A BULL ACCOUNT OF THE RECENT TO ORANGEBURG DUEL.

The Casus Belli—The Fighting Ground -Fruitless Attempts to Settle the Quarrel-Two Shots Exchanged-Nobody Hurt-How it all Ended. [From the Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel.]

Sand Bar Ferry is rapidly regaining the reputation as a duelling ground which it had before the war, and is becoming a favorite resort for belligerently inclined parties from the States of Georgia and South Carolina. But a short time since two gentlemen from Athens resorted thither to settle their little unpleasantness, and on Monday a couple of Carolinians went to the Ferry on a little excursion gotten up for the same purpose. The parties to the duel were two from On.ngeburg, South Carolina—Mr. James T. Heyward, editor of the Orangeburg Times, (Demouratic.) and Mr. Malcolm J. Erowning, editor of the Orangeburg News, (Radical.) From what we can learn of the affair, the origin and progress of the difficulty were as follows: When the news of the Boston fire came a paragraph appeared in the Times, substantially, thus: "When General Sherman burned Columbia the Bostonians fired cannon over the news. Who will shoot now?" The Columbia Union (Radical) published a very harsh criticism upon the paragraph in question, which the Times declined to notice on account of its source. A few weeks ago the Orangeburg News also essayed a lecture to the Times upon its editorial. This provoked a severe reply from the Times. Among other things stated in the reply was an assertion that Mr. Browning's (who had recently taken charge of the News), editorial predecessor was a negro man, named Clyde. In the issue of the News, which appeared last week, this statement was denounced as a willful and mallelous falsehood. Mr. Heyward then sent a demand for a retraction, which was refused, and then a challenge, which was accepted, and the parties agreed to come to Georgia to fight it out.

A FRUITLESS ARREST. NEWSPAPER EDITORS A FRUITLESS ARREST.

The original agreement was that the parties should fight near this city, on Sunday, the sth instant, at twelve o'clock. On Saturday night, however, when the train reached Branchville. Mr. Browning was arrested. Beports of the duel had gotten out and some one had sent intelligence ahead in order to have the fight stopped. Mr. Browning, after being detained awhile, gave bond to keep the peace in South Carolina, and was released. The discharge came too late for him to keep the appointment, and the duel for that day was irustrated. The other principal reached the city in time without experiencing any detention, and on Sunday at eleven o'clock, accompanied by his irlend, rode promptly to the ferry in his carriago, where he walted some time for his antagonist. The other parties not arriving he returned in the city. On Sunday night Mr. Browning, we learn, came in from Branchville, and Mr. Browning made an arrangement for another meeting at the same place on the next day (Monday), at 12 c'olock. THE WHOLE AFFAIR WAS KEPT DARK, and scarcely any one in the city knew any and scarcely any man and the taken place on Sunday, as was at first agreed upon, the chances are that no one would have heard of it in time to be present, and the only spectators would have been the surgeons and the seconds. But after the carriage went out on Sunday morning, and its destination became known, suspicions were aroused, which resulted in the discovery that a duel was on foot, though nothing could be learned from the parties. As it was, however, this information was confined to a few, and at the time the carriages left the city yesterday not more than twenty persons knew that a duel was on the tapls. After the parties left the town soveral persons heard of the affair and came down to the ferry in time to witness its termination.

ON THE GROUND.

The carriage containing Mr. Browning, his second, Mr. Waller, and Mr. Van Tassels and another gentleman, was the first to leave the city, and arrived first upon the ground, halt-ing near the bank of the Savannah river. In ing near the bank of the Savannan river. In a few minutes Mr. Heyward arrived in an open pheton, accompanied by his second, Mr. Voss, and Dr. Legare, Colonel O. A. Butler, of this city, and Colonel Frederick, of Orangeburg, his friends. Mr. Heyward's carriage halted in the fringe of trees running parallel with the river, and Mr. Browning's vehicle with the river. entered the grove soon afterwards. A CONVENIENT LOCALITY.

A CONVENIENT LOCALITY.

The beauty about the Sand Bar Ferry dueling ground is that it can be used by persons from either State the Carolinans fighting in Georgia and the Georgians in South Carolina. As the perice to this affair were South Carolinians, of course the duel had to be tought on this side of the river, and it was decided that the fight abound take place near the terry. A better side could not have been chosen. Betwee the river and the woods—a distance of several hundred yards—there is a wide open space almost entirely develop trees and undergrowth, and thickly carpeted with grass. This was the field selected. Through the thick grass the high road to the ferry wound its way in the road, which runs almost at right angles to the Savannah, the men were to be placed, to the Savannah, the men were to be placed at a distance of about fifty yards from the THE DISTANCE was to be ten pures, and the parties were to be placed north and south from each other. THE WEAPURS.

Some frouble, we understand, was experienced in agreeing upon weapons. Mr. Browning as the challenged party, had the right to decide what kind of weapons should be used. Distole of course weapons the challenged becomes the course weapons and the course weapons were weapons the course weapons were well as well as the course we were well as well as well as well as well right to decide what kind of weapons should be used. Pistols, of course, were to be the weapons; but what kind of pistols? Mr. Heyward, through his friend, proposed a pair of regular duelling pistols, which were rejected. His friend next proposed a pair of Colt's navy revolvers, which have become popular with duellists of late, and which were also decilined. A pair of strong shooting Deringers were offered and these also rejected. Mr. ming's friend then proposed a pair of the wesson cartridge revolvers, which were finally accepted by Mr. Heyward.

CHOICE OF POSITION AND THE WORD. In a toss up for position the choice was won by Mr. Heyward's friend, who placed his principal with fits face to the north, and at the more distrated end of the line—the road sloping a little as it approached the river. Mr. Browning's friend won the privilege of giving

ATTEMPT TO SETTLE.

In the meantime Dr. DeSaussure Ford, the In the meantime Dr. DeSaussure Ford, the surgeon of Mr. Browning, (Dr. Barton, of South Carolina, acting in that capacity for Mr. Heyward,) and some of the other gentlemen present, attempted to have the matter adjusted without an exchange of shots. But the effort proved unsuccessful. Mr. Browning refused to retract his article unless Mr. Heyward would first retract his, which the latter positively declined. Nothing, therefore, remained to be done but to put the men upon the field and let the question be settled by lead. IN POSITION.

At half-mat twelve o'clock the men came from the grove to the field. Mr. Heyward had on a full dress suit of black, closely buthad on a full dress suit of black, closely buttoned up. Mr. Browning wore light pants and adark coat. The pistols were handed the principals, and Messrs. Yoss and Waller took position on the right and left of the centre of the line. The principals stood sideways, each grasping his weapon with the muzzle down.

Mr. Waller gave the word, "Gentlemen, are you ready? Fire! One, two, thrze. Stop." The weapons were discharged between the words "one and "stop." but without effect—both men alming too high.

A SECOND SHOT.

A SECOND SHOT.

Mr. Browning's second then asked the second of Mr. Heyward if he was satisfied. The latter replied in the negative, and preparations were made for another fire—all efforts for a settlement again proving unavailing. Again the pisiols were handed to the principals, the word given, and the weapons discharged. Both parties were uniquired—Mr. Browning's ball going in the ground, and Mr. Heyward's striking in rear of his antagonist.

Dr. Ford, Colonel Builer, and others, now again sought to arrange matters. Mr. Frowning, we learn, claimed that under the code—having exchanged two shots—he had already given satisfaction, but declined to retract unless there was a mutual retraction, which Mr. Heyward refused. Urged by his friends, who represented the view taken as above to him, Mr. Heyward consented to salute and leave the field without making friends. The two principals then advanced alone, each three code, saluted without speaking, and cettred but the ground. They then encered their arriages, and principals, seconds, surgeons and spectators returned to the city. HOW IT WAS ARRANGED.
