The Charleston News.

FRIDAY, MAY 5, 1871.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Kentucky Democratic State Convention has nominated the Hon. P. H. Leslie as a candidate for Governor.

There was but slight hopes of the recovery of Mr. Corcoran, in Washington, yesterday.

Gold closed in New York, yesterday, at 114 1/2.

Cotton closed strong at 15 1/2, with sales of 6031 bales.

The laborers on the Erie Canal break made a disorderly strike yesterday. Troops have been sent to suppress them.

Ex-Governor Manley, of North Carolina, died at Raleigh, in that State, on Monday, aged seventy-five.

William Henry Harrison Holden, brother of ex-Governor Holden, has been elected mayor of Raleigh, N. C., by the Democrats.

The Berliners are hoping that the German army will make its entry into Berlin in May or June, instead of August.

The Catholics of Canton, in China, are building a vast cathedral in that city, which is at once a marked feature of the landscape and a sign of the times.

Mr. J. D. Barrow, a New York artist, we learn from the Evening Post, has upon his easel a view of the country home of Mr. Richard Lathers, near New Rochelle, N. Y.

The New York Herald of Monday says: Laura Keane returned to this city on April 27, with her company. The travelling troupe was a great failure. Nearly all her company came home without receiving their full salary.

The Washington Chronicle of Tuesday says: "Senator Sawyer will not return to South Carolina until after the adjournment of the special session of the Senate. He left last evening on a brief visit to New York."

Two American ladies, accompanied by a near male relative, recently made the overland trip by sledges from the Okhotsk Sea across Siberia to St. Petersburg, a distance of 7000 miles.

The brain, according to Liebig, is altered chemically by every atom of opium taken into the stomach, and a new train of vital actions must follow this change in chemical composition and minute organization.

It is stated that when signing the deficiency bill, the President, announced his great regret at being compelled to approve of the appropriation for the Sisters' Hospital in South Carolina, stating that he would have vetoed it but for the sake of the other ladies.

Ex-President Andrew Johnson is to come before the public once more as an orator, having been chosen by and consenting to deliver an address on "Mechanical Skill and Industry, under a mechanic's fur in Nashville, on the last Saturday in May."

At the annual meeting of the cotton buyers and brokers of Memphis, a motion was adopted by which a committee of three was appointed to take measures that will hasten the assimilation of cotton samples or types throughout the Union.

In comparing simple with compound interest, it is found that money will double itself through the former medium in 14 1/2 years, by calculating it at seven per cent., but compounded at the same rate the same amount will be doubled in 10 1/2 years.

Developments indicate that the workings of the International Association of Working-men of Europe are controlled in London, where the federal council sits, and it is shrewdly surmised that the existing Paris Communal movement is directed from the English capital.

Count Moltke, with an eye to military business, has given notice to the French Government that he will have all the French occupied provinces "flooded with a line of fortifications, to guarantee against attack, until the indemnity is fully paid, and a regular government firmly established in France."

The Paris women whose husbands are in the ranks are denouncing to the authorities those who have deserted themselves at home to shrink duty. The wives of the latter naturally take up the quarrel, and the labouring was lately the scene of a most ludicrous hair-pulling fight between the two factions.

General Von der Tann, the Bavarian General who was prominent with his corps in the operations against the French army of the Loire, has turned up as furnishing the information that the Paris Commune offered to him, personally, 2,000,000 francs if he would deliver to them Fort Charanton.

Ladies who have been ruining their front hair by cutting it short and crimping it are in a state of terrible agitation over the dreadful rumors concerning next summer's style of coiffure. It is said, and with a show of authority, that the mode of wearing the hair is to be on the Greek model, the front hair drawn back and all twisted into a loose knot at the back of the head.

A letter from George T. Downing, the well known colored oysterman, and long-time Congressional censor, is printed in the New York Herald, which aptly terms it a "Bivouac Boomerang." It shrewdly exposes the hollowness of the Radical professions regarding the colored men, for whom, Mr. Downing says, it is painfully evident there is a lack of due respect on the part of the Republican party.

There are so many contradictory reports regarding the possible action of the Prussians in connection with the French civil war, that it is difficult to decide what course they will pursue. An officer of the Prussian staff, at St. Denis, states, however, that Prussia will not allow the Commune to enjoy its triumph, even should it gain a victory. The day of its success will be marked by foreign intervention, the object of which will be the re-establishment of a stable government.

A practical step in the direction of the universal republic, democratic and social, has been taken in Paris. A commission has been instituted to examine into the condition of the factories and workshops of that city, abandoned by their owners, and to report upon the measures necessary for their re-establishment in working order under the auspices of the co-operative working-men's society. A jury is also to be formed whose duty it will be to settle with the masters the terms of cessation of the factories to the workmen's societies, and also the amount of indemnity which is to be paid.

A Washington dispatch, of Tuesday, to the New York Evening Post, says: "There is considerable activity in political circles to-day, in consequence of the expressed intention of Grant's Butler and Banks to oppose, with all the vigor they command, the ratification of the treaty which the President will send to the Senate embodying the conclusions reached by the joint high commissioners. Both gentlemen are dissatisfied with the result reached on the fishery and Alabama claims questions. Believing that the concessions made by the United States are too great and not for the best interests of this country. The fact that they intend to oppose the acceptance of the treaty causes much comment in Administration circles."

The Meeting of Taxpayers.

We hope that the meeting of the taxpayers of Charleston County, called to assemble in the Hibernian Hall, at noon to-day, will be very fully attended. Business should not be allowed to keep any solid citizen away. The purpose of the meeting—to choose two delegates to represent Charleston County in the Convention at Columbia, on Tuesday next—is one that concerns us all; and all taxpayers, without regard to party, should make it a point to be present. At the same time, it should be remembered that none but taxpayers are invited.

Monstrous Paradoxes.

Radicalism everywhere, and in all things, has a tendency, in its last analysis, to run into contradictions at once monstrous and absurd. To point the moral of this assertion, by attempting to specify a title of the multitudinous proofs, would be to exhaust more than the space at our command, and more patience than the average reader possesses. We propose, however, to furnish some striking exemplifications abroad and at home.

At this moment in unhappy France there is a word of fatal significance which the electric telegraph has rendered a household jargon—and that word is "Commune." It typifies, so to speak, a Radicalism purely Gallic, and claims to be founded upon the rights of man. Like all decided monstrosities, it is harder to reconcile with itself than anything else. Its cardinal doctrines are very fine upon paper; but its overt acts are in flagrant violation of its dogma. The Commune protests against a standing army. But the very first thing the Commune raised was a standing army. The Commune holds that conscription is one of the worst of crimes against the citizen. But the Commune has been swift in adopting this very crime and merciless in exacting its rigorous fulfillment. The Commune sounds vociferously the praises of a free press. But the Commune has taken by the throat every audacious journalist who spoke ever so mildly in contravention of schemes of rapine and outrage. The Commune is directed against the union of Church and State. But the church, innocent of partnership in the aggression of the State, has been warned upon its holy edifices pillaged, its priests slain or mutilated, and its chief prelate compelled, during passion week, to travesty the sufferings of the Redeemer of mankind. The Commune proclaims a universal peace. But the Commune has no existence, save in riot and death, while its red flag never waves where the tri-color has flown, and its folds have been dyed, not in the gore of the Prussian, but in the blood of Frenchmen. The Commune believes in universal equality. But the Commune is ruled by men more imperious than Napoleon. The Commune orders that the levelling principle shall be applied to property. But the Commune, when it has its way, gorges itself upon stolen goods and grows bloated with pride and spoils by beggaring the rich. The Commune, in a word, is grand only in pretence and theory, and monstrous in its deeds. The honest sentiment of the world is conclusive against it; and nothing causes outsiders to reprobate and loathe it more than the shocking discrepancy which exists between its preaching and its practice.

It is a wonderful fact that nowhere in the realm of journalism is this Commune so held up to popular execration as in the columns of the Radical press of the United States. We say this is a wonderful fact; for what the Commune is to Paris, in a small degree, the Radical party is to the United States in a vast degree. We hold that the sins of the Commune abroad are trifling peccadilloes compared with the crimes of our American Commune; and that the French paradox is rather venial in its way when laid alongside of its bulky Yankee congener. We confess that when we approach the demonstration of this statement we are agitated at the magnitude of the labor, the embarrassing richness of the material, and the proofs that could be piled mountain-high to dwarf the mole-hill of Banquo's insignificant Commune. We will not dwell upon a war for a Union which ends in the most direst disaster, and a struggle for a constitution which eventuates in the worse than overthrow of that sacred instrument—since the sword has found its way to the bowels of both Union and Constitution. We will not particularly pause upon a citation of every horrible atrocity perpetrated in the names of Union and Constitution by the murderers of both. We may omit even to specially brand with infamy the policy of a party which, in the name of universal emancipation, makes lords of ignorant, servile and inferior negroes, in order to browbeat, humiliate, impoverish and enslave their own white brethren. Even the application of the test of judging a people whose God is a monkey, may not be carried to the legitimate parallel of condemning a dominant faction whose hero is a Grant and whose divinity is a Butler—the inevitable sequences, perhaps, of the Darwinian exeresis. All these must be sketched, but need not, at this time, be elaborately discussed. To narrow the subject down to the daily-paper point, let us take Mr. Senator Sumner as an exponent of the better class and less knavish Radicalism; and measured by this standard, let us see how much less odious is the local Commune of Paris than the Commune of the United States, which, banyan-like, covers an area that makes Paris look like a wart. To recapitulate all the incongruities of Mr. Sumner would consume too much time and printer's ink. We need not go back to the time when he swore to observe the constitution "with mental reservation;" or even to the day when his separated spouse is said to have expressed regrets that the case of Preston Brooks was not made of stronger material. We bear to lift the dismal veil which lies between the extremes above mentioned—the extremes of constructive perfidy and absolute lack of true unswerving. We will regard him from the recent period which marked the delivery of his notorious attack upon President-General Grant's Santo Domingo jobbery. That Mr. Sumner justly arraigned the President, so far as jobbery was concerned, may be true; but it is equally true that the crazy and splendorous rubbish was well calculated, in some respects, to invite "the reign of loafers, blackguards and visionaries." In that Santo Domingo speech Senator Sumner begged ever so sesquipedalianly that the election about to occur in that mongrel island should be absolutely free. He likewise collaterally denounced the presence of soldiers at the polls. The burden of that speech was, in brief, in its better aspects, a ponderous protest against usurpation of power on the part of the President, so far as it touched the case of a horde of negroes and mulattoes in a foreign island. So much was the bile of Sumner stirred that he did not hesitate to apply to the Executive a nick-name which must have been a galling insult, viz: "the head of the San Domingo Ku-Klux!" But after Mr. Sumner's beautiful theories in behalf of alien negroes were expended, how did he immediately afterward act when his own white countrymen were at the bar of the Senate? He acted as Radicalism ever acts when the visionary fanatic is beset by the plunderer and the knave, who have risen upon the revolutionary wave to the solid land of dominance and empire. Mr. Sumner excoriated the Force Bill when it threatened an island in the Caribbean Sea tenanted by a rabble of blacks. But Mr. Sumner praised a Force Bill, a thousand-fold worse, which menaced the happiness, the honor, the lives, the property and liberties of the people of the United States, North as well as South. Mr. Sumner lashed the President-General for a feeble usurpation of power, in the one case; but Mr. Sumner was eager to confer unlimited despotic authority on the same dangerous man, in the other case. Mr. Sumner deemed it a horrible atrocity that our war ships should ever hint at battering down a few negro shanties; but Mr. Sumner actually excels in demolishing the organic law and civic freedom in America. Mr. Sumner fairly howls at disturbing the purity of the ballot in San Domingo; but Mr. Sumner deliberately clothes our "smoky Coosa" with power to re-elect himself military as well as civic dictator, by the utter suppression of the popular will. Mr. Sumner bleeds at every pore when the presence of armed mercenaries is possible at the polling booths of San Domingo; but Mr. Sumner would make every voting precinct in this so-called Republic a fence of bayonets. Mr. Sumner deemed Grant the "head of San Domingo Ku-Klux," and, as such, believed him fit for the halter; but Mr. Sumner has helped constitute this very man a very grand Cyclops against the lives and liberties of millions of his countrymen, and as such pronounces him worthy of a diadem. Verily, the "colossus of ignorance," clad in mail, has triumphed immeasurably over the "colossus of gas," girt about with frothy verbiage, self-conceit and hideous paradoxes.

PREVENTIVE MEDICATION.—A radical change has been introduced in the practice of medicine. Physicians have ceased to torture and prostrate their patients. Instead of pulling down, they build up instead of assuming nature, they assist her. Gurgling, leeching, blood-letting, emetics, calomel, antimony, stimulating narcotics, and rasping purgatives; once the favorite resources of the faculty, and now rarely resorted to, are by the most dogmatic members of the profession. The old creed was that disease was something which must be expelled by violent artificial means, irrespective of the wear and tear of the vital organization in the process. The new creed recognizes the improvement of the general health as essential to the cure of all local ailments. Hence it is that HOSPIETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, the most potent vegetable tonic that pharmacy has ever brought to the assistance of nature in her struggles with disease, has been cordially approved by practitioners of the modern school. It is plain to reflect that reason and philosophy have at last been victorious over the errors of the past, and that thousands and tens of thousands of human beings are alive and well to-day who would undoubtedly be mouldering in their graves had they been subjected to the pills and penicils which were deemed orthodox and indisputable thirty or forty years ago.

Preventive medication was scarcely thought of then; but now it is considered of paramount importance, and the celerity of the standard lavage, emetic, alterative and restorative of the age, (a title which HOSPIETTER'S BITTERS have fairly earned by their long career of success,) is manifestly due to its efficacy as a protective preparation.

A course of the Bitters is urgently recommended as a safe and certain antidote to intermittent and remittent fevers, diarrhoea, dysentery and other maladies. apr29-6pac
