

CHEAP LIVING—The cheapness of living in France, due not alone to the price of articles, but to the simple and unostentatious manners of the people. A writer in Fraser's Magazine says that, however small or reduced the income of a gentle family in France, their social position is not in the least affected by their circumstances; and that the general diffusion of wealth shown by the French is owing to the economical living and the thriftiness of the women, who generally participate in the business of earning a livelihood. And then, when the children marry, they continue to live under the parental roof, as before, in one family, thus reducing the expenses and holding the families in a sort of communion, until both parents are dead.
