THE BOWEN-DELARGE CONTEST.—All the little boys were wild yesterday about a report that De-Large had been elected to Congress over the head of the pictorial Bowen. DeLarge has certainly a very fair chance, but requires a very heavy majority in Beaufort to overcome Bowen's 7000 majority in this corr. by.

A RARE CHANCE FOR ADVERTISERS .- During the present week Charleston will be crowded with straugers, and very large extra editions of THE Saws will be issued to meet the unusual demand. Now is the time for our merchants and business men to avail themselves of our advertising space, and reap a hundredfold advantage therefrom. A word to the wise, &c.

INFORMATION WANTED. - We are permitted to print the following letter received by General Jno. A. Wagener from Mr. H. H. Smith, of No. 55 State street, Detroit, Michigan. Some of our planters can, doubtless, give him all the information he desires principality dia 18 Gioc DETROIT, October 25, 1870.

John A. Wagener, Esq.:

DEAR SIE—I recaived one of your books a few daya ago, and wish you to give me an idea as regards the chances of getting a good plantation not too far from the city or some good town; and how long a time I can lease one for, with the privilege of purchasing; and what crops pay the best, and all the particulars. Trusting this may receive your prompt attention, I am yours,

ASSAULT AND ROBBERY Since the brief notice in our Monday's issue of the robbery of street car conductor Cohen, we have received the following particulars: About 9 o'clock on Sunday night, Mr. Cohen was returning home, and when near the corner of King and Calhoun streets re ocived a blow which felled him to the ground, and left him serseless. Upon coming to his senses, covered the robber busily securing his watch and chain, and laying hold of him Mr. Cohen call ed aloud for help. The villain forcibly decamped, but was fortunately arrested a short distance from the scene of the robbery by a policeman who, hearing the cries of Mr. Cohen, was hurrying to the rescue. Mr. Cohen lost, at the same time, his pocketbook, which was found, yesterday afternoon, near the scene of action. The robber John Bowles by name, was lodged in the Guardhouse, and brought before the Mayor Monday morning. After a short hearing the case was turned over to the State for prosecution.

RARE BILLS AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC. An exceedingly auractive series of the standard high comedies have been selected as the entertainments to be presented during Fair Week at our beautiful and elegantly appointed Temple of the Goldarnith's fine old English comedy, "She Stoops to Conquer," was brought out last night in the admirable style which marks every play, the performance of which is undertaken by Miss Laura Keene and her excellent company. The role of "Kate Hardcastle" is one of Miss Keene's best, and with Hurley and Stuart in the parts of "Young Marlow" and "Hur-icastle," and with a "Diggory" like Hubbard, and Kennedy as "Tony Lumpkin," we need hardly say that there was no lagging in the performance from the rise of the ourtain to the close of the fifth act.

The bill for 10-aight is Sheridan's matchless comedy, "The School for Scandal," with a powerfor cast of characters. None of our friends from the country should fail to see Miss Laura Keene as "Lady Teazit."

THE GERMAN FAIR.

A TRIUMPH OF TASTE AND SKILL. Object of the Pair-The New German Lutheran Church-Sketches of the Building-Appearance of the Fair-The Tables and the Amusements.

The sterling worth and unselfish feeling of the German citizens of Charleston are always displayed to best advantage when charity or religion appeals to the hearts which beat so warmly for God and Patherland. They are thorough in their amusements. There is no lackadaisical enjoyment in the gala doings of the German. But when the religion of their fathers calls upon them for help and aid, their serious souls are stirred to the depths, and they labor with a zeal and devotion which no people can surpass. Happlly, however, the Germans do not deem it neces sary to be lugubrious because the object of their work is solemn and severe. They wreathe the garlands of innocent gaiety around the pillars of the Temple of Duty, and light up the stern responsibilities of life with the sunny splendor of their smile. No worthy German calls upon a German and meets with a rebuff. The German, it is true, has no patience in dealing with the drone and laggard; but undeserved misfortune and unavoidable affliction claim and receive that substantial sympathy which finds expression in act more than in word. The Germans are always staunch and true, and never have their finest qualities been shown to better advantage than in the Pair of the German Ladies' Society, whose triumphant opening we chronicle to-day. The object of the Fair, we need hardly add, is to obtain the means of completing the new German Lutheran Church in King street, whose tower already rears its head above the neighboring buildings. The New Church.

The corner-stone of the new German Luthera Church was laid on December 26, 1867-well-nigh three years ago. It was a bright, beautiful day, and the memory goes pleasantly back to the long procession which, at an early hour, was formed at old St. Matthew's Church by the indefatigable marshals, Messrs. John Campsen and N. Fehrento the advertisement, inserted in our columns of bach. The Post band led the line, followed by the German Fire Company, the St. Matthew' Sunday School, the several social and charitable German societies, the congregation of St. Matthew's and the Lutheran ministry. All the streets POSTPONEMENT.-In consequence of the through which the procession passed were densely crowded, and every spot around the site of the new church was occapied by eager spectators.

THE CEREMONIAL. All being ready the ceremonial commenced, and after an invocation to the Trinity, to which | jen, who, before her death, expressed the wish the Sængerbund responded, hymn 3, verses 1 and | that it might be sent to the German Fair. A piece 3. commencing, "Praise the Lord," was sung by the Sængerbund, the band accompany the singers. A prayer was then offered by Rev. W. S. Bowman, in which he invoked the blessing of the Almighty upon the church about to be commenced. upon the congregation, the architects, the building committee, and the workmen to be engaged in its construction. After the reading of work, by Mrs. Kruse, baskets of fruit, iiquor the Apostles' Creed, Rev. Dr. Bachman arose, his white hairs gleaming like silver in the sun, and proceeded to deliver an appropriate address.

The Rev. Mr. Muller then delivered a short and thrillingly earnest address, repeated the Lord's Prayer, and read a list of the various articles which were to uc put in the corner-stone of the church, viz: A Bible, Rules and By-Laws of the church, specifications of the building, roll of the the church seal attached; the names of the twenty-eight Sabbath school teachers; four religious papers: the Moravian Messenger, the Lutheran Herald, the Lutheran Gazette, and the Evangellcal Lutheran; coin of the United States, from a half cent to one dollar in gold, which were all with good things that they cannot be fitty des contained in one glass vessel. In the second vessel were copies of THE CHARLESTON DAILY NEWS, copies of the other city dallies, the last message of the President of the United States, specimens of currency, specimens of tickets of the City Railroad, the names of the officers of the city government, with the city seal; the register of the German Fire Company, some few private records, a copper plate, engraved by Anton Riecke, with the date of the resolution of the congrega tion to build a new church, and this present dates and also the names of the building committee. These articles were placed in the cavity, and the corner-stone, being struck three times by the Rev. Mr. Muller, was solemnly laid, the Masonic ceremonies being performed by P. W. M. A. Melchers of Walhalla Lodge. The corner-stone, we may add, bears the following inscription:

THE SITE. This was the beginning of the work, which ha gone on, with little intermission, until the present time. The roof is now complete, the main walls are finished, and the whole building approaches completion. It is situated on the west side of King street, south of Vanderhorst, and measures 145 feet in length and 66 in breadth. The nave is 92 by 54 feet, and the chancel 24 by 14. The vestry room, 12 by 15, is to be on the northwest corner of the building. Heighth of the arch in nave 64. There are three entrance doors in front, and two on the sides. The galleries will be on the north, east and south sides. The steeple will be 2321/2 feet in height, higher, by over 20 feet, than any other in the city. STYLE OF ARCHITECTURE.

The church is built in the pure German style of ecclesiastical architecture, in many respects not unlike the stately Cathedral in Broad street which was laid in ruins by the great fire. The principal door of entrance is placed in the centre of the tower, which occupies the middle of the front elevation. The organ is to be placed in the tower. The order of architecture is marked by the pointed mullioned gothic windows. Of these there will be two rows; single windows under the galleries, and double above. The walls are supported by buttresses, terminating in pinnacles, connected by a battlemented parapet.

The windows will be of stained glass-the front window in the tower twenty-eight feet high. Above the main centre a richly ornamented "rosetie" or "bull's-eye" for the clock, and a large gothic window above for the belfry.

The roof of the tower, from which rises the spire in an octave, is in the form of a cross. The chan-

Capacity of church from twelve hundred to fifteen hundred seats Standing room for three thousand. The church is built of brick, and re quired one million two hundred and fifty thousand for its walls. The cost is estimated at about sixty thousand dollars.

The appearance of the inside will resemble that of the Citadel Square Baptist Church.

The ceiling will be in fresco; the galleries will have banisters of wood elaborately carved in lace | goes unfilled away. There are no failures of the work-all corresponding with the characters of the architecture. The galleries will be supported by clusters of iron columns. The pews in oak. The ground plan is similar to that of a church edifice in Lauenburg, Pomerania, This resemblance, however, is accidental, the plan for the new Lutheran Church being entirely original. OLD ST. MATTHEW'S. Old St. Matthew's Church, which is destined to give place to the new St. Matthew's we have en- at fity cents each. There will be, no doubt, an deavored to describe, was built at the corner of Hasel and Anson streets, in 1842. The Rev. H. F. W. Heemsoth, the first pastor, served the ohurch till the spring of 1848, when he returned to Ger many, and he is now pastor in Misselwarden, Amt Dorem, Hanover. Pastor Heemsoth was succeeded by Rev. L. Mulier, who has served the congregation acceptably during nearly twenty-three years. Mr. Muller is a native of Rhenish Bavaria, passed through the gymnasium of Deux Ponts, and completed his studies in philosophy and theology in the University of Utrecht. Immediately upon his graduation he came to the United States, was ordained in New York in 1842, and served congregations in New York and Brooklyn till the spring of 1848, when he was called to this city.

The Fair. From the time that the first stone of the new

Lutheran Church was laid, the German Ladies Society, of Charleston, have taken a deep interest in the progress of the work, and have given to it all the assistance in their power. They organize ball-one of the social triumphs of the seasonthe proceeds of which were devoted to the building fund of the church, and some weeks ago it was determined to arrange for a Fair, whose profits might hasten the completion of the church. The idea was quickly carried out, and Mrs. D. A. Amme, the president, Mrs. F. Wehmann, the secretary, and Mrs. J. N. Boesch, the treasurer, with the co-operation of their friends, perfected the details of the scheme. No time was lost. There were will ng hands to help in the work; yet on Saturday last, when the committee took possession of the fine Music Hall at the Academy, it seemed very unlikely that the preparations would be completed by the hour of opening the Pair. All who thought so counted without their host. The committee on the hall, headed by Messrs. Claussen, Ufferhardt and Von Santen, had both energy and skill, and the work of arranging the tables, and decorating the hall, was fully finished by yes terday afternoon. A WELCOME. The Pair is held in the spacious Music Hall in the Academy of Music building. Gay flags doat across the street, and high above the broad doors of the Academy is a glittering transparence bearing the name of the "German Ladies' Fair and Soiree." Inside the door, on the left, a similar notice warns the visitor not to be led astray by the attractions of Laura Keene's Comedy Company. The broad stairways enable the visitor to reach the Music Hall without inconvenience, and as the threshold is crossed a vision of beauty strikes the eye: a curious and beautiful combins tion of evergreens, flaunting flags, gleaming lights, brave men and pretty women. The pillars are entwined with mosses and flowers, and above these float the banne's of all nations. And there at the end of the hall, in living green, stands out the German greeting-WELCOME! All the decora tions are in excellent taste, and do great credit to the committee and their fair assistants.

The tables, of which there are six, are ranged around the hall, and are fairly loaded down with articles of use and beauty. In general plan the tables are alike, but in details full play was given to the ingenuity and taste of the ladies who have TABLE NO. 1.

This table is devoted to "Refreshments and Fancy Goods," and is under the management of Mrs. D. A. Amme and Mrs. F. Wehmann. It is charmingly laid out, and, besides the creature comforts, has a host of knick-knacks and objects of interest. Prominent among these latter is a delicate picture, in worsted, of the Virgin and Infant Saviour. This was worked by Miss A. Waltof worsted work_ "ic "Arab and his Horse"-by Mrs. Luhrs, deservedly attracted much attention. A mammoth cake, by Mr. Pfahler, of the Mills House, and two Swiss cottages, all of cake, were generally admired, as was also a handsome cradle, which may be considered a useful thing to have in the house. A beautiful piece of tatting

Stands, cigars, handsome vases, and handsome portraits of Our Fritz and King William, are among the other attractions of the table. TABLE NO. 2 is in the keeping of Mrs. Lindstedt and Mrs. Nim itz, and, like table No. 1. is enlisted in the "fancy work and refreshment" department. A striking object upon this table is a huge cake, valued at $150, presented by Mr. J. O. H. Claussen. There members, vestry and paster of the church, with are, besides, some pretty pictures presented by Mr. George S. Hacker; an oil painting of fruit, presented by Mr. A. H. Abrahams; a picture of the Heroes of Germany, presented by Mr. Von Santen; and some elegant fruit baskets, the gift of Mr. E. Klein. This table is so crowded

This table is managed by Mrs. C. Amme and J. A. Boesch. On one side of it is a fine "Lilly" cooking stove, presented by Mr. MacDuff Cohen The stove is complete, with all the paraphernalia of pois and pans, and as long as "civilized man cannot live without cooks," will be almost as attractive as the cradle already mentioned. Indeed, with the cooking stove and the cradic, any modest coup'e might begin housekeeping without walting for better times. There is, near the stove, a cage of Guinea pigs, "all alive." and upon the table is a profusion of shawls, table-covers, crochet work, embroidered shirts, candlesticks, albums, and children's dresses. An exquisite flower stand, made of feathers by Miss Emilie Stender, a little gir: twelve years old, was much admired, as was also a tastefully worked sofs enshion, presented by Mrs. H. Bolli TABLE NO. 4 is directed and controlled by Mrs. Fehrenbach and is a gem of taste in richness of decoration, It has a bewildering number and variety of fancy articles, besides sundry pieces of silver. There is a fine piece of embroidery, more than four feet square; a silk opera cloak; an exquisitely dressed bride-doll; a massive silver dessert set of three pieces; china tea sets; silver castors, which may be changed into fruit dishes; silver urns and cups; lewelry; decanters; a sliver ladle; a grand steeple cake, three feet high, presented by Mr. Marion; and a doll's house, elaborately furnished in every part, and supplied with a kitchen-garden and poultry-the work of Mr. Willie Fehrenbach. The other charms of this table, visitors will soon discover. TABLE NO. 5. This table, at the east end of the hall, is under the management of Mrs. Fischer and Mrs. Bequest, assisted by Mrs. Lillenthal and Mrs. Wagener. In the centre is a fine sliver trumpet, which is to be voted for and awarded to whoever may receive the largest number of votes. A miniature bed stead is well worthy of notice, as are the tollet sets, and the thousand varieties of beautiful fancy work with which the table abounds. This table has, also, some fine vuses, sofa custions and silver-ware. TABLE NO 6 is managed by Mrs. Henry Bischoff and Mrs. Issertell, assisted by Madame Plenge and Mrs. Chase. The table is a model of tasteful arrangement, and is crowded with objects of interest. A fine silver trumpet, to be voted for by the different fire companies, is worthy of notice. There is an exquisite piece of embroidery work; a handsome tea se : an el-porate set of silver: a rich cushion, worked in wool and beads by Mrs. Haas; a num ber of dainty crystalized baskets, and all that the heart can desire, from a prayer book to a cigar case. THE JACOB'S WELL. In the southeast corner of the hall is the Jac b's Weil, where mild fluid refreshment is dispensed to the thirsty by damsels whose bright eyes are more dangerous far than lemons and refined sugar. This was an attractive corner, and so the gallant Germans thought, and acted upon their thinking. is a prominent object of interest, and we commend to Postmaster Trott its most fascinating feature, which is, that no hungry letter-seeker mails, and if all are not satisfied, they ought to be. This charming affair was managed last night by Miss Roesch and Miss Mabus.

THE FIREMAN'S PRIZE may be found at the side of Table No. 1, and consists of a massive epergne of English silver plated ware. This handsome ornament is to be award ed the fire company which receives the highest number of votes, of which there are five hundred, active competition for this valuable prize,

THE CROWD. The long train of visitors began to pour in as soon as the doors were formally opened, and in a short time the hall was comfortably crowded There was an evident satisfaction with all that had been done, and the raffle lists were soon in active demand. But even the pleasure of contributing a mite to the German Church did no diminish the zeal, while scores of happy couples clided to and fro in the mazes of which, under the skilful leadership of Metz's band, awakened the ardent enthusiasm of the votaries tune of happy hearts.

ALL HAIL! The opening night of the Fair of the German Ladies' Society was successful beyond expecta-tion, but we desire to see the fair more fully attended by the general public. The Germans of help to any measure which is for the good of the community, and it is due to them that the people at large should assist them in erecting a building which is necessary for the religious accommods tion of a large body of our most valuable citizens. and will be, besides, an ornament to Charleston. The fair will be opened to-day from 11 A. M. to 2. P. M., for ladies and children especially; also rom 6 to 12 at night

THE PRIZES. The following are the prizes drawn last night H. Lubkin, one pair No. 16 shoes; C. Wedding, one pair cups and saucers; J. L. Tobias, one pair fancy slippers; E. Volgt, fancy fan; Miss Lottle Amme ancy fan; Mrs. Kolderway, tollet powder box; A. C. Lindstedt, fancy fan; C. Wedding, powder box A. Lindstedt, china watch stand; H. U. Boesch blue silk fan; H. SOUTH CAROLINA INSTITUTE FAIR

The great Fair of the South Carolina In stitute, which opens to-day, promises to mark an era in the progress of Charleston. An incldenta I but very noticeable result of the fair must be to give a remarkable impetus to the develop ment and improvement, both by public and pri vate agencies, of the extreme northwestern sec tion of the city. Whoever mingled in the crowd of all ages, sexes and conditions in life, who were hurrying yesterday along the road to the fair ground, could not fall to observe that the entire neighborhood seemed to have put on a new aspect; and it needs no prophet to predict that ere many of the annual fairs of the South Carolina Institute redivious shall have come and gone, that portion of Rutledge avenue, lying between Line street and Lowndes's Grove, will have become one of the most eligible sections of the city for pur poses of private residence. But to return to the fair. The crowds who found their way in every species of conveyance, as well as on foot, to the great enclosure yester day afternoon, would have almost justified one in believing that the fair had already opened. The scene within the fence, and especially in the huge fair building itself, was one of strange bustle and excitement. Enterprising venders of refreshments constructing their booths with frantic baste; grooms exercising the live stock so as to bring it into the best possible trim; painters bedaubing the fence pannels with flaring advertisements, which might have found a more appropriate place in THE NEWS; young ladies, by the hundred, engaged in displaying, in gorgeous contrast and to the best advantage, needlework and embroidery of all kinds, from & patchwork quilt to a pincushion; carpenters and their assistants putting the finishing touches to the decora tions, and last, but not least, exhibitors hasten ing to get their wares or articles arranged in time for the opening-all these made up a scene of orderly confusion, edifying to behold.

The decorations, which are now fluished, are of an exceedingly elaborate and beautiful character. They were designed by and executed under the personal supervision of Mr. John H. Devereux, the chairman of the committee on de coration, to whom infinite credit is due, no only for their exquisitely ornate character, but also for the remarkable expedition with which they have been pushed to completion The view down the nave of the fair building from a standpoint at the north end, presents a vista of rare beauty. Every rafter is richly festooned with garlands, and hundreds of hanging paskets, brimming with verdure and overflowing with the beautiful mosses of our forests. lend an indescribable charm to the scene. The element of galety is abundantly supplied by a profuse display of bunting, evidently the contribution of our merchant marine to the fair. But the chef d'œuvre in the way of ornamentation is the fountain which graces the south end of the hall. The basin, about ten feet in diameter, in surrounded with a sloping moss-covered bank, the green expanse of which is pleasantly relieved by a profusion of lilles. The fountain itself, which is a specimen of the cunning skill of that famous worker in iron, Mr. C. Werner, sends its spray la a hundred jets, while the centre jet plays aloft through wreaths and garlands, which have been arranged in the form of a canopy above.

The indications last evening were, that while the representation of exhibitors would not be as large as might be wished, yet the fair in all its es sential features would be a grand success. The pening takes place this morning at 9 o'clock. Parties who intend visiting the fair would do from Mr. John Russell, Holmes's book house or Messrs. Wm. G. Whilden & Co. The trains of the South Carolina Railroad will leave the Line street depot every hour from 9 A. M. to 5P. M., and returning, will leave the fair grounds every hour from half-past 9 A. M. to half-past 5 P. M.

This work was not finished when the sitting ended, and the canvassers decline to publish a partial statement The final count will be finished to-day, and the result of the election can then be definitely known. As this official declaration will so soo be made, we do not attempt to show the vote cast for the different candidates. The impres sion is, however, that Scott has beaten Judge Carpenter, in this county, by a majority of over 4500 votes, and the Bowen-Hurley ticket has been elected to the General Assembly.

Mr. Bates, although behind Mishaw, is still 3400 votes shead of Cain, and is elected without doubt, if the votes for the defunct Mishaw are counts Mr. Grimke is the only Reform candidate who has run ahead of his opponents by a clear majorijority. His election as school com majority of 400 votes, is conceded by the Radicals. The conclusion of the counting was very exciting, and became a sequel for numerous protests. among these, the voters from Black Oak and Strawberry Ferry in St. John's Berkeley, Wright's Store on Edisto Island, and from the cross-road on James Island, are the principal. They were all counted separately and placed together until the cases are heard and decided. From one of the managers of Black Oak, we learn that another manager, Nero Small by name, opened the polls and carried on the voting for an hour by himself. The voting went on through a farge window, and Small, taking a handful of tickets at the window, without any oath, and merely asking the names, would go the box and deposit them himself. This went on until the other managers arrived. It is hardly necessary to say that this is one of the principal reasons for the protest of the Black Oak

THE DEATH OF MR. RICHARD CALDWELL. This community, in the death of Mr. Richard Caldwell, has experienced a loss which is keenly felt throughout business circles, and more deeply still by those who had the good fortune to know him intimately. Mr. Caldwell was a native of Charleston City, where he passed his childhood and youth. In the year 1835, he entered the business house of his father, on Vendue Range, as a clerk. His close attention to business and the interests of the firm 'ed to his being taken into the consrtnership and to the formation of a new firm by the name of William A. Caldwell & Son. In this firm, and the subsequent one of R. & A. P. Caldwell, Mr. Caldwell became generally | known among out business men, and thus laid the foundation of that ugu reputation which he has always borne among those that knew him. This firm carried on business until the breaking out of the Confederate war, and by the upright character and strict integrity of its members, retained a high place in the ranks of our Charleston houses. By close attention to business and hard work, Mr. Caldwell, at the dissolution of this firm, had amassed a considerable fortune, and, entering the commissary department of the Confederate States, under Colonel Jos. Walker, served without pay during the war, preserving, even in this trying position, an unstained reputation for fair and honest dealing. After the war Mr. Caldwell opened business on East Bay, and continued it up to a very short time before his decease. For some time he had been indisposed, though still on the streets, and on Sunday he experienced that attack of his family disease, which proved fatal. On Sunday he was confined to his bed, when he breathed his last about 10 o'clock that night-se quietly that none of those around were aware of his dissolution until some time after it had taken place. Mr. Caldwell was a member of the vestry of St. Michael's Church, and a prominent Odd Fellow, having passed through the chairs and being a member of the Grand Lodge. As a member of our business community he leaves an umblemished reputation for honesty and integrity in all his transactions. His death is acutely re-

THE DEATH OF CAPTAIN DANIELS-WAS HE MURDERED!-The jury of inquest which was empanelled on Priday morning last to investigate the causes which led to the death of Captain Thomas Daniels met, according to adjournment at Acting-Coroner Levy's office; yesterday morning, at 10 o'clock. Several witnesses were examined who testified as follows: J. V. Fickling, sworn, testified that, at about well to purchase their tickets in the city, either quarter-past 7 P. M., on Thursday, 27th instant, e heard the Columbia train blow brakes three times, in quick succession, when about 100 or 150 yards below the gate leading to the Atlantic Phosphate Company's works. The train, which was going up, stopped in about its own length, and the engineer can back with a lantern and found the body of the deceased. The conductor of the train, P. Duffy, came towards the body, and instructed deponent to take it on deponent's hand car and carry it to the city, which he did.

Jesse Youngblood, sworn, deposed that he was the engineer of the Columbia train which left Charleston on the evening of the 27th. When about two and a haif miles from the city, he discovered a white man lying on the track, and immediately blew down the brakes, but his train was under too great headway to prevent his running over the body. Stopped the train as seon as possible, and upon going back with his lantern found the body, which was dreadfully mangled. On feeling the head of the body found it was quite cold. Mr. Duffy, the conductor of the train, came up and requested Mr. Pickling to take the body to the city on his hand car, which was done. When deponent saw the body, he also saw three or four men run across the track from the place where the body was. They were seen by deponent before the train st pped, about twenty-five feet off, and running; they were colored men; discovered this fact by the reflection of the head light. There were no signs of blood seen on the track. About one and a half or two minutes elapsed after the train had passed over the body before it was stopped, and deponent ran back with a lantern. The body was dragged about twenty or thirty feet. There were no signs of Hie about the body. Patrick Duffy, sworn, deposed that he was the conductor on the Columbia train on the 27th instant; was engaged in taking up tickets, and when about two and a-half miles from Charleston heard the engineer blow down brakes, and when the train stoppe : saw him run down the track with a lantern in his hand. Deponent followed him, saw the body, and asked three or four hands who were present to see if there were any signs of life about it. The body was cold. It had been dragged some twenty or thirty steps. Directed Mr. Fickling, the section minder, to bring the hody to the city als hand car. Deponent knew nothing of the accident until he heard the cugineer's signal. A colored man told deponent that the deceased had been sitting on a pile of lumber on the side of the track near the place where the accident occurred, at about 5 o'clock that af:ernoon. Saw no blood on the track where the body was lying. J. R. Sweat, sworn, deposed that he was a fireman on the Columbia train. Saw a white man lying on the track, when the engineer blew down brakes. The man was lying on his back, with his knees slightly drawn up. Did not see any blood on the track. Did not feel the body, but was present when the conductor felt it and said it was The jury then adjourned until Friday morning, at 10 o'clock. The belief that the unfortunate man was murdered has gained strength, although there is no cine whatever as to what could have tempted the perpetration of such a crime. The only thing found about the body was a small key, and it is not known that the deceased had any money or other valuables about him at the time. It seems almost positive that he was not kil led by the train. FURNITURE .- Visitors to the city should not fall to go to the well-appointed furniture establishment of Mr. R. White, King street, opposite the Academy of Music. Mr. White is an old hand at the bellows, understands his business practically, and has not only a splendid stock of goods but offers the same at astonishingly low prices.
