Mr. WILLIAM E. SIMMONS, Jr., is the travelling agent for Tife News, for South

NEWS OF THE DAY.

-Gold closed on Saturday rather heavy at 124. The New York cotton market closed quiet but firm; uplands 23f cents; sales 418 bales. In Liverpool cotton closed quiet; uplands 11d., Orleans 11 jallid.; sales 10,000 bales.

-The New York Standard is to be discontinued, having sunk $150,000. -The Bank of England now prints its notes on paper made of the common palmetto.

—General Sickles and wife have sailed for Madrid. -A Madrid correspondent asserts that if King Amadeus should abdicate, a Republic would at once be declared in Spain.

-Helmbold's store and contents, on Broadway, New York, were sold at auction last week at very low prices. -A bill has passed the New York Legisla ture providing that a previous formation o an opinion from newspapers shall not preclude a juror from serving in a criminal case. -Two hundred thousand dollars is said to be the capital stock of the bribes to be employed at Albany to prevent the New York ring judges from impeachment. -Germany is to have but one executioner after the 1st of May. He will reside at Berlin, and receive two hundred dollars for each ex--Hawkins, who resigned his seat in the

New York Assembly in disgust, says that there are now only twenty-seven honest men in that body; the balance, an even hundred, being regular thieves. -The Marchioness of Bute is about to receive as a wedding gift a magaificent tiara of of seven stars, composed of the finest brilliant diamonds, from the tenantry of the Marquis on the Dumiries estate, and also presents of great value from the Bute tenantry.

-Mr. Paran Stevens, an enterprising citizen of New York, died last Thursday. He was at different times proprietor of the Revere and Tremont Hotels, Boston; the Fifth avenue Hotel, New York, and the Continental, Phila delphis. Before the war he was the head of the Battle House, Mobile. It is to be inferred that "he knew how to keep a hotel."

-The official bulletin of the patriotic subscriptions, in New York City, for the liberation of France, just published, shows that the whole amount subscribed up to the 21st ult. Is $15,370, most of it raised by the efforts of persons whose means are limited, but whose tachment to their country is without bounds.

-Terre Haute has a professional man of all work, named Springer. He married a couple one day, and the next day he sold them furniture for their new home; shortly after he attended the wife in the capacity of a physician; as a consequence of this part of his work he soon acted as undertaker at her funeral, and on the following Sunday preached her funeral sermon. Not long after he married the widower to another lady, thus beginning the old process over again.

-The medical officer of Liverpool, England, in his report for 1871, gives the following facts in reference to small-pox and vaccination: Among 1616 cases of the disease, the rates of mortality were as follows: Among the unvaccinated, 56.4 per cent.; where one scar was visible, 14.7 per cent.; where there were proofs of two vaccinations, 9.8 per cent.; and where three scars were discernible, 7 per cent. These facts go to show the necessity of repeated vaccination; a view which is now generally admitted. If repeated vaccination were generally practiced, under proper advice, the existence of small-pox as an epidemic would cease.

-Under the head of "Diamond Cut Diamond," the New York Tribune says: "Those two eminent railroad managers, Messrs. Thos. A. Scott, of the Pennsylvania Central, and John W. Garrett, of the Baltimore and Ohlo, lately locked horns in Washington, and the former, after a protracted, desperate contest, trlumphed. We now hear that Mr. John W. Garrett has countered this rap by getting through the late New Jersey Legis'ature a for a short apparently insignificant road, where, by through connections already bargained for the Baltimore and Ohio may run its trains right into Jersey City in utter independence of the Pennsylvania Central and its henchman, the Camden and Amboy. More succinctly, each of the two railroad kings has secured a clear track from the Hudson to the Potomac, and will soon be running through trains from the commercial to the political metropolis in unembarrassed competition with his great rival. Most heartly do we congratulate the public on these facts."

-The eruption of Mount Vesuvius, which has been in progress for several days, has assumed a terrible violence, and intelligence is now communicated by the cable that two hundred persons, inhabiting the villages at its base, have been buried by the lava. Thousands of others have fled in dismay to situations of safety, and the distress and excitement are intense. The event recalls but few parallels In the history of Vesuvius. The first recorded ernotion of the famous volcano occurred in the year 79, when Pompell and Herculaneum were destroyed. Then followed a long period of apparent rest. In 1066 floods of lava were again belched forth, and since that time about sixty eruptions have occurred. The most conspicuous of these were in 1779, in 1794, when the town of Torre del Greco was destroyed; in 1822, in 1855, destroying the village of Cercolo. and in 1858, '59 and '61, when the eruptions were especially marked for their terrible gran-

-A letter from Newloundland gives intelligence of the United States Arctic exploring expedition, under Captain Hall, received by the Danish brig Meerbek, from Disco, Greenand. On February 28 the exploring steamer

Polaris put into Disco for fresh provisions. On the 8th of that month she had encountered heavy weather, and run upon ice snags on the peaks of icebergs imbedded in sard or Medical College of South Carolina are exmud. The Polaris was so damaged that she was only kept affoat by the united exertions of all hands at the pumps, and when she reached Disco the company were so exhausted that another day at sea must have compelled them to abandon the vessel. The log of the Polaris contained many strange discoveries, which led to the cor.viction that in the extreme and undiscovered north there is at times a genial atmosphere and open seas. Plants were detected in the ice which are indigenous to Southern climates, and the examination of a floating stick of wood, found on Saturday, January 13, proved it to be a limb of some huge birch. The most important clue to the existence of a polar passage is the fact of the crew of the Polaris having seen, followed and killed a whale having in one of its fins a harpoon similar to those used in the South Pacific; and this happened in a region where, as Captain Hall says, "the sail of an American or European vessel had never been given to the wind before." In May Captain Hall hopes to make a clear passage to the undiscovered pole.

Speculative Arithmetic.

There are numerous odds and ends scattered about in all the States of the Union whose votes, if concentrated in a Presidential election would probably determine its result in any contest. In addition to those odds and ends which consist of all kinds of "isms" and societies, there are foreign segments of our population, which, if banded together, would tell decisively. The two principal fractions are the Irish and German. There are, besides, considerable bodies of Scandinavians, Belgians, Hollanders, Danes, French and Italians, the votes of which thrown together would materially affect the result in the States in which they reside.

The German vote, if cast together, can turn the scale in the States of Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio. The total German population in the United States is set down at 1,696,410. In the four States named it is as

Indiana	78,056	15,611
Illinois	203,750	40,750
Total	624,851	124,968

The total Irish born population in the United States was in 1870 1,838,678, giving a voting force of 367,735. The States in which their votes will most strongly affect results are the following:

We extract the following from the Boston

Globe : ·Under the new apportionment the next electoral college will consist of 357 members, of whom it will require 179 for a choice. According to "Liberal" slate-makers, the German vote, the Democratic and such Republicans as can be drawn off will be likely, if a coalition be formed, to carry Pennsylvania, 28; New York, 34; Ohio, 22; Illinois, 21; Indiana, 14; Missouri, 15; making 134—in addition to the States of Delaware, 3; Maryland, 8; to the business of the Southern railroads. Georgia, 11; Kentucky. 12; Texas, 8, and Ten- they will put in circulation amongst the nessee, 11; making 53, or in all 187, or 8 more than enough to elect.

This estimate leaves out Virginia, 11 West Virginia, 5; Nevada, 3; Arkansas, 6; New Jersey, 9; Oregon, 3, which are confidently counted on by the Liberals. Their vote is 37, which would swell the Liberal vote in the electoral college to 224, and would give a majority of 45. We have not considered the colored vote in the above classification. If the Presidential contest be between Democrats and Republicans only, the colored people will generally vote be practicable to split the colored vote, even in States where they have heretofore been unanimous in supporting the ad ministration.

The Medical College.

The recent changes in the faculty of the pected to increase its value to students of medicine, and make it equal to any similar institution in the country. Its clinical advantages are greater than can be had in any other Southern city, excepting New Orleans, the city hospital having two hundred beds; and it is a matter for surprise that any one should think of entering a Northern college when an institution of the highest class opens wide its doors in Charleston to the citizens of South Carolina and the adjoining States. Dr. E. Geddings, the acknowledged head of his profession in Charleston, and who enjoys, besides, a national reputation, is the emeritus professor of the institutes and practice of medicine. Dr. F. Peyre Porcher is elected to the chair of clinical medicine The chair of obstetrics is divided; Dr. J. Ford Prioleau being elected to the chair of the principles and practice of obstetrics, and Dr. F. M. Robertson to the chair of gynecology and clinical obstetrics. The other members of the faculty are: Dr. R. A. Kinloch, professor of surgery; Dr. J. P. Chazal, professor of general pathology, pathological anatomy and hygiene; Dr. Middleton Michel, professor of physiology; Dr. Geo. E. Trescot, professor of materia medica and therapeutics; Dr. C. U. Shepard, Jr., professor of chemistry; Dr. J. F. M. Geddings, professor of institutes and practice of medicine; Dr. F. L. Parker, professor of anatomy.

The annual circular of the Medical College will be issued in July, and, in the meanwhile, all letters relating to college affairs should be addressed to Dr. Geo. E. Trescot, Dean of the Faculty, Charleston, S C.

The Public Schools

We print in another column a brief com munication from Mr. School Commissioner Grimke in reply to the suggestions of THE News, looking to the support of our public schools, notwithstanding the neglect, or something worse, of the State government. We heartily endorse the appeal of the commissioner.

How Manufactures Pay.

A cotton factory has been erected within a few miles of Lexington Village, the machinery has arrived, and in a short time the bumming spindles will be at work. The Dispatch urges its readers to endeavor to build other mills in the county, and if it needs any statistics to support its arguments it will find them in the published reports of the dividends paid by the New England factories.

The New England factories have largely increased their profits of late years. Counting by decades they made: From 1820 to 1830, a shade over 82 per cent.; from 1830 to 1840, just 10 per cent.; from 1840 to 1850. hardly 82 per cent.; from 1850 to 1860, a fraction over 51 per cent.; from 1860 to 1870, not quite 12 per cent.

Marten's Tables of Manufacturing Divideads of New England Mills, from 1820 to 1870, give the following results. The work is said to be one of undoubted authenticity:

is said to be one of andonoted margarities.

Average for the entire fifty-one years, a little short of 9 per cent. It must be remembered that mills in the cotton region have great advantages over the New England factories. The saving to the Southern mill-owner in freight, commissions, loss of weight, cost of site, &c., will enable him to make a handsome dividend, while his Nerthern competitors are barely paying expenses. One of the most acute manufacturers in the South has made the calculation that a mill-owner in Columbia; for example, can sell his yarns at what it costs the Lowell mill-owner to manufacture the same number of yarns, and still realize a fair profit. This expresses in few words the strength of the position held by those who advocate the erection of factories throughout the South. Well managed, they must be a highly profitable investment; and the indirect advantages to the sections in which the mills are built must be fully equal to the direct advantages reaped by the stockholders. The mills will give the planter a quick and satisfactory market for his cotton: they will give employment to women and children who now cannot find any work adapted to their strength; they will increase the value of landed property; they will add Southern people millions of money which are paid, in the cost of yarns and cotton goods, to the mechanics and factory hands of the North. Capital cannot find a more surely profitable investment than in the building of cotton mills in the South.

The Full Senate.

When the United States Senate, on Wednes day, decided to admit General Ransom as a member of that body from North Carolina, Mr. Thurman remarked that, for the first time since 1871, all the States are fully represented for the Republican candidates; but if there in Congress. Now that this much of justice be two Republican tickets in the field it may has been done, tardily and ungraciously, however, the New York Evening Post says "it would be well to take another step towards reconciliation and peace. The rule of the bayonet has been gradually giving way to law. although with apparent reluctance. At most, the proscription of the Southern leaders for political offences cannot continue through another administration. It would be an admirable sequel to this act completing the representa tion of the Southern States for Congress to adopt an act sweeping away all disabilities.

The Magazines for May.

Scribner's Monthly Illustrated Magazine, which enters upon its fourth volume with the Monthiles. Not the least of its many excel-lences is its large type and fine paper, while the illustrations which are given in generous profusion are the very best of their kind. The contents are varied and interesting, several chapters of Mrs. Oliphant's new and powerful novel, "At His Gates," forming the pièce de résistance of the number. The old Eclectic Magazine still holds its place, handsome and enterprising as ever in its collection of good things from abroad. It is now publishing steel portraits of prominent Americans, the May number presenting the visage of Secretary Fish as a frontispiece.

The St. Paul's Magazine, one of the most sprightly and popular of the London monthlies, is now issued simultaneously in this country under the Imprint of Lippincott & Co. The number before us is enriched by contributions from Jean Ingelow, Robert Buchanan and authors of equally high repute.

Kind and genite in all her ways, she nevertheles had strong convictions of Juty, and tractice and the contract of the c nevertheles, had strong convictions of duty, and strove earnestly to discharge every obligation devolving upon her. With a nature singularly truthful and guileless, mone knew her but to love her;" and throughout her lengthened career she ever preserved the respect and affection, not only of her immediate relatives, but also of a large circle of friends. Ever a consi-tent member of the Methodist Church from her earliest years, her pathway through life was one of tranquillity and peace, and her end was a happy crowning of a weil-spent life—as quietly and gently she fell asleep in her everlas ing te t, surrounded by her weeping family and friends, leaving them, as her best legacy, her precepts and example through life. legacy, her precepts and example through
