VOL. VIII—NO. 224.

BLOODY WORK IN FLORIDA.—At Ellsville, a small hamlet near the Southern border of this County, a terrible tragedy was enacted on last Saturday evening. John Barre and James Barre, two men in the vigor of youthful manhood, were shot down in cold blood and brutally murdered. The circumstances, as we have been able to gather them, were as follows: There had been a feud for some time between a man named Charles Carroll and James Barre, from which more than once serious results had been expected. On the afternoon of the day named above, Charles Carroll, accompanied by his brother William and his brother-in-law, Daniel Wingate, visited the store at Ellsville, kept by James Barre, Charles Carroll being armed with a double-barreled gun. The other two had no visible arms. In a little while a furious quarrel sprung up between Charles Carroll and his brother-in-law Wingate, and the party left the store apparently in great anger, for the purpose of having a settlement. The two Barres, John and James, followed almost immediately afterward, for the purpose of preventing, if possible, what threatened to be a very serious difficulty between the two brothers-in-law, both of whom were known to be reckless and desperate men. The two Barres, unsuspecting of danger to themselves—for no word of quarrel had passed between them and the other parties—had no sooner emerged from the building than they were immediately shot down by means of the double-barreled gun in the hands of Charles Carroll. James Barre received a charge of seven back-shot in the upper portion of his right breast, and John Barre was wounded with an equal number of back-shot in the left breast, the charge shattering the upper portion of his arm to such an extent as to render subsequent amputation necessary near the shoulder joint. Besides these injuries, which were the fatal ones, both men received wounds in other portions of their bodies from pistol shots, which they afterward, in their death-bed testimony, declared were inflicted on them by Wm. Carroll and Daniel Wingate, who, they declared, came up and shot them with pistols after they had fallen. The quarrel between Carroll and Wingate, it is now believed, was only a sham and intended as a ruse to decoy the Barres out of doors away from their arms, where they might be more safely slaughtered. They lingered in much agony until the following Monday, when both died, John in the forenoon of that day and James in the evening. The two men were cousins, and John had been only about a month in the neighborhood. He was a citizen of South Carolina, and, it is said, was a fugitive from justice, having recently killed a Deputy United States Marshal in his own State. There was no cause of a quarrel between him and the Carrolls, but he was murdered probably because his name was Barre, and it was his misfortune to be in company with James Barre at the time it was determined to put him out of the way. About an hour or two before the shooting of the Barres, Wingate had shot a negro man named Jenkins, at Providence, in Bradford County, about two miles distant from Ellsville.—Lake City Herald.
