THE WEEKLY NEWS. ---

WE have made arrangements to supply THE WEEKLY NEWS, together with that excellent agricultural publication, The Rural Carolinian, at the low rate of THREE DOLLARS a year, Send in your orders .

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Gold closed in New York yesterday at 141

-Cotton closed dull; sales 2300 bales. -In Liverpool cotton closed quiet; uplands

10] (# ?) alogd; Orleans 11d. -Another duel has been fought in Louisiana. George F. Belden, a brother of the Attorney-General of the State, was shot and killed in a duel on the 25th ult., in Terrebonne Parish, by the editor of the Houma Eagle.

The Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church of New York has declared against Free Masonry and other secret societies as "pagan in their character, infidel in their tendency, and perilous to the liberties of the State and the church."

-A Louisville paper states that a convention will be held in that city on the 7th instant, to be composed of delegates from Buffalo, Eric, Milwaukie, Toledo, Chicago and other points near the lakes, representing an association of nearly one thousand families who desire to find hornes in the South. -Mademoiselle Nilsson, in her prosperity, does not forget her poorer fellow-countrymen, and at the concert recently given in their behalf at Paris, she not only sung several operatic airs and her favorite Swedish melodies, but between the parts made a collection which amounted to 2000f.

-The income tax in England produced upwards of ten millions sterling in 1869-70, although the rate was no more than 5d. in the pound, or a little over two per cent. An income tax of five per cent. in the United States numerous there than in England.

-DeBow's Review collates a few figures which show most strikingly the immense loss suffered by the cotton-growing States in not manufacturing a larger proportion of the cotton crop before exportation. Of a stock of 2,392,254 bales, one and a half million are said to have been exported to foreign countries. Northern mills spun 767,512 bales, or 32 per cent., and Southern mills 64,998 bales, or about 24 per cent.

-One hundred and ten persons to the million commit suicide in France every year, two hundred and torty to the million in Prussia, sixty-nine to the million in Great Britain, and only fourteen to the million in Spain. The French statistics show that hanging, drowning shooting and suffocation by charcoal are the most popular modes of sulcide in France. in the order named; while thirty-one people threw themselves in the way of railway trains, and one starved himself to death.

-Under the impetus of the great "international" victory, and with the prospect of more great races to come on both sides of the Atlantic, the yachting fever is raging all along the coast. Our exchanges reveal much nautical lere, and a new crop of Coopers and Marryats seem to have appeared, with a quid in the cheek, a hitch in the trowsers, and much learned talk of reefing and luffing, and gaffs and stays. But it is a healthful pastime, and one of whose laurels we may be proud.

-According to the Magdeburger Zeitung, the German emigrants to America this year are distinguished from those of former years by the fact that five-sixths of those who have resolved to seek a new home in America are persons in the possession of capital. Besides edge. Formerly the peasants and day-laborers of Pomerania, West Prussia and Posin formed the principal part of the emigration. They were, therefore, people almost utterly unacquainted with the state of matters in the Union, who went there and were exposed to numerous dangers before they could settle. This year it is more, particularly the more intelligent laborer and merchant who seems desirous of trying his fortune.

-Marshal Espartero, who, it has been stated, has consented to accept the Spanish crown, is unquestionably the most eminent of living Spaniards, is 78 years old, and is the son of an humble cartwright. He fought the French in 1833, and became Regent of Spain in 1841. He was also Prime Minister in 1854. His only formidable rival to the throne will be the Duke of Montpensier. Thus the son of a village wheelwright has the chance of sitting on the throne of Spain. The Spanish monarchy has been one of the proudest and most exclusive upon earth, and the bones of buried majesty in the Escurial might well start with surprise at the strange revolution which makes Espartero their successor in the royal palace of Madrid. -A horrible story of brigandage reaches us from Chili. Lagoberon, a notorious bundit captain, was so closely pursued by a body of South American troops recently that he was compelied to desert his band of brother cutthroats, who had been the terror of the whole country round, and take refuge in a cavern mountains of the Sierra Profunda. In this | and parents to a series of text books, pubcavern he had concealed a female captive. whose husband he had robbed and slain. The soldiers made several ineffectual attempts to reach the abode of the culprit. Lagoberon, a man of gigantic statue and herculean strength, succeeded in beating them off by rolling heavy rocks down upon them whenever they approached. The officer in command of the troops resolved at first to starve the bandit out, but after two days' blockade grew weary of so tedious an expedient, improvised an escalade of the chieftain's stronghold, and succeeded in capturing him. To their horror upon entering the cavern they found the poor woman in a dying condition, Lagoberon having cut off one of the breasts of his unfortunate captive and eaten it. The inhuman butcher was conveyed to Talca, where he was promptly tried and condemned to die by the garrote. He was speedily conducted to the scaffold, and while the executioner was engaged in adjusting his toilette de mort, the convict drew a whistle which he had concealed in his pocket, and blew_it sharply: whereupon about sixty of his followers, who had introduced themselves amongst the crowd surrounding the scaffold, rushed upon the gendarmes and massacred them ere they could offer any resistance. They then freed their chief, and garroted his would-be-executioner, after which they escaped almost unscathed, to the mountains, facilitating their flight by seizing the horses of the murdered gendarmes. They also carried off several women from the throng gathered to witness the execution.

About School Books.

A mechanic, however skilful, cannot turn out first-rate work without proper tools; a musician cannot perform well on a poor instrument, and an artist will find it difficult to execute a fine work of artiwithout having the best material at his disposal. The same is true with regard to the teacher. No schoolmaster, however learned, capable or faithful, can make good scholars out of his pupils, unless the instruments which he employs, the school books, are good and fit for the purpose. We have often heard teachers blamed for teaching this or that branch of education in an unsatisfactory manner. The objection has been well founded, and yet may have been unjust, as far as the teacher was concerned. No school can be kept without school books, no class can be well taught without good school books. When a teacher has, as was the case some years ago, Army of the Irish Republic melted away as no choice of geographical text books, but is compelled to use that miserable thing called grown-up boys and girls in Charleston, resulting fatally to one of the participants. no doubt, remember with disgust, he has to "hear" a geography lesson without a chance of making the study interesting; when he has only Adams's Latin, or Mur- Credulity and blind enthusiasm led the Feray's English Grammar at his disposal, his nian masses astray, but the leaders are freescholars have to wade through a hundred pages and more of dry ettmological sawdust, before they arrive at the pleasant task of constructing or translating a sentence; when Peter Parley is the only cook to serve up silly-and often incorrect dishes of history, it cannot be expected that a boy should take to history, or remember what he has crammed into his head, paragraph after paragraph. School books are, therefore, an important item in education; they should be practical, interesting, clear and thorough, at the same time. Fortunately for the schoolmasters and scholars of this country, there has been of late a marked improvement in the construction of school books. Professional teachers of sound learning and large class-room, have been employed in writing them. Peter Parley, Mitchell, Adams and persons liable to the tax are probably more eminent men and distinguished savants, tion. The Chester Reporter says: like Lieutenant Maury, have condescended to write geographical school books, or, like the LeContes, are illustrating the elements of natural science for our school boys and girls; experienced teachers of less note have arnished grammars and readers, founded on a rational system; in short, the best edu-

But a school book should not only be practical, interesting, clear and thorough, as we have said before, it should also be impartial and inoffensive, especially in a country like ours, which still consists, in habits of thought, in opinion and feeling, of two sections-the North and the South-whatever our illustrious politicians in Washington may say and think to the contrary. We of the South don't want Northern books with Northern notions, unless those notions are dont't want "National" books by name, when they are sectional in their character. To illustrate: We don't want histories of the United States, in which we are called rebels and traitors, in which General Grant is glorified and General Lee is abused; we want silence on that subject. Nor do we want "National Readers," with nothing but extracts from Northern and occasionally English writers in them; we don't want our school boys to read what the Rev. Mr. Henry Ward Beecher said on the ruins of Fort Sumter, after we had fired our last gun and had evacuated that glorious spot of South Carolina. We have no use at all here in this latitude for Mr. Henry Ward Beecher. We don't believe in him, neither in his religion, nor in his politics, nor in his social ideas. We do not require that Northern school books should be written especially to suit the Southern palate, to flatter Southern vanity; we do not expect that the readers which we place into our boys' hands should contain only extracts from the prose writings of Simms, Maury, Legare and Trescott, 1808, ... s with Murillo in his South American or poetry from the pen of Timrod, Gilman, expedition, joined the partisans of Isabella in Hayne or Randall though we are heterodox enough, at any time, to prefer Timrod to Oliver Wendell Holmes, Mrs. Gilman to Mrs. Stowe, and Randall to Cullen Bryantbut we would like to have at least a pleasant and inoffensive mixture of both. We go even a step further-we deem it our duty to urge upon our teachers as their duty, not to countenance even otherwise good text books, which contain passages and extracts like those referred to above, but rather to use exclusively either Northern books which ter requires for successful instruction. The still better and more patriotic, to support exclusively good publications of Southern lished by the University Publishing Company in New York, which have all been edited by Southern men of eminence in their profession, and among which there are several of great excellence.

State Press Association.

At the Press Conference held in Columbia in March last, a committee was appointed to draft a constitution, and make other arrangements, for the organization of a State Press Association. The committee is, we learn, ready to report. A meeting to organize the association will be held in Columbia on Wednesday, June 15, the day appointed for holding the State Reform Convention.

We believe that a State Press Association. without interfering with the free action of its members, can be made very useful in a purely business way, and the social intercourse and kindly feeling which it would encourage would certainly be pleasant and advantageous to all the members of a much abused profession.

We sincerely hope that every newspaper in the State will be represented at the meeting on the 15th.

The Fenian Fiasco.

Even those who condemn with most severity the recent Fenian raid upon Canada, are constrained to admit that the privates in the ranks were ready and eager for a fight, and that only the cowardice and incompetency of the leaders brought the movement to so speedy and shameful a close. The raid itself cannot be justified. Canada does not desire to be conquered, and least of all does she wish to be annexed to this tax-burdened American Union. The Fenians in their attack upon Canada were nothing better than a band of fillibusters. and with the United States forces behind them, and the whole Province of Canada in their front, they had not even a ghost of a chance of succeeding.

Upon the leaders and the officers the whole responsibility rests. The Irish women did: their part and the Irish men did theirs, but when the decisive moment came, the vaunt ed chieftains were wanting in both executive capacity and personal courage, and the the snow beneath the noonday sun. No sufficient preparations were made for the ad-Mitchell's Geography," which all the now vance. The troops were pinched with hunger before they heard the whistling of a Canadian bullet. When a retreat was imperative, the Brotherhood had not the means of returning their soldiery to their homes. ly charged with cowardico, stupidity and treachery.

Irish blood and Irish treasure are too pre cious to be wasted in raids like that of which we speak. And it cannot be doubted that this last expedition has weakened the Fenian cause, and will make the Irish patriots chary of entrusting themselves again to a guidance which has brought them nothing but defeat and disaster. Time and patience, better than Fenian raids on Canada, will heal the wounds of Ireland.

The State Press on Senator Sawyer.

least one man whom the Republican party practical experience in the workings of the of this State has elevated to power, whose course has been such as to win him general respect. We mean Senator Sawyer. Our Murray have disappeared from the stage, contemporaries of the State press speak and are superceded by Cornell, Kubner, with one voice in commendation of his reproduces considerably less than this, while the McClintock, Holmes and Venaole. Even cent manly utterance on the amnesty ques-

"Senator Sawyer deserves well of his constituents for the bold and statesmanlike stand taken by him in the face of Morton, Drake and others of the unrelenting Radicals, who are, if possible, more cruel and bitter in their hatred toward the South than they were when blood was flowing freely from both sides."

The Walhalla Courier expresses like views, cational talent of the country has been emand adds:

> "On this as well as some other subjects, Mr. Sawyer is in accord with his constituents without respect to party or race."

The Anderson Int Migencer remarks:

"We have had occasion to commend Mr. Sawyer, at various times during his official career, for moderation and fairness towards his political opponents, and heretofore snorgested that the Republican party might profit. in the estimation of the country, by an adherence to his just and manly course. His recent speeches, while strongly enough partisan and exhibiting fealty to the views so long advocated by him, are strikingly in contrast with the utterances of his political associates in this State. He is a staunch Republican, but neveragreeable to us and just in themselves; we theless actuated by an honest desire to serve the people of South Carolina impartially and fearlessly. He thrusts the past behind him and looking to the future of a reunited country, advocates measures for the amelioration and disenthralment of the entire people. In this light, we commend him before our readers, and in doing so it is scarcely necessary to declare that, outside of fixed and irrevocable facts, we are not one whit nearer to Mr. Sawyear in political affiliation than when he was elected to the high office he has filled so cred-Itably for the last two years."
