The Charleston News.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, 1872.

Mr. WILLIAM E. SIMMONS, Jr., is the travelling agent for THE News, for South Carolina.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

-Gold closed yesterday at 9 al0. -Cotton closed steady in the New York market yesterday, uplands being quoted at 23f cents, the sales amounting to 5071 bales. _ The Liverpool cotton market was strong at the close yesterday, owing mainly to favorable Manchester advices. Uplands were quoted at 11 allid., and Orleans 11 d. The sales amounted to 20,000 bales.

-The Chesapeake Sugar Refinery at Baltimore is damaged by fire to the extent of $35,000. -The Rev. Dr. Houston has commenced suit against the Baltimore American for alander. The Ohio Senate has passed a bill compelling foreign life insurance companies doing law, leaving it with each individual to debusiness in the State to file a waiver to a cide for himself how this should be done. transfer of cases to the United States courts.

-Mrs. Catharine O'Leary, the owner of the historic cow, paid her taxes in Chicago, on Saturday, on the lot upon which the fire originated. -A Chicago contemporary thus describes the deliberate manner in which that city is being rebuilt: "Let me see," said a Chicago boss mason reflectively, to a burned-out merchant, "have got to put up a block for Brown this morning, and a dwelling house this afternoon for Smith. Yes, I guess we can jerk up your store this noon by takin' only half an hour's poonin'."

-Some of the religious papers are discus sing the question of centre aisles in churches. One correspondent says: That aisle running down the centre is an impertinence-a blunder. The preacher ought to open his eyes upon the bulk of his hearers, seated right before the pulpit, and not look straight out upon a blank space. The subject is worthy the consideration of all students of church architec-

-Our Western Indians were long supposed to be the greatest experts at torture, but the Chinese, it seems, are more advanced in this flendish capacity. A court at Hong Kong lately condemned a criminal to be killed by wakefulness. The culprit, a strong and healthy man, was kept awake constantly for fifteen days, his suffering for the last few hours being of the most excruciating character. At last be dropped down and the heart ceased to beat. Roasting alive is a mercy compared with such torture.

Norfolk, Virginia. The market (says the Journal) is in an unsettled and disorganized state. vent even a legal and constitutional resis-"The efforts of holders have been great, and tance to the wrongful acts of the administrathe commission men do their duty manfully for the interest of their consignors, leaving no stone unturned to find buyers and customers for their goods, bravely defending against any decline, which is to their credit." The paper complains that it has been criticised in no unmeasured terms for giving a correct report, confining it to actual facts. The "bulls" in peanuts are down on the Journal. But the frouble in peanuts, it explains, is simply this: Nobody can get a profit out of them, and the reason is, it seems, that "to nurse and fight over a fancy article for an uncertain time on a speculation requires more margin." All of which sounds very comical when gravely written of peanuts, but the further statement that the receipts of that article for the preceding week have been 3393 bags, shows that in Norfolk peanuts are a merchandise not to be treated with disrespect. -Rome is vastly agitated over the discovery of the body of a lady, which the Tiber yielded up near the Ponte Molle, one evening early in the present month. The victim was young and richly attired. The discovery was made by a fish vender, who straightway gave an alarm and summoned the proper authorities and the pale-faced citizens to the spot. In the bosom of the unfortunate lady was plunged a dagger with diamond studded hilt, and a faint stream of blood was discernible on the silk dress. Profuse black curls hung disbevelled over the shoulders and face, and on | widows and orphans of persons killed on a plain white collar pinned to the dress below the dagger-wound was written in blood the terrible word, "Vendetta." A short examination was sufficient to establish the lady's identity, and it was then discovered that she was the Princess Catarina di Chigi, one of the most beautiful and brilliant of the Italian belles. She has been absent from her parents' palace for some days previously, but pride had forbidden a publication of the fact. The cause of the tragedy is supposed to be explained by the fact that she was betrothed to Prince Erberto Giuglo, who loved her madly; but at last her feelings underwent a religious change, and she determined to enter a convent and take the veil. This determination aroused the Prince to such a pitch of frenzy that it is considered almost certain that he murdered the one he could not

-That tough outlaw, Hildebrand, announces ing policeman. According to the veracious account, Hildebrand and his band of cutthroats, on Tuesday of last week, crossed the Mississippi and entered Illinois, intending to travel quietly across the peninsula between the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers, and finally take up their abiding-place in Western Kentacky. On Thursday the party made its appearance in Pinckneyville, Perry County, where, being unknown, they felt themselves secure from pursuit. On Friday the party trial begins. We repeat that if the Grantbecame drunk and noisy, flourishing their weapons and threatening to create a corner in funerals. At length Hildebrand, becoming separated from the rest, was overpowered by numbers and secured, together with six knives and two pistols. An officer then started with him towards the office of the police seventh knife, which he had concealed in his officer, striking him in the left thigh and inflicting an ugly wound. The officer fell to the ground, but, recovering himself in a moment. drew a pistol and fired, shooting Hildebrand through the breast, killing him almost instantly. His companions immediately fled in the direction of Kentucky. The effects left by Hildebrand consist of a miscellaneous collection of articles stolen from the Missourians, and are said to clearly establish his identity. The locality which he will select for his next dissolution is not stated.

The People and the New Taxes.

The virtual collapse of the popular movement in opposition to the license law is terribly disheartening, for the reason that it is an unequivocal indication that the classes whom taxation most seriously affects have come to the conclusion that it is cheaper, after all, to comply with the provisions of an odious law than to encounter the unpleasant hazards of indictment and prosecu-

It is the opinion of counsel of high position that the license law is as unconstitutional as it is undoubtedly oppressive. All Charleston seemed ready to stand in the breach, and to take the chances of fine and imprisonment. But, as soon as it was known that the prosecuting officers flatly refused to suspend proceedings, the opinion found frank and general expression that resistance was useless, and that the payment of the license fees could not safely be postponed. Even before the meeting of Monday adjourned a number of persons had already taken out their licenses, some of them paying the whole annual tax in one lump, instead of the first quarterly instalment, which would have satisfied the legislative requirements. Everybody felt that the law was a monstrous injustice, but the majority were no doubt honestly convinced that they could better afford to pay license fees amounting, for the whole State, to a million of dollars than to run the gauntlet of the courts. The meeting contented itself with formally advising the people to contest the And here, unless we are sadly mistaken, ends the first serious effort to foil the State Government in its set purpose of forcing from the people, this year, the enormous sum required to meet both its old debts and current expenses. It is useless to shut our eyes to the plain significance of this admission. The meaning of it is that the taxpayers, in their disorganized condition, despair of successfully opposing the stringent and unequal fiscal laws of the State. They will find it hard in the extreme to comply with the demands of the tax-gatherer; but, until there is more unanimity of sentiment and determination than has so far been manifested, the people must pay, and pay quickly, every dollar of tax levied upon them. And the greater their distress, and the more painful their privations, the stronger will be the motive for bending every energy to the great work of securing a reformation of the government of the State. This alone can give the people complete relief; and, failing an appeal to the courts, it is, also, the speediest remedy within the reach of the taxpayers.

The Ku-Klux Arrests.

We can account for the continuance of the Ku-Klux arrests in the up-country upon only one hypothesis, viz, that the govern--There appears to be a panic in peanuts at ment are anxious to force the white people into rebellion, and are determined to pretion. We had hoped, against hope, that the appetite of the partisan and demagogue was appeased, and that this poor State would be allowed an opportunity of recovering from the alarms and losses of last autumn. But it is too plain that the bloody drama is not yet at an end; and that the last scenes in the terrible history will be more agonizing than the first.

During the Ku-Klux trials at Columbia it was proved that there had been outrageous violence on the part of a few rash men. These were swiftly and severely punished. Nay! some of the accused were convicted upon evidence which would not have led an impartial jury to find a poor negro guilty of chicken stealing. At the time that the writ of habeas corpus was suspended, the communities so stripped of all protection were profoundly quiet. The Federal cavalry, riding through the village streets and across the parching fields, gathered together a host of victims, and of these, as we have said, a number, justly or unjustly, languish within the walls of a Northern prison. When the trials were over it was thought that the thirst for vengeance was satisfied; the more especially as the General Assembly made instant provision for pensioning the account of their political opinions. Some weeks ago, however, fresh arrests were ordered. A number of citizens of Union were seized and committed to jail, without any knowledge of the offences with which they were charged. These now lie in the Charleston House of Correction awaiting their trial. In Chester County arrests were made in like manner, and on Sunday Laurens County was the sufferer. In the words of our correspondent: "There is a reign of ter-"ror in Laurensville; all the roads leading "out of town are strongly guarded, and no "one is allowed to pass." No honest man can say these arrests were necessary for the prevention of crime or the preservation of quiet. The State was tranquil. The farmers. thinking little of politics, were striving hard to obtain the means of meeting the heavy his fourth demise. He perished this time in | demands which the State Government makes Southern Illinois, by the pistol of an aveng- upon them. The merchants were busily working to increase their trade. The laborers were toiling in the the fields. Undaunt-

ed by excessive taxation and inclement seasons, the whole people of the up-country

were endeavoring to make this a prosperous year. And what has come of it? They are harried by the Federal soldiery. They are thrust into dungeons. Arrested without warrant, they are condemned before their people, they had their till last winter; if they required material for stump speeches and

magistrate. They had proceeded but a short | our original proposition, that the adminisdistance when Hilderbrand suddenly drew a trailon, driven to despair by the awakening opposition of the Liberal Republicans of the left sleeve, and with it made a thrust at the East and West, are bent on contriving a "new rebellion" which shall enable them to overcome their enemies by proving that the time has not come for Amnesty, or for Justice, or for the Supremacy of the Constitution. This also will serve the purposes of the members of the State government, in whose minds any opposition to any law, (however it may conflict with the constitution which they and their party framed,) is an act of open hostility, which cannot be palliated or excused; an act no less outrageous than the Ku-Kluxism which they so fondly describe as the characteristic of South Carolina civilization. The arrests in the up-country are expected to strengthen the hands of General Grant by demonstrating the existence of disorder in the South; and they are expected to strengthen Governor Scott by reminding the white people of the State that any scrutiny of the acts of the Legislature, or the measures of the State government, will be treated as hostility to the Radical party, and will subject the people to a new persecution.

-It remains to consider what, in this emergency, is best to be done. For the people at large there is but one safe policythat of absolute quiet, and an implicit obedience to whatever processes may issue This will prove as wise as it is intrinsically right. But the citizens who have been arrested also claim our care. They are accused, not of a political offence, but of a violation of the law. We believe them to be innocent, and shall continue so to believe them until they are proved to be guilty. In the meantime we can best serve them by recognizing the broad truth, so often as serted in these columns, that there is only one code of ethics for white man and for black man, and that the Democrat who does wrong must be condemned as sharply as the guilty Republican. Let it be understood, and let it be shown by our actions, that we feel that neither name nor color should shield any man from the just consequences of his actions, and the worst forms of political warfare will, in time, come to an end, because they will wholly fail of accomplishing the purposes for which they were devised.

Dr. Samuel Henry Dickson.

A letter received last evening announces the death of this distinguished Charlestonian. which took place at his residence, in Chestnut street, Philedelphia, at ten o'clock on Sunday morning last, after a painful iliness, which had confined him to his bed for more than three weeks. Dr. Dickson was about seventyfour years of age.

Dr. Dickson was one of the founders of the South Carolina Medical College, and, for more than half a century, was an acknowledged power in literary circles, enjoying, besides, the highest honors of his profession. Nor was the knowledge of his profound ability confined to one city or State. Throughout the Republic his learning and scientific attainments were fully recognized, and at his death he was Professor of the Institutes and Practice of Medicine in the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia, where he succeeded the eminent Professor Mitchell.

The sad tidings of Dr. Dickson's death may not have been altogether unexpected, but the sorrow of the people of his native city will be none the less deep. To him it was given, in an eminent degree, to win love as well as command respect, and his loss will cause acute regret in very many Charleston homes. Of him might South Carolina well be proud, and tearfully will her sons mourn his sudden ## fjostetter's Bitters.

PLAIN WORDS FOR THE PEOPLE. When broken down in health, strength and apirits it is not necessary that we should ask a medical man whether an invigorant is necessary Common sense tell us that it is. The only ques tion to be decided is, what the invigorant shall be. A standard tonic and restorative, which has been many years before the public, and in which millions of the intelligent classes repose the full est faith, seems, in a case like this, to present the strongest claims to the confidence of the pruden invalid. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS may he truly said to tossess these high recommenda tions. Its triumphant progress during a period of twenty years, its present popularity, and the uniform success which attends its use in indiges tion, nervous debility, biliary complaints, feve and ague, and all fimen's which depress the physical system and enervate the mind, entitle it to the rank of a standard national specific. It is regarded in that light by the community at large, and hundreds of thousands of both sexcs resort to it at this season as a preventive of that numer ous and harassing class of diseases which take their rise from the miasmatic winds and vapore of spring. It is a stimulant, a ton'c, an alterative and a mild aperient-four essential restorative and protective elements of the materia medicaunited in a single agreeable preparation. Every ingredient is vegetable, of the finest quality, and absolutely pure. Hostetter's Bitte's is better known, held in greater esteem, and commands a larger sale than any other proprietary medicine manufactured in this country or imported from apri-mwf3D&c
