TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1873.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

-Mademe Nilsson-Rouzeaud has met with another ovation at Moscow. The stage looked like a flower garden; one bouquet alone was so arge as to require Madame Rouzeaud to everybody as personally timid, and was alpick it up with both hands. At St. Petersburg she had the same success. In fact, her march through Russia has been triumphal.

-A monument is to be erected to Byron, at Missolonghi-when the funds are collected. A committee has been formed at Athens for the purpose. The Greek Church, even, is said to have lent its aid. It is certainly better late than never, and whatever wild notion may have prompted Byron in his journey to Misso longhi, he certainly died in the service of -The sinking of the emigrant vessel Northfleet still continues to be the subject of indignant comment in the English papers. The Soanish steamship Murillo, which was supposed to have collided with the Northfleet. has, it is said, been exonerated from blame at Cadis, though the British authorities demanded a searching investigation, which does not seem to have been accorded. No circumstance of the disaster is more distressing than the number of children that were drowned, unless, indeed, it be the fate of the captain, who had just been married after waiting for years for promotion to enable him to do so, and who perished, though his wife was saved. In London thirty thousand dollars has been collected for the sufferers. -A paper masquerade was recently given at a private residence in New York at which all the costumes were made of paper, and were of the most ocstly and elaborate pattern. One of the costumes was a dark paper underskirt, cut short and not very full, and spangled with a profusion of gold paper stars, with a black tissue paper polonaise, lined with black muslin to give sufficient durability for an evening's wear. Golden stars were also profusely sprinkled over this garment, which was quite long in front and back; being open to the waist before, and looped in the back. The high corsage was finished with an Elizabethan fraise of white paper around sleeve was a similar trimming. Another wi a dark underskirt with pink ruffles, each ruffle edged with hearts and diamonds. No tunic; but around the waist a wide fluted fraise of plak paper, six inches deep in front and iwelve in the back, each deep flute ornamented with alternate hearts and diamonds. All the ornaments worn were of paper also, and the handkerchiefs were of tissue paper, stamped in imitation of point lace.

-Philadelphia has recently had a sensation in the trial of five men accused of being proprietors of gambling houses. The jury which heard the testimony was locked up for eleven days before they could agree upon a verdict, and finally brought in a verdict of guilty, and the gamblers have been sentenced to pay a fine of five hundred dollars, and to serve two years and six months in the penitentiary. The unprecedented length of time taken by the jury in reaching a verdict had an effect to transfer the interest felt in the prisoners to their peers, who were kept closely gnarded during their deliberations. Under the thumb screws of an interviewer, one of the Jurymen has yielded up the secrets of the prison-house. When they first went out they stood nine for conviction and three for acquittal, and after taking several votes they stood | ington course for something like twelve years. the same. A pack of cards was produced, and six of the jurors whiled away their time in playing enchre; but this amusement was interfered with by one of the twelve who did not approve of the game, and threw the cards an experiment and met with success; and poslato the fire. A serious quarrel was averted by a compromise and a new pack was obtained." In the enjoyment of this kind of life the jury did not altogether forget the gamblers the other seceding States; the intelligent peowaose fate was entrusted to them, but held a ple of the Commonwealth are greatly in the meeting once or twice a day to insist anew on | minority, a tremendous black wave of ignorthe positions which they had first taken. Finally they got sick of this monotonous round of suchre, and concluded to bring in a verdict.

-Tom Scott, Pennsylvania's Railroad King. has suffered defeat by the New Jersey Legislature upon the question of granting a charter to the New York and Philadelphia Ballroad. One of the hardest fought contests in the his -tory of gigantic schemes has been closed, for the present at least, by the action of that body. Engineered by the rallway lords of the State, Scott declared it as his will that no and in so doing prove a panacea for many lils. more railroads should be constructed in New Men of opposing views can meet on the race Jersey unless he gave his permission. The session, which a few nights ago continued till midnight to decide the question, amid much excitement and confusion, was the occasion of Scott's rout by a vote of forty-one to eighteen, even though the skilful commander was there with his welltried aids to assist him. It is certainly New Jersey's turn to smile now, but she has declared war against too old a veteran to remain long in security. Trifles like the temporary loss of New Jersey in no way cast down a man of Tom Scott's resources, and he may be soon looked for in some other quarter in greater force than ever.

interest, and of that admirable repartee newspaper odds and ends, and between the Hebrew faith. About 1815 he was elected sheriff of New York city. In the canvass he was taunted with his belief. "Pity," said his opponents, "Caristians are to be hereafter hung by a Jew." "Pretty Christians," retorted the Major, "to require hanging at all." He died about 1850. He was the first to lighten the newspapers of the day with pleas antry and humorous hits at follies. He was connected at times with nearly every news paper in New York, and no man was better known there by all classes. He had a fund of information about the city, its social life, its representative men and its political leaders and schemes. He was also an excellent dramatic critic. He was, withal, a man universally respected, and mourned by many friends. He at one time attempted to found a city of refuge for the Jews on the Niagara River. It failed, however, and no trace of the city was left but a monument with the following curious inscription: "Ararat, a city of refuge for the Jews. Founded by Mordecai M. Noah, in the month of Tisri, 5586."

The Fate of France.

A Paris correspondent of the New York Herald, who has had an interview lately with Guizot, found the venerable statesman to be substantially in accord with Thiers in his opinion of the future of Imperialism The death of the ex-Emperor, he says, was a fatal blow to the Imperial party, and the Empire can only return through disaster. Even were its re-establishment possible, it than the Prince Imperial to stand at the gent and spirited boy, but he was not like his father-the symbol of Imperialism. The Prince Napoleon was exceedingly unpopular in France. He was looked upon by ways plotting-always in a trick-and, none better offering, plotting against his friends. The party was already divided. There was a staff of able and experienced men, and under the staff a large number of intensely ignorant followers. The staff was composed of men like Rouher, Magne, Hansmann, Fleury and La Roquette; but though able managers in politics they were men whose careers were well nigh over. They were past the time of experiments and ventures. These Bonaparte chiefs, Guizot thinks, will eventually unite with the Conservative party to check the onslaughts of Radicalism. In his opinion a republic is not suited to France. There were few men there who were Republicans from a sincere and earnest belief that the people are capable of self government. There was no genuine national movement in favor of a republic. President Thiers would probably not break with the Republicans, but he would grow more and more Conservative. France, he said, is still an invalid and needs rest. No one could predict her future. Of his own party, the Orieanist, he would simply say that they were waiting the orders of the country, and that no one of them-not even the Duc D'Aumale nor the Count de Paris-would ever for a moment dream of forcing himself on the country.

The Columbia Union, which professes to believe that the figure at which the extreasurer and ex-comptroller general reported the State debt-over fifteen millionsis correct, exhorts the Legislature to provide at once for a registration of the bonds. The | which they are prepared, and the RELIABILITY of the neck, and the long Henry IV puffed Columbia Carolinian, which maintains, on the QUALITY of EACH SPECIFIC article they are the authority of the present Republican treasurer, that more than one-third of the outstanding bonds are fraudulent, illegal and roid, calls upon the Legislature to do the same thing. How can our Solons hes. Itate

The Turf at the South.

The leading New York sporting paper, The Turf, Field and Farm, notices in complimentary terms the success of the recent races in Savannah, and expresses the hope and belief that a general revival of public interest in the turf is at hand throughout the South. The jockey club of the Forest City, we are told, are so well pleased at the financial result of their late meeting, that they have determined to offer for the next re-union purses to the extent of five thousand dollars. Commenting on this gratifying statement, The Turf, Field and Farm remarks:

"Charleston, once the scene of the most dazzling triumphs of the turi, has not listened to the clatter of hoofs on the famous Wash-The surviving members of the club still keep up the organization, but the aristocratic reunions are a feature of the past. But Savannah has broken the slience. She has made sibly her success will stimulate Charleston into action. South Carolina, we well know, has been more deeply punished than any of ance having overwhelmed them; still it is not well to fold the hands, with an exclamation of despair. Gradually the intellectual forces are rising to the surface, and, with patience and perseverance, they will as sert their supremacy before long. The North is beginning to lean more kindly towards the South, and this action affords much ground for hope. Turt amusements may be expen eive in a measure, but they direct thought from the exasperating discussion of politics

The German Army.

The work of improving the German army is never finished. We are now told that an imperial army reorganization bill will be among the most important measures submitted to the Diet of the German Empire. While retaining the main features of the existing system, the bill would seem to effect a very great amelioration in the state of the German citizen, so far as regards liability to military service. Uneasy Heads Doffing the Crown.

A queer reversal of the usual relations be tween king and people appears to exist at present. Ordinarily, it is supposed to be the people who tire of their kings, but now it is the kings who tire of their people. Amadeus, disgusted, leaves Spain, and news comes to us at the same time that the Prince of Lichtenstein has told his subjects that if they do not like his government he is perfectly willing to leave them to themselves, and reside in Rome as his own master. It seems that the finances of Lichtenstein are not very flourishing, and the inhabitants wish to invite the proprietors of the German gambling hells to establish them. selves among them. The prince says that such a thing shall not be while he is sovereign and hence the disagreement.

A Dangerous Experiment.

A most radical innovation upon long established custom in relation to the institution of marriage has been effected in California, where the old theory that man and wife are one is abolished. A new law establishes the equality of husband and wife, and declares that the two can contract with each other and sue each other the same as if they had never been married. It is to be feared that this re form will hardly meet the expectations of its would require a sterner and stronger man originators. Lawsuits after marriage, with husband and wife respectively in the positions head of it. The Prince might be an intelli- of plaintiff and defendant, would not seem to be calculated to promote domestic felicity. Besides such a law would surely lead to perpetual litigation. It is dangerous for a wife to be able to sue her husband for breach of contract in case he should fall to fulfil a promise to buy her a new bonnet or a silk dress following reasons, to wit:

Fir.T.—THEY CANNOT BE TAKED BY THE STATE, COUNTY OR CITY. The United States Supreme Court, in the case of the Northern Central Rairoad vs. Jackson, (see T Wallace. Supreme Court U.S., page 267.) decided that, when a railroad mortgage is a joint one, on property lying in two or more States, the bonds secured thereby are not liable to be taxed by either of the States; and the same principle relieves them from laxation by County, City or Town. The Charlott, Columbia and Augusta bonds are secured by a joint mortgage on property lying in North Carolina, south Carolina and Georgia.

SEGOND.—Because they are absolutely safe, being secured by a first mortgage of only $10,000, and a second mortgage of only $5000 per Not only does this Water powers a high reputa-tion among the public as a curative, but (and on this we lay the greatest stress.) IT IS HIGHLY RECOMMENDED BY THE FACULTY. It regulates the function of the digestive organs, the bowers, and the circulation of the blod, promoting the renovation of the organic lissues, and thus mixi-ga es and cure, many diseases.

FIFTH.—The business of the road is rapily incressing and the property and franchise daily accoming more valuable—the net earlings for the last ave norths being over difty per cent. more than for the corresponding months of the preceding year.

Sixth.—These bonds are practically redeemable in gold, for specie payment will certainly be resument before their meturily. Investors will, therefore, buy with greenbacks worths 7% cents, and receive their pay at par—thus adding a profit of over thiery gents on the dollar on the Print Movingage Bonds. and over thiery-seven cents on the Second Movingage Bonds, and in the meantime receiving a high rate of interest.

Finally.—As these Bonds have a fixed value in New York. Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta, they are considered good collaterals, on which mide can always be borrowed for temporary purposes. P. S .- Pamphlets furnished free on applica.
