NEWS OF THE DAY.

Queen Isabella has notified Louis Napoleo that she has abdicated the throne of Spain in favor of the Prince of Asturias, her boy.

-The New York papers say that the man gers of the Beethoven Festival will sustain a loss of $40,000 on the week's performances.

-Red Cloud and his band left New York sufficiently civilized to each wear a linen dus--It is recorded, as a remarkable fact, in Indiana, that one judge there has refused a

The New York Tribune calls the anvil chorus and artillery accompaniment at the Beethoven Festival there, "the quintessence of slam-bang."

The Archbishop of Canterbury, in a late address, discourages any counter movement in the Church of England to the Œcumenical

-Sir Charles Mordaunt intends to appeal from the decision of the Divorce Court to the House of Lords, and thus obtain a hearing of his suit against his wife.

-Cancer, the disease of which Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, of Baltimore, died a few days since, is the family disease, as it were, of the Bonapartes. Napoleon the First died of it, as did also his lather.

-A French paper in New Orleans comes to us with this paragraph: Charles Dickens, the great American rom of apoplexy. He was the Walter Scott of America. The Macon Journal learns that a violent do passed over Randolph County, Ga., on the 13th instant, tearing away the tences, trees and everything in its way-twisting off the cotton plants and the corn close by the roots. But the worst effect of the storm was the blowing down of the cabin of a family named Applewhite, all of whom were wounded, with the exception of a little child, and two of them, it is feared, mortally. The path of the tornado was as distinctly marked as if faid out by a surveyor. There are two hundred plano forte manufacturers in London, and they make 104,000 planos each year. The London Figaro, in view of the fact that planes are not exported thence to any cities of the European Continent or to America, wonders what becomes of these in-

Etruments. It is really a subject for wonder. Pianos last a long while. They are seldom destroyed; except in conflagrations, and it would seem as if there have already been constructed as many as would supply all the playfers in the world. -A remarkable story has circulation in England in regard to the publication of "Lothair" by the Messrs. Appleton, of New York City. It is said that these gentlemen desired to enter into an arrangement with the Anglo-American Telegraph Company for telegraphing the whole of "Lothair" to New York in forty-eight hours. evidently convinced that the ten days' start which would thus be obtained over American publishers would amply repay the cost of the experiment; but the cable company declined their facilities not being sufficient. Our government, it appears, has a miniature war on hand. 'The announcement comes from Germany that in concert with Great Bri- this portion of South Carolina. Each immitain and the North German Confederation, we are to make common cause against the Chl- It is to be hoped our land owners will offer Mr. nese pirates. The statement referred to speaks | C. every inducement in their power to secure somewhat grandlloquently about "the fleets of the three nations," and a "general plan of operations," but it may, we presume, be taken for granted that the contest will make no very perceptible increase in the war expenditures of the countries engaged. The Chinese Governnment "is to be permitted, if it pleases," to take part in the hostilities.

-The London correspondent of the New York World has interviewed Mr. John Bright, the leader of the woman suffrage movement in England. Mr. Bright's views indicate how the men and women who think with him in England regard the leaders of the woman suffrage movement in American. Mr. Bright said "he had no sympathy whatever with the reformers of America like Tilton, Stanton and Anthony, who sought the suffrage for women in order that with it they might overturn society and bring about a reign of free lovers, free divorce, and the abolition of the headship of men in the family. Happily, in England, the agitation in favor of woman suffrage had been kept wholly free from such issues as these, and the persons engaged in it regarded the doctrines preached on the rostrums of woman's rights meetings In America with horror and disgust.

-The petition of Amos T. Akerman, of Georgia, lately nominated for attorney-generel in place of Mr. Hoar, written by himself, asking for the removal of his disabilities, re- ple to rally to their support.

mained on file with the House Reconstruction Committee, and was examined on Saturday by persons interested in the facts. The petition sets forth that Mr. Akerman was a Union man at the outbreak of the war, and strongly opposed the war, remaining quiet but firm in opposition to rebellion for some time after hostilities begun, but after the Confederate Government had established itself he entered its service, remaining therein for about eighteen months. Mr. Akerman states that not having held any office before the war he was not subject to the disabilities imposed by the third section of the Fourteenth amendment, but that having, as he writes, voluntarily served the Confederacy, he could not take the test oath. He wished his disabilities removed in order to accept office under the reconstruction policy. The contents of the petition have aroused an unfriendly feeling toward Mr. Akerman among the more Radical Republicans.

-The excitement is on the increase at North Adams, Mass., on account of the influx of Chinese workmen. Numbers of them are already employed in the shoe factories, receiving $23 per month for the first year, with the promise of $26 fer the second and third. The Chinamen work, eat and sleep in the same building, a large room being fitted up with five rows of bunks, each of which is supplied with a sailcloth mattress and a blanket. They are chiefly fed on rice, which is steamed in huge tanks or kettles by pipes from the factory boller, weak coffee bring added for breakfast. They labor fourteen hours a day. One firm are so well pleased with their Chinese workmen that they have ordered additional consignments, and other employers announce their intention of following their example. It is expected that before another year is over twenty thousand coolies will settle in Massachusetts. A resolution prohibiting the introduction of coolie labor into the State was offered in the House of Representatives, on Wednesday, but rejected by 111 to 50. The feeling of bitterness and anger among the white population daily increases, and it is not considered safe to allow the Chinese to go abroad without protection.

Whittemore's Rejection.

As it is vaguely hinted that the rejection of B. F. Whittemore, by the House of Repre sentatives, may possibly result in a new election, or the admission of the minority candidate, we think it proper to say that we do not regard the action of Congress, in this matter, as any indication that they will admit Captain Dunn to the seat so properly denied the seller of cadetships. Whittemore labors under no political disqualification. No man accuses him of 'aid-"ing and abetting the rebellion," unless his double election, by a deluded constituency, is to be a balm and healing ointment to the wounded feelings of the South, Nor will any one deny that Whittemore can gulp down, without winking, all the test oaths that were ever invented. His case, therefore, is altogether different from that of Colonel Simpson or Mr. Reed. Those gentlemen were elected by large majorities over their Radical opponents, but were debarred from taking their seats by reason of their disqualification under the 2.1Vth constitutional amendment. The seats were then given, in deflance of all right, to the minority candidates. In the case of Whittemore, however, there is no contest and no political disqualification. The seller of cadetships was undoubtedly elected, and Congress for reasons of its own-reasons patent and sufficient to every decent man in the country-declines to receive him. This does not give Mr. Dunn the seat; for Whittemore is still the member elect, and in that sad case is likely to remain. We have no fear that the House of Representatives will reconsider and reverse a decision which meets with the hearty approval of all honest people. And unless Whittemore chooses to resign, we do not see that there can be a new election.

The Plea of the Ring.

"Give us one more chance," say the Ring, to the aroused and indignant people of South table. But Mr. Smart can do better work. Carolina, Ytrust us once more, and we our- He has sprightliness and fluency; he needs "selves will arrange this little matter of keform. We admit that things, as we have him to turn out a novel which will last for "all along been managing them, might be 'improved; but just leave us alone awhile "longer and the thing shall be done to 'everybody's satisfaction."

Gentle sirs, you misunderstand this fight. It is impossible for a man to trust or to compromise with the burglar whom he catches making off with the spoons, except on the preliminary condition of a return of the spoons and a bond to steal no more spoons. You know very well that you don't mean to enter into such an agreement, or that, if you did, you would break it. So do we. No "compromise" which leaves you free to continue your present courses would suit us, and no other would suit you. "Hold on, "now, mar," observed the ingenious youth who was caught by his waistband with his "fingers in the maternal jam-"Hold on, 'mar, let's argur."

A Welcome Gentleman.

We find the following statement in the Winnsbord' News:

"A gentleman by the name of Mr. Carnenter will be in our town in a few days, to look at the lands of our district. Mr. C. desires to settle some forty or fifty Northern families in grant will come prepared to buy a small farm. these immigrants for Fairfield."

It may not be inappropriate, in this connection, to state that there is another "gen-"tleman, by the name of Mr. Carpenter," who will be in divers places in the course of the next few weeks. He will talk plain truths to the people, and the result of his work will be to enhance the value of lands and labor alike, and to make South Carolina attractive to thrifty and substantial immigrants from all quarters, instead of being, as now, a State that everybody shuns because it is oppressed with ruinous and needless taxation, and what is still worse, with the incubus of a government of thieves and plunderers, which has become a by-word throughout the whole country as "a disgrace to civilization."

Nailing the Flag to the Mast.

Sensible to the last, our independent namesake, the Winnsboro' News, flings to the breeze the banner of Carpenter and Butler.

That lively and enterprising sheet the Barnwell Journal, also places the names of the Union Reform party candidates at the head of its columns, and calls upon the peoThe Whites and the Militia.

The Winnsboro' News, in noticing the parade last week of two companies of colored militia, recently organized in that county, takes occasion to urge the white people, in its usual philosophical style, to overcome all squeamishness, and to take their part in the militia system of the State. It says: " 'The right of the citizen to bear arms' is a constitutional right, as sacred as 'the right to vote,' and nobody now objects to it. We, a year ago, expressed our conviction, too, that no conflict of the races would come of its exercise in the organization of the militia, and that the whites, it they preferred not to go into the militia organization, would simply pay the fines. We reiterate that opinion to-day. But we, at the same time, advise the whites to organize companies, and obtain field appointments. A mixed militia, it has now be come as evident to us, we are going to have, as It is evident to everybody else that a mixed Legislature we both have already and are going to have. Organize at once, therefore, and have as good a militia organization as possi

The South in the Cabinet.

The New York Sun, in common with the Republican papers generally of the North, don't relish the recent nomination of the Georgia Radical, Ackerman, to succeed Hoar in the Attorney-Generalship. The Sun says:

"If General Grant desired to signify to the country, by an appointment to his Cabinet, that it was no longer expedient to inquire whether his confidential advisers had fought on the right side or the wrong side during the war, he should have selected for attorney-general a rebel of distinction, and a lawyer who was fit for the position. If, for example, he had conferred this important office upon Robert Toombs, a man of brains, of genius, of pluck, and who is a thorough lawyer, and well known to the nation, it would have signified something; but to waste it upon Ackerman, who was one of Toombs's adjutants, was a thirdrate rebel, and is a fourth-rate lawyer, and wholly unknown to the country, is simple non-

don & Co. This vigorous and striking novel, whose ublication as a serial has whetted the public appetite, is now issued complete in one volume, from the presses of Sheldon & Co., and may be found at Mr. John Russell's, in King street.

BREEZIE LANGTON. A Story of '52 to '55. By Hawley Smart, author of A Race for a Wite. New York: D. Appleton & Co. 1870.

The novel which bears the fanciful name of "Breezie Langton" is destitute of plot, but its light and airy tone enables the reader to scamper over its pages without "bogging" heavily. It is a string of sketches of life on the race-course and life in camp, joined together by a thin thread of circumstance and mild intrigue, and if there were nothing in the world worth talking about except the Crimean war and the turf, this would be a capital novel for the times. The story is not unnatural, and in some respects is too realistic. Slang and horse-talk, however common in the circles with which Mr. Smart is familiar, are neither edifying nor pleasing to the general public. The conversations are unaffected enough, but we submit that it is a waste of paper and patience to fill a page with the flat gossip which is the usual accompaniment of the matutinal tea and toast, but has no earthly interest when enthroned among the platitudes of print. There is over-much dullness in every life, and we expect the novelist to pick out the rugged peaks and bosky dells, not the flat road and bare common; we crave the plums of the conversational pudding, not the leaden insipidity of the circumambient batter. Most of Mr. Smart's characters are of the horse horsey, and the writer confesses that he is not at home when he leaves behind him the racing field and the mess study and care. Time and labor will enable more than one season, and of which we may not be forced to say, that it ought to have been much better, while it might be a great deal worse.

For sale by John Russell, King street. QUEEN HORIENSE. A Life-picture of the Napoleonic Era. By L. Mühlbach. Translated by Chapman Coleman. New York: D. Appleton & Co.

Miss Mühlbach has written this time a bare historical sketch, which cannot be called a historical novel. It confines itself to the persons and events which have become famous, and does not make them the substantial basis for a superstructure of imaginative genius. Scott and James, and our own Simms, used history, and the men of history, as a means of giving reality to the past and interest to the fictitious personages whose loves and hates they told. But, in the present case, Miss Mühlbach turns out a work which has neither the force and exactitude of history, nor the charming uncertainty of the pure romance. The days of the French Revolution, the rise of Napoleon and his fall, the true patriotism of Louis Bonapartethese can and do give a deep interest to the tale of the sorrows of "Queen Hortense," but it would have been wiser in the author to make the book more truly a novel or more certainly a history.
