The Charleston News.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 28, 1873.

THE CHARLESTON DAILY NEWS "Is designs rted as the newspaper for the publication of "all legal notices, and official advertisements, "for the County of Charleston, under the act "of February 22d, 1870, entitled an act to regu-"late the publication of all legal and public is, in these piping days of peace, busily "notices."

NEWS OF THE DAY.

-The woollen mills in Massachusetts are reported to be stopped on account of the present high price of the raw material. —It is believed that when full reports can be obtained it will be found that nearly five hundred persons lost their lives in Minnesota during the recent snow storm. -John E. Owens, the comedian, tired of travelling, has concluded to settle down in his native City of Baltimore, and build a museum-theatre there. -The attempt of theatre managers in New York to abolish bill-boards was a failure. Two of them put out bigger posters than ever, and thus forced the others back to the old

-The presence of reporters is opposed at the regular weekly meetings of Methodist preachers in New York, because only such parts of the proceedings as are of interest to the secular public get noticed. -It is proposed to station a steamer two or three hundred miles east of Sandy Hook, connecting her by a submarine wire with the signal service station in New York, so that she could give warning of approaching storms to inward-bound vessels.

-Mr. James Ashbury has sold his celebrated yacht, the Livonia, to Mr. Thomas Brassey, M. P., taking in exchange the latter's steam vatch Bothen, which will be recollect ed as having visited these waters last fall. Mr. Ashbury also threw in his little steamer Merlin to boot.

-Monticello, the estate of Thomas Jefferson, subsequently owned by Commodore Levy, farm school for the orphan sons of warrant | clusively that there is ample reason for what officers in the navy, is now in litigation at Bichmond, between the State of Virginia as trustee and the heirs of Commodore Levy. -Pere Hyacinthe made his first public appearance in Paris, since his change in eccleslastical and social position, on the first Sun day evening of the year, delivering an address to a large mixed audience in M. Pressense's chapel, Taltbout, in the Rue de Provence. He defined his position as a faithful Catholic, though not accepting certain dogmas.

-A census of Cuba has recently been taken, and General Sickles, receiving the result from the Spanish Government, has ti- "mitted it to Washington. The total population of the teland is placed at 1,399,811, there being 763,-176 whites, 238,927 free colored, 363,288 slaves and 34,420 Asiatics. In 1867 the population of Cuba was reported to be 1,414,508, so that in the five years that have elapsed there is apparently a decrese of 14,706. The insurrection in Cuba probably interfered with getting an accurate census of the insurgent districts last

-The clipper ship Young America, it is claimed, has just made the fastest time ever made by a sailing ship between Liverpool and San Francisco-ninety-six days. The Young America is an American ship, as one might judge from the name, though very few ships trading between Liverpool and San Francisco now fly the American flag. Previously to this latest voyage, the quickest time made between those two cities was by the British ship Golden Gate-one hundred days. The Young America had previously made two rapid voyages from San Francisco to New York, one in eighty days and the other in eighty days and twenty hours.

-The New York agent of the "White Star Line" of steamers claims that the steamer Baltic, of his line, on her last voyage out to England, made the quickest trip on record across the Atlantic. Her time between Sandy Hook and Queenstown was seven days, twenty hours and nine minutes. Previously the shortest voyage was one made by the City of Brussels, of the Inman Line, in December, 1869, in seven days, twenty hours and ten minutes. The difference is just one minute in favor of the Baltic, out, as the chances are that this may as lin ... be a difference in watches as in speed, the two vessels seem quite equally matched.

-That the new Congress will not meet until December next seems pretty well settled. Heretofore it has been customary, however, in the year of the President's inauguration to convene the Senate in extraordinary session on March fourth, so that the vice-president can take his oath of office and assume his position as president of the Senate, while the Benate Itself can act upon such nominations for office as the President may make. Telegrams from Washington say that President Grant does not see any necessity for such an extra session this year, and therefore may not issue a proclamation convening the Senate. It is added, however, that the senators think such an extra session should be called.

. The holiday amusements of London are peculiar. On Christmas Day there was a swimming match in the Serpentine, for which there were twenty-four entries. The distance was one hundred yards. The race throughout be void. Not satisfied with demanding tions. It is for sale at Holmes's Book House. I climan.

the distance owing to the numbing effects of the cold water. One veteran bather who was present-a hale old gentleman, over eighty years of age-has been in the habit of bathing every morning, winter and summer, since the commencement of the present century. After the race was over, the competitors assembled round one of the seats on the banks and drank rum and milk. The "Health of the Queen" and other royal toasts were given. -A very singular robbery occurred in the office of the Houston and Texas Central Railroad Company, in Wall street, New York, on Wednesday. Mr. W. E. Dodge, of the firm of Phelps, Dodge & Co., president of the above road, was in the office, when Mr. C. H. Currier, connected with the firm of Wilderming & Mount, entered, and laid a package of twenty-five bonds of the Houston and Texas Road, each valued at one thousand dollars, and one hundred shares of the railroad stock, besides a bank book with checks and other valuables, amounting in all to forty thousand dollars, in a large window, and sat down on a sofa near with Mr. Dodge. While they were conversing a map-peddler came in, and exhib ited a map that Mr. Dodge had requested him to bring. In the meantime, while Mr. Dodge and Mr. Currier were examining the map, two strange men came in and asked some unimportant question of a check. It was noticed that one of them edged up near this window. When the examination of the map had been concluded, it was ascertained that Mr. Currier's packages were missing. There were six persons in the office at the time, all of whom were searched, as well as the office. It is supposed the two strange men obtained the packages and made off with them.

The Harbor Improvements.

There is not a more pleasing evidence of the softening and healing influence of time than is found in the fact that General Gilmore, whom we all blessed so heartily a few years ago, is now engaged in carrying out a public work whose completion cannot fail to have an important and immediate effect upon the trade and commerce of Charleston. The skilful soldier who, during the war, was bent on devising some means of compelling the Confederates to decamp from the city, elaborating plans for deepening Charleston harbor. These are not matters of mere speculation. The line of operations is determined upon, the money is appropriated, and the excavating and dredging will begin at once. This is what may be called practical reconstruction and reunion, and there is upon the ground of intimidation and frauduno room to doubt that General Gilmore will apply himself to his work with a vigor and zeal which will insure his success and make Charleston the finest harbor on the South Atlantic coast.

A Monstrous Bill. The characteristic generosity of the State Legislature frequently leads that body to grant valuable and exclusive privileges to speculators who procure acts of incorporation with the sole object of selling them to the highest bidder. But it is hardly possible that a bill so radically wrong, in principle and in detail, as "the bill to charter Mr. J. J. Patterson, having some occult in-"the Great Northern and Southern Railway "Company," will be allowed to become a law. The objections to the bill are of the gravest and rubst fundamental character. There is no need to descend to particulars to find arguments against it. The bill is, in its essence, a monstrous usurpation; an attempt, by a body of unknown individuals. to obtain powers which will enable them, in the execution of their plans, to defy the It is no laughing matter, for a conviction Legislature and injure and oppress the people. These words may seem too strong to those who have not studied the bill. A by the latter bequeathed in trust for a glance at its main provisions will prove con-

> The bill to charter the Great Northern and Southern Railway Company names no incorporators. Power is given to the company "to establish railway communication" between Port Royal and the Ohio River. Every privilege possessed by any other corporation in the State is granted to the company. It may take and use what land it requires for the road, and for buildings and other structures necessary to its completion. No other railroad shall run laterally within fifteen miles of it. The company is given the exclusive right of transporting passengers and merchandise. It is exempt from taxation, until twenty years after the completion of the road. The charter cannot be amended by the Legislature, unless the directors of the company unanimously petition for amendments; and, even then, the amendments shall not be binding, unless they are unanimously adopted and accepted by the company. Here is already an appalling array of rights and privileges, and in addition to these the bill declares that "the company shall possess such additional "powers as may be convenient for the due and successful execution of the powers "granted in this charter, and for the suc-"cessful construction and management of "the work. Under this clause, in connection with the clauses which precede it, the company could carry on any description of business. Their capital is nominally $1,500,000, but this may be increased to "a sum sufficient" to complete and stock the line. With such a charter and money at their back, the company could soon make themselves the masters of the State. And to whom are these stupendous privileges given? The public do not know! No names are mentioned. There is not so much as an indication in the bill of a decent willingness, on the part of the company, to spend any considerable sum before the charter goes into effect. When fifty thousand shares of twenty-five dollars are subscribed, and one dollar a share is paid up, the incorporation is complete. And even this sum of fifty thousand dollars need not be in money. It may be paid in notes to run sixty days, "or longer," at the option of the commissioners. And, lest the raising of fifty thousand dollars, in notes, should be too onerous, it is provided that when fifteen thousand shares are subscribed, the subscribers may meet and elect directors, who may sell the stock remaining untaken at such prices as they may decide upon. It is of contempt, the dilation of the pupils from not too much to say that a paper subscription of twenty or twenty-five thousand dollars will bring the charter into active life. There is another extraordinary provision in the bill. The subscription books may be kept open for ten years, when, if the subscriptions necessary to the incorporation be not obtained, the act and the subscriptions shall was an exceedingly good one, although sev- privilages never before conferred upon a coreral of the good swimmers were unable to go porate body, and with having carte blanche to do whatever they please, and with limiting the immediate cost of the charter to twenty or twenty-five thousand dollars in notes running sixty days, "or longer," the friends of the scheme ask that they be allowed to hold the charter, in suspense, for ten years. For ten years it is to be a standing menace to the people; an insuperable obstacle in the way of those who, in good faith and for the public benefit, may wish to undertake some small part of the universal work which the favored corporation controls.

Every franchise granted by the State is a substraction from the heritage of the people, and it is the duty of their representatives to confer public privileges with a careful and grudging hand. The Legislature have been too lavish in granting acts of incorporation; but we do not think they will rashly pass the bill to charter the great Northern and Southern Railway. It is right that persons who desire to build the railroads which public convenience requires should have the opportunity of so doing. The charters, however, should be precise and definite; no unusual powers should be given, the Legislature should not relinquish their supervisory control, and the charter should become inoperative if a given number of miles of road are not completed within twelve months. There would be safety in this course; but such bills as that which we invite the Legislature to summarily reject are cloaks for trickery and fraud-an insult to the public intelligence, and a deadly blow aimed at the prosperity of the State.

The Charleston Delegation.

The report which comes to us from Columbia that the whole Charleston delegation are to be presented for indictment at the Court of General Sessions, on charges of bribery and corruption, is peculiarly gratifying, for the reason that it indicates a possibility that disgraceful rumors which have been affoat for many months will at last be sifted to the bottom. It will be remembered that there were two Radical factions (the Regulars and the Bolters) contending for the mastery in the election held in October, 1872. The Bolters had an apparent majority in Charleston County; but the Regulars contested the election of the entire legislative and county ticket, lent voting. The county canvassers declared the election in favor of the Bolters, and an appeal was taken to the State board of canvassers, which consists of the Secretary of State, Comptroller-General, Attorney-General, State Treasurer, Adjutant-General, and the chairman of the committee on privileges and elections of the House of Representatives. All these officers were Regulars of the strictest sect. There was some natural perturbation in the ranks of the Bolters, but, as the decisive day approached, they grew more confident, and the board by a handsome majority decided in their favor. The belief at the time was that fluence with the board, had consented to work for the Bolters, if they would pledge themselves to vote for him for United States senator. It was a matter of eighteen votes, and when the senatorial election came off every member of the Charleston delegation voted for "Honest" John Patterson. The bargain alleged to have been made is the charge now preferred against the delegation. means "imprisonment in the State Peniten-"tiary at hard labor, not exceeding ten "years," or a "fine not exceeding five thous-"and dollars, and imprisonment in the jail 'not exceeding two years.'

The Charleston delegation cannot afford to allow these charges to pass unnoticed. They are believed to be true by a large body of citizens, and it is due to the public and to the individuals that a rigid judicial investigation be had. A legislative inquiry will not answer the purpose. Eighteen or twenty members of the General Assembly are accused of selling their votes, and they must be put on their trial that their innocence or their guilt may be conclusively established. This is the least that can be done, and it is the least that the people expect.

Anxious About It.

The latest English mails we have received are full of articles relative to the Sandwich Islands. The English press look upon American annexation as a foregone conclusion, and discuss the subject according to their good or ill will for the Uni 38, with great earnestness. They seem to have much more anxlety about it than is lelt in this country, and in some of the newspapers we have received there is a lurking indication that some of the English people would not be averse to possess ing those islands it they saw the way clear for getting them. But the English Government is not so much inclined toward annexing distant colonies as it formerly was. Some of her "plantations" have manifested an ungrateful disposition to set up for themselves. One lot of them did so, and expanded into the United States. Latterly the Canadian Provinces have been evincing the same spirit, and so has Australia, and Great Britain has come to the very sensible conclusion that if they desire a "sep-'arate estate' they can have it.

Darwin's Last Book.

THE EXPRESSION OF THE EMOTIONS IN MAN AND THE LOWER ANIMALS. By Charles Dar-win, M. A., F. B. S. New York: D. Appleton & Co. Darwin's treatises are the scientific sensa tions of the day, and his last book, which is before us, is the most sensational of the series. It commences with a statement of the general principles of expression; that serviceable actions become habitual in association with certain states of the mind, and are performed, whether or not of service, in each particular case. This is illustrated in the case of expression of the various emotions in man and the lower animals. The means of expression in animals is then discussed, and the special expressions of animals and man, such as the depression of the corners of the mouth in grief, frowning, the firm closure of the mouth to express determination, gestures terror, the causes of blushing, &c. In conclusion, the bearing of the subject on the specific unity of the races of man, the part which the will and intention have played in the acquirement of various expressions, and the question of their acquisition by the progenitors of man, are discussed. The book is one that will attract great attention, and promises to be as popular as any other of the author's produc-
