LIVELY TIMES IN THE COURTHOUSE SQUARE.

T. J. Mackey "Goes for" The News-What Came of It-Hernandez on the Rampage-His Collision with Trial Justice Levy, &c.

"The pursuit of knowledge under difficulties" is a phrase almost daily brought home to the mind of every newspaper man. The News was yesterday favored, in the person of a member of its city staff, with unusual attentions. Items were scarce, and it was with a Micawber-like confidence that something must turn up that our reporter wended his way upon the usual rounds. The Guardhouse gave but a slim scintellation of clubs and stars, and the Detective office seemed still less promising. There the despondent knight of the quill was encountered by Detective Her nandez, who, with an oath, declared that THE NEWS should get no items in that office while he was officer of the day, and that the books should not be inspected. Having already seen them, our reporter turned to leave, when Hernandez swore that if he came in there again he would put him out, and made a motion that suggested the execution of his threat. An incimation that such an attempt might be dangerous, kept the officera, a distance, and he vented his rage in a parting volley of abuse.

The day had begun to wane when the same reporter was chatting with Lieutenant Chapman, of the Police force, near the west pillar the Guardhouse front. During the conversation, the irate Thomas Jefferson Mackey came striding down from the direction of his office, and without looking to the right or to the left joined a knot of men who were gathered in front of the Guardhouse entrance, and men Collins and Wall. Our reporter had finished talking with Lieutenant Chapman and was quietly walking along under the Guardhouse porch, when Mackey stepped out from among his friends and brandishing a huge bludgeon, which with characteristic modesty he terms a walking cane, said, "Sir, you are the author of a scurrilious piece in this morning's NEWS, which I denounce as"-. A glance at the throat of the infuriated justice was sufficient to indicate the piece alluded to, and before the sentence was rounded off in the usual melodramatic style of the speaker, our reporter was testing the strength of his umbrella upon the person of his | charged on examination. assailant. The casual weapon broke at the first blow, and left nothing but a recourse to those furnished by nature. The Hero of the Handkerchief receded, and forgetful of his stick, began to tug at something in his back, and soon the butt of an army revolver, brass-mounted and huge, began to loom up. Before the gun could be mounted in position Captain Hendricks interfered, and the Mexican hero was foiled in his blood-thirsty design. The crowd had now become oppressively dense around the scene, and, being handed the fragments of his umbrella, our reporter took ap a position near the middle of the square. Mac key had now another chance of interviewing our reporter, and made a diversion towards him, ac companied by another motion towards the Columblad, but some how the gun again could not be mounted, and, by the efforts of Trial Justice Ma grath, the bombastic justice, having been persuaded that he had done enough to satisfy his thirst for blood and glory, was withdrawn from the

A short time after the occurrences mentioned another difficulty took place, which, although bloodless in its results, was more exciting while it lasted. This time, too, the casus belli was a paragraph in THE NEWS. Under the Leading of "The Police Scandal," it was stated that the three cases against Detective Hernandez had been called up before Trial Justice Levy, and that the de fendant was released upon giving bond for his appearance. This information had been furnishdetectivels grudge.

Trial Justice Levy was speaking to Captain Hendricks, when Detective Hernandez came up and made use of very insulting language towards Mr. Levy. The latter soon after determined to take out a warrant against the detective, and was passing him near the corner of the Courthouse in Meeting street, on his way to the office of Trial Justice John G. Mackey for that purpose, when Detective Hernandez again applied coarse and insulting terms to him. Mr. Levy stopped, and taking a stick from the hands of a bystander, struck the detective several blows over the head. At the second blow the detective backed a few steps and drew a revolver. As he did this, Captain Hendricks interposed, and caught Hernandez, who reached around him, however, and fired two shots in quick succession at the trial justice. At the second shot, Captain Hendricks caught hold of Mr. Levy and jerked him down His sudden fall at the report, gave rise to the supposition, which afterwards took the shape of a rumor, that Trial Justice Levy had been shot. Both of the bullets struck the pavement, a few reet from the muzz'e of the pistol. Captain Hendricks now succeeded in getting the pistol and Hernandez was arrested. He was lodged in the Guardhouse a short time, but no charge having been lodged against him, he was shortly released. It is but justice to add that Captain Hendricks) acted during the fracas with marked promptitude and courage. His conduct exposed him to much personal risk. The muzzle of the pistol was in dangerous proximity to his body as he rushed in, and at the second explosion his clothing was singed and covered with smoke.

This was the last sensation of the day, and the mense crowd, drawn together by the firing, quietly d spersed.

THE VISITING FIREMEN .- The visit of the Washington Fire Company, of Wilmington, Del., to this city, is a popular subject of discussion arations are already being made to give them an appropriate welcome. Rooms have been engaged at the Charleston Hotel for 1sty members, and the band of sixteen pieces, during their stay here. The visitors will arrive on Friday morning, the 17th proximo, and remain here until the following Monday, when they leave for Wilmington, N. C. where they propose spending a ' - hours. The chief engineer of the Fire Department of Wilmington, Del., and one of the assistants, will accompany the Washingtons on their tour. Mea sures for their reception are being discussed at every meeting of the companies, and the Washingtons will have a fine opportunity of inspecting our whole steam Fire Department on their arrival.

AFFRAY ON THE SCHOONER LILLY .- Yesterday afternoon, about two o'clock, while the hand; of the schooner Lilly, lying at Adger's wharf, were at work, an altercation sprang up between two of the sailors, named Antonio Swendsen and Richard Walter. The latter, a burly Englishman, alleges that Swendsen "ad been hinterfering with im hall day" and this time he pitched into him in scientific style. Swendsen soon after picked himself up and coming before Trial Justice Levy, made an affidavit to the effect that Walter had struck him several severe blows in the face, inflicting painful wounds to his great bodily harm, &c. His bruised and swollen cheeks substantially corroborates the statement, and Officers Davis and Burke soon arrested the pugilistic Walter. He was lodged in the Detective office and his examination takes

City Registrar.

RATHER DAMP .- The Sumter News is informed that eight inches of rain fell in Sumterville on Monday night and Tuesday morning last.

QUIET .- The city was perfectly quiet yesterday, to the evident disgust of the office-holders of the Pillsbury Ring, whose last hope of remaining in power rests upon the chance of their being able to provoke some popular outbreak. In this the good sense of our citizens has folled the Ring thus far, and will certainly foil them to the end.

RAILBOAD COLLISION .- The fallure of the Northern mail on Wednesday was attributable to a collision which occurred that morning on the Wilmington and Manchester Railroad, at a place known as Fair Bluff. The passenger and freight trains ran into each other, throwing several cars from the track, and doing considerable damage. As far as we have been able to learn no lives were lost.

THE COTTON THIEVES IN JAIL. - Caroline Brown, Fannie Middleton, Rebecca Gadsden, Henry Greene and William Simmons, the five juveniles, arrested on Wednesday afternoon, for stealing cotton from Boyce's wharf, were brought pefore Trial Justice Magrath yesterday morning, for examination. The evidence against the pris oners was conclusive and they were dismissed for ten days each to Sheriff Mackey's hotel.

OUR PRICES CURRENT .- We especially invite the attention of our merchants to THE NEWS Prices Current, issued this morning. > CLUBS AND STARS .- Emma Nichols, lodged for lying down drunk in Cumberland street, was sent to the House of Correction for twenty days as a vagrant.

Francis Karson, arrested for throwing brickbats in Pitt street, failed to appear, and his case was postponed until this morning. A party of three, arrested for raising a disturbance in Market street, near Archdale, were dis-

SENT BACK TO S. VANNAH .- Henry Cordes, the young man who was arrested on Tuesday evening, at the Depot of the Savannah and Charleston Railroad, charged with stealing a pair of revolvers, two watches and a chain in Savannah was brought before the Mayor yesterday morning. The arrest was made by order of Captain Hendricks, in compliance with a dispatch received from Savannah, and the prisoner was ordered to be despatched to the latter place. He left un der s nar on the train yesterday morning. A KU-FLUX OUTRAGE ON JAMES ISLAND .-

On Wednesday morning a small colored girl fell into James Island creek. The water was about forty feet deep and the ebb tide ran very strong. A crowd of negroes, who were on the bank, saw the accident, and ran to and fro screaming with terror. They made no attempt to save the girl, but a gentleman from Georgia, who was several hundred yards off, hastened to the spot, undres sing as he ran. He sprang into the water, and at the peril of his own valuable life, saved the drowning girl from death. "Jem" Island may expect to be put under martial law, for unless the habeas corpus be suspended, some other poor body may be rescued from a watery grave.

By the direct results of recent experiments it has been found that this safe, non-poisonous and non-odorous agent will destroy the odor even of assafætida in manufactures where it is made on a large scale; that it will coagulate albumen in any form; and that where it becomes desirable to preserve or transport dead bodies, if charcoal be placed in the bottom of the coffin, and cloth with which the body is surrounded is saturated with it, such body can be kept or sent to any distance.
