Of praise, of blame, he drank his fill:
Who has not read the life-long story?
And dear we hold his fame, but still
The man was dearer than his glory.
And now to us are left alone
The closet where his shadow lingers,
The vacant chair—that was a throne—
The pea, just fallen from his lingers.

Wrath changed to kindness on that pen;
Though dipped in gall it flowed with honey;
One flash from but the cloud, and then
The skies with smile and jest were sunny;
Of hate he surely lacked the art.
Who made his enemy his lover:
O reverend head and Uhristian hear:!
Where now their like the round world over?

He saw the goodness, not the taint, In many a poor, do-nothing creature, And gave to sinner and to saint, But kept his faith in human nature; Perchance he was not worldly wise, Yet we who noted, standing nearer, Tha shread kind twinkle in his eyes, For every weakness held him dearer.

Alas i that unto him who gave
So much, so little should be given !
Himself alone, he might not save
Of all for whom his hands had striven.
Place, freedom, fame, his work bestowed;
Men took, and passed, and left him lonely;
What marvel, if beneath his load,

At times he craved for justice only ! Yet inablesaness, the serpent's tooth,
His lofty purpose could not alter;
Toli had no power to bend his youth,
Op inake his lasty manheod faiter;
From envy's sting, from slander's dart,
That armored sout the body shelded,
Till one dark sorrow chilled his heart,
And then he bowed his head and yielded.

Now, now, we measure at its worth The gracious presence gone forever!
The wrinkled East that gave him birth, Liments with every laboring river;
Wild mean the free winds of the West
For him who gathered to har prairies
The sons of men, and made each crest
The haunt of happy household fairies;

And anguish sits upon the mouth
Of her was came to know him latest:
Bis heart was ever thine, O South!
He was the truest friend, and greatest!
He shunned thee in the splendid shame.
He stayed thee in the voiceless sorrow;
The day thou shalt forget his name,
Fair couth, can have no sadder morrow.

The tears that fall from eyes unused—
The hands above his grave united—
The words of men whose lips he loosed,
Whose cross he hore, whose wrongs he righted—
Could he but know, and rest with this!
Yet stay, through Death's low-lying hollow,
His one last foe's insatiste hiss
On that benignant shade would follow!

Peace | while we shroud this man of men

Let no unhallowed word be spoken!

He will not answer thee again,

His month is scaled, his wand is broken.

Some holier, cause, some vaster trust,

Seyond the wall, he doth inherit

O gently, Earth, receive his dust,

And Heaven mooth his troubled a call.

QUARANTINE OFFICE. CHARLESTON, November 20, 1872.

CHARLESTON, S. C., September 20, 1872.

Mr. M. S. VALENTINE, Esq.:

Dear Sir—During the past summer I have had a full opportunity of testing your "Preparation of Meat Juice." particularly amongst children suffering from Darrhœa from "Teething." I find that as soon as they lose their appetite and commence to degenerate generally, your Preparation administered is well retained and most often enjoyed by the little sufferers. They improve rapidly in health and strength. Other preparations are not so easily tolerated, on account of their unpleasant door and taste.

I consider the contents of your little bottle most invaluable in all acute washing diseases.

Very respectfully, W. M. FITCH, M. D.

CHARLESTON, S. C., September 26, 1872.

Dear Sir—Some time ago i had the honor to receive by express specimens of your "Meat Julce" for trial. I have not thus far acknowledged your kind communication for the simple reason that I never certify to things of which I know nothing. I have, in the meantime, tested your "Preparation," fully shd cautiously, and the result of my experience has been, that in all cases where support is demanded, whether in the techning child or the adult worn down by disease, your "Preparation" has, under my observation, proved far more efficacious than all the farrage of farinaceous articles and so-called extracts, which often do more harm than good. do more harm than good.

MR. M. S. VALESTON, S. C., September 11, 1872.

MR. M. S. VALENTINE:

Dear Sir—I have made quite an extensive trisi of your "Meat Juice" during the past summer, particularly in those protracted and exhausting dieuses incident to infancy and childhood, so familiar to our Southern physicians. The trisi has resulted in a preference for your "Meat Juice" above all the Extraors which I have hithersoused. So far, it has july come up to all that has been claimed for it; and if its preparation is confuccted with the same care, and the purity of the materials "maintained" as hereitofore, I have no doubt its use will be greatly extended.

Very respectfully your obedient servant,

Dear Sir—Your samples of "Meat Juice" were received through the politeness of your agent, and used very freely during the summer in cholera infantum, low forms of fever and, other diseases peculiar to this citmate.

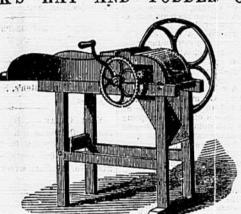

I cheerfully add my testimony to its dietotic value, and regard your "Meat Preparation" of great benefit, not only in lufantle, but also in adult practice. It is with pleasure that I can recommend its use to the profession generally from past experience and the happy results in my practice. Very respectfully, &c..
