

The Change of Base. The message of Gov. Scott shows him not unacquainted with military tactics, if he is ignorant of the classics, as illustrated in his pronouncing Severus a "colored freedman." We say that he shows an acquaintance with tactics—not "Scott's" alone, but Scott and Kimpton's. Our military readers know of the movement called "change front forward" and "change front to the rear"—on this company or that company—right in front or left in front. This is the movement that the General executes. Heretofore the Blue Ridge Railroad was the special pet of the Executive. By the completion of this great work, the Governor was to immortalize himself, and visions of an epitaph like this, after death, doubtless came before his eyes: "Here lies one who built the Blue Ridge Railroad and opened the Columbia Canal." But this programme, to say the least, is now held in abeyance. The General changes front forward or rear on the Blue Ridge Company. There are two objects which the Governor probably has in view. For, depend upon it, there is an object in view. We are not so weak as to attribute the Executive action to patriotic motives. If disposed to be patriotic, his servility to his party and to those who use him, will not permit it. We have said that there are two considerations which probably influenced the Executive change of base. The one is indicated in the proposition already introduced in the House and Senate, to issue bonds to the extent of $2,000,000 to provide lands for the freedmen. In order to do this—in order to yield to this sentiment—the Governor gives up the Blue Ridge for the Black Ridge. Doubtless he says to himself: "One at a time, gentlemen." Those who are congratulating themselves upon the thought that the State is saved from the Blue Ridge expenses, will find that the public funds and credit are not saved—they are only to be diverted into another channel. What the State gains on the Blue Ridge, she will lose on the Black Ridge. Another consideration that no doubt influenced Gen. Scott, hinges upon the market price of the State securities. It is said that he is largely interested in these. We have ourselves been told that when these securities were low down in the market, that he invested largely in them. Now, the proposition to aid the Blue Ridge Railroad and other railroads, was calculated to depreciate the market value of these securities. Hence the question might naturally rise with Messrs. Scott, Kimpton and the inner ring: shall the Blue Ridge go up and the State securities go down? Or shall the State securities go up, or the Blue Ridge go down? It was a question of simple comparison. It was no doubt decided that the State securities should be sustained—hence, for these reasons, and doubtless other reasons—some looking to other ends—we find a change of base on the railroad question in the Executive message. We have but to lament that deplorable state of affairs, when public policies are regulated so much by private interests, which, to a considerable extent, we are constrained to believe is in this instance the truthful case.

Spain in Danger.—The Resolutions of the Colored Assistant Adjutant-General. It seems that the soul of Elliott is up in arms. He comes to the aid of the General Government. With "the last dollar and the last man," he pledges South Carolina to the General Government if "grim-visaged war" shall show and not smooth "its wrinkled front." With accustomed vim and with the heavy artillery of words, he strikes a blow at Spain, "the slave-driver of nations." We can imagine how the back-bone of General Grant will stiffen, as he reads of Elliott's move! How the nerves of Secretary Fish will grow firm—for not yet is it forgotten that "the colored troops fought nobly." We can imagine, too, how stricken Prim will feel, and how Céspedes, Quesada and Jordan will exult. The Assistant Adjutant-General is on the war-path. He wants a new departure taken. As for ourselves, we confess a strong partiality for the cause of Cuba, and if this cause can furnish occasion for the escape in this direction of radical steam, we shall have occasion to bless it more than ever. South Carolina radicalism is growing military in its aspirations—for Elliott leads. To civil performances in legislation, it wants to add military eclat. "On with the dance!" Let the war be carried into—Cuba. The Spanish Don is the man. Strike at him. It seems that Grant's entertainers in Pennsylvania had to pay sixty dollars to prevent the serving of a warrant upon their guests for catching trout of a Sunday. He only caught a dozen.

EDITOR: In a recent issue of the PHENIX, you took occasion to review the condition of things in this section, and alluded to the speech of Mr. Congressman Hoge. That speech was a most inflammatory one, and had no other tendency than to create trouble. But there was one good thing about that speech you did not tell. When Hoge was interrogated by a citizen as to the value in money of a full hand, he curtly replied in such a way as to inflame his sable auditory. The citizen left the house; some one cried out arrest that man. This was the ignition of the match. The crowd of negroes present rushed to the door, crying arrest him, kill him, hang him, &c. This frightened the distinguished orator so much that he took to flight, and was subsequently found behind the door, in the jury room, biting his nails and trombling in his shoes, as if he were the culprit about to be impaled. Really, this fellow Hoge does some right good things occasionally. ABBEVILLE. "I am strong and healthy, yet to preserve my good condition," I use Solomon's Bitters. N21

The union of Spain with Portugal is understood to be urged by Earl Clarendon on the part of the British Government, and many Spaniards would gladly agree to it, receiving the King of Portugal as their sovereign. The smaller power, however, is alarmed, and protests it will stand alone. A few Portuguese statesmen are for it, and the Marquis of Saldanha is even said to be certain that his nation can be persuaded to agree to a common monarch and to a union; but there seems to be no one ready to take the initiative. A Spanish Cavalry is constantly asked for, but it is never forthcoming. CONFESSION OF THE PANTIN MURDERER. The Opinion Nationale states that Trompman, the assassin of the Knick family, has made a full confession of his crimes. He had, he says, no accomplices. The elder Knick he killed on a plain near Genewiller on the 25th of August, and the spot where the body is buried he minutely described. The younger Knick he murdered at Pantin two days before the rest of the family. Madame Knick and one of her children struggled very much. A little girl nine years old was outraged by a man named Schepmans, near Ellonville, Ulster County, N. Y., on Saturday evening. She was found by her father and his neighbors about midnight, terribly mutilated, but still living. On Sunday, the news reached Ellenville, and divine services in the churches was stopped to enable the enraged citizens to hunt the villain. He was finally captured, confessed the crime, and on Tuesday was sentenced to fifteen years in the State Prison at Sing Sing. The refinement of cruelty is the habit so many people have of locking little children in a house to play with matches, going visiting and returning to warm their feet by a smouldering ash-heap, and trying to cool the charred remains of their little ones with hot tears. Only seven cases of this kind reported so far this month, says Pomeroy's Democrat. Two cousins, both of the same name, James R. Gamble, and both near the same age, thirty-three, died near Fayetteville, Ind., one on the 17th and the other on the 19th instant. They were both cripples, and both dentists. Both were estimable young men, and will be greatly missed in that locality. Neither of them left a family. Professors John and Joseph LeConte have both "struck ile" in California; the former being elevated to the Presidency of the College, with a salary of $6,000 in gold, the latter a Professor in the same institution, with a salary only less imposing than the former, and quite enough for any stomach short of the Corbin standard. NO CHINESE WANTED IN TENNESSEE.—Thursday, in the Tennessee Legislature, on a bill incorporating the Mississippi Valley Importation Company, an amendment forbidding the importation of Chinese into Tennessee was adopted—yeas, 53; nays, 15. EMIGRANTS.—A number of Swedish emigrants arrived in this city Sunday in the steamship Saragossa. They were admitted to her from one of the Cuban steamers in New York, and are desirous of the plantations of Maj. Berlin Wickenburg, on Edisto Island. [Charleston Courier.] FRUIT AND POWDER MILLS, near San Francisco, exploded on Friday night, killing three persons, the Superintendent, another man, and injuring eight. The building was blown to pieces, and nitro-glycerine was the principal cause of the powder. "Oh! an excellent Tonic," is the language of a invalid who uses SOLOMON'S BITTERS. ESCAPE OF PRISONERS.—Last evening, about dusk, six colored prisoners—among them Henry Williams and Zimmerman—succeeded in forcing apart the bars in a window over the rear steps of the jail, and fastening several blankets together, slid down and escaped. Shortly afterwards, the residence of Col. Sloan was entered—while the family was at supper—and several hats and a shawl carried off. The supposition is that some of the escaped prisoners were the robbers. CRUMBS.—The veteran editor of the Courier, William Laidler, Esq., is in Columbia. Mr. Pollock requests us to say that he has received a few gallons of select Norfolk oysters, which will be disposed of by the pint or quart to families, at a very low price. "A citizen" brings to mind the fact that the mail has been carried on the Camden branch of the South Carolina Railroad, free of charge, by the conductor, for fourteen years. A colored radical now receives $50 per month for the same service. The Fair is now progressing in Anderson. We learn that it has begun auspiciously, and we doubt not but that it will prove a success. The members of the "Arsenal Hill Band" will accept our thanks for a very pleasant serenade, last night. A charming young lady, who has got tired of the prevailing fashion for short dresses, recently horrified her friends by declaring she would put an end to hers.
