THE FAT CONTRIBUTOR

He will be a Candidate for President

[From the Cincinnati Times.] The hour has arrived. I can wait no longer. The highest interest of the nation demand that I present myself as a candidate for President of the United States. I have waited for some one else to bring me out, but in the muititude of candidates no one seems to have thought of me. I don't think very much of SPRING AND SUMMER, 1872. myself; but a man don't want to think of himself to be a candidate for President now-a-days.

If he had any self-regard at the outset he would think very little of himself by the time would think very little of himself by the time he got through with himself.

I am one of the people—I might say, one of the boys. I came up from obscurity, and I have brought up a good deal of obscurity with meet I never had any politics—or much else. I am "Liberal" to a fault, and ready to receive votes from any quarter, although I am not ready to give quarters for any votes.

As for a platform, suit yourselves, gentlemen. The lecture platform would probably suit me as well as any other. Having stood men. The lecture platform would probably suit me as well as any other. Having stood upon nearly every platform in the West, it would be hard for you to get up one I could not stand on. In the absence of a platform give me four acres, and I'll "stand" on that.

I am the special friend of the laboring man. No one likes to see a man work better than I No one likes to see a man work better than do. In fact, I had rather see a man wor do. In fact, I had rather see a man work than work myself. I am not only averse to working more than eight hours, but I am opposed to working a single hour! I shan't even work for my elevation, leaving that for the men who want the office.

I amin favor of paying the national debt,
It is, in fact, the only debt I am in favor of paying; and rather than not see it paid during my administration, I will pay it out of my own

In the matter of civil service reform, I intend to do the civil thing by the nation if the nation does the civil thing by the nation if the nation does the civil thing by me. Being civil is so rare a condition now-a-days in the varied walks of life (to say nothing about the runs) that reform is urgently called for.

Retrenchment is my motto. If you can't put a retrenchment plank in the platform put in a board. I am ready to work without any salary, but I shall insist upon my board.

I am rather inclined to free trade, preferring to feel free to trade wherever I please; but if a tariff plank is necessary to my election, put it in. I shall not get on a tariff if I ain't elected.

Pledge me as strong as you please to the In the matter of civil service reform, I in Pledge me as strong as you please to the temperance men. The temperance pledge won't hurt me one bit. No relative shall hold office, no matter whose relation he may be. I shall appoint none but old bachelors, childless widows and orphans. Any man who has a relation in the world need not apply for an office under my administration. I have a few relatives of my own holding office now, but they shall be promptly kicked out as soon as I am elected. One brother-in-law has a little coal office on the river. He must give it up. A third cou-sin on my neighbor's side drinks too much oc-casionally and gets office foot. I shall give casionally and gets office flow. I shall also him notice to quit. Another relative has a hankering after George Eliis's "office." It won't do him any good. You see I am determined to reduce the "relative" expenses of mined to reduce the government.

I engage not to accept any gift, unless it be the highest office in the gift of the people. If I am ever called "our present chief magistrate," it won't be a chief magistrate of presents. Not being a man of commanding presence anyhow, there would probably be few presents that I could command. What few natural glits I may have, however, I shall endeavor to retain. They are not worth making

I am not only in favor of woman's rights but of women's rights and lefts. I am mayor of women's rights and lefts. I am mayor of women voting, provided they vote for me. I see no reason why a woman should not hold office, except, perhaps, the difficulty of getting hold of it. Nor should there be any particle women's exampled the manager. numulating property and supporting the family if she wants to.

I may be asked how I would treat the In-dians. I wouldn't "treat" them at all. They have been treated too much and too often. My private opinion, however, is, that it will be a treat when there isn't an Injun left.

I stand by the old constitution that has been tried. Few men have tried their constitution that has been tried.

more than I have tried mine. I accept the amendments, every one of them. When it comes to amends, I am ready to shout "amen" as loud as anybody.

I understand there is an ambilious man named George Francis Train, who aspires to be President on his promise to free Ireland. I be President on his promise to free freiand. I engage not only to free Ireland, but to make Irish whiskey free in the bargain. I shall at least be able to the George Francis in the popular vote, unless one or the other of us is kept away from the polls. Hang it, I believe I could the the Davenport Brothers!

could tie the Davenport Brothers!
I shall inaugurate a wholesale emancipation business as soon as I am inaugurated. No goods retailed at the White House when I am President. I engage to emencipate women from the thraidom of fashi, to give the "boys" their rights, and aboish the custom which excludes children in arms from the elewhich excludes children in arms from the ele which excludes children in arms from the elevating and puriying influences of the theatre. I have pledged myself to free Ireland and to free postage; to free housekeepers from the tyranny of servant girls, free pews, free passes, and freebooters. To free soil, to free tickets to shows, free drinks, free press, and "J. N." Free. I trust I am not making myself too free.

NEWSPAPER REFORM.

Room.

The Editorial Office and the Counting-

"Shall we ever see a press that we can always trust to tell the whole truth without reference to business considerations?" Of course not; and the question is perpetually asked, as a conclusive demonstration of the morthless according to hammen the morthless according to hammen the morthless according to the morthless asked, as a conclusive demonstration of the worthlessness of newspapers, by men who ought to know better. Do you know any business man who tells the whole truth in his operations, irrespective of business considerations; any lawyer, any doctor, any statesman? Till that always promising, never performing race of long-delayed patriots appear, who are to publish great newspapers for the mere advancement of truth, it is probable that the pror papers we have will still be issued by their mercenary owners with some sordid purtheir mercenary owners with some sordid purpose of making money by them.

Not irrespective of business considerations, then, but because of them. I believe that in the better journalism to which we are tending, we shall approach more and more nearly to an absolute divorce between the editorial office absolute divorce between the editorial once and the counting-room. The great newspapers are those which look for news, not advertisements. With the news comes circulation, and, when circulation commands, the advertisements seek the paper, not the paper the advertisements. Make your newspaper so good, so full of news, so truthful, so able that people must take it; make its circulation so reset the advantisers will plead for the privigreat that advertisers will plead for the privi-leg- of getting into it—those seem to me the two great business commandments of our better journalism. When, at last, we get our feet planted on this solid ground, no newspaper can afford to suppress or solten the truth in any business interest. The London Times threw away twenty thousand dollars a week in advertisements in the railway mania of 1845. It made money by the loss. It could not have afforded not to throw the money away, for it thereby vindicated its aprix to hanrnalism. When, at last, we get our fee away, for it thereby vindicated its spirit of hon-est dealing with its readers, in the eyes of all Europe; and its readers were of infinitely more consequence to it than its advertisers. This is precisely the view that your small business man would never take; he would see nothing but the twenty thousand dollars a week that sould be had as easily as you by only keeples. he had as easily as not by only keeping could be had as easily as not by only keeping quiet in the editorial columns; but great newspapers are neither built up nor maintained by small business men. More and more the trade of selling advertisements is getting reduced to as plain a basis as the trade of selling flour or potatoes, where the money paid over the counter represents the exact selling price of the articles bought, and there is no dream of further obligation on either side. By and by we shall see all reputable journals stop depre-ciating their own wares by admitting that it is necessary to call attention to an advertisement necessary to call attention to an advertisement in the reading columns, to get it seen; treat as preposterous the request that there shall be some notice of theatre or lecture, "just to accompany the advertisement, you know;" take as an insult the suggestion that, if an editorial could be made speaking well of the capabilities of a region and its need of a railroad, the strength of railroad, the strength of a party advertisement of railroad. there would be a heavy advertisement of rali-road bonds; utterly refuse, on whatever spe-cious plea of public as well as private interest, to suffer one line to appear as reading matter which the editor did not select because he thought it of m re interest than any other matter it might displace, and the paper did not publish without a penny of pay. Some of these reforms, in the case of any but the these reforms, in the case of any but the strongest journals, will come slowly, for they amount to revolution; but come they will—not because publishers will be more disintered than now, but because, looking to the rights of readers, their paramount importance to the newspaper they support and the imperative need of keeping faith with them, publishers will see such reform to be sound business policy, and any other course to be business quackery.—Wnitelaw Reid, in Scribner's for June.

THE CELEBRATED GERMAN SOOTHING CORDIAL, FOR INFANTS TEETHING.

This is the best Medicine for Infants and young Children ever offered to the tublic. It is carefally prepared from the best Drugs according to a prescription furnished by a distinguished German Physician of larke and successful practice, and has been tried and approved by many of our best physicians. It is specially adapted to the diseases incident to childhood during the trying period of Teething and recommends use for the cure of Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Griping in the Bowels, Summer Complaint, &c. It contains no Anodyne or other injurious Drug, and should, therefore, be preferred to the Soothing Syrups that now flood the market, which are known to contain Opium, and are, there ore, more or less injurious. Thousands of children are murdered anunally by soothing Syrups; in some cases, this fact has been published in the newspapers, where the physician in attendance so stated in his death certificate. In the numerous other cases, where the inocents are murdered by this modern dierod of the Nursery, the cause is laid to a thousand other canese. In the right one.

Mothers, bear this in mind, and use the German Soothing Cordial, which is safe, efficient and satisfactory. Do not fall to try a bottle at once!
