Affraid.

After singing, silence; after roses, thorns;
All the blackest midnights built o'er golden morns;
After flowering, fading; bitter after sweet;
Yellow, withered stubble, after waving wheat.
After green, the dropping of the shriveled leaf,
Like the sudden lopping of some fond belief;
After gurgling waters, dry, unsightly beds;
After exultation, lowly-hanging heads.

So I shrink and shiver at your proffered kiss,
Knowing pain must follow on the heel of bliss;
Knowing loss must find me sleeping on your breast;
Leave me while you love me—this is surely best.

Like a blushless flower left upon its stem,
Sweetening the thickness of the forest hem;
Like a hidden fountain, never touched by lips;
Like an unknown ocean, never sailed by ships—

Thus I shall be fairer to your untried thought
Than if all my living into yours were wrought;
Heart's dreams are the sweetest in the lonely nest;
Leave me while you love me—this is surely best.

A lady who had received a severe bite on her arm from a dog, went to Dr. Abernethy, but hearing of his aversion to hear the statement of particulars, she merely uncovered the injured part and held it before him in silence. After examining it he said, in an inquiring tone: "Scratch?" "Bite," said the lady, "Cat?" inquired the doctor. "Dog," rejoined the lady. So delighted was the doctor with the brevity and promptness of the lady's answers that he exclaimed, "Zounds, madam, you are the most sensible woman I have met with in all my life!"

An Italian bishop, who had endured much persecution with a calm, unruffled temper, was asked how he attained such a mastery over himself. "By making a right use of my eyes," said he. "I first look up to heaven as the place whither I am going to live forever. I next look down upon the earth, and consider how small a space of it will soon be all that I can occupy or want. I then look around me, and think how many are far more wretched than I am."

The great devotion of women to their husbands was illustrated the other day, in Massachusetts. A lady who was bereft of her lord on Wednesday, by one of those opportune little explosions which occur periodically in the Hoosac tunnel, was so touched by the kindness of his next friend, who carefully shrouded and buried him, that she married him on the Friday following immediately after the funeral of the late lamented.

A young officer of the British House of Commons wore a tremendous pair of mustaches, on which one of the members said: "My dear fellow, now the war is over, why don't you put your mustaches on the peace establishment?" "Had you not better put your tongue on the civil list?" was the prompt and happy retort.

Boston belles are easily recognized by the heavy boots they wear, and their fondness for boiled onions and corn on the cob.

Pacific Guano Company's
(CAPITAL $1,000,000.)
SOLUBLE PACIFIC GUANO.

THIS GUANO is now so well known in all the Southern States for its remarkable effects as an agency for increasing the products of labor, as not to require special recommendation from us. Its use for seven years past has established its character for reliable excellence. The large fixed capital invested by the company in this trade affords the surest guarantee of the continued excellence of this Guano.

The supplies put into market this season are, as heretofore, prepared under the personal superintendence of Dr. St. Julian Ravenel, Chemist of the Company, at Charleston, S. C.; hence planters may rest assured that its quality and composition are precisely the same as that heretofore sold.

To the Citizens of Columbia.

THE undersigned have been appointed by the Board of Trade a Committee to solicit donations of Books and Pamphlets for the purpose of forming a LIBRARY, which shall be open to the public upon the payment of annual dues or fees, and under rules and regulations to be hereafter adopted. To the collection thus made, it is proposed to add, by purchase, from time to time, as the funds derived from the collection of such fees and dues will justify. Connected with the Library will be a Reading Room, supplied with Magazines and Newspapers.

The want of a popular Library in this city will be acknowledged by all, and the undersigned trust that citizens will contribute liberally. Contributions may be left with any of the undersigned. JOHN B. PALMER,
