-A Washington dispatch says: "In the forthcoming Republican Congressional caucus a Southern senator intends to propose a policy, to be incorporated into a law, for the better protec tion of the colored people of the South, and to seours the enforcement of the Fifteenth amendment in the North. This will take something of the shape of a bill prepared by Mr. Pool, of North Carolina, and which will declare that all citizens of the United States shall have, in the several States, all the privileges and immunities of life, liberty and property. It will declare it to be unlawful for persons to combine or conspire to violate or hinder, or impede any of the rights meant to be secured by this act, one of which is to prevent the discharge from employment of any person with intent to restrain his free and complete exercise of the elective franchise. Another feature of this proposed legislation is to authorize the President to employ the land and naval forces or the militia to preserve the peace in any State.17

-It was rumored in Wall street on Friday afternoon that Sessums & Co., a heavy cotton firm of Galveston, Texas, had victimized certain bankers of New York City to the tune of over half a millien dollars by drawing against cotton which had never been shipped. The gossips had it that Mor ton, Bliss & Co., Gardner, Bacon & Co., Williams & Guion, and several others, had been victimized. The true story of the alleged swindle is substantially as follows: About six weeks ago Messra. ams & Co., of Galveston, drew on a firm in New York for a considerable amount, (but not so much as the gessips said,) expecting to cover their draft by a shipment of cotton. This cotton they had in the press, and were unable to ship because of the weather. Soon after drawing on the New York house, Sessums & Co. were forced to suspend, and their creditors in Galveston seized the cotton in press. Of course, under these circumstances, they could not ship the cotton to New Tork to cover their draft. Since the transaction, Sessums & Co., it is said, resumed busi ness, and will probably meet all their drafts. -Patti assumes the right of a Diva to her caprices and petulenco in a manner which drives Manager Bagier almost crazy. A few nights since, while singing Lucia, she became suddenly aware of the presence of a little pimple on her neck, and at once asserted that she had the smallpex, and would sing no more. There was over twenty thousand francs in the house, and Bagier was in a terrible quandary. He ran for the phy-sician in attendance at the theatre every night, who smilingly examined the "bobo," and assured the Diva that it was but the outcrepping of spring. She refused to be comforted, and said that she had seen several celebrated doctors among the audience, and they should be consuited. No sooner said than done. These skulful practitioners quite confirmed the announcement of their confrere, and at last, after the audience had paffently walted some three-quarters of an hour, the cantatrice condescended to finish the opera. A few nights later she fancled she was growing hoarse, and announced that she would not finish the performance. Again was the dismay of the manager boundless, and after having duly created all the alarm possible, the Diva graclously concluded to go on.

-The war of the Philadelphia medical students is over.. It is ended by a compromise, which, in view of the natural propensity of the male stu-dents to behave as if rowdles, is perhaps the best way of settlement. The point at issue was the right of the students of the Female Medical School to attend clinics at the Pennsylvania Hospital. The male students made it extremely unpleasant for them when they assumed the Colonel Aiken's speech.

policy will not serve when difficulties and dangers are on every hand, and when the time has come to shape law, and conserve order, and guard property, and save society itself. When every dear interest of the country is endangered, the greatest of our needs is men bold enough to encounter the public peril, and strong enough to master it. And it is a subject of congratulation, that so many such men are now working for the redemption of South Carolina, men differing, it may be, in many particulars, but agreeing in regard to the general features of the policy to be pursued, and working diligently and hopefally for the same end. We can already see on the edge of the horizon the star that heralds the coming day. *** Blue Blood and Social Equality.

"When Adam delved and Eve span, Who was then the gentleman ? The speech delivered by Colonel D. Wyatt Aiken before the Immigration Convention, in which he declined to recognize white immigrants as his social equals, unless they were gentlemen, has attracted considerable attention, and has undoubtedly excited the indignation of many of the most highly valued German citizens of the State. That such sentiments should have caused surprise is not at all strange, but it is plain enough that the speaker has the right to regulate his own affairs in his own way, and that he has not the power, if he had the will, to check the progress of German civilization in America. We do not believe that there are a hundred men in all South Carolina who think as Colonel Aiken seems to think. If he were the representative of a numerous class, there would, indeed, be little hope in the future for the State. From Europe we expect to obtain intelligence as well as muscle, brain as well as physical force; for every sturdy immigrant can, if he will, teach our people something well worth knowing. Slavery impeded the full measure of our prosperity, and, now that slavery is past and gone forever, we must put away the old habits of thought, and act and feel as free men, who deal with free men. All the sense and all the cultivation of the universe is not confined within the borders of South Carolina. and the Irish and the English will help us to learn it. This question of social equality will settle itself. No respectable immigrant, although he be a laborer, will thrust himself where he is not wanted. And he can, if needs be, create a society of his own, just as rigid and as exclusive as the innermost ring of South Carolina gentility. An article translated from the Suedlicker

Cravats, Handkerchiefs, Suspen-We beg leave respectfully to call the attention of the public to our Superior Plavoring Extrasts. As ten years have now elaysed since we first in-troduced them to the notice of the American pub-lic, we deem it unnecessary at present to enter into a lengthy description of their merits, &c. There is hardly a city or town of any note in the country into which they have not found t. Fir way. The reason of this widespread popularity and daily increasing demand is owing entirely to their peculiar excellence and intrinsic worth. Being determined to make them the Standard Ex-tracts of the day, we have still further improved their quality, and now we firmly and honesity be-lieve that they stand without a tival. Our Vanilla Extract cannot be surpassed for richness and delk acy of flavor. It is a strictly pure and high-ly concentrated Extract of Vanilla Beans. In short, we think it the best that is made, at least, this is the decision of the best judges in the coun-try. We don't pretend to compete in price with many of the so-called Flavoring Extracts of the day, which are really but worthless compounds, undescaving of the page. W. H.
