TESTIMONIAL.-Mr. Peter K. Coburn, ex-supervisor of the South Carolina Railroad Company's work shops, was presented with a handsome silver cup, by his former employees, on Saturday evening, at the Masonic Hall. The occasion was a very pleasant and most affecting one-Mr. Coburn taking leave of his late workmen in the most graceful and touching manner, after an uninterrupted intercourse of over thirty years with some of the oldest of them, while others had spent the best years of their lives under his charge. The formalities of the evening ended, the guests assembled partook of a collation and many a toast was drank to the honor of "Uncle Peter."

Dr. Buist made a post mortem examination; in the report of which he stated that the woman's left arm and foot were so badly cruthed as to render amputation necessary, and that the injuries received were the cause of her death.

The witnesses who were examined stated that all that they knew of the accident was that it was not a phosphate train that ran over the woman. Mr. Solomons, the superintendent of the road, was requested to send the engineers of the only two trains which were on the road at the time of the accident before the jury to-morrow, at 10 o'clock, at which time the inquest will be continued. On Saturday, when the inquest was adjourned, the jurors were required to give bonds in the sum of $500 each to appear before the coroner vesterday mo...g, at 10 o'clock; two of them hav-ing failed to make their appearance, we understand that their bonds will be turned over to the attorney-general for prosecution.

THE ROW AT SUMMERVILLE.

What the Bowenites Did and the DeLargeltes Said.

An attentive correspondent sends THE NEWS the following report of the riotous proceedings of the rival Radical factions at Summerville on Saturday: The uninitiated were surprised on Saturday

The uninitiated were surprised on Saturday by the sudden appearance in our midst of Colonel Delaney, DeLarge, Cain, Woolf, Bunch, Sam Dickerson, T. J. and E. W. M. Mackey, Commissioner McLaughlin, and a host of other shining Radical lights. Soon after the arrival of these worthles, the space about the denot was occumied by a hatralian of ter the arrival of these wortmes, the space about the depot was occupied by a battalion of militia, with their guns. These latter having declared themselves in sympathy with Bowen, T. J. Mackey and Trial Justice Lee ordered them to give up their arms, or to make a hasty exodus, either of which they refused to do, but gathered in a shady place and proceeded to clost two Rowen delegates to the County to elect two Bowen delegates to the County Convention. Having finished their business, to elect two Bowen delegates to the county convention. Having finished their business, they quietly dispersed. The evening train brought cuite an accession to the DeLarge party, who assembled that night at the head-quarters of the League, over the store of W. H. Schroder, which, by the way, is in Colleton, and the meeting was called to elect delegates for St. James.

George Lee, a member of the Legislature and a trial justice, was called to the chair, and after stating the object of the meeting to be the election of two delegates to a county convention, he named a committee of three to nominate the delegates. The committee thought it a good chance, and nominate two of their own number, to which the chairman objected. They then effected a compromise by naming the chairman and one of themselves. W. H. Francis. All the voters present were selves.

Loud calls for Delaney were soon answered by him. He told them that they (the colored people) were vastly in the majority, and that they should use that majority for the advancement of their own race; that they were on the eve of electing a member to represent the Second District in Congress, and he knew no one so calculated to fill that high position, with credit and honor, as his friend, R. C. DeLarge, whom he styled a gallant and rising young statesman. He then reviewed Bowen's career, and denounced him as a thief and a murderer. DeLarge next got the floor, and "poured from all his vials his mighty wrath upon the devoted head" of McLaughlin, who, he said, had defrauded the State of $500, and he could prove it. He plainly intimated his willingness had defrauded the State of $500, and he could prove it. He plainly intimated his willingness to meet McLaughlin upon the "field of honor." He warned the Bowenites, white and colored, that he would "mark" them. He declared his superiority over Bowen, who, he said, had to hire some one to write his speeches and letters.

T. J. Mackey next entertained the audience. He thanked God for the emancipation of the negro, since, with the negroes, came his also. I am told that he said, when at school, he had to touch his hat and say. "Howdye Massa."

to touch his hat and say, "Howdye, Massa," to the rich boys; that he had to put up with the impudence of the negro, imblied from association with an arrogant master; but that he sociation with an arrogant master; but that he had taught them (the negroes) better since he had become a Republican; that he had the hearts of all the negroes in South Carolina, except the "forty thieves," who were sent from ward to ward by Bowen to disturb the political meetings in Charleston; that the whites had only 30,000, whilst the colored people had 90,000 votes, and that they should use that water the new thoir own color into nower. majority to put their own color into power. He fired hot shot at Bowen; said he had been incicted for forgery and murder, that he could prove the first by papers, and the latter by those who assisted him, and by two others That Bowen purchased a gun in Washington to shoot him; that, one dark night, he met Bowen in the city park and charged him with his murderous purpose, at the same time warning Bowen if he put his hand on a pistol which T. J. saw sticking out of his pocket, he (T. J.) would instantly kill him, when the prudent Bowen ran away as fast as his legs could carry him.

About half-past 12, they got Caln'up, but that prudent man declined making a speech, as it was Sunday morning. He made a defence of his right to call that meeting and took his seat. Sam Dickerson was called, but Sam magnanimously gave way to a stupid fellow named Riols, which wound up the exhibition. Had it not been for some controlling influence, certainly not in the clique which met at night at Schroder's, there must have been bloodshed. Schroder's, there must have been photosined. Every man was armed, and it only required some imprudent actto have imperilled the lives of our whole community. At one time during the inorning it seemed almost impossible to prevent a general fight. At Schroder's store at might, I am told, they had several fights; and that several of the Bowentes are now in

How long will the people of South Carolina tamely submit to these disgraceful outrages? How long will they permit these political demagogues to insult decency and endanger the safety of our people? adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased God to remove from our society on Earth our brother, Samuel J. Townsend, be it therefore, by the brothers of Lodge No. 33, A. F. M.,

1. Resolved, That we have learned with profound regret of the death of our late brother, whose memory we have assembled to commemorate in this lodge of sorrow.

2. That while we bow in submission to the decree of Providence, whose designs are mysterious, and whose wisdom is inscrutible to finite man, we cannot suppress our deep feelings of sorrow at being so unexpectedly deprived of a brother so endeared to us by his many virtues and manly traits of character, and we mourn our loss the more sadly, because we could not enjoy the privilege of ministering to him in his last hours upon earth, and of performing at his grave the last sadrites of burial. Nevertheless we deem it a happy privilege to be able thus to assemble in the sacred bonds of union, in a lodge of sorrow, and to interchange with each other, expressed demistration for our broth. row, and to interchange with each other, ex-pressions of love and admiration for our broth pressions of love and admiration for our proteer while living, and of unfeigned sorrow at his untimely death.

3. That in his death this lodge and the fraternity generally have lost a bright and shining light, and society a worthy and useful member, unsurpassed in public spirit, patriotism, generosity and hospitality.

4. That we deeply sympathize with his family in their bereavement, and extend to them our earnest and sincere condolence in their sad affliction.

5. That our lodge be draped in mourning for thirty days as a token of our respect for the memory of our brother, whose death we so deeply lament.

6. That a copy of these resolutions be furnished by our secretary to the tamily of the deceased, and that a page in the minute book of the lodge be reserved, upon which these resolutions be spread, recording thereon the date and place of death and burial of the deceased.
7. That these resolutions be published in the Bennettsville Journal, CHARLESTON NEWS, and Marion Star.

The use of the fund has been productive of much good, chiefly by the stimulus it has given the committee in the establishment of public schools.

The benefits derived from them in every comnunity is lasting in their effects, and of incalculable advantage-elevating the masses, and im parting among them a thirst for knowledge, and a desire for information on all the leading topics of the day, and on none more so than on Hygiene -the preservation of health and the prevention of disease. This is now so marked and apparent as to astonish the intelligent observer, proving evidently that the people, as a mass, keep themselves in formed of the hygienic reforms of the day, by reading with discrimination the various medical pamphlets and almanacs that are furnished them gratuitously-among the best of which is Solomon's Omnibus for 1870, the medical text book for the people-in which will be found, by uncontested certificates, "the unrivailed tonic of the century" is SOLOMONS'S BITTERS.

SOUND LOGIC FOR THE SICK .-The invalid has often good reasons to exclaim, "Save me from my friends." As a general thing, each of them will have a different medicine to propose, and if he follows all their prescriptions in turn, their well-meant advice may be the death of him. The only sensible course in any case of sickness is to resort promptly to a specific which has stood the test of a long and widely extended public experience, and obtained on solid and sufficient grounds the reputation of a standard remedy. This rank among the restoratives of our day belongs of right, and beyond all dispute, to is unprecedented in the annals of Proprietary HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Let those who are taking it at this debilitating season as an invigorant, answer for themselves as to its tonic properties. Can any dyspeptic who has ever used it, question its superiority as a stomachic over every other medicine? Can any person of bilious habit, who has ever taken it for liver complaint, SOLOMONS'S BITTERS! doubt its efficiency? It is believed among the tens of thousands who are now using, or have heretofore used it as an alterative and corrective. not one can be found who would exchange it for any other preparation in the known world. For intermittent fevers, nervous debility, constipation, sick stomach, and all complaints arising from indigestion or impoverishment of the blood, it is the only article which can be conscientiously guaranteed, and no one who is thoroughly acquainted with its virtues will allow interested dealers in worthless slops, on which they make a large profit, to furnish them in the place of the aug12-6D&C
