NEWS OF THE DAY.

_"Owing to the-peculiar arrangement of the programme, no piece can be repeated,' was the answer Mr. White received from his landlady (with whom he boarded) upon asking for a second plece of ple at dinner.

-The London Medical Times and Gazette, July 29, contains the following: "The fashionable physician of Cairo, Egypt, Thomas Monroe, was a slave, and ran away from his proprietor at Charleston, South Carolina, twelve years ago."

-Bismarck has refused the request of several North German Governments to issue an order prohibiting the sales of certain German-American newspapers in the German Empire, saying "that would only increase their circulation in this country tentold."

-The defeat of France by Germany was not such a bad thing for the former nation after all, if one of the results is to be, as now appears probable, the general education of the youth of both sexes in that country, where heretofore, in the rural districts, the number of educated persons was astonishingly small, and a man, other than the curate and doctor, who could read, write and cypher, was a phenomenal being in some hamlets.

-The grandest marriage which has oc. curred in London for many years was that of Miss Fox, the adopted daughter of Lady Holland, who was joined to the Prince Aloys Liechtenstein recently. It was almost as brilliant as a royal wedding, and quite threw the Marquis of Bute's marriage in the shade. Archbishop Manning officiated on both these occasions. Absolutely the whole fashionable world of London "as present on the day of Miss Fox's marriage, either in the cathedral or at the breakfast, or at the garden party aiterward.

-A correspondent of a Viena paper recently saw the ex-Prince Imperial of France at Chiselhurst, and gives the following description of him: "An overgrown boy with a pleasant face, dreamy but meaningless eyes, manners not very graceful, and a smile which reminds you of that cold, freezing smile which his father, the ex-Emperor, would put on when he wanted to make himself amiable. The Prince's forehead is low, and shows that his Intellectual capacity cannot be very great. His teachers are said to be very much dissatisfied with the slow progress he makes in his stud-

-The far West is becoming populated with a rapidity that is truly marvellous. The advantages offered to settlers upon railroad grants; the liberal terms upon which government lands can be acquired; the fertility of a virgin soil; the fixed belief in a steady westward march of population; the certainty that papers, however, that we object to. A the best wheat producing area of the United States has already crossed the Mississippi, and twenty thousand copies a day as ten thouthe unvarying tendency of American emigration to keep a considerable distance ahead of civilization, have all tended, and are still tending, to affect such a settlement. The railroads are now forming great arteries, with innumerable branching veins, through all this region. There will be before many years pass away no fertile valley from Omaha to California, and from the Yellowstone River to the Blo Grande, that will not support its little community, or cluster of communities, of pioneers; and the gap of comparatively unknown country between the Eastern and Pacific States will be no longer in existence.

-At one of the Parisian concert saloons is a Chinese walter, who dresses in the European fashlon, wearing his pigtatl collect round his head. He speaks French tolerably well and excites much curiosity on account of his strange history. He was formerly in the service of the Empress of China, who had confided to him the charge of a certain fan, representing the Imperial dragon, worked in green upon a yellow field. This fan was a sacred affair, and descended from the late Emperor, and the Empress intended to deliver it to her son upon the day of his marriage. Unhappily, Tsang one day broke the fan, and was condemned, in consequence, to decapitation. Being a person of ingenuity, however, Tsang managed to extricate himself from his dilemma by seizing the throat of his intended executioner, before that functionary had drawn his sword, and thus strangled him. As there was no witness to this affair, he dressed himself in the extinct executioner's attire, escaped without suspicion, and embarked upon a French steamer which was about leaving port.

-A French correspondent gives an inside view of the princely and at the same time homely bazaar system of France, which, since the resurrection of trade, from its temporary prostration after the war, has become more complete than ever. As a specimen, and one of the best of them, the Magasin Bon Marche, in Paris, is selected, which does a Lusiness of about six million dollars in gross receipts a year. Though nominally one and under the same proprietorship, the establishment is divided into twenty-two shops, each of which is entirely independent of the others. The building covers four thousand square yards. and is five stories high. Less than twenty years ago a small draper's shop stood upon the site, and from that this has sprung. The arrangement for the comfort of employees is remarkable. About ninety girls are connected with the trade, who are required for strict surveillance to lodge on the premises. Large, well ventilated and well furnished bed-rooms are provided for them, and an elegant drawing-room, with piano, pictures, games, and all that luxurious comfort requires, is common property. A dining-room for the whole seven or eight hundred employees is attached, with excellent tare, and hair-dressing and billiard rooms are connected with it. The salaries allowed these clerks are small, but they are allowed a percentage on all they sell, and personal attractions in that case counting for so much, the young ladies may be supposed to have an advantage over their male competi-

-The numerous juggling tricks with molten iron are, on the authority of the Engineering and Mining Journal, not so difficult or

The hand is to be immersed confidently, and then quickly and quietly withdrawn, and a pleasant sensation of cold will be felt. One learned French professor attributes the miracle of the flery furnace to a knowledge of the more obscure laws of calories, which is only another instance of the notorious fact that some French scientists will believe anything as narrated—Old Wives Fables, Mother Goose's Stories, Gulliver's Travels-provided it is not recorded in the Bible. There are many curious incldents given by the Journal of the handling of fluid metal. Professor Rose stated that thirty years ago, during a visit in a metallurgical establishment in Avestad, Sweden, he saw a workman who, for a small remuneration, threw molten copper against a wall, which he skimmed off from a crucible with his hand. Dumas called attention to a very old usage, ordinarily performed in glass-works. A molten mass of glass is poured into a vessel filled with water, in which, although glowing, it is kneaded with both hands. Professor Boutiginy produced ice in a white glowing furnace, and claimed to have bathed himself in fluid iron. It will be remembered, also, that about a year ago Maryland had witin its borders a colored blacksmith who did many extraordinary things with red hot iron.

Read the Newspapers.

Colonel D. Wyatt Aiken delivered an agricultural address in Winnsboro', on the 4th of July, in which he told his audience some home truths about the causes of the poverty of the agriculturists of the State. Amongst other things, as reported by the Winnsboro' Neics, he said:

"About the beginning of the present year, he was commissioned by the State Agricultural Society to canvass the State in the interests of the society, and of agriculture generally, but as yet had received little or no encourage ment in his labors, although he had been travelling four months, and had visited nine counties in the State. There seemed to be a feeling of unrest and disquiet wherever he had been, which operated very strongly against any improvement in the general character of the country, and the universal cry appeared to be poverty. The question naturally arises, why are our people so poor. There are certainly assignable reasons for it, and amongst these might be first mentioned ignorance or lack of intelligence among the laboring classes. The benefits and advantages of a liberal education are not properly appreciated by the masses. His experience and observation was that there was more ignorance generally in South Carolina than in any other State he had travelled through. He knew of farmers in this county, running four or five ploughs, who don't know the name of the county newspaper, or the fact of there being a paper published in the county. In his efforts to secure subscriptions for agricultural papers, the invariable reply was, 'I am no book farmer,' when the truth of the whole matter is that the man who doesn't study agriculture as a science is a veritable 'old fogy.' Many persons read agricultural works, but not with a view to the benefit to be derived from them, and the great difficulty in the way of agriculture succeeding under our present system is that our people don't think of it, don't study it, don't read about it as a science, and can't bring themselves to realize that it is a science. Until they awake to sheh reality, they will always be poor, and can never make farming a successful and remunerative calling."

These remarks do not apply with full force to the low-country, but we believe them to be true as a general proposition. Phore is no doubt that, as compared with the rest of the Union, the number ofspaper readers in South Carolina is lamentably small. The population of the State is 705,000, and there are six daily newspapers, three in Charleston and three in Commbia. It is not the mere number of the newspaper like The News can just as well supply sand. The truth is, that the people do not read, as they should, the newspapers which are published. This is the cause of infinite loss to the State. The newspaper is the inpedagogue or professor. Unless he read a live newspaper no citizen can properly discharge his duties towards his family and towards the State. A wise man would as soon shut out the light of day as deprive himself of his newspaper. The delays and difficulties of the mails have doubtless much to do with the slow spread of newspaper influence; the small means of the whites and the ignorance of the blacks must also be taken into account. But much more could be done than is done; and we advise every citizen of the State, who knows by experience what is the value of a newspaper in quickening the faculties and ripening the brain, to set to work at once and persuade his neighbor to subscribe to one of the excellent papers published in this State. When men read newspapers freely, they rise above personal and class dictation and think and act for themselves. The frauds of the Ring would have been impossible if the blacks had conned the colums of the press; the political and industrial progress of the State would have been ten-fold what it is if every white adult regularly read a bright, liberal

Not for James!

James, the remarkable Broker-Mayor of Atlanta, Georgia, who recently had the cheek to nominate himself for Governor of Georgia, finding that the Democratic Convention lacked appreciation of his statesmanship and financial acumen, has sensibly withdrawn from the contest.

The Celt to the Rescue!

The leaven of the great national movement for Reform ' slowly but steadily permeating the unsavery cauldron of our State politics. Speaking of the approaching Charleston County Republican Convention, that right loyal sheet, the Southern Celt, savs:

"We trust that no man will be sent to the convention as a delegate who is not opposed to the corrupt Ring that has brought Republicanism into contempt in this State. We want men in the convention who are proof against bribery and temptation, and who will do their duty honestly and fearlessly."

To all of which we, un-Republican outsiders, devoutly say, Amen!

The Highways and Bridges Tax. TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS.

In referring in your issue, of this day, to a correspondent of the Columbia Carolinian. who informed that paper that a tax of eighteen cents on the hundred dollars for roads is in course of collection in Lancaster County, you say, "Such a tax, for repairing highways and bridges, is expressly authorized by the act of March 9, 1871, the tax being payable in money wonderful after all. The necessary immunity or laborat the option of the taxpayer." So it of the act of 1871 has been repealed by the act of March 13th, 1872.

The portion of the act of 1871, which author izes the road tax, is contained in Section 2 and is in these words : "That, for the purpose of keeping in repai highways and bridges, the county commissioners of each county shall, on or previous to the 1st day of January, assess a tax of eighteen cents, if so much be necessary, on every hun-dred dollars of the lists of the county, to be paid in money or labor, at the option of the taxpayer, and laid out in repairing highways and bridges; and they shall, annually, on or before the said 1st day of January, make out a tax bill for each surveyor of highways, containing the amount of the tax to be laid out by him in his district, with the amount of each person's tax annexed to his name, accompatied by a warrant, signed by the chairman o the board, authorizing such surveyor to collect such tax; and they shall deliver the severa ax bills to the respective surveyors and take their receipts for the same."

Now the act of 1872, in its first section, prorides "that section 2 of said act (the act of 1871 above quoted) be so amended as to read That the bridges be repaired under the super vision & the county commissioners, and that the expense of the same be paid out of any moneys in the county treasury; and that all the work on said bridges given out by the county commissioners, when the amount shall exceed the sum of one hundred dollars, shall be done by contract, and the commissioners are hereby required to advertise the same in at least one of the papers of the county; that said proposal shall, in all cases, be accompanied by two or more sufficient sureties, and the county commissioners shall have the right to reject any or all bids if in their judgmen the interest of the county so require."

And section 3 provides : "All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby renealed."

Now, can section 2 of the act of 1871 still be the law now in force in connection with the act of 1872, as above quoted? It will be observed that the act of 1872 does not say that The act of 1871 shall have the following language added to section 2," but it says that Section 2 shall be so amended as to read as follows." And then in connection with this the third section provides that all parts of acts inconsistent are repealed. The original sec tion 2 is unquestionably inconsistent with the amended section 2, and hence the former is repealed. And there is, therefore, no authority to levy, or if levied, no authority to collect, a A SUBSCRIBER. road tax.

Kingstree, S. C., July 22, 1872. Our correspondent apparently overlooks the fact that the Act of March, 1872, in abolishing the office of Highway Surveyors, confers the duties of the same upon the County Commissioners. One of the duties of the Highway Surveyors was to assess a tax of eighteen cents on every hundred dollars, for the purpose of keeping in repair the highways and bridges. This assessment must now be made by the County Commisgioners. That such a tax is still expected to be levied and paid is evident from the proviso to the Act of 1872, which reads: "Pro-'vided, further, that all taxes levied for the repair of highways and bridges in each county shall be collected and paid, at the "same time as the general taxes, to the 'County Treasurers." The public have now before them both sides of the question, and can judge for themselves, until there is an authoritative decision upon the subject.]

[From the Clarendon Press.] By the works of the Radical Reformers we will know them, and if there is any portion of them who do in honesty and sincerity desire, and are willing to work for, the inauguration of a better state of things-who are willing when they spell pray to allow the old time used and honored "a" to remain in the word. instead of substituting an "e"-then it is our manifest duty, as Democrats, to extend to them all the aid, comfort and sympathy in our power to give. It is hard for us who have been the sufferers to believe it, but still there baggers who have fastened upon poor Carolina, and to such we are willing to extend "the right hand of fellowship" and assist in the good work of rescuing our State from the official robberies she has suffered. Let the structor of the day; it is more potent than Republicans in favor of honesty and integrity in the administration of State interests organize their campaign based upon that idea, and the white element will be, where it is ever found, on the side of honesty, reform and the greatest good to the greatest number.
