NEWS OF THE DAY.

-In New York, yesterday, gold closed at 10%a10%. -Cotton closed quiet at 15%c., and the sales amounted to 2100 bales. .-In Liverpool, at noon on Thursday, cotton was dull; uplands 7%d.; Orleans 8%d. In the af ternoon, cotton was easier; uplands to arrive 7%

87%d.; Orleans 8a8%d. -Ninety-six paper mills in this country were destroyed by fire during the year. .-The last levy of Prussian landwehr will be almost exclusively employed, according to a Berlin paper, as garrison troops, and in guarding the prisoners. The real army and ersaiz reserveviz., those below the regulation stature, who, however, are in general quite fit to take the field and are taller than the French-has not been call ed out. So far, therefore, from Prussia having now exhausted her reserve forces, there are at least 200,000 men on whose services no call has been made.

.-At Metz the Germans are giving every indication of their intention to retain permanent posacssion. A strong police force has been established, and the posts! and judicial arrangements are not at all of a provisional character. An East Prussian regiment has been ordered to transport all its equipments and stores to Metz, as it will subsequently gatrison the place. Ger man artisans and merchants are already beginning to settle there, and a considerable accession is expected as soon as peace is concluded. On the other hand, many well-to-do French residents announce their intention of selling their property and leaving the city whenever it is ceded to Germany.

writes: "As for General Trochu's supposed in- This, so far, is the record of his second term tention to retreat to Mont Valerien and some of office. How is it with the Radical majority ofter the sur other forts, and there hold out ev render of the city, the Germans will not permit him to carry it out.' For the capitulation of Paris to be accepted it must include the city and the forts. Until the whole of the metropolis, with all its ramparts and redoubts, is given over, the inhabitants will be doomed to hunger. The task of reducing Mont Valerien will devolve upon the Pasians, not upon the Germans. It would cost the latter many lives; the former will have to convince their commander-in-chief that France cannot be benefited by condemning Paris to starvation. Napoleon III continues to be treated with every mark of attention. With the heavy fall of snow which has occurred in all Germany, some ale iges have come to him straight from the Royal stables at Berlin." -From Marseilles comes a note of alarm. correspondent writes: "We begin to have a yery anxious time here. The rich are now alarmed for the poor, as we are now without magistrates or police, so that if any one knocked you down in the streets, you could get no redress. The rich . entlemen are having meetings to make arrangements for giving assistance to the poor. People here who have hitherto kept seven or eight servants, are now keeping three or four only. All the merchants are losing dally, and there are great fears of an insurrection if Paris is taken, The French were ansolutery mad a fornight ago. It was one of the most exciting days I have ever seen. At I o'clock in the morning the cannons began firing, news having come that the French army had left Paris, and driven the Germansout of Versailles, and as far as Fontaine blean, All day long bands of music p traded the streets and the people sang the 'Marseillaise.' At night the whole town was illuminated, though the snow was falling and lay two inches deep. Two days alterwards the news was contradicted, and despondency has prevailed, but one dare not say to a French person that Paris will ever capitulate. -The death of Baron Saillard, a distinghished Frenchman, is announced. At the time of the surrender of Sedan the Baron was director of the ministry of foreign affairs, and was especially noted for his honesty and frankness. In 1366 he went to Mexico, by order of the Emperor, to acquaint Maximilian with the determination of Na poleon to withdraw the auxiliary army of Mar shal Bazaine. Jr. 1867 he was sent to Rome to give notice of the removal of the French forces from Italy. Both of these troublesome missions were satisfactorily conducted. After the fall of -the government he remained in Paris. He led his battalion, the first of the Mobiles of the Seine, on wthe 2d of December to the attack of Epernay -near St. Denis, Here he was wounded in the right arm, but kept his horse until a second ball disabled his left arm. As he was being lifted from the saddle a third ball struck him in the groin and while being carried to the rear a fourth ball struck him in the left side of the neck, coming out near the opposite shoulder, proving that he was a conspicuous mark for the enemy's bullets. He lingered for several days in great agony, and died in an ambulance at the office of foreign affairs.

set of the same premiums were given to ladies of any age over sixteen years. The contributors numbered 453, and are from twenty-eight different States and territories. Several interesting specimens have been received, such as a pair of long stockings with one hundred holes darne 1, and a very good cloak marked as follows : "Tals cloak is made of four pairs of old pants, one old vest and two old coat linings. It is composed of sixty-eight pieces. I made it in two days, r.nd it was worn for three years to public school and I hope it will keep some other darling warn three years more. which all the garments will be turned over to the Five Points Mission for distribution. -The nomination of General F. P. Blair for senator, in the caucus of the Dem scrats of the Missouri Legislature, was ratified by acclamation amid great cheering. The doors were thrown open and the hall speedily filled with an enthusistic crowd. to whom General Blair made a speech in his best vein. He referred to the fact that, four years ago, he had been designated for this very term in the Senate by the Democrats of the Misouri Legislature, and announced his intention of carrying out the unchanging principles of these friends. He said: "I am a Democrat, and I am also a Liberal. Upon the platform which was annonnced in our recent election, and which gave back to Missouri her liberty and her freedomupon that platform I stand with all men will stand with me. Now, for the who first time in many years, the people of Missouri have had the choice of their own sen stors, and when they have had the choice of their own senators, they have been men respectable and men illustrious for their deeds in the national council. I may not hope to rival them in their brilliancy or in their ability; but I will endeavor, with a heart full of gratitude, to rival the best of them in my devotion to the people of this state, and to my country." In his further remarks, General Blair urged a forgetfulness of past issues and differences, and an earnest endeavour to perform the duty of the present, to aid the citizens of the Southern States to gain their liberties, which we have secured. He denounced the great

It is hoping against hope when we expect any regard for the interests of the Commonwealth on the part of the ignorant and malicious Radicals who practically control the legislation of the State. Before the elections there were none so loud in their denuncia- and wrongfully abused whites of the State." tion of extravagance as those who now squander the public money with headlong speed. They pledged themselves, as a of the largest cotton dealers in Columbia party, to the reduction of taxation and the curtailment of expenditures, declaring that they would retain in office no man who was The main cause of this is the low price of incompetent or corrupt. And the asseverations of the Radical leaders did produce some effect upon the public mind. The less cotton planted. In many cases farmers Radicals were not successful merely because they promised reform, but without their promise of better things their majority would have been less than it is. They went into office bound by public and private obligation year. Last week laborers were seeking emto a policy which should be liberal, economical and just; and what is the result?

Governor Scott has kept his word. He has refused to be browbeaten by the insolent negroes who strive to stir up dissension and to array the blacks against the whites. He has dared to tell the truth, although the party whip is cracked over his head. And we have good reason to believe that Governor Scott sets his face steadily against any -The London Times' correspondent at Berlin act which savors of extravagance and fraud.

agriculturists and manufacturers. In China and Japan, where it was first grown, the fibrous bark was separated from the woody portion of the plant by hand; it in this country, where labor is infinitely more expensive, such a thing could not be thought of. Hence, though the plant was found to be suited to our soil and climate and produced abundantly, the culture was not extended, because of the want of machinery to place it in a proper condition for manufacturing uses. But even when that difficulty was overcome by the construction of suitable machinery, another was encountered in the fact that the mills for spinning cotton could not successfully operate on a fibrous product with so long a staple, and the quantity of the new textile offered was not sufficient to warrant a change in the character of the machinery employed. To meet this condition of affairs it became desirable to reduce the length of the ramie fibre by artificial appliances, at least of such portions of it as were intended to be worked up in cotton mills. By an attachment to . the ramie cleaning machines this has been successfully accomplished, and long staple or short staple ramie can now be produced at will.

The new textile plant, ramie, is beginning

Considering the great value of the new textile, the large quantity which can be produced per acre, and the facilities now available to prepare it for market, we look for a large increase in its culture during the present year.

THE Camden Journal says that Governor Scott's special message "will be received by 'all good citizens as indicative of a desire on "the part of the Governor to do justice to 'our people, and he will be heartily assisted in his efforts to conserve the peace by the "arm of civil authority by all who love the 'quiet of South Carolina." The Journal adds : "When we see indications of a sense of jusice towards all the citizens of the State by the Executive or any other branch of the government, we are ready to meet them half way. While the message may be, and doubtless is, a deserved rebuke to the extremists of the Republican legislators, it is the first glimmer of hope which our silently suffering people have been vouchsafed, and as such we welcome it;

and we are sure that we represent the true sentiment of all good citizens, when we declare our purpose to ald in bringing about, by every means in our power, a good understanding between the Governor and hitherto much

According to the Lexington Dispatch, one thinks that his patrons cannot plant more than half as much cotton this year as last. cotton. Throughout the whole State, the Dispatch says, there will probably be much and planters cannot pay for the fertilizers used last year, nor for agricultural supplies furnished in the way of provisions during 1870. Hence labor ought to be cheaper this ployment in the lower part of Richland at fifty dollars per year and provisions.

THE Greenville Mountaineer concludes its comments upon Governor Scott's special essage with these words: "In the stand which Governor Scott has taken in this "matter, he has fallen under the ban of the 'more violent of his own party; but he de-"serves and will receive the commendation "and support of all good men of the State, "of whatever party."

-An exhibition of patchwork is now open in New York. The managers have issued an appeal to the wives and daughters of the country to contribute patched cast off clothes for the destitute

- of the city, and have offered premiums to those who excel in the art of putting a patch on. More than 1300 garments have been sent in for competition, and they represent the value of about $1300. Nearly all the garments are of woollen fabric, and comprise a great variety of clothes for male and female wear. Eighteen ladies have been appointed to sward the prizes, which were fifteen dollars, ten dollars, five dollars, and subscriptions to certain weekly journals. These were awarded to girls of any age under sixteen years. A second ["tween the blacks and whites."

n the General Assembly They have wasted time and money in buffoonery and childish folly. They have ne glected the interests of labor and of educa tiop. They have shown promptness and en ergy-in raising the State tax from five mills to nine, and in reviling and abusing the white people of the State. Investigation committees are demanded, which will serve no other purpose than to fill the pockets of their members. An impeachment trial is hatched up, in order to prolong the session and to gratify party spleen. From the ma jority there is not heard a single word on the side of frugality and fair dealing. They look upon the State as fair game, and lose no opportunity of turning a speculative penny. Fifteen-hundred dollar chandeliers, eighteen dollar spittoons, Brussels carpets, and brocade curtains, adorn their legislative chambers and committee rooms; and in the meanwhile the people at large are poorer and less able to bear the burden of debt and taxation than they were when the smoke curled up from the ruins which Sherman had made. It is a carnival of waste. And, to cap the climax, we are assured that one hall of the legislative appropriation of $135,000 is improperly spent and gone-nobody knows where. In no instance have the Radical majority even spoken of keeping the pledges made before the election. They are iu power for two years, and après nous le déluge ! No wonder is it that the credit of the State suffers-that the financial agent finds it difficult to borrow more money, and that the bankers who hold the State bonds as collaterals clamor for the repayment of their loans. The prospect is gloomy enoughthe rift in the cloud is hard to find. The only hope is in sustaining Governor Scott in his opposition to waste and party violence. . There are indications already that the conservative people will give him all the moral and material support they can; and without such support he certainly cannot hold his ground. As long as Governor Scott acts, writes and speaks fairly, temperately and honestly, he should be encouraged by the approbation, and fortified by the welldone, of every respectable citizen. We are more than politicians-we are citizens of South Carolina, depending for our success upon the prosperity of the State. Any man, whatever his party, who works for South Carolina-who strives to check extravagance, to expose fraud, and to repress parti san feeling-is, and must be, the friend of all our people. Such a man, we trust, is Robert Kingston Scott.

THE Yorkville Enquirer, speaking of the efforts making by the extremists to send a militia force to the up-country, says: "Ac-"cording to our information, the Governor "is pursuing a wise course, and we hope "that he will stand firm, despite the clamor "of those who seem to prosper only by tur-"balence and the engendering of strife be-
