BEWARE OF PICKPOCKETS.-A gentleman had his watch stolen from him yesterday even ing, at about 6 o'clock, while riding on one of the Eing street cars.

DEATHS .- Mrs. Eliza Chandler, of Sumter, died on Saturday last, aged 72. Mr. Samuel Watson, "one of Sumter's best citizens," is dead.

APPOINTMENTS COVERNOR Scott has ap pointed Daniel M. Dukes auditor of Williamsburg County, vice S. A. Swalls, resigned. Also A. H. Knight school commissioner of Mariboro' County, vice H. J. Maxwell, resigned.

COBONER'S INQUEST .- An inquest was held Presterday morning on the body of a colored woman named Hannah Mayer, who, as previously reported, was drowned in Cooper River on Sunday last. The body was found floating near Fort Johnson, and brought to the city. The jury rendered a verdict of accidental drowning.

A Novel Sensation .- An excellent telescope is now on exhibition in our city, in charge of Mr. Grossee, an intelligent German resident of Savannah. Just where to find it we cannot exactly say, as it changes its quarters frequently during the day, but when found we can assure our readers that a peep through it, at the nominal cost of 16 cents, will amply repay the trouble of hunting it up. Last night, two of Jupiter's satellites were by its. d. rendered distinctly visible. Mr. Gro see has also a very powerful microscope on exhibition, through the medium of which a drop of water shows enough "wiggle-waggles" tolmake one forswear anything but "whiskey straight" forever more.

A QUEER BUSINESS.—We are informed that when the election commissioners, Messrs. Williams, Gleaves and Langley, were arrested at Beaufort their clerk was sent by them to obtain the papers containing the record of the vote in Beaufort County. As this clerk came out into the street. having the papers in his possession, a match was struck and a man made a desperate grab at the papers. The clerk drew his pistol and the assailent fied, not, however, before he was recognized. This man who attempted to steal the election re turns is, as we are informed, Isaac Reid, upon whose affidavit the warrant for the arrest of Willisms, Gleaves and Langley was issued, and who was appointed a deputy marshal to execute the warrant issued upon his own affidavit. These are queer times !

A LITTLE BRIEF AUTHORITY. -W. G. Pinckney, a trial justice in St. James Santee, has been playing a variety of fantastic tricks which should cause him to be stripped of his authority and remitted to the field of honest labor. Two days before the late elections, he drew a quantity of Winchester rides in Charleston, and had them shipped to a private landing on the river. Objection was made by Dr. S. D. Doar to any landing of these arms on his place, there being a public landing two miles off, and there the matter rested until a few days ago, when Pinckney sought out Dr. Doar and abused him in the most outrageous manner. Pinckney was arrested by Dr. Doar and brought to Charleston, where he was examined and bound over to keep the peace and to appear at the next term of the Court of General Session This was done yesterday, and Dr. Doar was about to take the boat to go home when he was arrested, upon a warrant issued by Trial Justice Bunch and bound over to keep the peace. There were five boxes of arms sent up by Pinckney, who is brenkers whom Governor Scot has made the guardians of the public peace. We shall shortly print something about Pinckney's antecedents.

CLUBS AND STARS .- Ell Evans, who was arrested on Wednesday afternoon for stealing $8 from a countryman, appeared before the Mayor yesterday morning, and is held for further examination.

Joseph Bordeaux was arrested on the charge of being implicated in stealing some revolvers from a store in King street. William Dennison, reported yesterday as having been arrested for stealing $80 from the pilot boat Norma, confessed his crime, and was turned over to Trial Justice Levy for prosecution. W. G. Pinckney, colored, was brought up before

Trial Justice J. G. Mackey, on Wednesday, under a warrant issued at the instance of Dr. S. D. Doar, charged with trespassing upon the premises of the latter, and using the most abusive and threatening language towards him. The evidence adduced clearly proved him to be a dangerous character, and he was bound over in the sum of $300 to keep the peace, and $200 to appear at the next term of court. George Fenton was sent to jail for thirty days for trespassing upon the premises of Mr. Laidler, in Logan street, with intent to rob. Robert Liegd was arrested on a charge of larceny, and after being allowed a hearing before Justice Levy for prosecution. J. D. Zanoga was sentenced by Trial Justice

Mackey to pay $100 or go to jail for thirty days, Mrs. Scott, in State street, and deliberately, without provocation, smashing up her furniture.

THAT ELECTION BUSINESS.

Examination of the Beaufort Com missioners.

The case of the commissioners of election ar Beaufort County, who were arrested upon the charge of tampering with the ballot-boxes and bribing voters, came up before United States Commissioner Porteous yesterday, the Hon. D. T.

Corbin appearing for the :prosecution, and M. P. O'Connor, Esq., for the defence. Colonel Wm. Elliott was the first witness exam ned, the substance of whose testimony is as follows: That he is a resident of Beaufort and was present at the election there on the 19th of October. Three or four days previous to the election he had, as county chairman of the Reform party, applied to Mr. Williams, the chairman of the board of commissioners of election for the county, to make some arrangement for guarding the ballot boxes, and for having a commit tee from each party with them from the time of voting to the counting of the votes. Williams replied that the boxes were to be put in his house, and refused to permit them to be watched. Colonel Elliott was present at the counting of the votes for several days as a member of the committee representing the Reform party, but was not a member of the committee of citizens appointed by the town for the purpose o insuring fair play. He examined the ballots as they were taken out of the boxes, and kept a list of the votes, which tallied with the list kept by the commissioners. There were several instances of double votes rolled up tightly together. One of these occurred at Paris Island, where both votes were counted. He objected to this, and suggested to the commissioners that, in such cases, the law was that the double vote should be thrown out. Langley said such was not the law; the law said that a double vote should count as one; but that he would make a memorandum of all such cases, and forward it to the board of State canvassers. In the St. Helena White Church box there were three ballots for DeLarge rolled up together, which were evidently put in the box together. The boxes were not watched, as he considered it useess, in the interests of the Reform party, to watch the boxes, as there had been ample time allowed for tampering with them; but he suggest ed to Bowen's friends that they had better keep a sharp look out. Some of the ballots had one of Mr. Bowen's initials omitted; this was evidently a mistake in printing, as the impression of the C. was on the paper, but was not inked. The ballots for "C. C." Bowen and "C." Bowen were kept separate. At Coffin Point there were 255 names on the poll lists, and only 203 ballots in the box. The list was not signed by the managers. At Hickory Hill the list contained 1:9 names, and the box only 129 ballots. Was not present at the opening of the poll at Beaufort, out was there a few minutes afterwards, and at the closing of the polls. Did not see the boxes sealed, but understood that it was done; other gentlemen from the committee attended to it. Representatives of both parties, and of each fac tion in the Republican party, were present at the polis. The count was made at the sherin's office, and all three of the commissioners were present at the opening of the boxes. There were five instances of double ballots at Gardner's Corner. There was no objection made to his being present at the counting of the votes. One of the receptacles of the votes was a powder keg. The boxes were opened hurriedly; sometimes before they had finished one box a second one was opened. After the arrest of the com missioners, as the legal adviser of the sheriff he had endeavored to obtain their release upon bail but the bail was refused by Mr. Judd, the United States marshal, and he was told that he should have to come to Charleston as a witness. Mr. Wm. J. Verdier was next examined, and his testimony corroborated that of Colonel Elliott, as did also that of Messrs. B. B. Sams and John G. Barawell. Mr. Verdier also stated that he as sisted in scaling the boxes, and was chairman of the committee of citizens appointed by the town. That at Myrtle Bush and at Chisolm's Landing, there were two Bowen tickets folded together One of the boxes used for a ballot box was an ordisary store box without a lock; there was also powder keg and a valise or trunk used as boxes. At Pocotaligo the poll-Hat had six hundred and thirty-five names numbered, but there were actually six hundred and sixty seven names upon it, while there were only three hundred and seventy seven ballots in the box. The list was signed by the manager. There were no marks on the box to show that it had been opened; it was locked and sealed, and the names of the managers were written upon the slip of paper which was placed over the hole in the top of the box. At Peeple's called for. At Gillisonville the box was seventeen in excess of the list. At Beaufort there were two lists, one not being sufficient to contain all of the names. The list kept by him differs slightly from that kept by the clerk of the commissioners of election. His list had eleven more ballots than the poll list had names, and the clerk's list, had thirteen. He did not hear the commissioners offer any bribe to voters. The only irregularity which occurred at the opening of the poll was that at first the voters were not sworn. There were two private seals on the box. No objection was made to the inspection of the boxes, but no one offered to do so. He sealed the Beaufort box in the Town Hall, and the others at Williams's louse. At Pocotaligo the list was so hadly writ ten as to be in some places almost illegible. Sev eral of the names had been scratched over. The Beaufort box was opened at 12 M., and counted until dinner time, when the commissioners ad ionrned until 7 P. M. The door was locked and count, things appeared undisturbed. Mr. Lewis said that during the counting of the White Church, St. Helena, poll there were several double ballots. He knew of no bribe having been offered by the commissioners.

-Mr. Barawell saw eight double votes at the St Helena, White Church, poll, six for DeLarge and two for Bowen. The poll lists were not signed by the managers. He was present at the count only the Mayor yesterday, was turned over to Trial one day, as Langley refused to remain if he was permitted to do so. Mr. Williams not objecting to his being present, he refused to leave, and Langley left, and the commissioners adjourned. for, maliciously trespassing upon the premises of He did not return after the counting had been re sumed. Langley's objection was made on the ground that one from each committee was sumcient.

> Mr. Verdier was recalled, and stated that the scals were stamped with an advertising token in the shape of a coin, which was marked "Dew of the Alpa." He considered the sealing of the boxes a farce, as ample time had been allowed for tampering with them.

This concluded the testimony which was heard esterday, and the commissioners adjourned the case to next Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock-The witnesses were released upon their ownrecognizances in the sum of $500 each, to appear at the next term of court, and the prisoners were released upon $5000 bail cach.

SOUTH CAROLINA CENTRAL RAILROAD .- The Sumter News says: We learn from D. B. Mc-Laurin, Esq., president of the company, that ground has already been broken on this new road. When completed, it will be of essential senefit to Charleston, and will have an important influence also, favorable we trust, upon the business of Sumter, shortening materially the route to "the City by the Sea."

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY OF SOUTH CAROLINA. An extra meeting of this society was held last evening, at their hall, corner of Broad and East Bay streets. A number of new members were elected, and measures were taken to secure a general attendance at the annual meeting in January. This society is one of the most important agricultural bodies in this State, and its present prosperous condition and bright prospects. are a gratification to all who are interested in the material welfare of the country.

GRATIFYING OUTPOURING OF THE PEOPLE.

Running the Machine-New Objects of Interest-An Amusing and Instructive Day.

THIRD DAY. The interest taken by the people of Charleson, and the strangers among us, in the great Institute Fair is steadily increasing, as was shown by the crowds of visitors thronging 'the grand all at noon yesterday. The heat of the sun was greater if anything than on the preceding day, and the refreshing coolness of Werner's beautiful fou ntain, the music of the band, and the large and atry spartment, all combined to render the great hall of the fair one of the pleasantest and mo-t attractive places in which to pass a portlor of the day. These attractions were all fully ap preciated, and throughout the day large number of visitors were busy among the tables.

Having visited the fair each day with the es pecial object of seeing what was to be seen, it was natural to think that, in the two days of inspec tion, we had seen everything, but the fallacy o hu man reason was never more fully exemplified and in a few moments we were as busy among show. The machinery, all in motion and work ing away, first attracted our attention, and the Griswold cotton gin; before noticed, and which had just been started to work, kept us employed for some time in its examination. This gin is very beautiful and rapid in its operations, and kept showering the snowy lint in clouds into an enclosure prepared for its reception.

Shaw's cotton seed huller, exhibited by Brodie & Co., the agents for this city, was also in operation, and did its work in a rapid and complete manner. The rough seed was placed in the feed er, and, disappearing from view, came out below clear of the hull and divided into two hears, one the whole seed, and the other partially crushedall ready to be made into oil or cakes for cattle food. Near by is a fine corn mill, on exhibition by the same firm. This mill combines the various advantages of simplicity in construction, strength and durability, and never grows dall, as by reversing the motion of the mill it grinds just as well and actually sharpens itself. The grinding is regulated by the turning of a screw, and produces, at pleasure, hominy, grits, cow feed, or fine family meal.

The grain drill on exhibition by J. E. Adger & Co., and made by Beckford & Huffman, is one of the most complete implments of the kind. This drill is certain in its distribution and accurate in its measurement of the seed, and gives the farmer, without additional weight, the advantage of two drills in one. Near this is a fine "hand power" for running a cotton gin, and when an plied to the Brown gin next it, enables the latter to gin a bale and a half of cotton a day. Both o these articles are exhibited by Messrs. J. E. Adger & Co., who have likewise made late additions to their already large stock of ploughs and other implements of agriculture.

On the left side of the building, near the wall, a handsome Howe's stand and scales invited us to be weighed, and promised a card with name and number of pounds marked upon it for us to take away.

Crossing on, we came to the splendidly farnished table of Messrs. Furchgott, Benedict & Co. The specimens on exhibition by these gentlemen are tasteful and choice, and their shawls are per fect beauties in their way. One, worth $500, is handworked, and is gorgeous in its coloring. The other, "from China direct," is of a dark color, worked with gold and silk around the border Their specimens of poplins, stockings and robes are well worth an examination, and particularly the pair of imported blankets, the largest ever Near by are several coops of fine fowls, exhibited by Mr. William Hume, among which the dark Brahmas are conspicuous from their supe rior size.

A beautiful model of a schooner on the stock inlaid with resewood, with drawings attached, and accompanied by a model of the yacht Amy exhibited by Mr. Joseph Silver, the builder, are ingenious and curious.

Mr. J. J. Lucas, of Society Hill, exhibited the only domestic juice of the grape, and has three tempting bottles of wine just above three fue pears sent by Mr. Wm. M. Summer, of Pomaria South Carolina. : Duryea's corn starch is yet exhibited in an abating quantities, notwithstanding the number less specimens given away. This starch boldly stands upon its merits, and gives every one a chance of testing its qualities before investing in it. The stand of Messrs. Dowle, Moise & Davis pre sents a fine appearance with its numerous fancy ottics of perfumery, &c. Near these things is large frame containing numerous ridiculous illus rations of various sentimental songs. They all keep their observers highly amused, but "Would

This original work, entered "according to Hovie. was executed by M. O'Brien, of Augusts, Ga. While near here we also observed that finished and beautiful specimen of penmanship executed by Mr. F. D. Fanning. This consists of a roll of the Carolina Light Infantry, with a palmetto flag and other appropriate surroundings. It is done entirely with a No. 303 pen, and is a monument of skill and patient penmanship. THE PLOUGHS.

Walking but into the field we came to the ploughing, which was going on all day with much rivalry among the competing ploughs. The 'Monitor" plough, exhibited by C. Kerrison, Jr., is the general favorite among the one horse ploughs, having three useful and ingenious attachments, which render it a most perfect plough for general use. This plough took the premium at the Augusta Fair over the numerous ingle-horse ploughs competing with it, and can be bought at a very low figure.

The Louisville Agricultural Works are likewise represented by the same firm, and furnish several first class steel and east ploughs for the exhibition. On the ground the several representatives and agents for ploughs were busily at work, making quite a display with their teams and implements. One of the most conspicuous among the successful manufacturers present was Mr. Brinley, who, with coat off and directing a most beautiful double horse plough of his own make, at tracted general observation. His universal prairie plough and Collins's excelsior plough were greatly admired.

THE RACES.

At 2:30 P. M. the rolling of the drum announced the races, and eager crowds hurried towards the grand stand around which there was a much larger assemblage of men and vehicles than on the previous day. The first race was a trotting match. the best two out of three, for a mile. There were two entries, Mr. Long's ' Little Mack," and Mr. Short's bay colt-of the two, the bay colt being the favorite. They were both harnessed to neat little trotting sulkies, and went off. after a splendid start, at a rapid pace. The bay took the lead, and the sorrel, (Mr. Long's horse) in attempting to catch him, broke. This gave the bay an advantage, which he improved to the utmost, and steadily held his distance on the half mile stretch Both now seemed to settle well to their work; out the bay was too far ahead to be overtaken and came in with a splendid stride about five lengths ahead, winning the first heat in two minutes fifty-eight seconds.

After the usual interval employed in wa'k ng and sponging, during which the sorrel, had strong backers, the horses were again brought up and went off together at the tap of the drum. The sorrel now went to work in earn est, and passing the bay, who broke in the first quarter, kept gradually increasing the distance between them. On the half mile stretch both warmed to their work in fine style-the sorrel still keeping his distance, and turning on the home stretch he came in with easy stride over forty yards ahead, winning the second heat, and making the mile in 2 minutes, 57 % seconds. At the last heat heavy odds were offered on the

it was plain how the race would end. Both got-level stride and making fine-time however, kept the lead throughout, and won the third and last heat in splendid style, idistancing his opponent and making the mile in I minutes 58 seconds. Mr. John R. Long received the prize amin repeated cheers. After some time the second race was called, and the two pacers were got ready, being harnessed to light sulkies. : Mr. J. M. Long entered his chestnut horse Wade Hampton, and J. W. Crawford his sorrel mare Lady Emma. Making a fine start, ady Emma took the lead, and going steadily to work, kept her distance the whole course. The horse made several desperate efforts, but falled to come up, and was beaten by the mare by a length and a half, the mile being made in 2 minutes 63 % seconds. During the interval allowed, the horse, strange to say, was the favorite among the betters, and as the two went off on the second heat there were odds offered in his favor. The mare, however, went in determined to win, and soon opened a gap between herself and the horse, who broke or the first quarter. On the half-mile stretch the horse made a burst, but the distance was too great to catch up, and the mare came in holding her own, and beating by six lengths. Time. minutes 54 seconds. An imprompto race was then got up, betwee

Mr. Mike Hogan's "Too Soon" and Mr. John Lee's "Cricket." They were both small horses, and made a capital start. Cricket took the lead in lively style, and passed "Too Soon" early in the race. On the half mile stretch the race was capt tal, and the two stuck together, alternately pass ing each other by a few feet. Somebody suggest ed that they were both tired, but, turning nea the fair building together, the sorrel forged ahead on the quarter stretch, and won the race. No time called. The crowd now at the grounds was dense, and the building jammed. As we took our leave into the open space, we saw the knights practicing for the coming tournament, and every one seemed eager for the comining of to-day, th great day of the fair.

CHARLESTON, S. C., October 1, 1870. Carolina, held on the 1st of October, 1870, Dr. F. P. Porcher, chairman of a special committee, made the following report, containing a preamble and resolutions commemorative of the death of Professor William Hume, which was unanimously

At a meeting of this society a committee wa appointed to draft a preamble and resolutions upon the death of Professor Willam Hume, M. D.

Hibernian Hall-Bishop and the Chapmans,

The favorite burlesque of Cinderella drew as nmense crowd to the Hibernian Hall last evening, and from first to last the almost uproariou mirth which prevailed, showed that the large au dience were thoroughly in sympathy with th ruling spirit of the hour. There is an unctuous twang about every intonation of Bishop's voice merry 'lurking devil fa his eye," and a seem ing involuntary overflow of homor in his whol face, and mien, and air, which make him perfectly irresistible by any but the most confirmed hypochondriso. In the opening farce of "Your Life" in Danger." he carried the audience with him imost before he appeared upon the stage; and as "Sister Clorinda," in the burlesque, he never gave them rest from "the burden of laughter." Some of his "gags" in "Cinderella" were simost rood enough to be pardoned.

Blanche Chapman made her usual hit in the role of Cinderella, and Ella's Dandini "took" amazingly. Mr. Joseph Parker played "Baron Balderdash" as well as if he had never delighted us in the nobler role of "Polonius." Between the farce and the buriesque. Messr

Wallace and Wood appeared in their really surprising musical gymnastics. Their imitation of a full brass band, each playing on three instru ments at once, was considerably better than some realities we have heard. The German Ladies' Fair.

The Music Hall at the Academy last night was again filled with a gay crowd of gallant khights and ladies fair. The coup d'oell was brilliant and dazziling; the tables with their varied bright colored treasures; the elegant ornamentation of eve greens and flowers; the bright and happy faces of the gay assemblage, made brighter and happier in listening to the strains of sweet harmony, as discoursed by Meyer's band; the merry dance, of course, making things still more lively. Chances were offered and taken; the postoffice did a heavy business; little girls did a brisk trade in the "grab-bag" line, and the loveliest ladies offered heir sweetest smiles to induce the specimens of the sterner gender, who happened to cross their path, to take chances for a variety of articles, from a doll baby to a fireman's silver trumpet. Considering that this is the first fair the Ger mans have ever had in Charleston, we cannot re frain from expressing our surprise at the admirable manner in which everything has been managed. In fact the arrangements appear to be abso lutely perfect, and the best of order prevails everywhere. The highest credit is due to the indefatigable gentlemen of the committee of arrangements. We hope that the receipts will be ample, and comm naurate with the labor of love, so freely bestowed by all the friends of the good cause, in behalf of which these efforts have been put forth.

The following prizes were won last evening: Silver thimble, Miss Mary Bischoff; pair vases, Mr. N. G. Humphrey; meerschaum pipe, E. Schumacker; box perfumery, G. Harms; bottle cologne Mrs. C. St. Peter's Parochial School Fair. The fair in aid of the parochial school of St. Peter's (Catholic) Church opened last night, in the hall over the establishment lately occupied by Messrs. R. Thomlinson & Co., in Meeting street, opposite the Charleston Hotel. The hall is neatly decorated with festoons of gray moss and flowers, and the tables, six in number, are well filled with all of the numerous articles generally found at church or society fairs. There are several large and very prettily dressed dolls, and many very elegantly made articles of children's clothing, such as cloaks, capes, caps, sacks, dresses, &c The special object of the fair is to raise the funds necessary for the completion of the school building, and we trust that it will meet the liberal patronage and success which it deserves.

A SENSATION .- The great sensation on the streets yesterday was the large and handsome cart of Mr. Tnomas Campbell, dealer in stoves, pumps, pipe lead, copper, zinc, &c. This moving and useful sign caused the passing crowds to stand still in astonishment, and countless boys were firmly convinced that the circus, or at any rate, the minstrels had come to town to reap their usual harvest in fair week. Even afar off, at the distance of many squares, the wondrous contrivance could be seen, and many were the exclamations of surprise uttered by the thunder struck beholders. But Mr. Campbell's cart means something more than a sensation. It means enterprise. It indicates business energy and tact. And, as one can can read on its sides, that at No-146 Meeting street, Mr. Thomas Campbell supplies the public with cooking and parlor stoves, tin. sheet iron and Japanned-ware, iron and copper pumps, lead p:pe, sheet lead, copper, zinc, &c. and that he also attends to plumbing work, roofing, guttering, and tin work generally, so,jone noiges at the same time, that the proprietor of such a cart, renews his stock often, always keeps good articles on hand, and performs his work ski fully, quickly, promptly, and to the satisfaction of his customers. SOUTH CAROLINA INSTITUTE FAIR .- House keepers who vists the fair cannot fail to be convinced of the purity of Duryea's Starch. The exhibit of the above is truly grand, and the giving away of samples attracts those who, perhaps, never before took a special interest in starch. It is an article that enters every household; therefore, the very best should be sough after. That the Messrs. Duryea manufactures the best in the world is acknowledged. nov4-1
