost of living in the various countries to which they are sent has largely increased within the last few years, and that the existing scale of compensation therefore ought to be revised in their favor, else it will be a problem to make both ends meet., According to estimates submitted by the British Diplomatic Corps, the expenses of curbassles in Europe have increased from seventy all the way up to three hundred per cent. within twenty years, and it is stated that "a good deal of the present dearness of living is also attributed to the number of Americans who are accustomed 'o the number of Americans who are accustomed to the high paper prices of their own country, and east of the Mississippi, upon the subject of such is the difficulty of obtaining any thing fit to eat, that sovereigns are expended where shillings were a few years ago.

-The New York papers report in full the opening proceedings of the trial of Daniel McFarland for killing Albert D. Richardson in the Tribune office, under circumstances with which the public are familiar. Mr. McFarland, on leaving prison, entered a street car, accompanied by an officer, nobody recognizing him. On arriving at the court-room he was admitted by a side door to the great disgust of his fellow-citizens who were waiting to catch a glimpse of him outside. He occupies a place beside his counsel. He looks pale and slight;" cmaciated; was neatly dressed in black, his face smoothly shaved and his general demanor cool and collected. after the arrival of the prisoner he was joined by his little son Percy. They kissed each other and entered into conversation McFarland then addressed others freely. He said he was prepared to meet the verdict whatever it was, but he was confident it would be favorable. He was in much better health than when coufined four months ago. Among the celebrities in court were Mayor Hall, Henry Bergh and Court Joannes. Richardson's brother was also present, as well as Mr. Sage, Mrs. Richardson's father. The counsel for the presecution includes District Attorney Garvin, Noah Davis and Mr. Fellows. The prisoner is defended by John Graham, Charles S. Spencer and E. T. Geery.

The Last Device.

No one can deny the marvellous dexterity of the Radical politicians. They have adopted the principle that words are meant for the 1 a pose of concealment. Whenever they have an iniquitous measure to pass they mask it in an honorable name and so "put "it through." Radicalism is the grandest humbug of history.

It is plain to every one who has the slightest knowledge of the constitution, that Congress has transcended its powers. The case of General Ames, who has been thrust into the Mississippi senatorship at the point of the bayonet, is the latest case in point. A senator must be a resident citizen; Ames is a citizen of Maine. An election of whatever sort must be free; Ames had military control and possession of the ballet-box. He virtually elected himself and actually signed his own credentials. But Congress has the right to guarantee to each State a republican form of government, and is not General Ames a Republican? Congress has the right to decide upon the qualifications of its members, and has it not voted that he is eligible? The fact is, as Senator Edmunds (Vermont Radical) stated during the discussion of this subject, that "the Republican majority in the Senate was so strong that senators were apt to decide the question in advance of "its consideration, and then attempt to find reasons for the conclusion at which they "had jumped."

But now it would seem that they begin to become weary of this effort to find special reasons for any act of unconstitutional legislation. Mr. Sumner, in debating the Georgia case, has found a pretext which will warrant all Congressional usurpations. He repudiates "technicalities" as having any binding authority over Congress, denominating that body "a high court of equity." Let the name become current, and the policy of despotism is complete.

Equity, indeed, according to one of its first maxims, "follows the law;" but it is not in the sense of a high justice, which supplies legal defects, that Mr. Sumner uses the expression. To his hazy and unscrupulous mind, equity is that which supplants the law. It is a certain superior law which, at its will, recognizes or refuses to acknowledge the relations which the written law establishes, and follows or departs from the analogy of that law. For he claims that Congress, as hours a day, or sixty hours a week, except when a high court of equity, has the right to vioit is necessary to make repairs to prevent the in- late at once the Constitution of Georgia and that of the United States. Mr. Stevens said that the reconstruction measures of Congress were outside of the constitution. And now Mr. Sumner claims that Congress may go outside of the constitution whenever it will, and may stay there as long as it pleases. It is a law unto itself.

We begin to look upon all these pretensions with a certain sense of amusement. Mr. Summer reminds us of another vaporing pedant, by name James I of England, who was quite his equal both in courage and in sense. As the monarch was perpetually refinery. She was refilled with Cochituate water, boasting of his prerogative and kingeraft, while the reins of authority continued to slip from his hands, so the senator, with his party. brags and collapses. Like Jonah's goard, the bloated night-growth is waving and wilting in the sunshine.

> After awhile the South will be represented in that high court of equity-we mean not General Ames' South, nor cadet Whittemore's South, but the people, in the persons of their chosen representatives. As the preent schism in the Radical party deepens and the dissatisfaction at the West increases, and the political power drifts away from New England in either direction, an opportunity Whatever theory of government may prevail, we shall regain our rightful place in the councils of the nation. The gallant life which breasted invading myriads, and has already redeemed industrial and financial disaster, cannot be crushed out by any tribunal which Radicalism may establish at Washington. Whether it be masked as a high court of equity, or unmasked as a low lobby of iniquity, matters not.

Commodore Maury and Foreign Immigration.

We print to-day a letter received by Wm. M. Lawton, Esq., the president of the South Maury. In this letter, Commodore Maury sums up, with characteristic lucidity, both the advantages to the South of foreign immigration, and the reasons why it is impracticable for the South to obtain any large number of immigrants without energetic concert of action. The point made by Commodore Maury in relation to direct trade, will be forcibly felt in connection with the interests of Charleston, and none can doubt that, before we can obtain the immigration so earnestly desired, we must disabuse the mind of the foreigner of his prejudices against the South, besides assuring him that he will have here far greater advantages, and far better opportunities of advance-

The convention which meets in Charleston in May will, we are sure, discuss the whole matter, and it is suggested that the propriety be considered of taking steps to secure concert of action, among the Southern States are too apt to observe that every thing is very | immigration. Each State can work vigorment, than can be found in North or West.

cheap, which induces shopkeepers to raise their ously for itself; but the whole South workprice accordingly." The American mission is also unprecedentedly expensive; and in China take responsibilities which rould be for the take responsibilities which would be far too heavy for any single State.

The Etna Fire Engine Company.

The statement in THE NEWS of Wednesday that "at a meeting of the Ætna Fire En-'gine Company, held on Monday, it was resolved that this company would join in "the (annual) parade in the usual manner, was made upon what appeared to us to be unquestionable authority. That statement, moreover, agrees in substance with the official record of the proceedings of the meetng referred to ; for there is not in Charles on, we presume, any white man so wild as to suppose that the Ætna Fire Company would parade unless a majority of the white volunteer companies did the same.

Our Washington correspondent writes that some leading Radical Congressman are urging President Grant not to recommend the passage of a resolution of universal amnesty for offences committed during the war. The carpet-bag members are vehement in their opposition to amnesty, and declare that the time has not come for a general removal of political disabilities. This last was to be expected; but President Grant can see for himself that the masses of the people call for universal amnest, and pardon, as the crown of the work of reconstruction. This seems to be the temper in the North. And in the South a universal amnesty would go far to procure for the present administration the respect, if not the affection, of the people.
