EASTER DAY.

HOW THE FESTIVAL WAS CELE-BRATED IN THE CHURCHES.

THE CONGREGATIONS, THE SERVICES AND THE DECORATIONS.

Sketches of the Sermons of the Day.

The glad testival of Easter, yesterday, was marked by somewhat variable weather, but, up to church-time in the forenoon, the san shone as orightly as could be wished, and the pealing of the bells summoned forth throngs of worshippers the ladies for the most part decked in their gay spring tollettes, and giving a very lively appearance to the crowded streets. At all the churches large congregations were present, and at most of them the services were of a peculiarly impressive and solemn character. St. Paul's Church (Episcopal.) The great size of St. Paul's Church makes it a work of some difficulty to decorate it thoroughly, and the dressing was therefore chiefly confined to the adornment of the spacious chancel, which was effected with much taste. The altar, pulpit and choir's gallery were profusely decorated with crosses, and wreaths of flowers and evergreens. In front of the altar was a beautiful stand of lilies and evergreens. St. Paul's is at present without any regular rector, but the Easter services were conducted by the Rev. James W. Miles, assisted by the Rev. J. Barnwell Campbell. The former distinguished divine preached a remarkable sermon from the text, Isuiah ixin, 1: "Who is this that cometh from Edom, with dyed garments from Bozrah? this that is glorious in His apparel, travelling in His strength? I that speak in right cousness, mighty to save." The reverend speaker drew a vivid description of the Saviour, as represented in the vision of the prophet Isalah, coming as the resistless conqueror of sin, death and hell. Isalah is regarded as the watchman upon the tower, whose attention is arrested and his wonder excited by the rapid approach of a most conspicuous figure. As it draws nearer, His dimensions and appearance are that of resistless might, and His features are radiant with the glory of triumph and victory. The prophet does not neglect his duty as a sent nel, but challenges this extraordinary and glorions figure in the question of the text, and receives for answer, "I that speak in righteousness mighty to save." The speaker then described the final contest waged by the Saviour with that terrible foe of mankind-sin-and its offspringdeath-and their fall before the conquering Redeemer. In this contest the Saviour is represented as the champion of the sinner, before whom death and hell fall discomfitted; and for this He demands nothing. The love of Christ, His greatness, His wisdom, His goodness, His supernatural powers, His compassion, overwhelm with wonder, admiration and affection, and impress us with the conviction that the Divinity lives in Him. There is an unearthly grandeur about Him which is the more striking from the very simplicity and poverty of His life. If they had not then already sought the Saviour, let this conviction call them to repentance. The sermon throughout was marked by a singular splendor of diction and dramatic power; and the concluding sentences of the discourse, in which its impressive teachings were applied to the practical lessons of the Easter season, were in a strain of the most earnest and persuasive eloquence.

St. Michael's Church (Episcopal.) In the decorations of St. Michael's Church, even nore than the usual taste and skill was evinced. Never before has the church been more elaborate ly and appropriately dressed. The galleries were hung with long and graceful festoons of cedar, and every pillar was twined with wreaths of cedar mingled with lovely and fragrant flowers. From the font at the door to the cross above the THE FIFTEENTH AMENDMENT-GRAND CELE- altar, which was of moss, drooped with hot-BRATION .- A few days since a convention of the house flowers, every salient point had its appro-Committee of Thirteen, and the delegates from | priate adornment. The large chandelier, which haugs from the middle of the ceiling, was draped with leaves and moss and flowers, like a huge monument of spring. The rugged outlines of the antique pulpit were almost veiled and hidden by the profusion of its verdant covering. The sounding board above it was one mass of diversi fied foliage, crowned by a gorgeous bonquet of natural flowers. The same care was shown in the decoration of the chancel, and the effect to an observer standing in the nave of the church was very beautiful and striking. The services were conducted by the rector, the Rev. R. S. STATE SUPREME COURT.-COLUMBIA, APRIL Trapler, (who preached from St. John, xx, 9.) and with the administration of the Holy Communion. The music was well selected and > mpressive. Grace Church (Episcopal. Grace Church was dressed with very elaborate and tasteful festoons of green cedar covering the walls, and hanging from the upper tier of win dows in double curves, harmonizing well with the gothic style of the church. From each arch was swung a basket of lovely flowers. The chancel was dressed with ivy, and the font filled with magnificent white azaleas; but the chef d'œurre of the decorations was a group of lilies of the Nije, in jars, placed within the chancel, and forming a background for the cross, which was raised in a mound of flowers. None but the choicest and rarest natural flowers were used in the decoration, presenting to the eye the most gorgeous contrasts. The congregation was a very large one, and the sermon was preached by the rector, Rev. C. C. Pinckney, from the text, Phil. Ili,10: "That I may know Him and the power of His resurrection.

St. Philip's (Episcopal.) There was a large attendance at this church in the forenoon, where the service was read by the rector, the Rev. W. B. W. Howe, who, however, being indisposed, was unable to preach the usual discourse. The church was very tastefully decorated, some of the wreaths and crosses constructed of evergreens and flowers, showing much skill. At the centre of the inner porch a large cross of evergreens on a pedestal of the same, was particularly noticed. The altar and galleries were richly adorned with doral ornaments, accompanied by appropriate scriptural extracts. Church of the Holy Communion

verse. Huguenot Church. This church was tastefully and elegantly ornamented with evergreen and flowers, worked into fantastic shapes by the hands of the ladies of the congregation, the chancel being a mass of garlands and wreaths of natural flowers. Conspicuously placed above the altar, in letters formed of arborvitæ, was the Hebrew word "Rabboni," (meaning "Master,") which word was used by Mary to Jesus when he first arose from the dea and made himself known to her. The text of the sermon by the pastor, the Rev. C. S. Vedder, was taken from Romans viii, 34: "Yea, rather, that is risen again." Combatting the views of those who had rejected the belief of a resurrection from the dead, from ancient times down to the present age, he pointed out wherein they conflicted with each other. He argued that a mere legend needs time to grow, while the resurrection of Christ was acknowledged and believed by hundreds at the with marked attention. The music on the occasion

A very full congregation was in attendance at the Cathedral Chapel, at service in the forenoon. Solemn High Mass was celebrated by the vicar general, the Very Rev. Dr. Berminghain. Mozart's Twelfth Mass was sung by the excellent choir, with selections from Farmer's Mass, and a strong orchestral accompaniment rendered the music unusually fine. The sermon was preached from the gewpel of the day by the Rev. Mr. Quigley, on the joyous character of the great event, the commemoration of which marks the close of the penitential season.

Let us be glad and rejoice therein." Showing the difference between the entry into Jerusalem, and the glorious Resurrection commemorated on tion of the mingled hope and anxiety with which fidence in the mercy and goodness of Christ, of He alluded to him who filled the pulpit at St. Mary's a year ago, and who awakened by his burning cloquence the devotion-of his congrega tion; and who was now, it was confidently hoped, one of the band of Saints who hymned eternal praises before the jusper throne of God. The altars of St. Mary's were prettily and chastely adorned with lights and natural flowers. Millard's Mass was sung by the choir, the sweet notes of the tener making themselves pleasantly St. Patrick's Church (Catholic.)

The Rev. Dr. Moore, who preached at High Mass chose the following as his text: "He is risen; He is not here," (Mark, xvi chapter, 6 verse.) The reverend divine, after speaking of the festival which was then being celebrated in triumph and joy th oughout the Christrian world, described the death and resurrection of the Saviour, ex plaining that the life which the Savlour assumed body which His soul reassumes and animates by the power of his Divinity, is not a body subject to impassable. He rises to die no more; death shall have no more domin.on over Him. In conclusion, they had died unto sin, and were risen and living unto God; if so, to-day was one of triumph to them as well as to the Saviour. The music was | Saviour's throne." especially fine, the railitary post band accompanying throughout the mass. In beauty of decorations, St. Patrick's Church yielded to none, the profusion of flowers being almost bewildering.

St. Peter's Church (Catholic.) At High Mass yesterday, the celebrant, the Rev. Mr. Folchi, preached from the text, "This is the day which the Lord has made. Let us be glad and rejoice therein." He explained that if we would partake in the spiritual joy, we must walk in newness of life, illustrating these positions by the gospel and epistle of the day. In concluding his discourse, he exhorted the congregation to re ceive the solemn blessing given to-day, "Ad Ur bem et Orbem," by the Holy Pontiff, at St. Peter's, at Rome, of which impressive ceremony the reverend gentleman gave a glowing description. The church, as we have already had occasion to say, was decorated with great richness, and in excellent taste. It will be open to-day and tomorrow. St. John's (Lutheran) Church. This church was most elaborately decorated resterday. Pendant from each gas bracket swung a small basket filled with flowers of richest and rarest hue. The altar, rails, pulpit stairs and pillars presented a beautiful spectacle, profusely but tastily decorated with wreaths of evergreen and flowers. In front of the pulpit stand, in letters of evergreen, was the simple, yet appropri ate word, "Alleluia." In the window in rear o the pulpit was a large cross of evergreen; at the centre of the window arch was a large star; above this the sentence, "Now is Christ Risen!" and above this a crown, all made of evergreen. Tho services commenced at half-past 10 o'clock. After singing and prayer, Rev. W. W. Hicks, the assistant pastor, read the morning lesson, found in the 16th chapter of St. Mark. The text select ed by Mr. Hicks was the 34th verse of the 8th chapter of Romans: "Who is he that condemneth! It is Christ that died; yea, rather, that is risen again, who is even at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us." In burning words the divine depicted the sufferings of our Saviour, His crucifixion and resurrection, and then impressed upon his hearers the lesse it taught, how they too must suffer, be crucified to the world, before they could rise again and enter inro the rest and joy prepared for all who serve the Lord. At the close of the sermon the rite of confirmation was administered to twelve persons. The venerable pastor, Dr. Bachman, was present, and assisted at this ceremony. Wentworth Street (Lutheran) Church The pastor of this church, Rev. Mr. W. S. Bow man, preached an impressive sermon to quite a large audience yesterday, from the text : "And the angel answered and said unto the woman, fear not ye, for I know that ye seek Jesus, which He said. Come see the place where the Lord lay." Matthew, 28th chapter, 56th verse. After a brief vindication of the grand assertion in the text-"He is risen, as He said," which was sustained by the testimony of history, the testimony of inspiration and the testimony of angels, the reverend speaker pursued as his theme the evidence and signs of the presence of a risen Redeemer in the world; those who sought Him in the same spirit that actuated the woman spoken of in the

He added that conformity to t is a condition so deplorable as to claim the pity of Heaven, and the sacrifice of the Son of God He dwelt upon the nature and the importance of the deliverance effected by Jesus Christ. Th man who esteems the world as his chief end is in bondage, though he may cheerfully wear his chains; and he can urge neither the plea of innocence nor the the argument of necessity when he puts the creature in God's place and makes an immortal spirit subservient to dust. But Christianity justifies and ennobles the present life; refines the character of its possessor, and prepare the believer for a world of light. The preacher urged that the secular cares of life, and the scruples which disturb religious persons in regard to business or pleasure, were God's concern even in eternity. They had a most important relation to the Saviour's mission He asserted that human virtues are empty, and that life's blessings are treacherous and transitime it occurred. The sermon was listened to tory when separated from religion. But the attainments of the consistent Christian prove him to be the noblest, the wisest, and the happiest of men. His peroration we give entire and commend its Christian liberality, its lofty sentiments. its pure and unadulterated teachings to the attention and guidance of all denominations of Christians: "To-day many Christian congregations are celebrating the festival of Easter. We do not observe it, for, in our judgment, the Gospel makes every Sabbath the Lord's day-a day scaled by His name, and especially commemorating His resurrection. But we have no quarrel with our brethren who set one of these days apart for a special service of commemoration, Unitarian Church. festival with much taste. A memorial discourse was delivered by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Cutier, at the morning service, on the late Rev. Charles sermon in the evening from I Corinthians, xv, 14. Easter, he said, as a Christian festivity, commemorates the resurrection of Christ from the dead, and amount of business done. at an early period took the place of heathen rites once celebrated in honor of the renewal of nature in spring-time. The fact of Christ's resurrection is fundamental. It lies at the basis of Christianity as an organized religion. It is one of the primeval convictions upon which the Church was built. After the cruciaxion it became the rallying fact, which reassured the despondent disciples and filled them with new hopes and zeal and courage. It was preached everywhere by the first messengers of the Gospel, and held forth as an elemental point in the Christian faith. Though most wonderful event, it is not incredible, when we take it in all its sublime connections. We cannot eliminate the miraculous element from the New Testament without destroying the record. After the great and wonderful life of Jesus, faith in his resurrection becomes easy and natural. His life was the great wonder in that age, and among the people of His own nation. The resurrection revived the cause of the Christian kingdom which seemed smitten down, by the effect of the crucifixion on the minds of the first connection between that world and this. We must rise with Christ from the grave of sense and sin, and so find our way, at last, purifled, into the Kingdom of Glory. The Rev. Mr. Bowen, concerning whom the memorial discourse was preached by the Rev. Dr. Cutler, was born in Rhode Island in 1827, and during the war was an hospital surgeon in Baltimore. He is spoken of by those who knew him as an earnest man, and a practical Christian, who sought conscientiously to fulfil all his duties in all the relations of life. Mr. Bowen leaves a beyond the grave, and shows an unbroken widow (the daughter of the Rev. Dr. Gilman, of this city) and two children.

The Second Presbyterian Church. There were no services at this church yesterday, in consequence of the illness of the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Smythe, and the fallure of the] minister who was expected to occupy the pulpit in his stead, to arrive. The Circular Church (Presbyterian.) The pastor, Rev. Mr. Adams, delivered an ex cellent discourse from the text: "For ve know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though | it passes is not rich in active capital. From the He was rich, yet for your sakes He became poor, 1st January to date, this road has shipped two that ye through His poverty may be rich," (II hundred and forty tons. Corinthians, vill, 9.) There was a full attendance,

First Presbyterian Church (Scotch.) The pastor, Rev. Dr. Forrest, officiated vesterday morning, and delivered an excellent discourse from the 11th chapter and 23d verse of Romans: "Behold, the goodness of God." There and the Northeastern Roads, which are for three was no especial reference made to the season of the year, or to the religious festival which was celebrated by the other denominations.

Central Presbyterlan Church. Upon the following text: "Why art thou cast down, 0 my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me ? Hope thou in God, for I shall yet praise Him, who is the health of my countenance an 1 my God," (42d Psalm, 11th verse,) Rev. Mr Dana, paster of this church, yesterday preached an instructive and interesting sermon. In earnest language he pointed out the grounds for hope in God: showed in what the serving of God consisted-not in abnormal religious excitement, but in the general rectitude of life; that as God offered to all grace here and glory hereafter. He demanded in return obedience, love and trust.

Trinity Church (Methodist.) The Rev. W. P. Monzon, pastor, took for his text: "But now is Christ risen from the dead, and and conductors' cars, would form a continuous become the first fruits of them that slept," I Corinthians, 15, 20. The speaker said he would not attempt to bring forward the many strong arguments generally used on such occasions, but would merely quote the Gospel truths on the resurrection, which was sufficient evidence to prove to the world the resurrection of Christ. One remarkable fact he impressed upon the sinner was this: that although previous to His crucifixion Christ mingled with sinners, yet after His resur- have also been shipped to foreign ports,735 tons of rection He appeared only to His disciples. Spring Street Methodist Church. The day was not specially observed at this church; yet the services were of a deeply interesting character. Fifty-six persons applied for church membership, the fruit of a revival which is still in progress, under charge of the pastor, Rev. J. T. Wightman. The morning service was conducted by the Rev. Paniel May, of the South Carolina Conference-text, John iil, 16: "For God so loved the world that he gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Ifim should not perish, but have everlasting life," He said the text embodied the great thought that the Godhead was interested in the salvation of the world. The love of God the Father was the moving cause of man's redemption; the suffering of God the Son the procuring cause; and the power of God the Holy Ghost the efficient cause. While all the Godhead thus actively combined for the redemption of the world, yet the instrumental cause wa faith in Christ, which secured the object of redemption, namely, that they "should not perish" who believe in Christ. These points, as well as the power of the Holy Chost on the hearts and consciences of the ungodly, were arged with much earnestness.

EASTER ELECTIONS.—There will be elections or wardens, vestrymen or trustees, held in a number of churches to-day. We will be much obliged if those having the elections in charge will send us the result to-day, in order that we may publish them in to-morrow's issue.

DETERMINED TO HOLD ON TO OFFICE .-Daddy Cain is indignant that those of the Radicals who are out of office are forming plans "to defeat as many of the fermer members from this county as possible." Cain "has been informed of a plan to form the committees in the wards in such a manner as to keep certain parties from being nominated," and he suggests "to those tricksters that he knows their plans, and when the time comes, he will hold them up to the people's gaze, so that they shall know them and their designs."

PHOSPHATES.

GROWTH OF THE FERTILIZER TRADE OF CHARLESTON.

WHAT OUR RAILROADS HAVE BEEN DOING.

Interesting Statements.

The worthy citizens who snuff the tainted gale, and abuse, in no measured terms, these "superfluous superphosphates," do not pause to consider the extent of the fertilizer business, its importance to the community, or its potential infinence in developing the riches of the State. Asthetically considered, fertilizers may be a nuisance; but as a practical means of stimulating the soil, and of increasing the product of a given quantity of labor, their importance is not likely to be estimated too highly.

Even before the war guanos were used in South Carolina. The consumption, however, was not large, and only the diminished amount and increasing cost of labor, consequent upon emancipation, made the farmer consider whether it was not better to decrease the area in cultivation, and by high farming, increase the yield. There was also, the expectation that the use of fertilizers would push the cotton plant forward so that the danger from caterpillars would be lessened, an expectation which in many marked instances The discovery of the South Carolina phosphate ent kinds of guano. Capitalists put their money establishment of the Wando, the Etiwan, and the Pacific Phosphate Works, where the crude phosphatic rock is manipulated, made soluble, and prepared for a market. These different companies give employment to hundreds of hands, without counting the labor engaged in getting out the crude rock by the different mining associations. As well as we have been able to learn, all the different companies are in a prosperous The Unitarian Church was adorned for the condition, and they have, this season, transacted an enormous business.

It is difficult to ascertain how much fertilizing material of the different kinds has actually been J. Bowen. The same divine preached the Easter sold. The agents are chary of giving detailed information, but the records of the railroad and steamboat companies show tolerably well the THE SOUTH CAROLINA RAILROAD.

During the three months ending on March 31st, the amount of guano and fertilizers transorted by this railroad is as follows:

Total......10,815 It will be noticed that the shipment of fertilizers to Camden for three months of 1870 is three imes as much as for twelve months of 1869; the shipments to way stations are more than double, and the shipments to Augusta and beyond are nearly trebled. During the past season the fertilizer trade with points beyond Augusta has large ly increased. This shows that Charleston is spreading out her iron arms into the centre of Georgia and the Southern cotton belt. The increase in the shipments to the local stations is

THE SAVANNAH AND CHARLESTON BAILBOAD. This road, for various reasons, has done only a small business in fertilizers. It has been open but a short time, and the section through which

BECAPITULATION. We can now form some idea of the extent of the trade by adding together the shipments by the different roads, and adding to the statement of the South Carolina Railroad (which is for three months) enough to equalize it with the Savannah months and a half:

THE COST. The price of the different kinds of fertilizers ranges from $55 to $100 a ton, but a fair average s about $70. At this rate the value of the fertilizers shipped over the different railroads this year is $2,107,280.

Some idea may be had of the bulk of this enormous mass of fertilizing material. A car carrie about 16,000 pounds, so that there was in all about three thousand seven hundred and sixty-three (3763) car loads, which would make two hundred and eight trains of eighteen cars each. These trains, one before the other, with their engines line over twenty-seven miles long, and of this, the fertilizers carried by the South Carolina Railroad would make a train long enough to reach from St. Michael's Church to Summerville, or more than TWENTY-THREE miles.

CONCLUSION. Besides the amounts shipped by the railroads about 1000 tons of fertilizers have been forwarded by the coasting steamers and schooners. There will enable our readers to realize, perhaps for the first time, the magnitude of the phosphate busi ness, and the amount of capital invested in ferti lizers by the farmers and planters of the State.

PERSONAL .- A private telegram has been received announcing that Robert C. Smith, Esq., formerly a merchant of this city, died in New Or leans on the 15th instant. The funeral services, of which due notice will be given, will take place at the First Baptist Church in this city.

HEAVY ROBBERY .- We learn that a telegram was received here yesterday stating that the banking house of Scott, Williams & Co., of Colum bla, was broken into some time during Saturday night, and between eighteen and twenty thousand dollars in bonds, greenbacks, &c., stolen. Of this amount, it is said $1500 was in gold. There is no clue to the perpetrators.

CRUMDS .- The colored people of Beaufort celebrated the Fifteenth amendment on Friday last. C. C. Bowen, F. J. Moses, Jr., R. H. Cain, W. J. Whipper, W. R. Hoyt, T. J. and J. G. Mackey and others made speeches. Friday Nixon, the murderer, will be carried up to Columbia to-day to appear before the Supreme Court to-morrow. Mr. Ellenwood, proprietor of the Madison (Fla.)

Messenger, is now in the city. His paper is one of the best known and most widely circulated sheets in Florida.

ANOTHER MASS MEETING .- Elsewhere we mention that a convention of Republicans which met on We mesday night last, adopted resolutions calling for a mass meeting at five o'clock this afternoon, to make arrangements for celebrating the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment. An advertisement in another column states that a convention which met Saturday night, decided to call for a mass meeting at the same place, at half-past 7 o'clock for the same purpose. It appears that one call is from the Bowen, and the other from the Mackey wing. Fun is anticipated.

THE STRANSHIP SERVICE BETWEEN PHILA-DELPHIA AND CHARLESTON.-The line of steamers which have been plying between this city and Philadelphia has been discontinued for a week or two past, but through the influence of Thomas Clyde, Esq., of the latter city, this steam service will be resumed and continued without interruption in the future. The fine large screw steam ship "Ashland," 1400 bales capacity, has been placed on the line, and for the present the steamship J. W. Everman will run in connection, givweekly communication between the two ports. Messrs. Edmund A. Souder, Jr., and Samuel D. Adams, under the firm of Souder & Adams, No. 3. Dock street, Philadelphia, are agents in Philadelphia; Messrs. W. P. Clyde & Co., of that city adding their influence and names to this important en-terprise. Mr. Wm. A. Courtenay will represent the line in Charleston as agent and superintendent. With the Philadelphia line as now prospected, and our sprightly and energetic Baltimore and New York Steam lines, our city has very decided advantages on the sea, which must contribute largely to the growth of her commerce.
