

Judge Orr's Method—His Policy for Saving the State.

In his interview with the New York Herald reporter, Judge Orr is represented as saying:

"The only hope I see for the State of South Carolina is for all hands to declare themselves Republican. As matters now stand, the carpet-baggers and niggers have everything their own way. At election time, when a good man sincerely desirous of supporting the Government, hearing the bitterness of the hour and restoring the State to her proper condition, offers himself as a candidate for office on the Democratic ticket, he is immediately put down by some accursed scoundrel of field hand, the tool of the scoundrel, in this fashion: 'Who emancipated you? The niggers! Who enfranchised you? Who enabled you to exercise your inalienable right to ride on the cars with white folks? Who shed their blood for you and stand by you today? The Republicans! Who fought against you in the war to keep you in slavery? Who want to annul the emancipation proclamation and the laws of Congress made for you by your friends? Who want to re-enslave you? The Democrats.' So the Democratic gentleman has to take a back seat; the 30,000 black majority is rolled up for the scoundrel, carpet-bag and nigger candidates, and we are as before. If our people, sir, had the sense to go in with the niggers, declare themselves resolved to support the amendments to the Constitution and the reconstruction Acts of Congress, and that henceforward they would be Republicans, it would be all up with the carpet-baggers; the public offices would be filled with men of respectability and intelligence, and the State would speedily recover. That is my policy for South Carolina. We don't care anything down there for Federal politics; our ardent desire is to recover the State from the scoundrels who are now running it."

And upon the reporter's asking if the triumph of the Democratic party would not be of benefit to South Carolina, Judge Orr adds:

"Not at all. There is that 30,000 nigger majority; we have to get rid of that somehow. No matter what party wins in the national election it will make no difference to us. Should the Republicans win we will be as we are. Perhaps, indeed, we would have another army of unscrupulous Radical ruffians quartered upon us. If the Democrats win they cannot help us, for the nullification of the amendments is out of the question; the infernal 30,000 nigger majority will be there worse than ever. No, sir; we must all become Republicans, and so take the wind out of the sails of the carpet-baggers."

Reporter—"Yours is a bad predicament, Governor. What about the other States?"
Mr. Orr—"Of the other States of the South and their condition, I am not very well informed. They are, however, better off than we are. Ours is the only State where the niggers outnumber the whites. I have ceased to be a politician outside of my own State. I am a philosopher—a political philosopher, if you like."

It will thus be seen what is the remedy suggested by Judge Orr for our political ills. We have had various remedies proposed for the relief of South Carolina. Judge Orr's method is not a new one with him. We believe that he has been for some time impressed with the efficacy of his policy. He has before suggested it. We are inclined to think that the people who rejected his suggestion before will be apt to do so far more emphatically now. The experience of the past year has not tended to illustrate the excellence of Judge Orr's saving policy. Even if his course of action could honestly and conscientiously be accepted, we have every reason to believe that it would fail of the object in view. It form has never yet been accomplished by uniting with the agents of the misrule that it seeks to correct. Besides, all men cannot change their opinions as they would their dress.
Judge Orr uses the word "hands" very properly. His remedy—that he would press upon a proud and high-spirited people—is, for "all hands to declare themselves Republican." Now, if any man can honestly declare himself "Republican," let him do so. We have no issue to make with him. But Judge Orr seems to overlook the essential moral point involved. "All hands must declare themselves Republican." It is easy to act, but it is hard to think. Never mind about one's convictions—no matter as to one's sentiments. How easy to declare themselves Republican—to affect to be what they may not really be—this is Judge Orr's proposition to our people. If this be Judge Orr's political philosophy, the loss of it the better. His method is not a method to save the State, but rather to debauch the political morals of the persons whom he seeks to influence. We desire to see the colored voters of South Carolina relieved of the influence of schemers, tricksters and demagogues. We regard it very important that their votes should be cast in the interest of honest, pure and good government. We admit that the "30,000 majority" about which Judge Orr is so much concerned stands a formidable obstacle in our path, seeing that it has been thus far so much under a corrupt and an unwise influence. We admit further that we should go about relieving the State in a practical way.
But still are we satisfied that Judge Orr's method is a poor one—wrong in morals and worse in practice. Too suggestive is it of "ways that are dark and tricks that are vain." Judge Orr may hold that in politics all is fair. But not so. Political morality and individual morality are linked together. You cannot separate them. Public policy and public interests are to be judged by the same moral standards as those to which private conduct is submitted. But apart from these considerations, would the policy of Judge Orr accomplish what he desires? We hold not. The Reform effort—the spirit in which that was met by the dominant party—is suggestive on that point. Our course is plain, we hold. This is for us to avow and stand by our honest, genuine sentiments—to plant ourselves upon tenable, reasonable ground—to claim only what is fair, and to concede all that is just—to raise the political flag that we believe in—to fight our political battles, open and above-board, with the weapons of truth, virtue and intelligence. Judge Orr thinks that "all hands" should declare themselves "Republicans." We contend there is a better way. The people of South Carolina, who have thus far opposed the dominant party, find now greater reasons than ever for continuing their opposition. As between the two parties that now divide the country, they will not take long to decide. They will naturally be found in sympathy and co-operation with that Democratic organization which, now liberalized, is ready to bring us back to constitutional rule and to unite all sections of the country upon a field of harmonious action for the common welfare.

"LET US HAVE PEACE."

—He who "jumps at a conclusion," and afterwards labors solely to prove that he was correct in his hasty judgment, may be a good politician, as politicians go, but he is not a statesman or a philosopher. Yet this is the exact position of some journals which were fierce in demanding the passage of the Ku Klux bill.
Having got the prescription they demanded, the medicine must be administered, regardless of the patient's real condition. They carefully print the details of every insignificant quarrel in the Southern States under startling headlines as "Ku Klux Outrages," and carefully exclude all news that looks towards peace and order, or even ridicule it. Thus they prove the wisdom of the Ku Klux law.

In fact the condition of the Southern States is unquestionably improving. Outrages by the masked ruffians are much less frequent than they were a few months ago, and only very industrious correspondents can now make much of them. In South Carolina particularly the people of all parties agree that peace is returning. Gov. Scott, the Republican Governor of that State, was in Washington recently urging President Grant not to declare martial law in that State, giving as a reason that "there is a manifest disposition among the better class of citizens to put down Ku Klux organizations." He knows, as every intelligent man knows, that any interference now by the President would be casting a fire-brand into a powder magazine; it would irritate the ruffians and discourage the peaceable citizens. The correspondences of the Tribune upon the subject has been full and candid; but it is surely not fair nor patriotic in that journal to say that Gov. Scott is "afraid of martial law," and that the people "have done nothing to manifest the disposition" which Gov. Scott attributes to them. Is it ready to denounce every man whose voice is not for war? Gov. Scott knows his State better than any stranger can know it. If the small politicians and malcontents in other States will let them alone, the people of South Carolina, and all of the Southern States, will settle their own affairs. The President will surely "let us have peace."
[New York Evening Post.]

A notice to an official, ordering him to resign, signed "T. E., acting special K. K.," was sent by mail to the Barnwell Sentinel, with the following note: "This must be published, and shall be obeyed." The Sentinel says there is no Ku Klux organization in Barnwell County, and the said notice is nothing but a sorry jest. But whether real K. K., or bogus, the Sentinel says:
"We say, once for all, that we will not publish such notices, nor do we fear the consequences of this refusal. Our efforts in behalf of peace, order and reform have been so persistent, that we have no thought any one will suspect our honesty, firmness or patriotism. We work for the good of all, and it pains us to be compelled to notice such imprudences. We hope we have said enough to induce reflection. If the officer complained of is obnoxious to the township, we feel sure that upon a fair and open representation Gov. Scott will remove him at once. And this is the proper way to go to work—it is the lawful way—it is the manly way."

A correspondent of the New York Tribune, writing from Columbia, S. C., under date of the 27th ult., says:

A very sensible way of managing negro farm-lands is that practiced by an ex-Confederate General, who is planting on a large scale near Edgefield. He divides them into squads of three, and gives to each squad thirty acres of land and a mule to work it with. The men feed themselves, provide half the mule's feed, and receive one-half the crop. The General stimulates them to work by getting up a rivalry between different squads, each of which endeavors to excel the others, keep its fields most free of weeds, and produce the largest crop. If all the squads appear to be growing idle, and do not get to work until late in the morning, he gets a neighbor to ride over the place some day, and talk to the men somewhat in this way: "How's this, boys? I hear that the weeds are getting a powerful start on the General's place, and that you fellows don't get to hoeing before 9 o'clock. Does look pretty bad, that a fact. The cotton on the Judge's place over there looks a heap better. Mustn't let 'em beat you that way, boys." Next morning, the negroes will be up with the sun, determined that the reputation of the General's cotton shall not suffer. Speaking of his success in planting, the General told me that no man would have any trouble with his negroes who would treat them kindly, and praise them when they did well. Their love of expressions of approbation, he said, was very great, and they will work well if animated by a little praise, now and then. He had never had the least difficulty with his hands, and thought no planter need have any who understood the right way to manage negroes, viz.: to gain their confidence, and deal justly with them.

Mr. James M. Ryan having resigned his position as Trial Justice at Williston, says the Barwell Journal, his Excellency Governor Scott kindly informed the citizens of Williston Township that if all the white and colored citizens of the township would hold a meeting, and recommend some one that they would like for their Trial Justice, he would appoint him. The meeting was held, and Mr. John G. Smith recommended, and Governor Scott promptly forwarded the commission. Such conduct on the part of Governor Scott cannot be too warmly applauded.

The New York Evening Post remarks: "If the Democrats fail to adopt distinctly the Constitution as it is, they, of course, give up the contest in advance. But if they accept the 'new departure,' and thus stand upon the platform on which the Republicans have won all their triumphs hitherto, both parties must then pronounce their judgment upon the questions of to-day, and reconstruct themselves accordingly. Perhaps, under these circumstances, the wise men of both will deem it best to give their attention to principles, and leave the selection of candidates to the future."

Another terrible organization for the extermination of all carpet-baggers and scoundrels (says the New York Herald) is said to be in process of formation down South. It is different from the Ku Klux in some respects, but has the same object in view. It is wonderful what risks these carpet-baggers are willing to run just for the pleasure of living in a neighborhood that evidently does not want them. They might better sell out and "go."

WHAT IS HEADACHE?—In nine cases out of ten the source of headache is not in the brain, but in the stomach. Indigestion is the most frequent cause. The digestive organs being disordered, they derange the action of the liver, the bowels, the kidneys, and the nerves, and the whole secretory and excretory machinery being as it were thrown out of gear, the brain suffers. Restore the natural tone of the stomach and bowels with a few doses of TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT, and headache arising from this cause is at once arrested. This delightful preparation is the best remedy for chronic and periodical headache at present known, and absolutely invaluable as a stomachic and gentle cathartic.

PHOENIXIANA.—The price of single copies of the PHOENIX is five cents.

The raffle of the pen-drawing "Oh, come along," will take place at the Pollock House this evening. Those interested will call and settle up.

Troops G, L, and M, 7th United States Cavalry, under command of Maj. Reno, arrived in this city, on Sunday last, from the Plains. They will proceed shortly to their destinations.

A monster turtle has been received at the Pollock House, and will be served up in a few days. Due notice will be given of the "coming event."

Attention is directed to the card of Gambrell & Co., announcing their readiness to dispose of tickets in the grand scheme in aid of immigration. Agents are wanted for several counties.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA LAND AND IMMIGRATION ASSOCIATION.—We invite the attention of our readers to the notice to be found in our advertising columns of the gift scheme of Messrs. Butler, Chadwick and Gary. The purpose is to advance the cause of immigration in South Carolina. This, it will be conceded, is a most important result. The means to be employed will be found explained in the advertisement. As to the character of the gentlemen whose names are associated with this enterprise, we need scarcely add anything. Gen. Butler and Gen. Gary are well known for their high character and patriotic spirit, and as to Mr. Chadwick, we learn that he stands high in business circles in the city of Charleston, where he has made heavy investments. He is the owner of the chief prize—the Academy of Music in Charleston. Messrs. D. Gambrell & Co. are the general agents for the up-country, with their office in Columbia. Local agents will be employed, and tickets may be secured not only at Mr. Gambrell's office, but also at the store of Mr. Symmers.

RELIEF TO SUFFERERS.—Dr. Rendall, the celebrated chiropodist, was in our office, yesterday, and performed several operations—extracting corns and ingrowing toe nails—without pain and with perfect satisfaction. On his first visit to Columbia, Dr. R. received the testimonials of several of our physicians and other citizens as to his skillful and efficacious method of operating on the feet, and he guarantees a cure in every instance. He may be found at the Washington House, corner Assembly and Gervais streets. He will wait upon ladies at their residences.

THE RICHLAND FARMERS' CLUB.—For the past year there has been in existence in this vicinity a club, composed of farmers, that has been doing a good work in a quiet and modest style. During the summer months, the Club meets once every month successively on the farms of the members. The proceedings consist of the reading of agricultural essays and the discussion of agricultural questions, and a barbecue usually winds up the day's incidents. On Saturday last, the Club met on the grounds of Capt. Richard O'Neale, in Cotton Town. A capacious house being on hand, the rain did not interrupt the proceedings. Several able essays were read, and a very interesting discussion took place on the merits of plows, on the grasses, and other kindred topics. The President of the Club is that efficient planter and popular citizen, Major Thomas Taylor. The Secretary and Treasurer is Mr. C. O. Marshall, an energetic young planter, and among the active members of the Club are a number of citizens, merchants, and others engaged in farming in and about Columbia. We learn that the Club is increasing the sphere of its labors, and that an agricultural library and reading room in the city will perhaps be established for the benefit of members.
