Katle Puinam is in herself a bright little plature, in appearance the embodiment of childish innocence, light hear-edness and trol-icome glee, with golden, sunny hair, pure transparent complexion, eyes of bright glancing spiendor, yet with a fervor and feeling in their mellow blue depths, and with lips that in their mellifficious corel richness would melt to tenderness a sterner than Mars. And her voice pierces to the very recesses of the soul, while the sylph-like grace of person, the essence of ethereal movement, completes and ratifies the charm. Of all actresses of her style, she most resembles Maggie Mitchell, ugh in stature somewhat taller, and in gure more siender. To complete the picture, he is as captivating a little witch as we have

THE LODGE OF SORROW.

An Interesting and Impressive Ceremonial. The high estimation in which Masonry is held by the Charleston public was strikingly manifested last evening, when a dense crowd of ladies and gentlemen thronged the Grand Lodge room of the Masonic Temple, for the purpose of witnessing the solemn ceremonies of the Lodge of Sorrow. Every seat and available inch of standing room was occupied. and each avenue of approach to the reom was closely packed for many feet outside of the doors. The room was brilliantly illuminated by a large circular burner, suspended from the centre of the ceiling, which shot forth a hundred jets of flame from its radiant circumference. There were also three two-light brackets, with cutglass globes, against the west wall, over the platform, which stands on that side of the room. The gas fixtures were the handlwork of Mr. P. L. Guillemin, and the manner in which they illumined the room was a striking testimonial to that gentleman's good judgment and workmanship. The chairs in the room were arranged so as to form an open square in the centre of the floor. In the middle of this square stood the catafalque, a strucure composed of two distinct parts. The first or main part was a pyramid of steps about four feet high. The steps were draped in black and the top step was covered with velvet of the same color. The second part of the catafalque consisted of a black canopy, supported above the steps by pillars, one at each angle, and draped in black and white. The canopy terminated in an urn-shaped ornament of gilded material, down the sides of which drooped a long white fringe. The heads of the pillars, which supported the canopy, terminated in similar ornaments, which were fringed in like manner. The curtains of the canopy were fringed with white, and caught up in graceful folds with white rosettes. The top of the canopy was lined on the inside with white. The drapery was arranged by Mr. W. J. Trim, and the result was highly creditable to him. Beside each of the pillars stood a small pedestal draped in black. Upon each pedestal stood three black candles burning together in a white candlestick. Upon the top step of the pyramid stood a magnificent coffin of ebony, richly mounted with white metal of elaborate workmanship. Upon the centre of the coffin was a black velvet cushion, and upon the cushion stood an urn of white porcelain. Around the sides of the steps upon which the coffin rested were eleven small shields of bright metal, each bearing in black letters the name of one of the deceased Masons in whose memory the Lodge was held. At each corner of the catalaque sat a Mason in regalia, holding a wand in his hand. Between was an open Bible, and upon the open page rested the emblems of Masonry, the Square and the Compass. Three pedestals occupying respectively the middle and either end of the platform, were draped in black and had a narrow strip of white crossing the black on the side next the audience. The middle pedestal bore two black candles burning in white candlesticks. The platform was occupied by Grand Master R. S. Bruns, Deputy Grand Master J. B. Kershaw, members of Union Kilwinning Lodge, and the masters of other Lodges, while the row of chairs which surrounded the square

the catalaque and the platform before noticed stood an altar of white marble; upon the altar was devoted to the remaining members of the Lodge. At seven o'clock precisely the ceremonies were begun by the misters and wardens of Union Kilwinning Lodge, in accordance with the Masonic ritual. A prayer by the chaplain, Rev. P. J. Shand, and a hymn by the choir came next. Then followed an address by the worshipful master, upon the uncertainty of life and the lesson of the occasion. Another hymn by the choir, and an appropriate passage of Scripture were followed by With his usual kindness Mr. Ford has invited an interval of protound ellence, when the tapers Go and keep them company. At After a prayer had been offered by the chaplain, the officers of the lodge left their seats, and marched several times around the catafalque, their footsteps falling with solemn cadence upon the almost death-like stillness. After two or three pauses, during which the master and wardens deposited wreaths and flowers upon the coffin, the procession drew up in line before the altar facing the catafalque. In this position each member of it bowed with the rest three times, repeating, in deep low tones, "Farewell! farewell! farewell!" The officers then returned to their seats, and after a passage of Scripture had been read by the chaplain, the lights were raised, the Notice.-Boctor M. Well, the optician, will leave this city Monday next. Those in want of his services will avail themselves of this their last opportunity.

A CHARMING BOOK, for boys and girls, is "The Chatterbox," for 1872, bound in ornamental boards. It is profusely illustrated. The reading matter is of a pure and elevated tone, indeed there is much in it to instruct "children of a larger growth," but written in so pleasing and simple style as to make it highly interest ing to the youthful mind. We would advise parents at once to go to Fogartie's Book Deository and secure a copy, as the advice from the English publishers are that the edition is exhausted, and no further orders can dec10-tuthe3 be supplied.

THERE IS no more refining influence, particularly to the rising generation, than the Fine Arts. In this respect, the wonderful art of "Chromo Lithographing" may be considered as one of the important inventions of the age. The luxury of adorning our residences with good pictures is no longer a monopoly of the wealthy. The works of the best artists are usually selected by the chromolat. A good chromo is much preferable to a second or third-rate painting, and can be had at onetenth the price. The collection of chromos now on sale at "Fogartie's Book Depository" is the largest, and contains the most choice specimens from foreign artists, ever displayed in this city. They are surprisingly exquisite were extinguished and the lights dimmed. In design and execution, and at prices which will enable all to indulge their tastes for the UNPRODUCTIVE FRAUDS. - Imitations and counterfeits of an established, popular restorative, although mischievous in their direct effects, are indirectly beneficial in some respects. They teach the community to rate at its just value the preparation that has been similated and pirated. The reputation and sale of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, for example, have been greatly enhanced by the attempts that have been made to supplant it. The dupes of imposture who from time to time have been induced by plausible falsehoods to try some worthless succedaneum for the standard tonic of America have invariably returned to it in an enthusiastic frame of mind, ready to champion its merits to the uttermost. The warmest panegyrists of its preventive and curative properties are those who have weighed the nostrums of envious adventurers in the balance and found them wanting. In a pecuniary point of view, all attempts to undermine the popularity of this medicine have proved advantageous to the proprietors, and except for the sake of protecting the public, the game of exposure would not be worth the candle. dec10-tuths2paw

Weekly Report of the Wilmington Na-val Stores Market. WILMINGTON, December 12.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE—Since last week there has been nothing of importance doing in the market for this article. Throughout the entire week the tone of the market has been very quiet and easy, and the daily transactions, though irree, have bee! a prices unchanged. Thursday, the day preceding the opening of our review, the rolling quitati n for sele-was 57 cents. Filday the market was very quiet in ione, with no disposition ameng buyer- to purchase, and no sales. Saturday the market dropped in the condition noted above, where it has lain during the week, and closes to-day quiet and steady at 55 cents. The receipts for the week were 1412 casks, against 1000 casks for last week—an improvement of 412 casks. The exports were 1897 cask, and the stock in market is 5283 casks.

ORUDE TURPENTINE.—In the early part of the week nothing new oil mijortance worthy of mention transpired. Prices ruled very quiet and steady and both shippers and nistiller's orders were met freely at the ruling quotations. Wednesday there was considerable excitement in the market, and prices were unsettled and ductuating. There were sales of 375 bbis at $35 for hard and $5 for yellow dip and virgin, an advance of 80c on hard, and a decline of 20c on yellow dip and virgin. There were also sales of 881 bbis at $3 25 for hard, and $5 60 for yellow dip and virgin. To-day at the time of closing our report the market still inbors under the excitement of the previous day, and closes quiet and firm at $3 25 for hard and $5 for yellow dip and virgin. The general opininion is that the advance is merely temporary, and that the market will go back to its old figures. The receipts for the week, 2624 bbis against 2,382 bbis for last week, are a small increase. The exports are large, and very little if any stock accumulates.

amall increase. The exports are large, and very little, if any, stock accumulates.

Rosin.—The rosin market during the week has been in the hands of "bulls and bears," and the great bulk of transactions have been for future been in the hands of "bulls and bears," and the great bulk of transactions have been for future delivery at figures above the quotations of spot sales. The second day under review the market was active with sales of 4000 bbis strained at $3.20 spot and $3.25 for December delivery—buyers' option. Satarday the market was quiet with sales of 800 bbis at $3.20. Monday the bull movement was visible, and a small transaction was made at an acvance of 5c. Tuesday the bears fought the market and the previous day's advance was lost. There were, however, large transactions in future delivery P. N. T. Wednesday the market was unsattled with small transactions at previous day's figures. To-day at the time of closing our report the market remains quiet with small sales. No. 2—there were small sales of this grade on Wednesday at a fair margin above strained. No. 1 has been entirely nominal. For the finer qualities of pales there has existed only a moderate inquiry with very light transactions. The receipts show a small decrease over those of last week, but for want of ship room the exports are very light, and the stock bears a small increase, and is new fully 75,000 bbls.

The market was very active for the past week. The sales for the week amount to 510 bales at prices ranging from 17a15c. Shipment for the week ending December 12 aum up 750 bales.

The general character of the maket has changed but little. High grades command full prices, while low grades are relatively lower. We quote middling 11%c; sales of the week 44% bales.

MACON, December 11.

The warehousemen find great difficulty in handling the cotton that is coming to, owing to the scarcity of draying facilities, which is due to the prevalence of the horse disease. The receipts of cotton have also been inaterially diminished from the same cause. The market to-day was active with a good demand. We note no change from yesterday's quotations, which are as follows: Olean red 15%c, ordinary 16%a16%c, good ordinary 16%a17c, low middlings 17%c, middlings 18. The receipts to-day were 420 bales; shipments 324; sales 318.
