LOCAL LACONICS.

-The Republican, of last evening, announces that Dr. R. B. Hewltt, who has been absent "on a professional visit to the up-country," has returned to this city, which he intends to make his home.

-Moses Pinckney, the sailor, and at present one of the drawn jurors for the October term | that the usual or average health of Charleston of the United States Court, is not the man who was arrested a few nights ago for concealing himself upon a vacant lot in Charlotte street.

-A valuable diamond ring, stolen from J. D. Zanoga a short time ago, has been recovered. A workman in the employ of the Devereux Brothers purchased it for fifteen cents from a little colored girl in King street, and placed it in the hands of Mr. John H. Devereux, who delivered it to the owner yesterday. -At a meeting of the Catholic Institute, held last evening, a new constitution was submitted, which will be acted upon at the next meeting. Resolutions of respect to the memory of Dr. Birmingham were also adopted, and a blank leaf of the minute book ordered to be devoted to his memory. -Captain E. G. Hoffman, the boarding-officer of the Customhouse, and captain of the National Zonaves, left Charleston for New York, last evening, on board of the steamship South Carolina, He will purchase the uniforms for his company while in that city. He expects also to attend the Soldiers' and Sallors' Convention, at Pittsburg, Pennsylvania.

-Mister George Lee, judge of the Inferior Court, had not recovered sufficiently yesterday from the effects of his pleasure trip North, to descend to the vulgarities of common business. At least it is so supposed, since he falled to appear at the courtroom, and the clerk, after waiting a half hour upon his honor, was reluctantly obliged to book another seventy-five dollars against the county.

A SLIGHT COLLISION.

A Colored Man Struck in the Head by a Train of Cars-The Train Unin-

Yesterday, while the early morning train for Charleston, on the Northeastern Railroad, was turning a bend in the road, about five miles from this city, a negro man was observed walking upon the edge of the track with his back towards the train. The whistle was immediately sounded, but the man having falled to take any notice of it the brakes were putton and every endeavor made to stop the trate, but without success. The engine passed safely by him, but he was struck on the left side of the face and head by the first car and thrown at length upon the ground some distance from the track. As soon as the train could be stopped it was backed up to where he lay, and he was taken on board and brought to the city. He was sent to the City Hospital without delay, and reached there in a sensible condition. The left side of his face and head were badly contused, and he was suffering great pain, but no bones appeared to be broken. He gave his name as Joseph Alston, and said that he was a native of Charleston. Every attention was rendered him, and he was doing as well last night as could be expected. It is probable that he will recover.

THE COURTS.

A COMPLIMENT TO AN EDITOR .- The many Charleston friends of Patrick Walsh, Esq., of the Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel, will be glad to hear that he has been nominated by a very complimentary vote of the Democracy of Richmond County to represent them in the Georgia Legislature. A nomination, in this case, is equivalent to election.

THE FRUIT TRADE .- Our readers will notice this morning that two well-known names in the fruit trade of Charleston have united for carrying on the importing and selling of foreign and domestic truits. These are Mr. Frank Kressel, Jr., and Mr. Henry Brandes, the latter late of the firm of Paul, Welch & Brandes. Both of these gentlemen are thoroughly conversant with the trade, and, from their well-known reputations, they may be relied upon to give purchasers satisfaction.

THE GREAT EASTERN CIRCUS AND MENAGE-RIE. -This mammoth show will reach Charleston this morning and exhibit upon the Citadel Green in the afternoon and evening. In the forencon a grand procession will be made through the principal streets. The procession will consist of an elegantly-appointed bandchariot, twenty-five cages containing wild animals, one of them surmounted by Herr Lengel and several of his performing animals, five camels, two buffaloes, one elephant, a number of handsome horses, with gaudily-dressed riders, and a calliope or steam plano. It required twenty-eight cars of the South Carolina Railroad to transport the show hither from Columbia, and it will occupy six large pavilions upon the Green. The menagerle contains a large and varied collection of animals and birds, and the performance in the ring is highly spoken of by the press of the cities through which the show has passed. There will be a balloon ascension in the afternoon. The exhibition will continue two days.

A SPLENDID SANITARY SHOWING.

The Health of Charleston During the Past Summer-Can Any Other City Show as Clean a Record?

The calendar summer has now ended, and with it has disappeared the last possible apprehension that may have existed of a sickly season. A retrospect by any one of our readers of the health of his own neighborhood during the past three months will prove to him that the condition of the public health has been exceptionally good, and the physicians and clergymen, than whom no class of citizens have better opportunities for forming a correct judgment, unanimously agree that the season has been one of the healthiest ever known in Charleston. Nor is it only in comparison with former seasons in Charleston that this summer may be declared an extremely healthy one, for this might imply during the summer months is poor, which would be very far from the truth. The fact is that Charleston is one ct the very healthlest cities in the whole country, and this statement is not made without careful comparison and ample means of verification. In case the journals of any other city between which and Charleston any comparison can be drawn are inclined to doubt this assertion, THE NEWS turnishes below the vital statistics of the recent season in Charleston, and invites a similar exhibit from such journals, promising a fair and candid discussion of the question and a frank bestowal of the palm of sanitary su_ periority on any city which may deserve it, To make the comparison at all a fair one the competing city should be not much smaller than Charleston, should be between the 30th and 40th parallels of latitude, and should have a population composed partly of colored people. A comparison with a very small community would be obviously unjust to Charleston, as the causes of disease increase in more than a direct ratio to the increase of population. A comparison with cities North of Mason & Dixon's line would probably be unfair to Charleston, although THE NEWS believes that we could stand it, and a comparison with a city composed wholly of white persons would be an absurdity, in view of the fact that sixty-five per cent. of the disease and deaths in Charleston are among its negro population. The citles which come within the above category are Richmond, Louisville, Washington, New Orleans, Baltimore and St. Louis. The cities of Memphis, Mobile and Savannah may also be included, although, by the latest census, those cities have each from ten to twenty thousand less inhabitants than Charleston.

The principal statistics of the health of Charleston are to be found in its official mortuary returns, and it is from this source that our figures are now drawn. It is not, as a general thing, cheerful to contemplate the statistics of deaths, and to individual mourners it may seem cold comfort to show that the fatalities were few and far between; but it is surely a matter of congratulation, and even of fervent gratitude, to find that in a population of over fifty thousand souls, and during the three hottest months of the year, the deaths of white adults from disease amounted to only seventy-two, an average of but little more than five per week, and of less than one per day. The deaths of white children reached one a day, and there were during the summer eleven deaths from external causes, but the average mortality among the whole white population of all ages and from every cause amounted to an average of about thirteen per week, or less than two per day. All of thes facts and others of no less interest and significance are to be found in the following carefully and patiently prepared TABLE OF MORTALITY—SUMMER OF 1872.

Total., 93 72 11 176 193 101 24 318 194 Of the diseases which have caused the deaths above shown not one has been of a malignant character. There has been no sign of yellow fever or its forerunner, the "broken bone" fever. Small-pox, cholera and the rest of the ghastly crew of plagues have been equally unknown, and the fevers and other aliments which have claimed their victims have been such ordinary, isolated and non-infections ailments as are incidental to every summer and every climate in the temperate zone. Of the deaths among the whites set down as caused by "accidents," &c., two were cases of homicide, (Perez and McDowell,) five were the result of old age, two of intemperance, one of insanity, and there was one solitary case of sunstroke. Of the deaths from "accidents," &c., among the colored people, one was a case of homicide, (Johnson,) another was a case of accidental drowning, nineteen were from old age, one was from insanity and two from the effect of heat, not sunstrokes.

In regard to the weather during the summer, Charleston has been, in comparison with most of the other cities in the country. extremely fortunate. There have been no such days of oppressive heat as have been reported in other cities, from New York to New Orleans and from Boston to San Francisco. and there has been no day in which there has not been a cool, invigorating breeze right from the open ocean at least twice in the twenty-four hours. The highest point reached by the mercury lu any shaded place was ninety-four degrees, and this was only for an hour or two in the middle of a few days in August. The highest daily mean of the thermometer, as recorded by Mr. J. E. Evans, the local observer of the United States Signal Service, was 88.5 degrees, the lowest daily mean 68.2 degrees, and the average for the entire season only 81.8 degrees. These figures are chosen because they afford a ready means of comparison with data from a similar source in other places, and we would be most happy to have any city, town or hamlet on the thirty-second parallel of longitude

A LUSUS NATUR.E .- Mr. O. P. Folk discov ered and captured a few days ago, on his plantation, in Colleton, a curious speckled snake, of the variety known as the ground-rattlesnake, about twelve Inches long, which has two perfectly shaped heads, each of about the size of a Lima bean, placed at right angles with each other, and at obtuse angles with the body, so that the necks and heads form a semblance of the letter Y. The little varmint has been brought to THE NEWS office, where it is now to be seen, alive and in good spirits, (alcoholic,) by all who are interested in such reptilian novelties.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY, SEPT. 12, 1872. THE CROPS.—There can be but little doubt that the character of the late intelligence from various sections of the cotton fields induces the belief that the upper growth of the cotton crop has been largely destroyed by worms, rust and pend on the middle and lower growths. The 3,250,000 bales. Should this figure be produced. to meet the demands of the world.

THE RECEIPTS.—The arrivals at the cotton ports for the week up to Friday last were 13,554 bales, in contrast with 9137 bales for the week last year. At New Orleans the supplies were 4980 bales, against 2291 bales for the previous year. The receipts at the cotton ports from September 1, 1872, up to the latest dates, were $5,820 bales, in contrast with 11,344 bales the year before, showing an increase of 24,476 bales. The total receipts at the principal Southern markets from September 1, 1872, up to latest telegraphic intellirence, as compared with the previous year, were

New York Rice Market.

New York Rice Market.

New York, September 11.

The Daily Bulletin says: The market is fairly active on Hangoor and Carolinas, with a scarcily of Patna and very few sales. The reports from the outh received by the leading house here are to the effect that about two-thirds of the crop have been safely harvested, that very little damage has been done by the caterpillar, and that the yield is likely to be considerably above the average. The present supply of old crop of Carolina is not more than sufficient to carry the trade through until the new crop is marketed, and this fact fully sustains the current range of prices, but lower raises will necessarily rule on the new crop. Sales are 300 bars Rangoon at 7a7%c, and so tierces Carolina at $%a9%c.

Rice, Coffee and Spices.

Rice, Coffee and Spices.

Boston, September 9.

Rics—Carolina.—During the last form in the almost entire absence of this kind has of necessity made the transactions very limited; but the arrival of some small lots has occasioned some cusiness, although the dull sate of trade generally has had its full effect upon the rice business. The new crop promises to be a large one, although the limited number of acres unser cultivation cannot, of course, yield anything like the quantity required for this country's consumption. Pline grades are very scarce, and strictly choice is now unobtainable. We do not materially change our quotations. Foreign—The business in both Ranfloon and Patna has been fully up to the average of this time of year, and the general aspect of the market remains unchanged.

COFFEES.—The future of this market seems uncertain. The estimated stock in Europe and America continues small, being but aboue. 63 per cent, of stock same time in 1871, and but 64 per cent, of stock same time in 1871, and but 64 per cent, of that in 1870, and the question naturally arises, can we get along with 65 bags where we formerly used 100? Buyers generally throughout the country seem disposed to do this, the trade being only such as to supply pressing immediate wants. At present, prices range from %al%chigher than a year ago, and athough they may fall as low now as then, we cannot believe they will remain at so low a point. Since our last prices have declined %22c for Rios, %alc for Maracabos, %c for Laguayras, while in Javas prices remain about the same.
