WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1870.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Gold at New York yesterday closed at 10 1/2. —The New York Cotton market closed heavy. Sales 3000 bales at 16 1/2.

—At Liverpool cotton closed flat; uplands 9 1/2; Orleans 9 1/4; sales 8000 bales. —Two balloons from Paris, with five passengers, were captured on Saturday by the Prussians.

—The executive committee of the fair recently held in New York for the benefit of the German wounded report the receipts to the 4th instant, at $72,948.

—A German sympathy meeting was held at Chattanooga Saturday night, and sundry ex-Federal and ex-Confederate officers made speeches endorsing the German cause.

—Gossip from the national capital has it that President Grant is of opinion that Bazaine certainly ought to have forced his way through the Prussian lines at Metz with such a fine army as that which was under his command. "I would have got out of the fix some way," were the words used by the President.

—The prize fight between Allen and Gallagher took place yesterday near St. Louis. Only twenty-five persons were present. Four or five rounds were well fought, Allen getting the best of the first three, but getting in few blows, and came out generally bungled up.

—Miss Charlotte Cushman, America's greatest actress, who has for several years past been living at Rome, arrived in New York by the steamer Scotia, on Thursday last. For years past she has been suffering from cancer. Her case has been pronounced by eminent physicians hopeless, and she has come back to end her days in her own country, and among her own friends.

—The latest accounts from the West Virginia election demonstrate, beyond all question, that the Democrats and conservative men of that State have won almost everything they could wish. The spontaneous uprising of the people in this election repeats the old proscription Radical legislation, makes the State permanently Democratic, and insures the choice of a Democratic United States senator in place of Willey, the present Radical incumbent.

—Dr. J. Marion Sims, a well-known surgeon of this country, has lately returned from France, where he was surgeon-in-chief of the Anglo-American ambulance corps, which has rendered good service to both French and Prussian soldiers. In regard to reports concerning the declining health of Louis Napoleon, which have long been circulated, he says that the supposition that Napoleon is a decrepit old man is a great mistake. His intellect was never more vigorous than at present, and his physical health is perfect, with the exception of a few trifling infirmities. He is occasionally subject to spasms, but to no disease that threatens life. Dr. Sims speaks of the Prince Imperial as a strong, rosy boy, in perfect health and very intelligent. The story of his being profusely in love with the daughter of his being a circulation of the Germans is spoken of as being superior to that of the French. Dr. Sims states that the French ambulance corps is badly organized, that the surgeons are often incompetent or neglectful, and that the suffering of the French wounded from neglect has been terrible.

—Diamonds of great value and extraordinary richness have recently been discovered on the Vaal River, in South Africa. So great is the excitement for miles round that large numbers of tradesmen in adjoining cities and towns are disposing of their establishments at great sacrifice, and rushing to the diamond fields. A correspondent relates that one of the shopkeepers who went early to this African Golconda returned to his home, after an absence of only fifteen days, bringing with him a pocket full of thirty-six karats. In Hope Town a magnificent diamond of thirty-six karats has been dug up. One "prospector" in six days succeeded in purchasing not less than four hundred of the gems, among which were one of forty karats, and of such quality that the Queen of all the diamonds might be proud to wear it. The largest diamond found weighed one hundred and eighty karats and was valued at $100,000. One gem taken out weighed a fraction over eighty-three karats, and was sold for $11,200, after passing through several hands, and being subjected to much conflicting criticism. Found, as it was, by a stupid native boy on the surface of the ground, and mistaken by him for a worthless though pretty stone, the discovery of its real value created tremendous excitement.

—The steamer Idaho, of Williams & Gulton's line, arrived Friday evening at New York, from Liverpool, after a tempestuous voyage, bringing two hundred and ten Papal zouaves, who, now that the temporal power of the Pope is at an end, are returning to their homes in Canada. In the beginning of the present year eight hundred of these men left Canada and sailed for Europe. Most of them were sent to the Papal States, where they have seen some service. When Rome capitulated they were made prisoners, and were confined for twenty-three days. They were ultimately paroled, and transferred by the Italian government to England, whence their passage has been paid by Canadian friends to this country. On the evening of their arrival they formed and marched from Castle Garden up Broadway to St. Peter's Church, where mass was said, and Father Quinn addressed the zouaves, welcoming them to New York in the name of Archbishop McCloskey. Afterwards the zouaves sang the verse of a psalm, and marched to the Astor House. A complimentary breakfast was served them next morning, prior to their departure for Canada. The zouaves were all young men, of fine military material, and very intelligent and well-behaved in aspect. Some of them belong to wealthy Canadian families, and all have received good educations. One of the zouave officers gave the number of the late Papal army at twelve thousand men, the mass of whom were Italians of the Papal States. The zouaves numbered three thousand, and were composed of Canadians, Dutch, Belgians and French, including a few Irish, Germans and English. The latest bulletin about "the double baby" is the following from an Ohio correspondent: "The baby or babies, child or children, just as you see it to call it or them, was in the arms of a nurse. Some twelve or fourteen were in the room at the time, and from each an admission fee of one dollar was collected. The curiosity at first was crying at both ends. The nurse administered some kind of body food to it at each end, which seemed to give it satisfaction; and one end dropped to sleep, while the other end was awake; then that end woke up, and the other end went to sleep. (Where the word end is used, the reader can substitute head, if he prefers it.) It is too weak a old-to-day, and seems to be in as good health as any baby could be at that age. All the different parts and organs of this body, or these bodies, seem to be performing duty in a proper way, and the indications now are that this chap or these chaps will live, or not be killed by showing and handling them. When the child was two days old, one O. C. Brown entered into a contract in writing with the parents, by the terms of which the parents agreed to travel with him and exhibit the curiosity under his direction and management for the sum of fifty dollars per month—Brown to defray all expenses. If the child died, B. to have the body for a certain sum. This contract the parents repudiate and refuse to perform. They have taken legal advice, and say it is void and worthless, and pay no attention to Mr. Brown. On the other hand, Brown maintains that the contract is good and binding in law, and if the parents will not perform it voluntarily, he can compel them by the aid of the courts. The result will probably be a big lawsuit.

The Columbia Conference.

We look forward with great interest to the conference of the representatives of the Reform party to be held in Columbia this week. The elections being over, it may be deemed proper to issue an address to the people, explaining the lessons of the past and counseling such action as may seem best calculated for the preservation of good order and the ultimate redemption of the State. In our judgment it is wise, as we have already said, to reaffirm the principles of the Reform party, and to make no attempt in the future to win, by fresh concessions, the bulk of the negro vote. The conference alone, however, can determine what its own policy, and that of the Reform party, shall be. And neither The News, nor any other journal, has the right, or professes to have the power, to foreshadow the views of the conference, or to bind the action of the party. The Reform party must speak for itself, through the conference, and we shall then know, and not before, what plan of action it is determined to urge upon the people of the State.

The Vote.

According to the official report of the Board of State Canvassers, as stated by a Columbia correspondent of The News, the total vote cast, at the State elections of the 19th ultimo, was 134,579, of which the Radical candidate for Governor received 84,474 votes, and the Reform candidate 50,104 votes. At the constitutional elections of 1868 the total vote was 97,846, and at the election for Governor 92,750, but in the Presidential election, two years ago, the entire vote was 108,153. The vote cast last month is, therefore, 26,426 votes in excess of the highest vote ever before cast in this State. According to the census taken last year, the total number of voters in the State was 148,716, viz: 59,301 white and 89,415 colored; so that, assuming that every vote was deposited by a person qualified to vote and who had not already voted, (which is contrary to both knowledge and belief,) there were 14,000 voters who did not go to the polls. Making allowance for the repeating and ballot-box stuffing, which the Radicals are known to have practiced, it is probable that 20,000 legal votes were not brought out by the stirring canvass of 1870. These figures make one point clear, viz: That the white strength, while steadily increasing, is not yet fully polled, and that the colored people are not, as was suggested, disposed to refrain from exercising the privilege of the suffrage secured to them by the laws of this State and of the United States. In future elections, therefore, where the canvass is active and thorough, the whites and blacks will poll within ten or twelve per cent. of the full legal vote.

The entire number of votes cast for Judge Carpenter, the Reform candidate for Governor, was 50,104. This is the highest vote ever cast in the State in opposition to Radicalism. Against the constitution of 1868 only 27,288 votes were polled, and in the same year the Democratic vote was only 45,237. The anti-Radicals have gained, therefore, in round numbers, 5000 votes since the elections held two years ago. At that time the lines were plainly drawn between Radicalism and Democracy; the Democrats offered the negroes nothing more than a qualified suffrage; the Democratic platform declared that the Reconstruction acts—which were then the guarantees to the freedmen that they should be the political equals of the whites—were "unconstitutional, revolutionary and void." With all these drawbacks the Democratic party polled only 5000 votes less than are polled in 1870 by the Reform party—which makes no political issue, which recognizes the civil and political equality of whites and blacks, and which declares that the amendments incorporated into the State and Federal constitutions, since the war, are accomplished facts, having the force and obligation of law. The Reform party, was supported by the white people, as a body; it was led and defended by the ablest of our younger statesmen and by the soldiers whom the State most honors and trusts. The platform of the party gave the colored man a guarantee of all his rights and privileges; colored men helped to define that platform; colored men were candidates for office on the county tickets; the two races worked together, as it seemed, with one object of obtaining a capable and trustworthy representative government for the State. The result is a gain of 5000 votes in the year, while the Radical party, in the same period, gains more than 20,000 votes. The Radical vote at the Presidential election in 1868 was 62,916; it now is 84,475.

Up to this point we are treading on firm ground and draw plain conclusions from unmistakable facts. When we go further we can only estimate and surmise. Nevertheless, we venture the expression of the opinion that the vote at the elections, whose result is about to be officially declared, establishes these facts: 1. That the few whites who disapproved of the Reform movement did not vote on either side; 2. That the Radical party, in the past two years, have gained no white strength of consequence, but hold the negroes as tightly as they did in 1868; 3. That the masses of the white people of the State may be relied on to support any honest conservative movement in the interests of justice and good government; 4. That the increased negro vote obtained by the Reform party is not commensurate with the concessions made to the negroes, and with the efforts used to gain their votes; 5. That under any circumstances, and under any name, the bulk of the freedmen, who voted the Reform ticket, will vote with the party which has the countenance of the whites whom they know and trust; 6. That the Reform party was beaten, on the State ticket, by a nearly solid negro vote, and not by fraud and intimidation. Upon these premises we base our conclusion that, while we still maintain the principles embodied in the Reform platform as being just and right, and while we will welcome and protect all good colored men, who prove their fidelity to the cause of purity and truth, we should make no further attempt to pander to the negroes, and should organize thoroughly and systematically, so that we may be prepared for the next political contest, and be ready, at all times, to defend the rights guaranteed to the white race, no less than to the negroes, by the Constitution of the State.

The Faithful Few.

The interior newspapers are outspoken in their commendation of "the faithful few" colored men who had the intelligence and courage to vote the Reform ticket at the late elections. Of these colored Reformers good care will be taken. They should have the preference in business; they should have the first choice when servants are to be engaged; they should be assisted and encouraged in all their undertakings. Some of them may, it is true, have joined the Reform party, because they thought it would pay; these are known, and they are not many. The others have done faithful service to the State, and will find the white race firm friends and staunch protectors.
