THE COTTON QUESTION.

AN ENGLISH VIEW -- SUPPLY, CON-SUMPTION AND PRICES.

The Latest Liverpool Circular of Smith, Edwards & Co.

The following extracts from the cotton circular of Messrs. Smith, Edwards & Co., of L' erpool, dated August 31, are full of interest for

The prospects of our market are at present sasociated in a very close degree with the progress of the American crop and the opinions entertained regarding its condition. The late unfavorable rumors have revived the anxiety of the trade, and they look with uneasiness upon our fast-diminishing stock, and are extensive englished to all news reaching as from upon our fast diminishing stock, and are ex-tremely sensitive to all news reaching us from America. There is no doubt that public opin-ion has lately veered round a little upon the ion has lately veered round a little upon the subject of the growing crop. During July and most of August no weather accounts reached us, except such as were highly favorable, and the idea became prevalent on both sides of the Atlantic that the great damage most repaired, and that the crop was really flourishing. The large decrease in the area planted, of which we heard so much in June, retreated into the background; estimates of retreated into the background; estimates of the probable or possible yield kept steadily ad-vancing, till 3½ to 3½ millions became perhaps

Of late there have been several less favorable accounts. The worm has made its appearance in some of the cotton States, and travellers recently returned report that the plant is small and backward, and that the plant is small and backward, and that the yield cannot possibly equal or nearly equal the acreable product of last year. They further report the reduced area is fully as large as was stated early in the season, and lead us to believe that a very heavy reduction on last year's crop is a certainty—probably a million of bales, or about twenty-five per cent. There are others again who stoutly resist this view, and hold that the crop is doing very well upon are others again who stoutly resist this view, and hold that the crop is doing very well upon the whole, and speak of even 4,000,000 as possible, it the picking season is as fine as last year, and three millions and three quarters as evite probable.

quite probable.
We are sorry to say that our judgment upon the whole does not incline to the more favors ble view. The various information put before us points in the direction of a short crop. We are convinced that there is a very considerable decrease in area under cotton, and we do do think the condition of the plant is nearly as good as it was at this time last year. Our view is that it will need a very good season hence-forth to give a crop of three and a half mil-lions, and should there be a bad picking sea-

, or serious damage from worms, the posi-n would be a very critical one. We do not nink that much barm as yet has been done from worms, nor do we think that the condition has altered materially for the worst during the past fortnight; but we are not of opinion that there ever was reason to take a very fa-vorable view of the crop, and we fear that the effect of the good weather was somewhat ex-checked, and it runs so heavily and persistently upon American that it is a matter of cerently upon American that it is a maker of cer-tainty we will be pinched during October and November. Indeed, it is impossible that the trade can long continue their present con-sumption of about 58,000 bales weekly of that description, for if the total deliveries, including export, from now to the end of the year are kept down to 30,000 bales per week, there cannot be 100,000 bales in stock during November. This raises the question of stocks held by the trade, which was so much discussed some time ago, and we are enabled to lay be some time ago, and we are enabled to lay before our readers a statement on that subject that may prove interesting. About the middle of August we had inquiries made at all the important manufacturing tewns, and returns obtained of the quantities of cotton held at the carriers' depots, and we found that the total was 108,000 bales, of which 45,000 bales were held in Manchester. If to this be added about 20,000 bales as a rough estimate of the many small points where there are a few scattered mills from which we could not obtain returns, we may estimate with tolerable exactreturns, we may estimate with tolerable exactexclusive of what is at their mills, is 130,000 bales, or a little over two weeks' consumption. We look upon this as the surplus stock, allowing what is kept at the mills as a working stock, and the quantity is certain ly less than was generally imagined, and proves that the consumption has been ex-tremely large. At one time we thought 58,000 bales a week a full estimate, but we think it must have rather exceeded that figure, and as yet there is no sign of abatement, but rather the opposite, as new machinery is being fast put up.

It is evident, therefore, that consumption has overtaken supply this year in a way that seems scarcely credible, and notwithstanding that scarcely credible, and notwithstanding that Europe will receive a surplus of more than a million bales over 1870, there will apparently be hardly any surplus stock visible in England, and not much on the continent, at the end of and not much on the continent, at the end of the year. The argument, therefore, jumps to the lips of every one, how can the consumption be supplied next year if the American crop is three-quarters of a million less? And it is difficult to answer it, except by granting that consumption must be somewhat restricted by high prices. At the same time it must be borne in mind that the continent will not have the same absorbing nower next year. An have the same absorbing power next year. An immense vacuum had to be filled up this year. All the stocks, both at the mills and commer-All the stocks, both at the mills and commercial depots, were run out at the beginning of the year, and these have been most amply replenished, so that only actual consumption must be fed next year. Our own spinners and those in America are also unusually well stocked, and some portion of those stocks will no doubt be carried into next year, and if American cotton is to rule at 9a 10d, per pound, in place of 7a8d:, there will be various little enconomies practiced, which can scarcely be specified in detail, but which tell in the aggregate. Altogether, we are inclined to believe that a crop of three and a half millions will carry us through next season without severe scarcity, though at a pretty high level of price; should the crop unfortunately fall below that, there will be considerable annoyance to the trade, and probably for some time dangerously high prices, and it is ble annoyance to the trade, and probably for some time dangerously high prices, and it is much to be hoped in the interests of sound trade that there will be a favorable picking season, and no additional cause of uneasi-season, and no additional cause of uneasiness.

Surat cotton keeps relatively cheap, and it will likely do so for a good while yet; for spinners will orly resort to it slowly and reluctantly as they are driven off. American from its dearness. It is probable that most spinners will pay an extra price for American for two or three months rather than impair the present high quality of their yarn or risk trouble with their operatives. Later in the year we may expect some revival of export demand, and this will help to carry off the liberal supply of East India cotton we will have on the market the next two or three months.

The following are the principal conditions of the treaty made between Russia and Prussia, at Versaillee, early in this year. Should war involve Austria, by intervention or otherwise. Pussla was to act with Germany, furnishing a specified number of troops and ships. The powers were to make peace only on the following terms: Austria was to renounce in favor of Germany all Bohemia, Moravia, Silesia, and the Duchy of Salzburg. Austria was to renounce in tavor of Russia the provinces of Gallicia and Dalmatia. When those changes became accomplished facts, Russia was to cede to Germany five towns and harbors on the Baltic Sea, and a part of Courland, and Prussia was to regard the treaty of Paris null, pledge herself to armed participation to con-quests in the East, with a force equal to Russla, and to a subsequent partition of conquer-ed territory. In the Assembly to-day a message from President Thiers was read. Thiers says the members have well earned a suspension of their arduous labors. He promises, in the meantime, to work incessantly for the reorganization of the country, and frankly asks the deputies to ascertain from their constituents at home whether the country wishes for reconstruction based on the glorious traditions of a thousand years, or for the abandonment of the ship of State to the torrent leading to an unknown future. In brief, whether the people want a monarchy or a republic. The message was coolly received, and some passages were greeted with laughter. The Assembly then proceeded to discuss, and finally adopted, a bill providing for the prorogation of the session from 17th September until 4th December. The main feature of the bill is the appointment of a committee of twenty-five to control the government during the recess.

THE WEATHER AND THE CROPS.

Newberry.

The Herald says: "Farmers are picking cotton as fast as it opens, but not with the viminat a better prospect would give them. The fact is evident that the crop will be light, perhaps a half, some say less. Some fields after first picking, it is said, need not be gone over again, the rains having caused a shed. The seasons are fine now for everything but cotton. More rain is falling. Notwithstanding the probable short crop of cotton, we believe that there will be more money in the county this fall than there was the last, and that it will be more freely spent. And the reason is plain: last year farmers were in debt largely for fertilizers; this year they have used but little, and that in most cases was paid for in cash, and likewise have they been paying pretty generally, we believe, all through the year, for the supplies needed for farm operations. Therefore we maintain they will be better off even with their short crop, and we look ter off even with their short crop, and we look for a lively trade this fall."

Darlington.

The Southerner says: "Our farmers, availing themselves of the unusually fine weather, are busily engaged in picking cotton and preparing it for market. They expect to get the most of the crop in by the first of November, and should the fine weather continue a large amount will be ready for sale within the next two or three weeks. The prevailing estimate of the cotton crop puts it at one-half, but as it is rapidly opening, the sales of the next two months will probably be as heavy as those of months will probably be as heavy as those of the corresponding months of last year."

MAYOR HALL DEMANDS CONNOLLY'S RESIGNATION -- A TART REPLY.

The Mysterious Robbery of the Comptroller's Office.

The crisis of the New York City ring seems to be approaching. The mysterious "robbery" of the comptroller's office, heretofore reported; the missing vouchers of 1870, and the suspicion that the "robbery" was after ail not a robbery, but a bold expedient to defeat the ends of justice-all tend to hasten the denouement. We give below the full correspondence between Mayor Hall and Comptroller Connolly, already briefly reported by telegraph :

CONNOLLY REQUESTED TO RESIGN. Late Monday night the tollowing official letter, dated at the Mayor's office the same evening, was sent by Mayor Hall to Comptroller R. B. Connolly, asking that official to resign. The Mayor says :

"I have just been informed by the superintendent of police that late last night the officer of the finance department were secretly invaded, and that as a consequence thereof valuvaded, and that as a consequence thereof valuable vouchers, evidences of payment, and cancelled warrants, together representing a large amount of discharged city liabilities, are alleged by some of your subordinates to have then diappeared. The superintendent and the Mayor immediately had a full conversation regarding the means of investigating the units. garding the means of investigating the unto-ward circumstances of the alleged burglary, and so as to punish the guilty, procure restitution of such papers as may have been taken, and protect the interests of the city, our constituents will have a right to hold you responsible, and in a measure withhold from the finance department desirable public conf-dence. It is impossible not to perceive that the city credit will ander, and in a very critical the city credit will siner, and in a very critical period of the municipal government. With great personal reluctance I officially reached the conclusion that the exigency demands your retirement from the head of the finance department, that I may place there another gentleman who will be enabled to thoroughly investigate its affairs and restore public confidence. I cannot suspend any head of a department not even pending an investigate a department, not even pending an investi-tion. I can only prefer charges to the Com-mon Pleas, who alone can remove after a con-siderable time for trial. I am compelled to throw myself, therefore, as mayor, in this un-expected and sudden emergency, upon your magnanimity, and ask, under the circumstances, for your resignation.

"A. OAKEY HALL, Mayor." COMPTROLLER CONNOLLY DECLINES. The following reply of Comptroller Connolly, dated September 12, addressed to Mayor Hall. was duly forwarded to Mr. Hall :

was duly forwarded to Mr. Hall:

"Your letter of September 11th, asking my resignation as comptroller, was presented to me last night, at 11 o'clock, at an interview sought by myself. Similar verbal requests, from yourselt and others, have been, within the last few weeks, received and declined.
The official source and subject matter of your note, as then read to me, and as published by you in this morning's press, demanded and has received my earnest consideration.

"A criminal abstraction of papers from the finance department seems to be the reason for your letter, so far as any is therein suggested. In common with other city officers, I now stand before the public and our 'constituency' charg-ed with maifeasance in the administration of high trusts so long confided to my care. The legal proceedings wherein such charges are made, and to be substantiated, if at all, is now on hearing before a tearless just tribunal. My answer thereto is before the public, and my complete defence ready to be presented both to that high court, 'our constituents,' and to the citizens of New to be presented both to that high court, our constituents, and to the citizens of New York at large. My counsel has urged, by my wish, a speedy trial and rigid investigation. I am fearless of the result and anxious for the procedure. During the many years of my administration of this office, I have not seen, and fail now to see, any diminution of public confidence; and such a fact would have been readily remarked—nothing being more sensitive to general opinion than financial administration. I beg leave to differ from your Honor in thinking the robbery of my office creates any 'unexpected or sudden emer-Honor in thinking the robbery of my office creates any 'unexpected or sudden emergency.' I am not apprehensive that either yourself or this community will suspect that I am an accomplice in that depredation. I am happy to assure you that it has effected no serious mischiel—the archives of the department contain abstracts of the stolen papers. Whoever planned or executed the crime has reaped no beneft and inflicted no injury upon the public interests. Would not my resignation at this particular time give the advocates of the partisan attacks upon the city government just cause to believe me to plead guilty, not only to participation—at least passive—in the burgiary, but as well to all the charges now made in the legal proceedings? So it seems to me. "My official acts have been supervised and approved by your superior vigilance. So far as my administration is questioned, equal responsibility attaches to yourself. In your answer and affidavit, read in the pending litigation, you have adopted and indicated those acts. You could not justify yourself without so doing. Consequently, I do not perceive why my resig-nation should be asked, or how, if I tendered it, it would have any just influence in appeas-

"Confident, therefore, in the steadfast good opinion of friends, and in the ultimate judgopinion of friends, and in the attitude judg-ment to be rendered by the courts, I cannot consistently, with self-respect, accede to your desire. I am unable to submit myself as a vacarious sacrifice to satisfy the hungry appe-tite of adversaries for a victim, or, at this juncture, and under these peculiar circum-stances, betray weakness of position or fear of typesticion by tendering my resignation.

stances, betray weakness of position of rear of investigation by tendering my resignation. "I cannot now anticipate the effect upon the determination of future efforts. When my past administration shall be vindicated, and pending accusations shall be repelled, I shall not fail to act as may seem to be demanded by the changed circumstances which may then sep9-stuth3 INFLUENCE OF TEMPERATURE ON HEATLH .- In the fall the difference between the temperature of night and day is greater than at any other time of the year. In the early au-tumn the quicksliver sometimes rises as high during the day as in the most fervid summer weather while at night it often sinks to an almost wintry point. The human body not being made of steel or India rubber, sensibly feels these tremendou changes. To fortify the system against them, a genuine tonic is required; and the public has long since discovered that among this description of medicines HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS IS infinitely the best. It gently quickens the circulation, regulates the bowels, tones the liver, bra ces the nerves, and thus puts the whole physique on its defence against the vicissitudes of tempe rature in our climate. As it becomes more and more widely known, and the demand for it increases chills and fever, and the billous remittent seem to recede before it, and if ever it should come into universal use, these diseases would cease to be known as the scourges of our low-lying and marshy districts. That homely bit of proverbial philosophy, that "prevention is better than core," should be especially borne in mind in the autumn months; and indeed in all seasons, together with the fact that, among all the preventives of mala rions disease, Hostett r's Stomach Bitters is the most safe and potent.

Europe as in America, have never tailed to win and retain the condidence of parents and guardians.

Nothing will be left undone in imparting to the pupils confided to their care a thorough education, in the highest sense of the word—not alone instructing the intellect, but with maternal care building an I training the heart.

The situation of the Convent is all that can be desired for health and beauty. The buildings are on elevated ground, about two miles from the Capital, and in the midst of an oak grove of twenty acres. It is within half an hour's drive from the depot, where omnibusses and baggage wagons await the arrival of passengers.

No distinction of religion will be made in the admission of pupils, nor will any undue induence be used over their religious principles; but, for the maintenance of good order, all will be required to attend the exercises of Divine Worship prescribed for the Academy.

From individuais or societies disposed to ald in the education of young ladies, applications for the admission of pupils, at reduced terms, will receive the most favorable consideration that the circumstances of the sohol will admit.

The Scholastic Year is divided into two Scession—the first commencing September 1st, and ending July 1st.
