Jim Bludso, Wall, no! I can't tell whar he lives, Wall, no! I can't tell what a war.
Becase he don't live, you see;
Leastways, he's got out of the habit
Of livin' like you and me.
Whar have you been for the last three year
That you haven't heard folks tell
Low Jimmy Bludso passed in his checks,

How Jimmy Bludso passed in his The night of the Prairie Belle? He weren't no saint—them engineers
Is all pretty much alike—
One wife in Natchez-under the-Hill
And another one here, in Pike.
A keeriess man in his talk was Jim,
And an awkward man in a row—
But he never funked, and he never lied,
I reckon he never knowed how.

And this was all the religion he had-And this was a surface well;
To treat his engine well;
Never be passed on the river;
To mind the Pilot's bell;
Ind if ever the Prairie Helle took fire—
A thousand times he swore,
He'd noid her nozzle agin the bank
Till the last soul got ashore.

All boats has their day on the Mississip, And boats has their day of the missessify
And ber day come at last—
The Movastar was a better boat,
But the Belle she wouldn't be passed.
And so she come tearin' along that night—
The oldest craft on the line,
With a niger squat on her safety valve
And her furnace crammed, rosin and pine.

The fire burst out as she clared the bar, And burnt a hole in the night,
And quick as a fash she turned, and made
For that willer bank on the right.
There was running and cursing, but Jim yelled

Over all the infernal roar, "I'll hold her nozzle agin the bank Till the last galoot's ashore."

Through the bot, black breath of the burnin' boat
Jim Bludso's voice was heard,
And they all had trust in his cussedness,
And knowed he would keep his word.
And, sure's you're born, they all got off
Afore the smokestack fell—
And Bludso's ghost went up alone
In the smoke of the Prairie Belie.

He weren't no saint—but at jelgmen'.
I'd run my chance with Jim,
'Longside of some plous gentlemen
That would'nt shook hands with him.
He seen his duty, a dead sure thing—
And went for it thar and then;
And Christ ain't a goin' to be too hard
On a man that died for men.
