-A New York telegram of Monday says: "A large number of Germans lately arrived in this country, and who, not being citizens, are nable to military duty in their own country, have called at the office of the Prussian consul and express their willingness to return. Count Bismarck has been telegraphed to."

The naval appropriation made by Congrees is by no means adequate to the necessities of the service at present, and would be vastly in arrear of any requisitions which might be made should the pending European difficulties stretch across the Atlantic. The navy, consisting of eighty-two vessels, is sadly disabled now, both by want of men and for complete ships, the greater part of which need thorough repairs. Later and authentic advices from Tientsin. butelegraph through Siberia, confirm the previous reports of the massacre of foreigners in China. The outrages were committed on the 10th of June. The natives set fire to and destroyed the French establishments, but left three of the Germans untouched. The representatives of foreign powers at Pekin had ad sed a loins note to the Chinese Governmont demanding the punishment of the rioters and indemnity for the losses sustained.

telle Liberals of North Germany were formight ago preparing for the elections to the North German Confederation. They demand-their programme a reform of the fedenatitution in a liberal sense; a responsible ministry; a diminution of the military expenses and an effort towards general disarmasion of the right of association, and the abolition of all class privileges of whatever kind. The Prussian Liberals, in agitating for the elections of the Prussian chamber, insist upon the absolute recognition of the right of the chamber to vote the taxes and impost duties, the civil responsibility of functionaries and other reforms. Both parties in short are for unity, by way of liberty and of peace. The programme is of course changed by the outbreak of the war with France.

-The regatta near Pittsburg, Pa., on Saturday, the contestants in which were young ladles, took place over the upper course of the Monongaheia River, at Glenwood. A local paper says: "During the entire afternoon of to-day, persons could be seen wending their way to the scene of the race, and when 4 o'clock had arrived, possibly not less than 8000 or 9000 persons were present on the banks of the river, while the river itself was thickly studded with every conceivable kind hour held a consultation, when it was discovered that Miss Whalen would not take part in the contest, Inasmuch as the shell she was to row in had been damaged very badly in transporting it from the boat-house to Glenwood. Near 5 o'clock, the other two contestants appeared on the water in the frailest of shell-boats, neither of them measuring thirteen inches in width. Miss McAlice was attired in a red jacket, close-fitting white tights and loose dress, reaching to her knees. Miss Lewis's costume was somewhat similar, the difference being in the color. Some delay was occasioned by done the word was given, and the cars of the contestants touched the water, and away went the crafts, Lottie taking lead, while the immense crowd, greatly excited, cheered loudly. Before one hundred yards of, water had been traversed, Miss McAlice was three boat lengths ahead, pullling a rapid but strong stroke, while her adversary tolled gamely behind. When the buoy was reached, Lottle was so far ahead that she had an assured easily, and came home winner by one hundred yards. The distance of the course was about one mile and a half. Time, 18 minutes 54 seconds. A large amount of money was vagered on the result."

Winchester Rifle Law.

About two weeks ago there was a royal fight among the Radicals at Gadsden, a hostilities between the belligerents lasted station on the South Carolina Railroad, twenty miles below Columbia. Some account of the origin and progress of the disturbance has already been published, but new light is thrown upon the field in a private letter from Gadsden which came into our possession yesterday. It seems that Beverly Nash, ci-devant colored barber, and, at present, a State senator, has taken Gadsden in charge. At that place his word is law, and will make or mar the fortunes of any political aspirant whose prospects depend upon the votes of the colored people. A rival Radical is one Epstein, who formerly had great influence, but who has incurred the displeasure of the potent Nash. On the day of the riot, Nash went to Gadsden to nominate, or ap point, delegates to the nominating convention about to assemble in Columbia. Epstein opposed the nominations. This led to an altercation with Nash, whom Epstein called by a name offensive to ears polite Nash knocked Epstein down. This was the signal for a general melée. Knives and sticks were used freely, but, while the battle was raging, the Charleston up-train arrived, and Nash left the field. Epstein was carried equive Committee of the Union Reform party home, and the friends of the bellicose principals continued the combat. Several persons were severely wounded, and we are informed that a man named Washington Brown slashed right and left, cutting friend and foe, until he was backed down with a bayonet, and taken off for dead. He is now said to be head, an injured eye, and three knife wounds on the body.

The point of the whole story, as told by our correspondent, is that the colored militiamen took an active part in the fray, using their bayonets with military freedom. And this is another forcible argument in favor of the formation of white volunteer companies. under the militia law. The whole militia may not be organized for obvious reasons, but the colored companies are accepted by the commander-in-chief, and are regularly armed and equipped. They drill regularly, and it may be expected that they will be found more learned in "Winchester rifle law" than in the peaceful arts of life.

We cannot say that white volunteer companies will be accepted, but the attempt is well worth making. The colored companies are accepted without besitation, and, if Governor Scott intends to refuse to a body of white men the privilege which he freely accords to the blacks, it is just as well that we know it at once. The glaring injustice and heinous wrong of such a proceeding would strengthen the white ranks and weak en the Scott Ring.

A Notable Promotion.

The elevation of General Changarnier one of the most implacable as well as one of the most gifted of the exiles of 1851, to the rank of Marshal of France, with the command of the reserves, is a significant indication of the sudden force with which the war has welded together the lately discordant elements of the French nation. No act of the Emperor Napoleon's has ever been more timely than this, and nothing could speak more strongly for the really national support now given him in France than the acdeptance of such a command at his hands by such a man as the hero of Africa and of the Republic.

Ireland and France.

It seems that the Irish have not forgotten the days of the Revolution, when they

And the French will come again.

And bring ten thousand men,
Bays my Shan Van Vogt.

And yet it is better a thousand times for Ireland to remain as she is than to become a French province. Irish independence is worth fighting for, and dying for, but a change of masters, unless as a step to complete freedom, is not worth one drop of the blood of the least worthy of the gallant sons of the Emerald Isle.

How Long will the War Last !

There is much speculation about the probable duration of the war between France and Prussia, and the general opinion is that the struggle will be sharp and short. This feeling is strengthened by the experience of the latest passages-at-arms in Europe, al though it is impossible to base upon the history of the Austro-French, the Prusso-Swedish or the Austro-Prussian wars any certain conclusions as to the length of the desperate fight for the mastery whose first blow is not vet delivered.

In the Crimean war of 1853-6, Turkey declared war against Russia October 5, 1853. Russia declared war against Turkey November 1. France and England declared was against Russia March 27-28, 1854. The Malakoff was taken by the French September 8. Sweden joined the allies November 21, and hostilities were suspended February 29, 1856. The war between the Western Powers and Russia lasted two years lacking one month.

The Italian war of 1859 was begun by the rejection of the Austrian ultimatum by Sardinia April 26. The Austrians crossed the Ticino April 27. The French entered Genoa May 3. The battle of Montebello was fought May 20; battle of Magenta May 30-31, and the battle of Solferino June 24. The peace of Villa-Franca was signed July 11. Hostilities were active but ten weeks.

The Schleswig-Holstein war, of 1864, began by the invasion of Schleswig by the Prussians February 1. The Prussians took Duppel April 18, and Alsen July 9. A Check to Immigration.

The New York Tribune, in concluding ar article on the effect of the Franco-Prusslan war upon American interests, says, with truth: "It would seem probable that one of "the most important and valuable sources of "immigration to this country will for a time be cut off, and that the stream of German "Immigrants that has done so much to fer-"tilize and develop the West will tempora-"rily be diverted. We could lose no element "of population more valuable to us. To "whatever extent German immigration is "checked, to that extent the calamity of the "war is brought to our doors."

THE Winnsboro' News calls upon all those citizens of every county of the Fourth Concressional District who are not in slavery to the Union League, to meet on the first Monday of August next, at their respective courthouses, and appoint delegates to a convention to nominate a candidate for Congress, to be held on the Thursday night following, in the City of Columbia, and not, as has been suggested, at Greenville. The News thinks that Columbia, though not in the Fourth Congressional District, is accessible by railroad in one day, and at half the expense, from every county in it. If the convention be held in Columbia, therefore, it will, in the opinion of the News, be more lying in a critical condition, with a broken largely attended, and will more fairly repre-
