THE WEEKLY NEWS.

We have made arrangements to supply THE WEEKLY NEWS, together with that excellent agricultural publication, The Rural Carolinian, at the low rate of THREE DOLLARS a year. Send in your orders.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

In New York yesterday gold was dull at 14. Cotton closed heavy; sales 2100 bales. At St. Louis a convention of colored clergymen is in session. Ninety-six millions of dollars, it is estimated, is invested in newspaper property in North America.

Centrals has elected a colored man one of its aldermen—the first instance of the kind in Illinois. One hundred women are now preparing themselves for admission to the bar in the United States.

The Russian Government is about to build a church in New York, where services will be conducted according to the Greek form of worship. Judge Jesse Lamberth, of Rome, Ga., has officially united 2700 couples in his life, but resisted the temptation himself until a few days ago.

It is said that within a circuit of one hundred and twenty-five miles around the White Sulphur Springs of West Virginia, there is more iron ore than in the whole of Great Britain.

The political campaign in Oregon has opened bitterly. The disaffected Republicans oppose the re-election of United States Senator Williams, and the Democrats are concentrating their strength upon Nesmith to elect him to succeed Williams.

The silk manufacturers of Paterson, N. J., are looking forward to the time when raw silk can be obtained from California, and members of the leading silk firms have been sent to that State to acquaint themselves with the prospects of silk culture there.

The German immigration at New York now is unprecedented, and leads that of any other nation. Three thousand arrived at Castle Garden on Thursday; total from the first of January to date, 35,000. The new comers within the past week have nearly all gone to the West.

A design for a new two-cent revenue stamp has been approved by the commission; by the operation of which persons living at remote points, say, from New York, may have their checks, drafts, &c., printed at home, at their local printing offices, and the trouble saved of fixing adhesive stamps.

The Cuban war has had the effect of driving a large number of business men to Key West, from various parts of the island, and the manufacture of cigars there is on the increase. The customs receipts this year at that port will exceed $60,000, while for the previous year they were only $6000.

The accumulated evidence from all parts of Mexico reveals the condition of that country as in every sense deplorable. Financially bankrupt, socially demoralized, and politically disrupted, there is protection neither for property nor persons. Trial by jury is suspended, and special taxes are levied by mere governors of States. Brigandage is a favorite occupation of dissatisfied citizens and defeated politicians. Congress is without authority, and the President without power.

The New York Tribune says it had hoped braver and wiser things from this people after the expulsion of the French, and it reluctantly confesses to grave disappointment at witnessing this result of Republican rule in that unfortunate country. There are those, however, who expected nothing better than has followed from the destruction of the only civilized government—that of Maximilian, which has been set up in Mexico for many a long day.

"Kingsater," the winner of the Derby, is described as a bright bay colt, standing rather under fifteen hands and three inches in height, and is very handsome all over. He was bred by his present owner, Lord Falmer, and made his debut as a two-year old in the Triennial stakes at Ascot last June. The long odds of nine to two were laid on him, but he suffered defeat by a head from Malonia. His next appearance was in the Chesterfield stakes, at Newmarket, which he won easily by two lengths, and beating a large field. He then scored six victories in succession. His first appearance this year was in the two thousand guinea stakes, where he finished fourth, and his second in the Derby stakes. He is engaged in the Prince of Wales stakes at Ascot, ninety-two subscribers; the St. Leger stakes, at Doncaster, two hundred and thirty-four subscribers; and several minor stakes at Newmarket. The jockey who rode "Kingsater" has never before had the winning mount in a Derby, although he has been very near on two occasions. Those were in 1865, when he rode Christmas Carol second to Gladiator, and in 1866, when Lord Lyon only defeated Savernake, whom he was riding, by a short head. Lord Falmer has never before succeeded in gaining the "Blue Ribbon of the Turf," his best win previous to this being the Oaks, in 1863, with Queen Bertha.

The Roumania massacre was a subject of consideration last Friday in the Senate. Mr. Morton presented resolutions adopted by prominent Jews of Indianapolis, calling the attention of Congress to this great tragedy, and asking intervention by the President, to save the Jews of that Principality from further persecution. The memorial went to Mr. Sumner's committee. Mr. Sumner brought forward a resolution asking the President to furnish any information in possession of the State Department in relation to that affair, which was at once agreed to. Mr. Sumner said that the interests of humanity demanded that the fullest information should be had by the Senate on this subject. From the best information in his possession the massacre was a most terrible affair, the whole enormity of which was not yet made public. Mr. Sprague said the facts would show that the Jews of Roumania had possessed themselves of nearly all the land and of all the trade of that principality, while a vast population of Christians there were deprived of the means of support, and that would be found to be the cause of the recent outbreak. The circumstances, in his judgment, furnished food for profound reflection, not only in regard to the condition of affairs in Roumania, but also for application to affairs here in our country, where the tendency is rapid in the same direction. Mr. Stewart said he hoped Mr. Sprague did not mean to imply that when a man gets rich he ought, therefore, to be killed. Mr. Sprague smiled faintly and made no reply.

"Constitutional Liberty."

The Augusta Constitutionalist has no objection "to the people of South Carolina, or the Democratic party of that State, organizing upon a platform giving to all races 'and colors perfect equality, if they choose,' but urges upon all true friends of 'Constitutional Liberty' in this State 'not to adopt such a course, because of the so-called constitutional amendments.' If we know anything of the temper of this people, they acknowledge the civil and political equality of all the citizens of the State, because that civil and political equality is the law of the State and the United States, and because, upon no other basis, can they invite, and obtain, the co-operation of the colored voters in an effort to obtain that good government which is a supreme necessity to every decent man in South Carolina. This is believed to be the wisest policy that the State can adopt, and neither Mr. Jefferson, nor the Virginia and Kentucky resolutions, will prevent the people from making the Fall canvass upon the platform of Honesty and Equal Rights.

The City Debt.

The letters of a Charleston lawyer, printed, in condensed form, in our issue yesterday, set forth, with sufficient fullness, the arguments relied upon to sustain the proposition that the larger portion of the city debt was illegally contracted. This view of the matter has found its earnest supporters, and we have given it full publicity in order that a free and frank discussion may enable the public to fully understand the aspect of the entire question. There is undoubtedly much to be said on the side of the honesty of the debt, and the legality of the whole issue, and we hold ourselves ready to give a prompt public to such articles, or rejoinders, as may take up this phase of a highly important subject.

Whittemore Wins.

The infamous Whittemore publishes in the Darlington Southerner a long-winded reply to the letters of a correspondent of the New York Sun showing up the facts of his career. The cadetship broker might have spared himself his trouble. The country has formed its opinion of him—an opinion that could not be changed even if his "constituents" went on re-electing him from now till doomsday.
