NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Gold closed in New York yesterday at 114 1/2.

—Cotton closed strong in New York at 15 cents; sales 4945 bales.

—Cotton closed in Liverpool active; uplands 7 1/2; Orleans 7 1/2; sales 14,000 bales.

—Amusements usually begin at 6 P. M. in Germany.

—Barney Williams has contributed $1500 to the new Catholic Cathedral in New York.

—Gladstone is reported to be in straitened financial circumstances, through living beyond his means.

—Tennyson, the poet, is said to have a disease of the eyes, and it is feared he will become blind.

—Poor old Mrs. Busque, the only lady in Paris who at her restaurant furnished genuine Yankee pumpkin pie, gingerbread, buckwheat cakes and flapjacks, and hence was popular among the Americans, died February 10. The attacks of the American Legation attended her funeral.

—The Taylor firm has in New York been decided at last. The decision affirms the genuineness of the disputed will, and is favorable to Mrs. Taylor and adverse to Mrs. Howard, the grand daughter of the deceased, who disputed the legality of the document. The amount of property involved is over $1,000,000.

—There were 334,346 French prisoners in Germany, Switzerland and Belgium at the conclusion of peace, and twenty-three great battles and fifty-one important fights were fought during the war. Number of dead on both sides about 100,000 men, besides 200,000 wounded. The bloodiest battles were fought at Mars la Tour and Gravelotte. The former is next to Eylau and Borodino, the bloodiest day of this century.

—Much of the European travel from New York at present is composed of Germans, who are going home, now that the war is over, to visit the Fatherland. The Rhein, which sailed Saturday for Bremen, has about 100 in the cabin, nearly all of them of that nationality. The City of Antwerp, for Liverpool, likewise has many of the same class, and the steamers to leave this week have few besides Teutonic names on their books thus far.

—A New York letter says: "A new movement is now spoken of here among the Presbyterians, which may call to New York a shining light of their church. There are several wealthy gentlemen in this city who are strongly leavened with kind feelings for the South, and realizing the success of Dr. Deems's effort among his Methodists, desire also to establish a congregation that will represent the Southern Presbyterian Church. These wish to call Dr. Palmer, of New Orleans, to this city. He is a Carolinian by birth, and distinguished throughout the South for his eloquence. The Presbyterian pulpits are generally very well supported here, but Dr. Palmer's advent would be warmly welcomed by a host of friends."

—A Washington letter of the 12th instant says: "The San Domingo commissioners are expected in Washington by the 25th instant, but it is very evident that Congress does not desire to continue the session to await their arrival, though it is not improbable that the President will ask the Senate to remain in session to act on a treaty, provided the commissioners have negotiated one. The statement in a prominent administration paper that the annexation project is considered dead, does not find much approval in executive quarters, where its success is regarded as even more probable than was the removal of a week ago of Mr. Sumner from the chairmanship of the foreign relations committee. The friends of the scheme boast with great confidence that the commission will be unanimous, and that they will be sustained by nearly every person who went out with the expedition, thus securing outside of those officials a fair and impartial endorsement. The principal opposition is expected from Messrs. Schurz and Sumner, who are arming themselves constantly with facts and figures. As heretofore frequently stated, the policy of annexation by joint resolution was long since abandoned, and it is manifest that it could not pass the House. A treaty, therefore, which requires two-thirds of the Senate to ratify, will be the process."

—The President is reported as in high glee at his victory over Senator Sumner, and his military family are chuckling at what they style the humiliation of Mr. Sumner before the very eyes of the British lion whose tail he so recently twisted. It is the glow of the first hours after the combat, before he feels the wounds, and a different mood must follow. All except the little band of flatterers about the throne make no hesitation in forecasting his defeat and that of his party, while other troubles beside the proposed impeachment by Mr. Sumner crowd upon him. There is that West Point affair, in which the House has enacted that a prince of the blood must be tried by court martial. The President refuses to appoint the court of inquiry demanded by the act of Congress, and is indignant at the insult put upon his family. Commissioner Wilson, of the land office, too, does not submit to removal without telling what he knows; and it must be another thorn in the President's side to hear it charged, on such good authority, that the reason of the removal of a faithful officer was that he failed to approve of a land-grabbing scheme of the President's father. General Grant will have little time to enjoy the triumph over Mr. Sumner amid his gathering perplexities, for he is rapidly becoming an object of pity rather than indignation.

—The true cause of the deposition of Sumner is given by the Washington Patriot and the correspondent of the New York Evening Post, as follows: It is known that Mr. Sumner took the most advanced position in regard to the Alabama claims and our differences with England. The administration adopted this policy, and Motley was sent to carry it out. Then came a change of purpose, Motley's recall, the secret negotiations with Great Britain, and the appointment of the Joint High Commission on a very different basis from that supported by Mr. Sumner, and to which he did not conceal his opposition. His presence at the head of the committee on foreign relations was not only a standing rebuke to this new scheme, but it was a positive obstacle to its success before the Senate, and nearly two months ago Sir Edward Thornton expressed to Secretary Fish doubts as to the administration being able to get such a treaty as the High Commissioners might agree upon ratified by the United States Senate so long as Senator Sumner remained at the head of the foreign relations committee, and entertained such views as expressed in his speech against the Revere Johnson treaty. The matter being discussed, and the President consulted, the British officers were informed that their powerful and obnoxious opponent, Mr. Sumner, would be removed from the position of honor he had held so long, and that by this act they would see that the administration abandoned the ground taken by him when he influenced the rejection of the Revere Johnson treaty. A foreign minister and friend of Sumner's, hearing of this, warned him of it, but he paid little heed, and was soon after taken ill. While confined to his bed, the previously arranged stories were started that he had prepared a bitter speech against the President, which was wholly untrue, the design being to prepare the country for his removal on the ground of necessity to the San Domingo job, doubtless, was another cause for his removal, as well as the jealousy of Morton, Conkling and others, who could not brook his lead.

The Fall of Sumner.

Charles Sumner is dethroned. After representing for twenty years in the United States Senate all the peculiar "isms" of which New England is the soil and Boston the seed ground, he has come to grief at the hands of the man he helped to power. During this long period, as the mouth-piece of Massachusetts, he attained an eminence in the Republican party, and an influence which enabled him to command men and measures with an authority little short of despotic away. In character, an intellectual cynic; a species of pedantic Ben Butler; crafty without being bold; cruel without being courageous; scholarly without being original; a political schemer whose statesmanship scarcely looked beyond the moment. Sumner sought in an unlucky hour to rule Grant as he had ruled the Senate. Relying on his power as a New Englander, and as the exponent of the ideas that have been dominant in the North and West for the past ten years, he issued from his council chamber, as Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, pronouncements which practically declared war on the Administration. He has stood in the way of the settlement of the Alabama claims; he sought to disturb the peaceful relations existing between England and the United States, and was an obstacle to the acquisition of San Domingo—the favorite scheme of the President. Aggressive until he became "a thorn in the flesh," the policy of the Administration demanded his removal from the important position he occupied.

How it was effected is a matter of familiar record. In a party caucus, by a vote of 26 to 21, his decapitation was determined upon, and the Magaas Apollo of New England Radicalism was forthwith unceremoniously ejected from the chairmanship of the foreign affairs committee to make room for Cameron, the servile tool of the Administration, the railroad monopolist, the protective tariff advocate, and the representative of the vilest traits of American politics.

Mr. Sumner has been brought to the block by his party. It matters not that the President demanded his head in a charger; the party is the executioner. The caucus work was the work of the party. It matters not that the most eminent and able leaders of the party, Logan, the two Morrills, Schurz, Sherman, Trumbull and Wilson, opposed an execution which was, really, a punishment for independent action; the mediocre element of the party overpowered them, and carried their point. Chandler and Morton marshalled the majority at the bidding of the President, and nearly all the scoundrels and carpet-bag senators from the South, whom Mr. Sumner had so laboriously assisted into their seats, helped to strip him of his honors. When New England comes to complain of this treatment of her favorite statesman, they will have the mortification of reflecting that Pool, of North Carolina; Sawyer, of South Carolina; Ames, of Mississippi; Kellogg and West, of Louisiana; Flanagan, of Texas; Osborne, of Florida, and Brownlow, of Tennessee, the creatures of her own policy of reconstruction, were the servile instruments by which the deed was effected.

The Republican party can no longer claim to be the representative of independent thought and action. It dares to strike down its most conspicuous and able leader for presuming to think and act for himself on a question that does not affect the declared policy of the party, and it will strike down its next ablest leaders whenever they dare to commit a similar offense. Schurz and Sumner have been degraded; Trumbull and Wilson may follow to-morrow, and in the end, there may be nothing left of the party but its most worthless element, led by the strong will of the occupant of the White House.

"When Rogues Fall Out," &c.

The great split in the Republican party is bringing out a torrent of honest opinion on men and things that is all the more overwhelming because it has been pent up so long. Radical journals are speaking out all over the country, and giving us a new idea of their appreciation of the character of the President and his friends. The Springfield Republican accuses President Grant of deserting the principles on which he was elected.

ed, and charges the present quarrel on him and his "willful policy." His administration has been "no more respectable," and his own part in it has "caused more grief and anxiety than gratification." To sum up the "paraphrased denunciations" of the Republican, General Grant is arrogant, disjunct, peevishly malicious and despotic. With regard to certain prominent members of the party, whom we have before seen held up as models of virtue and wisdom, the Worcester Spy speaks of Cameron as an ignorant, scheming wild politician, and the Republican accuses him of incompetency, and fraud in securing his election. Others of "the President's serving-men in the Senate," the Republican sneers at, as Harlan for virtue, Pomeroy and Nye for honesty, Chandler for morality, &c., leaving us very few as worthy of trust or respect. The New York Evening Post says the President has degraded the Senate to make it the mere creature of his will, and the same sentiment is echoed by the Worcester Spy. In short, the break-up of the party is allowing honest men and others to get their due.

The Conference at Columbia on the Up-County Troubles.

[From the Columbia Union.] Upon invitation of his Excellency the Governor, several of the prominent citizens of the State assembled at the capital, on Monday evening, to consult upon the present disturbed condition of affairs in the upper portion of the State. Among those present were Colonel Simeon Fair, of Newberry; General McGowan, of Abbeville; Mr. Hemphill, of Chester; General Kershaw, of Camden; General Easley, of Greenville; Colonel Wallace, of Columbia; of Spartanburg; Messrs. Simons, of the County; Pope, Selbels and Ezell, of Columbia, and several others. The conference was free and pleasant, and the present condition of affairs was freely discussed. The principal object of the conference was to arrive at the cause of the existing troubles, and, if possible, suggest a remedy. We were present, and listened to the conversations throughout, and confess to being agreeably surprised at the general tone of the meeting.

The principal cause of the trouble, as urged by nearly all of these gentlemen, was the organization and arming of one class or race of citizens as against the other. It was argued, with considerable force, by every gentleman who spoke upon the subject, that placing arms in the hands of the colored men gave a feeling of insecurity to the whites, and caused a feverish feeling of alarm to pervade every community. Whether this feeling was well grounded or otherwise, made no difference to the fact that such a feeling actually existed, and so long as that feeling existed there was imminent danger of a collision upon the slightest provocation. It was further urged—and not without some show of reason—that the arming of the colored militia was regarded by the whites as dangerous to peace and good order; and, whereas, before such arming was done, men could go to bed in peace and security, without fear of molestation, now they were compelled to guard themselves as a measure of self protection. The debate upon this subject was long and exhaustive, but the conclusion reached by all was, that the arming of the colored militia was at least an unwise measure.

Another fruitful source of complaint, and one which we have regarded as lying at the very root of the whole matter, was the profigate and irresponsible manner in which the Legislature performed its work during the last session.

It will be recollected that we repeatedly warned the Legislature that the people were watching its operations, and that dissatisfied constituents would hold derelict members to account for their stewardship. But one point in all the argument struck us with more force than all others, and that was that the present system was one of "taxation without representation." This fact cannot be denied, that, practically, the Legislature is a body that represents but a very small portion of the material wealth of the State.

Many of the gentlemen admitted that the present system of taxation was not exorbitant, but the assessments were outrageously disproportionate and unjust, and that taxes were, in many instances, ten times as high as they ought to be. This arises from the incompetency of the assessors, few of whom actually know anything about the value of property, and many more being governed more by personal spite than by a desire to do justice. This is no doubt true to a great extent.

These were the two principal points discussed, although others were incidentally mentioned. We are highly gratified with the many and dignified positions taken by General McGowan and Colonel Fair, and while we have no particular objections to offer to the remarks of any one of the gentlemen present, we regard the stand taken by the two gentlemen named as pre-eminently just and dignified.

The meeting had no political significance whatever, for politics were not mentioned, except incidentally, during the entire conference. That the meeting will result in good, there is every reason to believe, as these gentlemen can return to their homes impressed with the belief that the Governor really desires to protect the interests of all classes of citizens, irrespective of party lines.

That there are certain abuses in the Legislature which must be corrected, there is no one foolish enough to deny; and, so long as these abuses exist, there will always be a fruitful cause for complaint. Most of the gentlemen who took part in the conference returned to their homes yesterday.

BECAUSE A PERSON HAS A BAD Cough it should not be inferred that Consumption has set in, although a case of Consumption is rarely met with unaccompanied by a distressing Cough. Where, however, a disposition to Pulmonary disease exists, a Cough, if left to itself, attacks and racks the lungs, and wastes the general strength, and soon establishes an incurable complaint. In all cases, then, it is the safer plan to get rid of a Cough, Cold or Weakness without delay, and for this purpose no remedy acts more promptly or surely, or with more benefit to the organs of the chest than DR. D. JAYNE'S PLEURO-PNEUMONIC, an article scientifically compounded from carefully selected drugs, and which, on trial, will always be found worthy of its world-wide reputation. Sold by all Druggists.
