is now on the way to New Orleans.

—Hon. W. M. Tweed, since his $50,000 gift for the benefit of the poor, has been named as the Democratic candidate for Governor of New York. -General Trochu is said to be descende from the great dramatic writer and poet,

-General Robert Anderson, the hero of For Sumter, is living with his family in Venice. His daughter Isabella is a regnant belle, and is said to have met her fate in an Italian duke. 85.00 -In Alabama, a man has invented an iron horse which works by steam. It has four legs and walks well with them. It can be made to travel, and do such work as ploughing, reaping,

&c., at from three to fifteen miles per hour. -The German princes, whatever else may be said against them, are certainly not deficient in bravery. Almost all of them have sealed their devotion to their country with their blood during the present war, and now the Prince of Baden is also reported among their number.

-The commission of engineer officers of the army, who have just returned from an inspection of the seacoast and harbor defences of the principal nations of Europe, make a very interesting report of what they saw, and a very important one in view of the possibility of a general war. England and Russia, it seems, are far ahead of the other nations in the use and adaptation of Iron for harbor defences, and Russia especially has shown herself very progressive in the matter. -Chief Justice Chase will, it is understood, resign his high position should the House judic'ary orta bill now before them, and the same become a law, by which he would be entitled to his full salary for the remainder of his life. His heaith will hardly permit of his ever taking mentioned contingently in such an event are se of Senators Trumbull and Edmunds, and even Conklin, though the latter, it is said, wants the reversion-a Judge Hunt, of Utica, New York, being his choice. The name of Associate Justice

Miller is also favorably mentioned. -Among the shiferers by the awful calamity in Richmond on Christmas morning was a young man, Samuel Hines, whose name deserves to be mentioned with that homage which genuine he roism ever inspires. Twice, at the imminent peril of his life, he rushed through the fire and smoke, and safely emerged again, dragging with him some unfortunate whom terror had deprived of the power of self-exertion. He was seen to dash into the burning mass a third time, but in an instant after the forked flames shot up in all directions, shutting him from the view of the enthralled spectators, and the gallant man came

-Don Platt went to hear the Rev. Dr. Newman en the "Many Wives of Utah," and says he "was very severe on the polygamous Mormons. I may say, without fear of successful contradiction, that he gave them the devil. He said he had been out there, and had had a discussion with Orson Prutt, and that he used Orson up right before Brigham and the twelve apostles and their three hundred and forty-two wives. The Rev. Dr. Newman gave us to understand that the wives were ashamed of Orson when he got through. He got Orson on the Hebrew. I don't recollect just exactly the text in the original Hebrew, but it is fapulliar to most of us, and it seemed to knock Orson flat. The Rev. Dr. Newman left Brigham Young and the twelve apostlas trying to set Orson on end; but it was a total failure."

-The structure which Mr. Paran Stevens is building on Twenty-seventh street, New York, extending from Fifth avenue through to Broadway is by far the most extensive of its kind in Ameri ca. On Breadway the front is 105 feet long, on Twenty-seventh street front 254, and the front on Fifth avenue 28 feet. The height will be about 125 feet. Each suite will have ten rooms, four closets and eight wash bowis. On the corner of Twentyseventh street and Fifth avenue the suites will each comprise a large parlor, five chambers, with dressing-rooms, dining-room, kitchen and dryingroom. The spites on the Broadway side will have seven chambers, including parlor and other rooms. The stairways are to be of marble, with iron rallings. There will be four elevators run by steam, six light shafts, and a court-yard 30 by 30 feet. It is said that this structure will cost nearly a million of dollars when finished. The first floo will be used for shops. The rent of each suite is expected to be from $2000 to $3000. -The New York Times, of Friday, says: "Orders were issued yesterday by Superintendent Mac. gregor, of the department of buildings, for the survey of all the hotels in this city, preparatory to requiring them to place fire escapes upon their buildings. The Grand Central, Fifth Avenue Hoffman House and French's Hotel were ordered to be inspected, and the notices will be served upon them to-day. It may not be generally known, but for some months past the question as to whether hotels could be required under the law to attach fire escapes has been in court upon a suit brought by Mr. Macgregor against Mr. Hawkes, one of the proprietors of the St. Nicholas. The suit was brought to test the question, and owing to the law's delay, no decision has as yet been reached. The superintendent has therefore determined to take prompt action in the premises, and, if necessary, let each proprietor test the law separately. Had the Richmond hotel above course has been decided upon by the building department" In the cable news a few days ago there was a brief sentence announcing that Mr. John B. Walter, son of the principal owner of the London Times, was drowned while skating. It is but a few weeks since young Mr. Walter was in this country, having just concluded his second visit to the United States. Mr. John Walter (the father) set great store by this son, who, if he had lived, would have been the fourth of his name, by direct descent, in the ownership and control of that renowned journal, the London Times. The senior of the house, having become aware during his own visit to this country, in 1866, of the great advantage it is to the influential English journalist to have knowledge from personal observation of the United seems to have thought it desira-States. ble that his eldest son and probable successor should have a second opportunity for making himself acquainted with American affairs. This visit, as we have mentioned, was made in the fall of this year as the conclusion of a tour all round the world, and young Walter could have been at home but a few days when the sorrowful catas. trophe occurred. For Mr. Walter, the father, the calamity has more than a private grief, for, with an expanding sense of the high responsibilities of the great organ of English information, and English opinion, founded by his family, and over which it seemed destined to preserve control, he had carefully trained his sons, by-every advantage of education, at home, at college and by travel, to so fulfil their mission that the world at large hould be the gainer by his and their labors.

Our Export Trade.

The New York papers are calling attention to the heavy exports of breadstuffs from that port during the few weeks pastsupposed to meet the demands of the German army, and also to provide for the reprovisioning of Paris when military events there reach their culminating point. The

"For weeks we have been exporting flour at bushels per week. The export of provisions thousand barrels and tierces of pork and beef, and nearly five million pounds of bacon, lard, cheese, &c., having left that port during the last week-the total value of the exports of the week being more than, five million dollars in gold, or more than double the value of the corresponding week in 1868."

The World, however, warns the community against deceitful appearances; that the apparently flourishing condition of the export trade should not blind us to the real weakness which exists in business and trade circles. If there is a large demand for surplus grain, it should be remembered, on the other hand, that cotton is at the present moment at the lowest point it has touched since 1862. The whole condition of trade is unsettled and unnatural, and the very signs which at first look favorable are really the feverish symptoms which are to be followed by disastrous depression.

In connection with these statements, the following comparative table of receipts and exports, at New York, condensed from the Journal of Commerce, will be found inter-

í	The Journal of

The Journal of Comme export movement has not been as satisfactory as was expected at the outbreak of the war on the other side; this is partially attributed to the light amount of tonnage on the berth all through the fall, and the very high rates ruling. Notwithstanding this, the shipments of breadstuffs are slightly in excess of last year. .

Shall the Usury Laws be Revived ?

The Columbia Phænix says that it concurs in the opinion expressed by the large majority of its contemporaries, that a revival of the usury laws would be unwise. The repeal of the old usury laws has, in the opinion of the Phænix, benefited all the interests of the State, and "if Northern money does not "come here in streams to suit us, at eigh-"teen per cent. per annum, will you get it by fixing the rate at seven per cent. ? If emoney is not abundant in the market at "one or two per cent. per month, will it be "at seven per cent. per annum? If the "money in the Northwest rules at ten and "twelve per cent. per annum-if the North-"ern capitalist can invest his money in "Northern stocks and realize his ten and "twelve per cent. per annum-will he send "It South to receive for it, the low rate pre"scribed by law ?" The Phanix concludes as follows:

high. We regret it. We desire to see the been provided with escapes probably no lives | rate promptly diminished. But of this we feel would have been lost, and in order to prevent the | just as sure as we do that the sun rises and courrence of a similar disaster in this city the sets, that this result is not to be reached by a revival of the exploded usury laws. If the true principles of political economy teach anything, they teach that money is worth-like corn and cotton-just what a man wanting it is able or willing to pay. The laws of trade should be allowed to operate unfettered, or else the public good is damaged. The rate of money is too high, but the reason is, political insecurity. Give us good, honest, reliable governments at the South, and the money rates will be reduced, and the public interest subserved. If Mr. Wilkes desires, as we have no reason to believe he does not, the welfare of the State, let him seek it, not by the effort to revive old and discarded principles of legislation, but by the effort to lessen the expenses of the government, to abate its corruption and extravagances, and to introduce a fair, just and honest spirit into its administration. Let him do this-let him secure the reduction of our taxes, and he will do far more good than by his tilt in behalf of the usury laws. We do not question Mr. Wilkes's motives. But we do question his judgment, and that most decidedly."

The Drama in the South.

The fact that the people. of the cities on the Southern Atlantic coast have lately given the cold shoulder to sundry theatrical companies which have come among us with the most magnificent promises and the shabbiest kind of performances, has been made the occasion of a hue and cry against our communities as malicious as it is unde served. Stung by their own atter and merited failure, one or two disappointed managers are striving to create the impression that the Southern cities are either unwilling or unable to yield a fair support to the drama. Nothing could be more unjust than such a charge. It is contradicted by the experience of Mr. John T. Ford, who, last year, managed the an average rate of nearly fifty thousand bar- amusements of the Southern circuit with so rels, and wheat at the rate of half a million much éclat and success. It is contradicted by the brilliant reception which the Oates has also been enormous—more than eight Troupe last winter enjoyed everywhere in this section, and which is even now bringing them once more among us. Nay, it has been flatly contradicted during the present winter by the splendid houses drawn by Edwin Forrest, and also by the Bishop-Chapman combination. Companies of real merit need have no misgivings as to the appreciation and liberality of the people of the South. Nowhere in the country, we are sure, is there a better field for first-class amusements, considering the population, than in the four cities of Charleston, Savannah, Augusta and Wilmington. But our people can hardly be expected to grow enthusiastic over acting which would not be tolerated upon the boards of the Bowery.

A Just Compromise.

The Winnsboro' News thinks that the suggestion of trying the plan of cumulative voting resulting in minority representation, in the election of trial justices and of the next House of Representatives, is the best proposition that has yet been put forward by the press in this State. It heartily endorses it. The plan will give the whites and Democrats a real and effective influence in shaping the course of the government for the next ten years, at the same time that it will secure the blacks and Radicals, when they shall have fallen into a minority, an influence and a representation for all time
