Spirits Turpentine.—For the week just ended the market for this article has ruled less firm, and the price has declined fully 3 cents—last sales being at 45 cents per gallon. This figure, however, factors do not seem disposed to accept, and it is generally held higher. The advices from abroad are unfavorable, and buyers are unwilling at present to operate to any extent.

ROSIN.—Since the close of our last review the market for the lower and medium grades has ruled very dull, and prices are lower. Shippers have mostly withdrawn from market, and to effect sales a further concession in price will have to be submitted to. For the finer qualities of pate there has been a moderate inquiry, and parcels when offered have been generally taken at about last week's, prices. Receipts are small both by river and rail, and there is very little stock in factors' hands, but the scarcity of shipping has the effect to check operations.

TAR.—The market has generally ruled quiet for this article, and the price shows a decline of 20c—closing, however, with more inquiry from shippers. The week's receipts are only 235 bbls, which sold as follows: 110 bbls at $2.63, and 150 bbls at $2.63, and 160 bbls at $2.63, COTTON MARKETS.

The DIAMOND GLASSES, manufactured by J. E. SPENCER & CO., Tew York, which are now offered to the public, are pronounced by all the celebrated Opticians of the world to be the most Perfect, Natural Artificial heb to the human eye ever known. They are grount under their own supervision, from minute Crystal Pebbles, melted together, and derive their name. "Diamond," on account of their hardness and brilliancy.

The scientific principle on which they are constructed brings the core or centre of the lens directly in front of the eye, producting a clear and distinct vision, as in the natural, healthy sight, and preventing allumplessant sensations, such as glimmering and wavering of sight, dizziness, &c., peculiar to all others in use.

They are moutted in the finest manner, in trames of the best quality, of all materials used for that purpose. Their finish and durability cannot be surpassed.

Caution.—None genuine unless bearing their trade mark stamped on every frame.

Miscellaneous.

The publishers beg to call the attention of those about forming classes in Botany to the well-known works by Professor Gray. Having been carefully revised, they present the latest and most accurate principles and developments of the science, and it is sufficient indorsement of them to state that they are used in almost every noted College, High School and Seminary in the country, and are recommended over other series by nine-tenths of the leading Professors and Botanical Teachers in the United States.

No author has yet approached Professor Gray in the rare art of making purely scientific theories and dry details popular and interesting. From his charming elementary work "How Plants Grow," to his more elaborate "Manual," there is one simple, concise and yet exhaustive method of teaching the various grades of the study.

Descriptive Circulars, giving full titles and prices, will be forwarded by mail, so any address, on application.
