OUR "PATERNAL" GOVERNMENT.

A German View of Our Internal Revenue System—How the Tobaccoists are Victimized—The Little Game of the Informers.

[From the Deutsche Zeitung of September 24.] The petty annoyances on the part of the United States officials toward dealers in tobacco are still in progress, and almost daily we hear of one or another heavily fined for doing what cannot be fairly construed to have been a violation of the spirit of the law.

When the officers stand in need of money they go to any tobaccoist, it makes no odds who he is, and charge him with violation of the revenue laws; and as the dealer knows that he can have no justice in court, or even said this to us frequently, and declared himself ready to protect his tobacco, and as he was moreover familiar with the law, he of course gave them the tobacco directly from the box.

When he came before the commissioner, and the two informers swore that Mr. Thiele had sold tobacco not from the original box, a dialogue arose between the commissioner and Mr. Thiele, as follows: Thiele. Must I tell the truth here?

Porteous. Of course. You have sworn to tell the truth, and nothing but the truth. Thiele. Not to say that the two informers have told a lie.

Porteous. You must not use such language in court, else you will go to jail. Thiele. I thought I will to tell the truth.

Porteous. Then you should say that you doubt the two informers. Thiele. Very well. Now suppose that I should prefer not to stand still, what would I have to pay?

Porteous. (very audible.) I can tell you very correctly just given Mr. Ramon his bill of costs upon a similar charge. He was $36.50. Yours will be $15 less; and I am ready to receive the money.

Thiele. Not to say that the two informers had been at home. Informer. I shall see you for the other Thiele. Not to say that the two informers had been at home.
