NEWS OF THE DAY.

-Pauline Lucca exercises the maternal slipper on two children. .The twelve great nations of the world own two hundred and eighty-five iron-clads. -The subscription to the New York Italian Opera season for thirty nights amounted to $60,000 before a single advertisement appeared.

-Sweden is credited with three Queens, the Queen mother, Queen widow and Queen wife. To these might be added Nilsson the Queen of

-A favorite swindle in Paris at present is thus described: An elegantly-dressed gentleman enters a cigar store, buys several france worth of cigars, for which he offers in payment a hundred franc bill, receives his change, and walks off. In a quarter of an hour arrives another individual who buys some cigars, and offers a twenty franc bill. But when the chauge was handed him, he says: "I beg pardon, it was a hundred franc bill I gave you." The merchant of course knows better; but the new comer gets very angry, calls in two key convention nominate Mr. Cunningham policemen, tells them he can identify the hundred franc bill, (which is of course the same one his confederate recently left;) does identify It by a mark on it, and the wretched merchant submits to the swindle, rather than be march ed off to jail as a dishonest person.

The Episcopalians of New York have de cided to build a cathedral for the diocese, and the purpose is stated by a New York paper to be to erect an edifice that "shall surpass in size and expense the Roman Catholic Cathedral on Fifth avenue, whose massive walls are already the most impressive features of the avenue." This is not exactly the spirit in which the great cathedrals of the old world were built, but we dare say both the buildings named will go up a good deal faster than those old structures which were the painful growth of centuries. The wealthy Fifth avenoodles of New York would doubtless undertake to build half a dozen rival cathedrals, "with all the modern improvements," .n less years than it required centuries to build the old Gothic cathedrals. Fifth avenue is now the fashionable promenade of church-goers on Sunday mornings, and it can be imagined what will be the brilliancy of the display when the two rival cathedrals of this street get in full working -Under recent regulations of the treasury department persons returning from Europe are required to make a brief statement of the number of their trunks, their contents, and the articles upon their persons. Blank forms are procurable from the captain of the steamer. This classifies baggage which is subject to duty, and that which is not. Of the latter is wearing apparel in actual use in reasonable quantity, articles of the tollet, stationery, a few books, one watch, jewelry, &c., in actual use and in reasonable amount. Among artiin excess of that in general use, excessive amounts of jewelry, extra watches, articles of vertu, all presents, piece goods and other articles purchased for other persons. A certificate is signed by the passenger, but this will not necessarily relieve him from the liability of having his baggage searched, or from the penalties of attempted fraud. Any fraud or concealment, or attempt to bribe a revenue officer, will render the baggage liable to detention or confiscation, and subject the owner to other legal penalties.

-Montenegro, a nominal Turkish province has refused to pay its annual customary tribute to the Sultan, and consequently there is quite a little buzz of excitement at Constantinople. As the money to pay this tribute comes from Russis, the act of withholding it is suggestive that the Czar has something to do with the refusal. The Sultan indignantly declares that he will make forcible collection of the money due, and there is a strong probability that such a movement may be made if no compromise is effected. It will be remembered that nineteen years ago a similar trouble arose, and a Turkish army invaded Montenegro, only to be driven back and defeated. The area of the country is little more than four hundred square miles, and the population not more than 120,000. Montenegro has, for many years, been under the protection of Russia, and if the Czar withholds the money, it is hardly probable that he will allow it to be forced from the people. There is method in the proceeding, which any one who has watched the policy of Russia towards Turkey for the past two years can readily discern.

_To Tennessee people the feature of this political campaign is not so much whether Greeley or Grant will be the next President, but rather who in the triangular fight now in progress between Johnson, Cheatham and Maynard is to ride into place on the suffrages of the people of old Tennessee. Andrew Johnson has odds to fight against surely; odds that even his determination and known integrity can hardly overcome. Yet still prominent citizens and politicians who have opposed him in days agone, yielding at last to the admiration of the many strong points in his character, declare their intention to support him now when they can prove themselves friends indeed. Mr. Johnson has cleared up his record as regards the clamor against him on Mrs. Surrait's account. He says he has no fears of that, and if there are people so ignorant as to believe that he compassed or was in any way responsible for Mrs. Surratt's death, he is willing to leave them where they are. In reply to the question of what the exact facts were about Annie Surratt's attempt to reach him at the White House and being repulsed by him or his order, he said that he never knew until after her execution that the unfortunate woman's daughter had tried to see him, and it was some irresponsible person that refused her -In the death of Rev. Peter Cartwright, of years, the mere fact of which has been spread over the country by the wires, a strong link is broken between this generation and an older and totally different one. He was born in Virginia, and had been for a longer time than any of his predecessors or contemporaries an elder of the Methodist Church. His ministrations were exercised mostly in the region beyond the Cumberland Mountains, when that country was largely a wilderness, and the moulding of the crude religious views of a pioneer people showed traces of his skilful hand. His life was seasoned with eccentricities, one instance of which fairly samples the rest, and throws light upon the character of the man. Once, when some one threatened to "whip" him, he said, "Well, sir, I never like to live in dread. If you really intend to whip me, come and do it now." The man continuing to menace and bluster, the unterrified Peter dismounted from his horse, and walking up to the bully, said, "Now, sir, you have to whip me, as you threatened, or stop cursing me; or I will put you in the river and baptize you in the name of the devil, for surely you belong to him." His strong right arm frequently served him in better stead than his gospel weapons, and few who understood his tactics cared to disturb his meetings. His eloquence is well remembered by the old men of the West as having no evanescent influence upon those who heard it. In the sixty-eight years of his ministry he estimated that he had ment, drawing their pay the while with edireceived into the church no fewer than twelve thousand persons. _

The County Commissioners.

The fiscal affairs of Charleston County are in terrible confusion. There has been wholesale stealing, or an extravagance which cannot be excused. The treasury is empty, and the county is head over ears in debt. None but men of firmness and unquestionable integrity can bring us out of the slough. The Bowenites have nominated county commissioners who are utterly unworthy of confidence. They must be beaten, or the tale of the past four years will be told again. The Mackey convention should nominate three citizens who are not chronic officeseekers, who have something at stake, who will take the office as an honor, and not for the sake of profit.

Such a man is Mr. G. I. Cunningham. He is a Republican, and large property-owner; and, by reason of his straightforwardness and good business record, commands the confidence of the community. Let the Macand two other men like him as county commissioners, and they will have done a good work for the people of the county.

A Pair of Promises.

The main consideration with the Conservative taxpayers, in weighing the promises of the two sets of Radical candidates, is one of dollars and cents. No flowers of rhetoric adorn the phrases in which the hard fisted taxpayers discusses Moses as "a scalawag" and Tomlinson as "a smug faced carpet-"bagger." The great question is, "Which "of the two factions is the more likely to "throw off the illegal public debt, to reject "all fraudulent claims, and to give the coup "de grace to the Blue Ridge Scrip?" There is no unwillingness, on the part of the public, to pay the just indebtedness of the State: but the Conservatives are obstinately and bitterly opposed to any compromise whatever with the holders of tainted and doubtful securities. Taxation is frightfully high, and there cannot be any considerable reduction until the cost of carrying on the government is cut down to reasonable figures. It is important, therefore, to see what the Bolters and the Regulars have to say with regard to the State debt.

The Bolters, on the stump, have been very free in their denunciation of all manner of over-issues, and vow that not a dollar of dishonest debt shall be paid. These declarations are very well, as far as they go; but they do not bind the party. They are no more to be depended on than the mild assurances of Mr. Renben Tomlinson that he will not withdraw from the canvass, even if the Democrats should nominate a State ticket. What the public must look to is the platform of the two factions. This is a formal pledge, which may not be redeemed; but is, in any event, of more force and value than simple word of mouth. The third plank of the Bolters' platform is that which treats of the public debt. It reads as follows:

3. That we pledge the honor of the State to the payment of all its debt which has been legally and honestly contracted; but that we will not hesitate to repudiate that postion of will not healtate to repudiate that portion of it which is illegal, and, therefore, null and

This reads well, although it will not bear a close examination. Messrs. Tomlinson, Bowen, Corbin & Co. pledge "the honor of "the State," which is not theirs to pledge. As well may Cuffee, at Hilton Head, pledge "his life, his fortune and his sacred honor." The burlesque is too broad. There is not in the resolution anything more than the statement that whatever part of the public debt may be rejected by the courts shall not be paid. The courts alone can decide whether the debt is "illegal," and when they do so decide, the debt falls to the ground, and becomes "null and void" without any help from the Bolting Triumvirate-Thank you, for nothing! The sophistical character of the plank is evident when we read the corresponding plank in the Regular platform. It is as follows:

Third. We pledge ourselves to effect instantly a financial reform in the State government by suspending the payment of the in-terest on every bond of the State to which there an be attached a shadow of a suspicion, at can be attached a similar to the providing for the punctual payment of the principal and interest of the unquestionably valid debt; and that the members of the Legislature elected by the Republican party shall be pledged to carry into effect the meaning and intent of this plank.

The more modest Regulars do not presume to pledge "the honor of the State." They are satisfied to pledge what they can reach, and may be able to manage, viz, themselves and the members of the Legislature whom they elect. They do not leave anything to the delay and uncertainty of the law. What they promise is, that they will instantly suspend the payment of interest on every bond of the State to which there can be attached a shadow of suspicion. This is explicit enough. There is not only a shadow, but a cloud of suspicion resting upon every ontstanding bond of this State, excepting the nine or ten millions which were formally recognized by the Tax. payers' Convention in May, 1871.

The Regulars, therefore, stand pledged to repudiate the six or seven millions of bonds which have been improperly issued. This is what the people desire and require. The Bolters, on the contrary, instead of speak-Illinois, at the advanced age of eighty-seven ing plainly, indulge in speculative palaver, which means anything or nothing, just as they choose. No promise coming from either faction may be really worth much, but that of the Regulars is the more emphatic and unmistakable, and, for that reason, the more satisfactory to those who hope for a diminished debt and reduced taxation.

"Stand and Deliver!"

According to a correspondent, yesterday was the time when Collector and Distributor Clark was to draw, for campaign purposes, two per cent. of the yearly salary of each of the persons employed at the Customhouse. This is equal to a tax of twenty four per cent. upon the monthly salary. It is not the first assessment, and will not be the last. A clerk whose income is one hundred dollars a month, contributes twenty-four dollars to the fund. A porter with wages of fifty dollars a month gives twelve dollars. This is what the South Carolina carpet-baggers call civil service reform.

Doubtless Mr. Clark will protest that this twenty-four per cent., filched from the pockets of the government officials, is a free gift. It may be so in the case of those of the number who are engaged on the stump, who are in the interest of the Belters' movefying regularity. With the rest this talk of "voluntary contributions" is all fudge. An able-bodied ruffian was once charged with highway robbery. Putting on all the airs of injured innocence, he assured his accusers that he had done nothing more than ask a passer-by to lend him five pounds. The magistrate asked whether this was done. Mr. Highwayman hesitated, but finally said that the money was forthcoming "after a "little persuasion." What was this persuasion? Sald the innocent collector of purses : "I just kicked him on the shins, and split his "skull with my bludgeon." Collector Clark does not use bludgeons. Nevertheless, he, too, uses a little mild persuasion. This "persuasion" is the knowledge, on the part of his employees, that they will be discharged, it they do not, with a smile, put their hands in their pockets as often as the exigencies of the campaign require.

Mr. Clark, some time ago, offered to subscribe five hundred dollars to the fund then gathering to carry out "a bolt." This is not much, considering that his official life hangs upon a thread, and if he likes to put up double the amount no one will object. We do protest, however, against the practice of mulcting underpaid employees to further the selfish aims of Collector Clark and his friends.

Choose for Yourselves.

The Mackey wing of the Republican party meet in convention to-day for the purpos of nominating county officers and member of the State Legislature. Their opponents, the Bowen faction, made their nominations last week, and so infamous is their genera character that the whole ticket will be handsomely defeated at the polls if the convention which assembles to-day acts with ordinary discretion. Unless a considerable part of the white vote is brought out, the Bowenites, who are stronger than the Mackevites with the negroes, will win the day, and the whites will not countenance a bad set of candidates. The Mackeyites really have the game in their own hands. A decent Republican ticket, with a few upright and capable candidates upon it, will command several thousand white votes. The party leaders may not think it worth while to conciliate the white vote, but if they do not, Bowen will sweep everything before him. It is for them, therefore, to say whether they will give up a little to avoid losing all.

Greeley on the Credit Mobiller.

The country owes Horace Greeley a hearty vote of thanks for the merciless tomahawk ing he gave these precious copartners, Conress and the Credit Mobilier, in his spee at Indianapolis. The Credit Mobilier bribing of Congressmen to assume its debt of $170,000,000 is the colossal fraud of the day. Mr. Greeley stated the whole case in these vigorous sentences:

"Now, gentlemen, I do not say what individuals have received this money; but I do say that by corrupt legislation, in the way of individual gains, thirty or forty million dollars has peen saddled on this country-an unjust and unrighteous debt. [Applause.] We are called upon to pay the interest now every six months', and after thirty years must pay the principal, and all this because the men who were at the same time legislators and corporators corruptly used their legislative powers to fasten this corrupt debt upon the people of the United States. [Applause.]

"Now, then, I stand here, tellow-citizens, to nsist that the legislature of your country, National and State, needs purification, and that the leading men in our government-the men who are speakers and the members of the committee on the Pacific Rallway and other railways-that these men should be called to justice. [Applause.] We need reconstruction; we need purification; and this not less than the other. The letters of Oakes Ames, the underled and underlable letters of a member of Congress, and a corporator and a large stockholder in the Union Pacific Railroad, whereof he was lately president-these letters incontestably prove corruption, and corruption in high places. Such legislation as I have briefly exposed to you could not have been accomplished, could not have been affected, without the connivance and support of men high in authority; and these facts assure you that purification is urgently needed."

Western Divorces.

Considerable consteruction has been created in Chicago by the recent ruling of the Circuit Court of that city, that hereafter divorces would not be granted except for serious auses. In the case in which this decision was made, the wife alleged repeated and extreme cruelty on the part of the husband; but the evidence only showed that the lady had suffered much from the jealous disposition and intemperate habits of the gentleman. The judge decided that extreme and repeated cruelty was not inflicted when a man scolded his wife or pinched her arms black and blue. The marriage relation, he held, was not simply a matter of etiquette, in which the husband must invariably be polite, and that allowance must always be made for human nature and human passions. Husbands, he said, were often absurdly jealous, but divorces were not to be granted because men were jealous of their wives, especially when it was not shown whether the wives were to blame or not.

the richly-timbered portion of the estate.

There are about 300 acres cleared, producing splendid crops of cotton and corn.

Last year 4 comfortable frame houses were erected by the proprietor on the cater edge of the body of timber, and the locality is remarkably healthy.

body of timber, and the locality is remarkably healthy.

The timbered portion (719 acres) presents as fine a body of virgin forest as the eye can meet with in this State, varying from the smallest sized cap timber to the largest ranging size.

To railroad contractors, lumbermen and turpentine distillers, no finer opportunity has ever been presented of realizing a fortune, as they have the option of shipping to Savannah or Port Royal, either by water or rail.
