

Hard Times—A Remedy.

An exchange notices the constant cry of "hard times" in its locality; but this cry is not confined to any locality or city—it is universal throughout the country, every section suffering to a greater or less degree from the depression of business and trade in every department of industry. In the Southern States, of course, this depression is greater than in other sections, because of want of capital, diminished resources and scarcity of reliable labor; but no people should despair and sit down ignobly to lament their hard fate, without putting forth their best energies to recover what they have lost. The truth is, that in the South we have always lived too easily and too improvidently. The habits of the Southern people, their peculiar system of labor, and, above all, the destructive policy of long credits, have left our people sadly unprepared for the terrible reverses which have come upon them, and hence the universal cry of "hard times," which is undoubtedly well founded, so far as they are concerned. But the very privations they are now subject to will, if properly used and appreciated, result in permanent good, and lay the foundation of a more lasting prosperity than they have ever enjoyed.

But how? As the credit system is played out, there is little danger of that over-trading induced by credit, which was the bane of the business relations between the planter and the merchant. The country customer will stay at home until he has something to bring to market, and thus, in spite of all his desires to live sumptuously or in luxury, he is forced into a system of economy, that, in the end, will prove advantageous to him and his family. His sons will find employment on the farm, instead of leading listless and useless lives, spending time in various amusements and spending money for segars and other luxuries, and, as has been too frequently the case, contracting the vice of gambling. His daughters will likely find useful employment at home, instead of gadding about in search of the latest fashion and styles of expensive dress goods. In this way, even under the present embarrassing circumstances, the planter must have some little surplus capital left, which can be judiciously expended in making useful purchases. Make home the headquarters of the united industry of the family, and but a few years will elapse before the most favorable change will be realized.

The condition of our section at this time, imperatively demands the most rigid economy, the most persistent toil, and the most patient self-sacrifice. It is related that Gen. Jackson, when President, being called upon by a delegation, and his opinion solicited in reference to the financial troubles of the country, replied in his peculiar abrupt style, that the remedy was this: "Live at home on your own bread and bacon, and buy nothing. He maintained that the energy and endurance of the people, and the fertility of the soil, could correct all the evils of bad legislation. The true remedy, and we believe the only one now at all applicable to our condition, is to stimulate industry, repress all political excitement, pay the honest laborer every cent due him, and thus create confidence between man and man. Discountenance all who attempt to live by their wits, by defrauding the laborer of his hire. We have health and strength, and fertile lands still left, and there is no cause for despondency, much less of despair, for a people who own more good land, in a genial climate, than they can cultivate.

Governor Brownlow, in a published card, gives a flat denial to the testimony of Detective Baker before the Impeachment Committee, wherein Brownlow is said to have been cognizant of a letter written by Andrew Johnson to Jeff. Davis. The Governor further says that he does not believe Mr. Johnson ever wrote a letter to Jeff. Davis or "any other man," giving aid and comfort to the rebellion.

A French writer calls dyspepsia the "ingratitude of the stomach."

FRANCE AND EUROPE.—A recent pamphlet put forth in France has attracted much notice, and is attributed to Napoleon III. or to some pen guided by him. It is said to be very able, and decidedly Napoleonic in its tone and opinions. It is chiefly devoted to the discussion of the German question, and regards the unification of Germany as completed. "Germany," it says, "is made," and in substance frankly admits that France is not able, and ought not if she were able, to prevent the complete unity of the Fatherland.

The pamphlet declares that the temporal power of the papacy must not be abandoned. It says: "The Convention of the 15th of September is not a last halting-place towards the complete absorption of the temporal papacy by united Italy. It is an impassable barrier placed between the temporal power and its assailants by the evident necessity of things, the secular logic of facts, and, lastly, by the energetic will of the Emperor Napoleon III."

To these two points the pamphlet adds a third, that the "progressive development of the liberal ideas contained in the letter of January 19, 1867," is to be carried out.

Much is hoped for from the European Congress soon to assemble. The general tone of the publication is conciliatory. It assumes that if Europe listens to France there will be a long reign of peace, and concludes thus:

"Perhaps in 1867 Europe, taught in the school of misfortune and wearied by so much fruitless agitation, eager for peace, may be happy to hear the same voice (the Emperor's) again say to her now, 'It is necessary that I should be listened to, for I speak in the name of France.'"

"AULD REEKIE."—We are indebted to Mr. R. McDougal for copies of the Glasgow Mail, of the 19th, and the Edinburgh Scotsman, of the 16th ult. The papers are on file in this office.

THE EXCHANGE.—This new restaurant, on Camden street, immediately in rear of Messrs. Gregg's crockery store, was christened yesterday. Mr. Clending, the proprietor, mildly suggests that the name is only intended as a gentle reminder that his friends and the "rest of mankind" can here "exchange" their surplus greenbacks (or even city currency) for a plate of delicious oysters, or a modicum of spiritual comforter. Mr. C. will please accept the unanimous thanks of the Phoenix establishment for his remembrance.

TO THOSE DESIRING TO CURE THEIR OWN MEAT.—A superb lot of hogs is now being butchered by Mr. B. T. Dent for a drover, which will afford a fine opportunity for those desiring to cure their own meat. The most of the stock has been disposed of, there not being more than about thirty head left; so that buyers had better call at Mr. Dent's stall and examine for themselves.

COURT OF ERRORS—DECEMBER 10. Mr. Melton concluded his argument for appellees, in case of the South Carolina Railroad vs. Columbia and Augusta Railroad. Mr. Jas. Conner closed, in reply.

EX PARTE the Southern Express Company.—Question. The constitutionality of the Act and of the Legislature, and of an Ordinance of the City Council of Charleston, levying taxes upon the Express Company. Brief and printed argument of Mr. Jos. P. Carr read until the hour of adjournment.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.—We are indebted to Mr. McCarter for copies of the following: Carlyon's Year. By the author of "Lost Sir Massingberd," etc. New York: Harper & Brothers.

A pleasing romance, and its perusal will repay compound interest on the investment—25 cents. It is No. 301 of Harper's Library of Select Novels.

French's Elementary Arithmetic for the Slave. New York: Harper & Brothers. This is a work which invests a usually dull subject with interest, as, in addition to sums and figure questions of various kinds, it contains numerous illustrated problems. It will prove a pleasing study. The special attention of instructors is invited to this work.

THE TOURNAMENT.—The College Green was thronged yesterday morning, with ladies and gentlemen—in vehicles and on foot—small boys and a fair sprinkling of the great unwashed. The following Knights entered the lists:

- Scottish Chief—Wm. Bowers.
- Camden—W. C. Workman.
- 28th, Nickerson's—C. C. Radcliffe.
- Richmond—S. E. Stratton.
- '76—R. Huson.
- Golden Cross—P. G. McGregor.
- Blue Garter—J. Roach.
- Raven's Plume—W. H. Casson.
- Poahontas—Paul Joyner.
- Unknown—T. A. Scott.

Prizes were awarded, and ladies crowned as follows:

- 1.—Knight of Camden—crowned Miss S. Joyner as Queen of Love and Beauty.
- 2.—Knight of Poahontas—selected Miss Sue Bowers as first Maid of Honor.
- 3.—The Unknown Knight—Miss R. Joyner as second Maid of Honor.
- 4.—Knight of the Golden Cross—Miss E. Boatwright as third Maid of Honor.

The ladies selected took their places in a vehicle, and were escorted by the Knights to their respective homes.

JOB WORK.—Every description of book and job printing—pamphlets, bill heads, circulars, labels, posters, programmes, business, wedding and invitation cards, railroad receipts, checks, drafts, &c., promptly executed at the lowest rates.

FIVE CENTS.—The price of single copies of the Phoenix is five cents, and purchasers are requested to pay no more for them. We are informed that some of the news-boys charge ten. This is an imposition.

TOSSED BY A COW.—Yesterday morning, as Mr. H. Goldsmith was passing around a market wagon, intent on examining its contents, a furious cow, which was fastened behind the vehicle, charged upon him, gored him severely, tossed him in the air, and trampled him under foot. Persons who attempted to rescue the wounded man were also gored. Mr. G. was finally released from his perilous position; and although seriously bruised, he is not considered dangerously hurt. The infuriated animal should have been converted into beef at once.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—IN ADMIRALTY.—December 10, 1867.

EX PARTE T. Quinlivan & Bro. In Re W. C. Tilton vs. Charleston Dredging and Wharf Building Company. Petition in Admiralty. Campbell & Seabrook Pro. Pet. On motion of J. H. Campbell, ordered, that distribution of funds be suspended till further order of court.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT FOR FOURTH CIRCUIT.—November 1, 1867, December 10, 1867. Hon. George S. Bryan, D. J., presiding.

Moses A. Huggins ads. the United States.—Verdict and judgment at November term, 1867. Simonton & Barker for defendant. D. T. Corbin, District Attorney, contra. Mr. Simonton read affidavit on motion to set aside verdict and judgment, on the ground that there was a defence, and there was negligence, and other than that of the defendant, which caused verdict and judgment to be obtained without defence being heard. The counsel for plaintiff and defendant, both addressed the court at length on the motion, after which the Judge made the following order: Hearing the affidavit of C. H. Simonton, one of the attorneys of this court, and on motion of Simonton & Barker for defendants, it is ordered, that the judgment heretofore rendered in this case, be set aside and vacated, and that the defendants have leave to plead to the declaration forthwith. It is further ordered, that the affidavit be filed with this order, and the defendants to pay all costs of the levy or levies made in this case.

James A. Holt, of North Carolina, vs. William M. McDonald et al., of South Carolina.—Assumpsit—non-assumpsit. S. P. Hamilton for plaintiff; Arthur, Melton & Melton for defendants. The defendants contended that the case came under the ruling of the Judge, in order No. 10 of General Sikes, which stayed all writs instituted by citizens of North Carolina against those of South Carolina. The counsel for the plaintiff contended that it was too late in the condition of the pleadings for the defendant to avail himself of the benefit of the order, as, having pleaded the general issue, his right to plead to the jurisdiction was waived; and also that the action having been commenced before Order No. 10 was issued, and the Court having obtained jurisdiction of the case, could not be divested of it, and the plaintiff was entitled to go to trial. The Judge decided that Order No. 10 need not be pleaded specially, but might be suggested at any time, without regard to the condition of the pleadings.

The United States vs. James H. Beckwell, Robert J. Gilliland and Joshua Jameson.—Debt. D. T. Corbin; N. E. F. Gen. Gary. Jury No. 2 rendered the following verdict: We find for the plaintiff $51.12—verdict for the full amount—with interest from February, 1865.

The United States vs. Julia Glass, adm'rx. of James B. Glass.—Debt. M. E. F., D. T. Corbin and H. Buist. The jury find for plaintiff $1,633.11, with interest from March 1st, 1861.

The United States vs. two barrels and one keg of distilled spirits—Wm. R. Williams, claimant.—Information for forfeiture for violation of internal revenue law. D. T. Corbin, District Attorney. The jury find for United States the forfeiture of the items mentioned within. On motion of D. T. Corbin, ordered, that the wares and merchandise be sold, and proceeds paid into registry, to abide further order of court.
