CHURCH SERVICES YESTERDAY.

Rev. J. Mercier Green, rector of the newly organized church, preached an excellent sermon to a fair congregation from Hebrews, xi, 28, on the subject of the church-God's kingdom on earth. The exercises at this church are becoming every week more and more widely known and largely attended, and the Sunday-school attached to the church is constantly increasing in numbers and interest.

In consequence of the indisposition of the Rev. B. S. Frapler, the rector, the pulpit of St. Michael's Church was filled yesterday morning by the Rev. James W. Miles, who preached a very able and polished discourse on the civilizing influences of Christianity. The church was closed in the atternoon.

Trial Justice Courts. Messrs. Francis and George F. Kinloch, planters of Christ Church Parish, were carried before Trial Justice A. M. Mackey, Saturday, charged with a violation of an act of the Legislature to regulate the issuing of checks to plantation laborers, in having given due bills for larger sums than allowed by the act. They were found guilty, and sentenced to pay twenty-five dollars. Appealed.

The men who robbed Mr. Puckhaber's till on Thursday were up, and the further exami tion of their case was postponed until this Captain Hand, of the brig Henry and Louise, was arraigned before Trial Justice John G. Mackey Friday afternoon, charged with violating that section of the pilotage law which requires that the same pilot who brings a ship into a harbor shall be employed to take her out again. The captain agreeing to comply with the requisitions of the law, was discharged on payment of costs.

Two colored boys, for stealing some clothing and other articles from their grandmother, were sent to jail for twenty days by the same justice on Saturday.

NEW COTTON FROM EDGEFIELD.-The Augusta Constitutionalist says that the first bale of cotton of the crop of 1872, from Edgefield County, South Carolina, was shipped by Mr. T. S. Williams, an enterprising planter near Bldge Springs, and was received on Saturday by Messrs. Warren, Wallace & Co., of Augusta.

THE GROWING CROPS .- Advices from John's there as very fine. The caterpillars have apocalities, but only in very lim-Ited numbers. An abundance of rain has recently fallen, but not enough to injure the crops. The planters are hopeful of a good BLISSFUL IGNORANCE. - Sandy Major, a colored rustic with a smile that is childlike and bland, was found at the corner of Tradd and King streets, Saturday, with a large bundle of elothing, and, having falled to give a satisfactory explanation of the manner in which he had come by the same, was taken to the main Guardhouse. He there awaits the consideration of the Mayor, this morning.

A LARGE CARGO OF PHOSPHATE.—The large ship Calhoun, of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five tons, was cleared by the Williman's Island Phosphate Company, from Bull River, S. C., on Thursday last, destination Scilly, for orders, with the unusually heavy cargo of one thousand nine hundred tons of phosphate rock. We learn, through Messre. Roach & Moffett, that this ship was loaded to a dratt of twenty-one and one-half feet, and was towed to sea over St. Helena bar by the steam tug Christiana.

MUSIC ON THE BATTERY .- Through the cenriesy of Major Stevens, the commandant of the United States troops stationed at the Citadel, the Post Band gave a promenade concert in the White Point Garden last Saturday evening, between the hours of five and seven. The band were conveyed to and from the Battery in one of the open cars of the city railroad. The selection of music was very good, including a number of popular airs and a few tamillar operatic pieces. The garden was well filled with ladies and gentlemen, as well as hundreds of children with their nurses or parents, and the concert was altogether so enjoyable an affair as to cause many, on leaving the grounds, to express a wish for its frequent repetition.

youth, well known at the Detective office, entered the store of Mr. John Lutjen, at the corner of Queen and State streets, Saturday, at a time when the proprietor and his clerk were engaged in the rear of the store, and jumping over the counter emptied the till of its contents. He was detected in the act by the clerk, who immediately gave chase, but had barely time to cry "stop thief!" before he tripped over a barrel and fell upon the floor. Some outsiders, however, had heard the cry, and took up the chase, which in a short time became remarkably lively. The thief, followed by a large crowd shouting stop thief, shaped his course through Queen street to East Bay, and down that street to the Postoffice. Turning suddenly to the rear of that building he ran abruptly into the arms of no less a personage than Alderman Kenny. The astonished alderman gave him a bearty embrace, and in return for his affectionate conduct was severely bitten upon one of his hands. Detective May arrived on the ground a second or two later, and put an end to the affecting scene by marching the bellicese Brown to the Guardhouse. The extent of the rubbery is not known, Mr. Lutjen being ignorant of the amount of money in the till. Only two dollars and forty-five cents were found upon the THE COUNTY CAMPAIGN.

The Lessons of the Rival Conventions Bowen Ahead in the Race for Sheriff-Prospects of the State Convention-A Diabolical Rumor.

Of the two main events that have been relied upon to decide the issues of the campaign in Charleston County, as between Messrs. Bowen and Mackey, one has now taken place and the other is close at hand. The county conventions of last Thursday night formed one of those events, and the State convention or conventions, which will assemble at Columbia on Wednesday next, will be the other, and, probably, decisive one. It is well enough understood that the prize for which both of these contestants are striving is the shrievalty of this county, with its immense patronage and power, and the fact that they have ranged themselves respectively with the two warring factions in the State campaign is hardly more than incidental to their own struggle nearer home, in which they have so much greater personal interests at stake. The rival conventions of Thursday night afforded an opportutunity to draw a comparison between the chances of the two candidates, almost as complete as though the two factions had met together and measured their swords on the floor of the same convention, and it must be admitted that, so far as those conventions furnish a criterion, the chances have been shown to be all in favor of Bowen. The Mackey party claim their strength in Charleston City and admit, in their own secret councils, that Bowen has an overwhelming majority in the country precincts. The Bowenites c.aim all that and more, for they insist that in the city precincts their strength is at least equal to that of the Mackeyites. In addition to these two main divisions of the Charleston Radicals there is another organization, calling liself the Progressive Republican Association, which is led by Major M. R. Delany. This body is apparently small in numbers and imperfect in organization, but its leader has a very large voice, and is a very black man, with a much better education than most of the blacks, and no doubt has a considerable influence and following among the colored voters. At all events the accession of his organization to either of the contesting factions would obviously be of advantage to that faction to just the extent of its vote in a convention or at the polis. The Progressivists were altracted to the Mackey convention, and so far this circumstance appeared to give the Mackeyites an advantage, but in the convention it was soon found that they wanted in return for their votes a considerable representation upon the delegation to Columbia. The men that they particularly insisted upon were M. R. Delany and Glibert Pillsbury, and when it was found that those men, as well as James P. Howard, A. A. Aspinall, John Clyde, William Murrill and Charles Vanderhorst had been wholly excluded from the Mackey ticket, there was a tremendous row in the wigwam. From that moment there was a scene of uproar and confusion, and it was only saved from disso-

that the Mackeyltes have lost in strength and influence by its being held. The Bowen Convention, on the same night, in Hibernian Hall, was a marked contrast to the other one. It contained, of course, the same number of delegates, and might have represented the same number of constituents, although it is claimed that it represented from five to ten thousand more. It was certainly a more compact, harmonlous and thoroughly organized body, and its deliberations clearly revealed the fact that its members and the men by whom they were elected were with Bowen drst, last and all the time. There were no angry discussions, and no evidence at all of any split or any serious dissensions. The only differences of opinion manifested was as to the proportional distribution of delegates among the various precincts, and these were Island, Saturday, report the cotton crops all soon reconciled. The difference between entangled in internal feuds.

its engineers. It is evident that the effect of such a convention can only be to split and dis-organize the faction, and it is very certain

The question of which will be successful in its purposes in the State convention is a difficult question to answer until next Wednesday. Both factions appear equally confident of admission to the regular convention, although each has adopted a different plan to accomplish that. The Mackeyites have adopted resolutions declaring emphatically but in general terms for State retorm, and being careful to accuse no particular official of the State rascalities. It is said that this was done because the Ring, or "syndicate," as it is now called, has adopted the vague cry of reform itself, and expects to capture the Radical Reformers themselves by that device. The Bowenites on the contrary adopted no resolutions, and left their delegates free to insinuate themselves into the convention in any way they please, and do what they please after they get in, holding that Bowen's "personal integrity and devotion to their interests" will be sufficient guarantee for them. It is certain that both delegations will be in some convention or other, the prospects being still good for a serious bolt, led either by delegates from Charleston or Beaufort, which county has also sent double delegations, headed respectively by Whipper and Smalls. There has been some idle talk of a device on the part of one of the Charleston delegations to very effectually prevent the seating of the other by either getting up a terrible fight on the train which is to carry the latter to Columbia, or by just throwing the train off the track, and in the language of the person who mentioned the rumor, "sending em to the hospital and insane asylum instead of the convention." It is not probable, however, that there is the least truth in the rumor, and the suggestion is so maliciously diabolical that we decline to stigmatize either faction by stating which it was that was rumored to have it in contemplation.

TILL-TAPPING .- John Brown, a colored The majority of the delegates expect to leave for Columbia on Tuesday night. Sheriff Mackey and Coroner Tait, nowever, taking time by the forelock, went up on Friday night, and Mr. Bowen followed on Saturday. Judge T. J. Mackey was in town on Saturday, industriously ear-wigging the local politicians, and laying no end of pipes for the State convention to which he is a delegate from Chester County.

> RIOTOUS AMAZONS .- Half a dozen colored women got into a dispute Saturday night in St. Paillo street, near Vanderhorst, and greatly disturbed the neighborhood by using obscene and noisy language. They finally wound up in a free fight, and were carried to the upper Guardhouse. An explanation will be made this morning.

MACKAY VS. THE BLUE RIDGE RAILROAD COM-PANY.—It will be remembered that last week the hearing upon the rule to show cause was adjourned over until Friday, in order to grant | brands at favorite figures. The best selection time to the plaintiff to produce counter affidavits. Upon the affidavits of Colonel Manson and Mr. Corbin the case was heard. Elaborate arguments were made on the part of the plaintiff by Mr. D. T. Corbin, and on the part of the defendant by Mr. C. D. Melton. Judge Melton reserved his decision.

CUTTING AFFRAYS.

A White Man Seriously Stabbed.

Two white men, Thomas Rembert and James Mahoney, got into a difficulty about nine o'clock Saturday night in the boarding house of a Mrs. Bresland, at the corner of Church and Market streets, which resulted in the latter being seriously stabbed in the neck by the former. The wounded man was taken to Dr. F. H. Kellers, who dressed the wound and pronounced that the knife had narrowly missed the carotid artery. A warrant for the arrest of Rembert was immediately issued by Trial Justice Levy, but before it could be served be had been arrested by Detective May. The origin of the difficulty is somewhat obscure. The men had lived in the same house for some time, and always been good friends. Both appear to have been perfectly sober at the time of the cutting. Rembert said yesterday morning that Mahoney had been misrepresenting 'him to his (Rembert's) friends. He also denied cutting Mahoney. Witnesses of the altercation assert that Rembert tried to throw Mahoney over the stairway landing, on the third floor. Mahoney is a blacksmith, and is said to be a quiet, inoffensive person. Rembert is an employee of Messrs. Adams, Damon & Co. This is the second time he has used the knife in an altercation. He was released yesterday afternoon on three hundred dollars ball.

A White Man Stabbed by a Negro. Alexander Braid, a respectable white man was stabbed in the left shoulder, near the joint, about one o'clock on Saturday in his own house at the corner of Spring and Presidents streets, by a negro named James Brown. Brown went into the house and represented himself as a detective, saying he had come to arrest Braid. The latter told Brown to go out, and then went up to his bed-room on the sec ond floor, whither he was followed by the negro. Mrs. Braid and several other inmates of the house heard an altercation above and heard Braid cry out that he was stabbed. Brown shortly afterwards ran down stairs and into the street. Dr. Lockwood was sent for without delay, and pronounced the wound on examination of a painful though not serious nature. Brown was unknown to any of the inmates of the house, not having been seen by them before. He had not been arrested yes terday.

New York Cotton Market.

New York Cotton Market.

New York, August 16.

The Daily Bulletin says: There was a fair business done in spot cotton during the week ended last evening, and prices have maintained an unusual degree of uniformity from day to day, the opening quotations having ruled throughout the week. An improvement in Liverpool placed that market a shade above us, and gave exporters a limited margin upon which they have operated wery freely. Spinners have been led to fill their wants with rather more freedom, parly by the easier rates, but more directly it seems by the opinion that has gained prevalence that the heavy export trade, should it continue, will so reduce the stock available for home consumption as to put spinners on short supply before the new cropomes in with sufficient free-iom to afford much relief. The position in Europe, as insticated by the most reliable advices we have obtained, a shows a prospective outlet for a large proportion of our stock if prices remain where they are at present, but any material advance over the current fiverpool applications would act as a check of our stock if prices remain where they are at present, but any material advance over the current Liverpool quotations would act as a check upon consumption there.

The southern advices this week have not been favorable of or as large a crop as was estimated previously, owing to well authenticated accounts of the lavages of the caterpil ar in some sections of Alabama and Georgia. The prospects, however, are not sufficiently discouraging to give the buills? much advantage here, and even with a large reduction in the stock prices have not been advanced from the opening rates of the week. The fluctuations in spots and futures during the The fluctuations in spots and futures during the week are shown by the following comparison, the December. ...18% 18% 18% 18% 18% January...

From this it will be seen that while futures were a tride easier on Monday than at the close of list week, the general tone of the market has been steady and in sellers' favor on the late months. This course has been due mainly to the crop reports. The business in futures has not been very active on the whole, but there is more disposition to operate on the late months, and, while the bulk of the trade is still in September, the sales of October to January deliveries are increasing.
