Inquest.-Coroner Taft held an inquest on Thursday afternoon over the body of a small girl, named Emma Morris, who had died on the preceding day of the injuries she received some time since by being burned at a house on East Bay, near Calhoun street, where shy s employed. The girl was passing L - 1 we in which there was a large fire, and her took fire from the barning wood which uded from the door of the stove. She taken home, and received every aid, but no purpose. The jury found that she came her death by being accidentally burned. KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.—The rapid growth of this secret order has astonished many in our city, and preparations for its organization on a still more extensive scale took place yesterday evening. A new lodge was added to the three already existing in the city, and has been organized under the title of Stonewall Lodge, No. 6. The following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: J. J. Rose, venerable patriarch; E. H. Rodgers, worthy chancellor; W. E. Milligan, vice-chancellor; R. C. Starr, recording scribe; Jno. H. Ostendorff, financial scribe. The grand lodge of the order will also be organized on Monday or Tuesday.

FAIR PLAY IS A JEWEL .- About ten o'clock yesterday morning a meditative Clubs and Stars was roused to action at the corner of Mary and Nassau streets by startling cries of Fire! murder ! help ! Hurrying to the scene, he found old offenders, John Brown and Benjamin diliams, on the ground, with another colored boy, whom they were beating with a will. The beaten one yelled lustily, and seeing at a glance what was occurring, Clubs and Stars Immediately grabbed both of the assaulting parties. They were duly locked up in the ore the Mayor this morning. Both are known to the officers.

THE COMING TOURNAMENT .- The extraordipary success which attended the last brilliant exhibition of this kind up at the Fair Groun is, has induced several of our most energetic and enterprising citizens to bestir themselves in this direction, and the result of their labors is the promise of a grand tournament in this city on the 10th instant. This is not the only attractive feature, but races and excursions promise to make the week beginning on the 7th instant one of the liveliest and gayest which our citizens have experienced for some time. The managers will procure the race-track, if possible, from the South Carolina Jockey Club, and the level sward enclosed by the track will furnish the ample and convenient field for the tournament. The sports will begin on Tuesday, when races of every description and practicing by the knights on the course will take place. On the succeeding day the grand tournament will come off, at which three valuable prizes, worth from seventy-five dollars to two hundred and fifty dollars, will be contended for. To assist the efforts of the managers the railroad companies have kindly agreed to transport passengers and horses in the tournament to and frow which is the anchor around which all should venient field for the tournament. AMUSEMENTS.

The Second and Last Moulton Concert. Two Men Fight on the Wharf - One The second and, we grieve to say, the last Moulton concert took place last night and was even more successful than the concert of the preceding evening. All the members of the company evidently sang their best, and Mrs. Moulton was indescribably fascinating. It is, indeed, eminently improper to allow this lady to journey about the country in this fashion. She should, at least, be labelled Dangerous! that unwary youths may know what is in store for them, and that maiden and matron may gird on all their armor of comeliness to do battle for the hearts which the queenly stranger threatens to bear away.

Mrs. Moulton's first song, Bel Raggio, is one which tests the facility and fluency of the singer, and it was delivered last night with an ease and a brealth which made the most difficult passages seem as simple as a nursery bailad. But this cavatina, splendidly as it was sung, does not display the evenness, the purity and the exquisite flexibility of Mrs. Moulton's voice as well as Gounod's song or the duo from L'Elisir d'Amore. The Bel Raggio, however, was so warmly applauded that the fair singer, giving way to the demands of the audience, sang Beware! This was done with more artistic skill, with more expression, and with more roguish archness than on Thursday night, the necessity of the cautien being probably greater. In this song the velvety softness of Mrs. Moulton's voice, and the suspicion of a foreign accent, ("It is not tr-r-ue !") were especially charming. Gounod's Oh ! that we two were Maying is full of pathos. It was beautifully rendered, and was loudly applauded. La Cappriciosa, in which Mrs. Moulton fairly revelled in vocal difficulties, was a model of facile and finished singing. And the Scotch ballad, given as an encore, was as dainty a bit of work as we have met with. But the gem of the concert was the duo from L'Elisir d'Amore (Mrs. Moulton and Signor Ferranti) where both acting and singing were superb. The two singers were worthy of each other.

Signor Ferranti, in addition to a duet with Mr. Bowler, sang Mili Rampoli and Femmine ! Femmine! We cannot hear this gentleman too often. His voice is mellow and rich, and he has that genuine humor which, in so-called buffos, is so exceedingly rare. Signor Ferranti is a singer of the first order, and the audience showed their appreciation of his skill by calling him three times before the nights ago. After an examination, the curtain after each song. prisoner, in default of bail, was committed to

Mr. Brookhouse Bowler sang Who Shall be Fairest? (with Good-bye, Sweetheart! as an encore) and Thou art so near, (with Let me like a Soldier Fall as an encore.) All these songs were well received, but the last was the heartlest and most striking of the four.

Mr. Wehli played the Marta fantasia and an original piano solo, both pieces being encored. For the first encore he gave Ye Banks and Braes o' Bonnie Doon, with variations, and for the second the famous Home, Siceet Home ! for the left hand only. No words of ours would do justice to the delicacy of touch, the astonishing rapidity of execution and the varied artistic graces of this eminent pianist. One enthusiastic gentleman in the audience (who is old enough to know better.) whispered audibly that it would be the height of earthly bliss to dream away the days, listening to the du'cet notes of Wehli, and watching Mrs. Moulton's smile.

Mr. Colby is the best accompanyist who has visited Charleston. He has the great merit of being heard at only the right moment. The instrument upon which he played (one of Weber's,) has a rich tone, and is particularly sweet in the upper octaves. We repeat, in conclusion, what we said esterday morning, viz, that the Moulton concerts are admirable in every respect, and deserve all the praise that has been bestowed upon them. Mrs. Moulton is incomparably superior to any other American prima donna. and in the concert room need not fear the rivalry of the prime donne of European renown. Rossini, when he first heard Mrs. Moulton, cried out enthusiastically, Viola la Voix! They who have heard Mrs. Moulton in Charleston w'll long remember et La Belle Vaix et La Belle Dame!

The Circus.

Dan Rice and his able corps of artists had another large and appreciative audience to witness their feats of dexterity and agility last evening, and the entertainment passed off in a highly agreeable manner. This afternoon the orphan children will attend the exhibition at the express invitation of Mr. Rice, when a programme will be arranged expressly for their amusement.

CRAYOGRAPHY .- A mechanical apparatus has been mounted, and is now being exhibited by Mr. R. W. Reynolds at the Mills House, which enables a pupil, after a single lesson, to make accurate drawings of photographs, engravings, maps, charts, &c., reducing or enlarging the same to any size desired. The art requires but ordinary skill, and is in the reach of every one. Specimens may be seen on exhioition in shop windows about the city.

Major James Isbell, -The Talladega Moun, tain Home, of the 20th ult., is draped in mourning in commemoration of Major James Isbell, whose death had caused deep regret in the community. Our contemporary concludes, as follows, its feeling and interesting sketch of the life and charceter of the deceased:

Upon the whole, we have rarely known a Upon the whole, we have rarely known a man whose example we would more earnestly recommend as a pattern for the imitation of a young man just starting in the active duties of life, than that of Major Isbeil. His life had an object in view, and his energies were spent in attaining that object. The object was the honest accumulation of a fortune which should be useful to himself and others, useful to business and morals useful to society and religion. ess and morals, useful to society and religion. The life was a success, in that it reached its object. Every man should live and act with a purpose in view, to the accomplishment of which he should devote the vigor of youth, the strength of manhood and the sound sense of old age; being certain that the object is a worthy one, his life will be well spent if it attains its goal. And his friends and those who come after him can say that this man accomplished his mission, filled his brief space, and his life was worth something to the grand sum

A FATAL RENCONTRE.

A little before seven o'clock last evening a fight occurred on Southern wharf between two colored men named James Jose and Aaron Fraser, which resulted in the latter being pushed into the dock and drowned. The men had been employed during the afternoon carrying freight on trucks on board the steamer City Point, which was about to leave on one of her usual trips. A quarrel arose between them, caused by one taking the other's truck, which they agreed to settle after work was over. At that time Aaron said he was ready to have it out, and Jose remarked that that time was as good as any other. The two retired around a small chice on the wharf, and Aaron commenced the fight. They struggled for some time, and Aaron pushed his antagonist against an old engine, giving him a severe cut in the head. As they scuffled in the dark, near the edge of the wharf, Aaron suddenly lost his footing, and tumbled head foremost into the dock. The alarm of man overboard was quickly spread, but the unfortunate man never rose to the surface, and a'l efforts to find him were fruitless up to a late hour. The drowned man was what is called a green hand, and hence the lealousy which led to the quarrel. Jose, who is a powerful black man, was arrested and lodged in the Guardhouse to await the subsequent developments in the affair.

THE METHOLIST CONFERENCE .- The conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church continued its session in the Wentworth street Church yesterday, Blshop Simpson in the chair. A large class of promising soung men were received into the conference. They were very eloquently and earnestly addressed by the bishop and Dr. Barrows, of Atlanta. Major M. B. Towns-nd and Ed. Emerick Sell, Esq., eminent friends of the temperance cause, were introduced to the conference and most fraternally received. In the evening a missionary sermon was preached by the Rev. Abram Middleton. A large convention of lay delegates held a meeting in the same place. Henry Cardozo, Esq., was elected president, and F. W. Sasportas secretary.

COMPOUND ACID PHOSPHATE OF LIME,

FOR COMPOSTING WITH COTTON SEED. PRICE-$25 CASH, WITH USUAL ADVANCE FOR TIME.

This article is prepared under the superintend-ence of Dr. ST. JULIAN RAVENEL, expressly for Composting with Cotton Seed.

It was introduced by this Company two years ago, and its use has fully attested its value. 20 to 220 pounds of this article per acre, properly composted with the same weight of cotton seed, furnishes the planter with a Fertilizer of the high-ent excellence at the smallest cost. A Composifurnishes the planter with a Fertilizer of the nignest excellence at the smallest cost. A Compost prepared with this article, as by printed directions furnished, contains all the elements of fertility that can enter into a First Class Fertilizer, while its economy must commend its liberal use to planters. For supplies and printed directions, for Composting, apply to J. N. KOBSON, Agent Pacific Guano Company, Nos. 68 East Bay and 1 and 2 Atlantic Wharf. Charleston, S. C.

OLUBLE PACIFIC CUANO.

PRICE, $45 CASH, WITH USUAL ADVANCE FOR TIME.

Experience in the use of this GUANO for the past six years in this State, for Cotton and Corn, has so far established its character for excellence as to render comment unnecessary. In accordance with the established policy of the Company to furnish the best Concentrated Fertilizer at the lowest cost to consumers, this Guano is put into market this season at the above reduced price, which the Company is enabled to do ty reason of its large facilities and the reduced cost of manufacture.

The supplies put into market this season are, as ty reason of its large facilities and the reduced cost of manufacture.

The supplies put into market this season are, as heretofore, prepared under the personal superintendence of Dr. St. Julian Ravenel, Chemist of the Company, at Charleston, S. C., hence planters may rest assured that its quality and composition is precisely the same as that heretofore sold.

At the present low price, every acre planted can be fertilized with 200 pounds Guano at a cost not exceeding the present value of 30 pounds of cotton, while experience has shown that under favorable condition of season and cultivation, the crop is increased by the application from two to three-fold the natural capacity of the soil, hence under no condition could its application fall to compensate for the outlay.
