The Cotton Exchange of New Orleans issued its report on the 1st of September, and its

The Liverpool circular of Watts & Co., of August 16th, says:

The supply of American here and at sea now amounts to only 366,800 bales, and if we assume the deliveries of this description for the next ten weeks at 30,000 bales per week—against 34,762 bales per week during the past six weeks, and 40,282 since 1st January last—it would leave us with a stock of only 66,800 bales on 38th October next plus what we may it would leave us wifn a stock of only 66,800 bales on 26th October next, plus what we may get from America in addition to the shipments not at sea. The stock of American here on 27th October last year was 75,660 bales, and in the four weeks following that date it was reduced to 38,250 bales, and this, too, notwith-starding the shipments from America last fall were almost exclusively to this port, owing to the way then rading between France and to the war then raging between France and Germany. True, the trade have got a large stock of cotton, which is largely composed of American, and our exportation is likely to be American, and our exportation is likely to be very small; it is, therefore, possible that our deliveries may not, for the next ten weeks, reach an average of 30,000 bales per week; but in any event, it seems quite certain the low grades of American will all be wanted before the close of November, and that the trade are more likely to run upon these than adjust their machinery to work Surats during a temporary scarcity of the better grades of American.

It was generally supposed that there would be an immense stock of cotton on hand when the new crop commenced rolling in. The suppositic was not a correct one. Cotton of the better grades is already scarce at manufacturing points, and it requires the wildest cort of aminagination to figure up a crop in this country of over 3,000,000 bales, and the indications point to even a less amount than that. Our readers will see that it is strong in New York and Liverpool with upward tendency, and if the planters can hold on to their crops they stand a fair chance of receiving a much higher price than is now ruling.

THE CROPS IN THE STATE.

About fifteen bales of new cotton have been sold in Winnsboro'. The crop of the county will not reach the half of an average. Abbeville.

The Press and Banner says: "From pres ent indications the cotton crop will be ready for market at least two weeks earlier than usual. The planters are in a much better con-dition man usual, from the fact that fewer of them have gone in debt for supplies this year than any year since the war." than any year since the war." Kershaw.

Kershaw.

The Camden Journal say3: "For the season of the year, it is very dry. Complaints come to us from all about the county that rain is much needed. Cotton is opening fast, and so are the thieves upon it. A quantity of seed cotton has been already sold in town, and we have heard of one gentleman who was compelled, in self-defence, to gather his entire crop of corn, which was being rapidly stolen in the field."

THE CHARLESTON REPUBLICAN.

Its Announcement of Its Own Demise [From the Charleston Republican, Sept. 8.] We are obliged to inform our readers that with to-day's issue we suspend the publication of the Daily Republican. It is unnecessary for is to say with what regret we make this an-nouncement. The regret is no less because for some time we have anticipated the coming of the period when we would have to say these words to the public. We would gladly also avoid saying anything of the causes make this suspension necessary if we could do so consistently with our duty to ourselves and to the Republican party. In brief, then, this paper dies because the Republican Ad-ministration at Columbia wills its death. It is no secret to any one who has been inside Republican politics that this paper has not been a favorite with our administration dur-ing the past year or more. One man says it is we are too decent, another that we

because we are too decent, another that we are not Radical enough, &c., &c., but the real secret of the dislike is that we have refused to be the medium for gratifying the petty spite and personal hatred of individuals, or the really tool of those who would use the State Government for the purpose solely of advancing their own pecuniary and political interests. We now tell our friends, both in the State and outside of it, who from time to time have spoken good words of us, and wished us long life, that for our death Governor Scott, and those who along with him control the patronage of the government, are solely responsible. We have along with him control the patronage of the government, are solely responsible. We have never asked a favor which we had not a right to ask; indeed, we have not asked favors at all, but have simply insisted that the government in the distribution of its patronage should not forget that we who had borne the heat and burden of the day, and who had parent field in support of purchase government. heat and burden of the day, and who had never falled in support of purely governmen-tal measures, however much we may have shrunk from supporting schemes concocted for the aggrandizement of individuals, were entitled to a full share of that patronage in virtue of our position as a journal represent-ing and advocating Republican principles and leasures. We do not speak to serve any personal ends to-day. To our personal interests it can make but very little difference whether the paper lives or dies, but Republicans throughout the State, to whom this paper has come to be a necessity, have a right to know whether any threst which has been done it by those who occurs. njustice has been done it by those who occupy injustice has been done it by those who occupy places of power and trust.

Since the adjournment of the Legislature, the patronage of the government has been freely given to Democratic papers, and the work done has been paid for. We make no special objection to this, although it is not customary for political parties to keep their enemies alive and in full vigor, by feeding them. We have not only not had our share of public patronage, but for the work we have done, payment has been refused. We underderstand this perfectly well to be punishment for our sins—the sin of opposing the Greenville Railroad swindle for example—but we want that the Republican party should also want that the Republican party should also

We do not say that since we have conducted this paper we have never done injustice to any one in its columns, but we do say that we have never consciously or wilfully done so. We say further, that we have uniformly conducted it, as we believe, in the interest of the whole Republican party, and not in the interest of any faction within it.

In doing this we probably have frequently failed to measure men by their own standard, or that of their more intimate personal friends; we may have failed to praise men who thought they deserved praise, and we doubtless have idemned men and measures when they and their friends thought them both worthy of com-mendation. But these faults, if faults they be, would, with men who have any higher aims than the gratification of their own selfish am-bition, have entitled us to praise and support. This support we have not received, and therefore we are compelled to suspend publi-cation for the present. It may be that we will be able to resume after awhile, or, if we do not, that some other Republican journal will take our place. There never was a time when an independent, outspoken Republican paper was more needed in the State than now, and we trust the people will not be long without one. For ourselves, in looking back over the past with all our short-comings, we think we have no reason to be ashamed of our work; and we close to-day with the assurance that we have the respect, not only of the Republican party at large, but of a goodly number of the opposite party also.

CRIME IN THE STATE.

Attempted Robbery and Outrage in York.

Two men in disguise visited the house of a negro man, near Yorkville, last week, and demanded his money. The demand was refused, and the robbers decamped. Two white men—John Benfield and Romulus Hoffer—were charged with the outrage. Hoffer was arrested, and found to be innocent; but he implicated Benfield and a man named Bennett. On the same light two men results true house of the same night, two men went to the house of Miles Watson, a negro man, and attempted to outrage his wife. The new Lucretia cut Tarquin with an axe, and drove the scoundrels away. It is believed that the pair were Bennett and Benfield, as the latter received on the night in question a wound in the arm.

THE CRIME OF ABORTION.

NEW YORK, September 6. NEW YORK, Septemoer 6.

Judge Bedford to-day, at the opening of the September term of the Court of General Sessions, delivered a lengthy charge to the grand jury. He said the people looked to the authoritles to stem the current of crime, which now jeoparded the safety of citizens. Let them not look in vain. Having referred to the mysterious trunk case, he said the sad victim of treachery and deception, in a moment of fran-tic despair, gave herself up and was murdered by an abortionist. Of late, he added, we have by an abortionist. Of late, he added, we have been living as it were in an atmosphere of abortion. The air was heavy with the dark deeds of these traffickers in human life. He hoped that the Legislature, at its next session, would declare abortion to be murder in the first degree, punishable with death, instead of manslaughter, in the second degree. The charge was applauded by the audience.

New York, September 8.
The coroner's verdict is that Miss Post came The coroner's verdict is that Miss Post came to her death by inhuman treatment at the hands of Dr. Perry and Madame Van Buskirk; further that Peter K. Post, Sr., and P. K. Post, Jr., and Minerva Post, in placing their daughter and eister in the hands of a known abortionist, are guilty of an unnatural outrage, evincing deprayed minds utterly regardless of their natural duty. The Posts were held as witnesses, and Dr. Perry and Madame Van Buskirk for the action of the grand lury.

THE POINTS AGAINST ROSENZWEIG.—The following are the points thus far established against Rosenzweig, the abortionist: The discovery of the dead body with unmistakable incovery of the dead body with unmistakable in-dications that an abortion had been commit-ted; the removal of the trunk containing the remains from the house of Rosenzweig, on 2d avenue; the identification of Rosenzweig by the truckman as his assistant in transferring the trunk from the basement to the truck; the identification of the remains by the Paterson physicians; the discovery of the sash and physicians; the discovery of the sash and marked handkerchiefs in Rosenzweig's house; the identification of the clothes in the trunk by the servant; Rosenzweig's application to the undertaker on Saturday morning to bury a servant girl; Rosenzweig's bad character, suspicious practice and numerous aliases.

A STUNNING STATEMENT.

THE PEOPLE OF SPARTANRURG VER-SUS MR. SENATOR SCOTT.

Question of Veracity-Shall we have Martial Law !- Horace Greelev Comes to the Rescue-A Demand for Further

NEW YORK, September 8. The Tribune this morning says, editorially: "A question of veracity has arisen in South Carolina as to the authenticity of the statements concerning Ku-Klux outrages, made in Senator Scott's letter to the President. Several prominent officials join issue with the assertions and affidavits in the document. Among these are one or two United States officials, who are supposed to be impartial witnesses. As the matter in dispute involves so grave a consideration as the proclamation of martial law in South Carolina, this counterstatement makes it obvious that a turther investigation of Senator Scott's charges should be made before decisive steps are taken."

Chancellor Key, to-day, on application of the attorneys for the State of Alabama, gave a hat turning the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad and rolling stock, in Tennessee, over Rairoad and rolling stock, in Tennessee, over to John H. Gindrar, the receiver, of Alabama, as receiver of the court. In his decision, the chancellor stated that if the property of the road, in charge of a receiver of another State was attached within his jurisdiction, he would release the property, and he expected a like amity and comity from the courts of other States. Gindrat gave a bond signed by Governor Lindsay, of Alabama, for three hundred thousand dollars, and is now in possession of the road, rolling stock, machine shops and depots of the Alaba-ma and Chattanooga Raiiroad in Tennessee. The only obstacle now to the running of the road are attachments in Dade County, Ga. An application for a receiver, similar to that just decided, will be heard by Judge Parrott, Just decided, with be neard by Jidge Parrott, at Trenton, Ga., September 19, and will undoubtedly be decided in a similar manner, so that trains may be expected to run on the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad by September 30 tember 20.

An affray between Catholics and Protestants occurred yesterday at Portadown, Ireland. No

He is also sure that an air-pipe can be placed along the bank of the canal between Albany and Buffalo, extending the entire distance, and at every ten miles attached to reservoirs, to be constructed as ordinary cylinder boilers, and of such capacity as to supply the propelling boats with that ordinary cylinder bollers, and of such capacity as to supply the propelling boats with their
