THILE FLATING Twenty-four battalieus of infantry, with Foreign Affairs

LONDON, February 13-16 o'clock Despatches from Madrid are more favorable for a peaceful solution. No dis-turbances of any kind are reported. There seems to be a general disposition to support the provisional authority.

The German papers hint that abdica-tion was secured by French intrigue. At midnight, the Madrid streets were crowded with excited people.

The Cortes, yesterday, was the central point of interest, and bulletins of its proceedings were anxiously awaited by crowds of persons in all the public places of the city. The two houses assembled at a late hour in the day. A formal message of abdication of King Amadeus was read in each chamber separately. It opens with a statement that the King has maturely considered the question of what course he ought to pursue with reference to the Spanish throne, and has firmly resolved upon that course. When he screpted the orown, he did so under the belief that the loyalty of the people who had called him would compensate for the inexperience which he brought to his task. He had found that herein he was deceived. If the enemies who had beset his path had been foreigners, he would not have taken the course now determined upon; but they are Spaniards; by them Spain had been kept in perpetual disquiet. All his efforts to quiet her, or put an end to intrigues which were the source of her agitation, had proved unavailing. It was not enough that he had partisan support; he had no wish to remain on the throne as King of a party. He, therefore, announced his abdication, on behalf of himself and his heirs. Upon the completion of the reading, the Senate and Congress met together in the chamber of the latter, and constituted themselves the sovereign Cortes of Spain. Simon Rivera, President of Congress, was called to the Chair, and in a brief speech, declared himself ready to answer for the preservation of order and the execution of the decrees of the sovereign power. A vote was then taken on the question of accepting, without discussion, the abdication of Amadeus, and it was accepted unanimously. A commission from the members of Congress was then appointed to draft a reply-to the message, and another commission to accompany the King to the frontier." Senor Pio then prepared a resolution, establishing a republic, and vesting in the Assembly the supreme power. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 256 solution was adopted by a vote of 256 when the Houses act separately. No was still in session when the foregoing when the Houses act separately. LONDON, February 12.—The Spanish Consul at Liverpool has offered a liberal reward for information which will lead to the discovery of shipments of arms to the insurgents in Spain and the insurrectionists in the Spanish colories.

Further details of the proceedings in the Spanish Cortes yesterday have been received. The resolution of Senor Pio, before reported as adopted, comprised several propositions, among which were the following: That Spain be declared a republic; that the National Assembly assume all the powers of supreme authority; that they appoint a responsible government to execute their decrees; that to another Assembly, to be hereafter elected, be referred the duty of determining the form of constitution. The resolution was divided into several parts, and each part was voted upon separately. The provisions declaring a republic and vesting the sovereign power in the Assembly were adopted. The remaining clause was then taken up for discussion. Salgeron declared his conviction that the Government of Zorillo ought to receive nrged the propriety of Salgeron's de-mand. He was called to order by the President, and asked to resume his seat upon the ministerial bench. Martos, Minister of Foreign Affairs, said it was to be deplored that the President kept up the forms of tyranny, when the mo-narchy was being superseded by a republic. Rivero therenpon left the Chair and the house, and Senor Figuerelo was called to preside in his place.

Rivero answered that the President of the Cortes was responsible for the preservation of the public peace and good order. Zorillo came down into the body of the chamber, and urged the propriety of Salgeron's demand. He was called to order by the Description of the public to save the refusing to receive the votes of colored posite Bugg's Bar. The gun was loaded, but the screw of the ramrod became detached from the handle, and the piece could not be discharged. Signals of distress were seen by several vessels, but appear to have been regarded as signals for a pilot, for no assistance was rendered. Meanwhile the scene on deck baffled description.

The captain, finding the men determined to leave the vessel, went below, armed himself with a revolver, and, ascending the poop, declared his determination to shoot the first man who tried to leave the vessel before the women were saved. The first boat launched was lowered by a number of passengers by cutting the rope. There being no tadder at hand, the only way of getting into it was by leaping or dropping some twelve or fifteen feet. As there was a terrible rush toward the boat, the scene was one of distressing confusion, and a man and boy fell into the water and were drowned. About thirty persons having got into it, the boat was pulled off, with not one of the crew in it. Another life-boat was launched, when a man got into it and was ordered to leave. He refused, and the captain shot him in the calf of the leg. Capt. Knowles placed his wife in the boat, and said to the boutswain, who had already got in, "Here is a charge for you; take cure of her and the rest, and God bless you!" Wringing his wife's hand, he bade her good-bye, saying, "I shall never see you again!" It is impossible to describe the panic that raged all the time. Heart-rending scenes were witnessed on all sides. receiving such dreadful injuries that, though afterwards rescued, he is still in a precarious state. Only two of the seven boats aboard were launched, owing, no doubt, to the panie, and one was seriously injured, as the tackle was cut and the beat fell into the sea. When the second boat had got off, it seemed to the second boat had got off, it seemed to become a question of moments. The quarter-deck was still crowded by men, women and children, some crying, swearing and praying. The captain and pilot were together, and the latter was heard saying, "If you want to save yourselves, make for the top-mast," to which many people rushed. In a quarter of an hour, a tug picked no the ter of an hour, a tug picked up the second boat with thirty occupants, and then steamed for some time round the spot, where, about three-quarters of an hour after being struck, the Northfleet went down, head first, with awful sud-donness, with 227 souls on board. At that moment, the first boat was 100 yards and the second only twenty or thirty from the vessel. The first boat, after landing the women, put out to the scene of the wreck and saved five men who were trying to swim to shore. GEORGIA AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY CON-VENTION. - This body convened in Girardey's Opera House, Augusta, on the 11th. Gen. A. H. Colquitt was elected President. There was a large attendance of delegates—several States being represented. The following South Carolinians were present: Mesers. George A. Trenholm, Joseph D. Aiken, L. D. De-Saussure, George W. Williams, McMillau C. King, H. H. Raymond, Wm. M. Lawton, Henry T. Peake, of Charleston; Col. J. B. Palmer, of Columbia; Col. D. Wyatt Aiken, of Abbeville.

The convention was called to order at o'clock, by President Colquitt, and the proceedings were opened with prayer by Rev. H. H. Tucker.

Mr. J. J. Cohen introduced J. C. O. Black, Esq., who delivered an eloquent address of welcome; to which General Colquitt felicitously responded.

Mr. C. W. Howard moved that all delegates to the Free Trade and Immigration Conference be invited to seats as corresponding members of the society. He also offered a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the sense of loss to the whole country in the death of Commodore M. F. Maury. Adopted unanimously.

On motion of Mr. L. F. Livingston, Col. D. Wyatt Aiken, of South Carolina was invited to address the convention on the subject of "Patrons of Husbandry."

Col. Schaller offered a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee of five from the State Agricultural Society, and one from each body represented, to consider and report upon the subjects of direct trade and immigration, by the present meeting. Adopted.

There was a discussion of the subject of stock breeding, participated in by Messrs. Pope Barrow, Col. T. C. How ard, Mr. A. Roff, in charge of Mr. Rich ard Peters' stock farm in Gordon County, and Col. D. Wyatt Aiken, of South Carolina. Col. Aiken specially commended the policy of encouragement of sheep culture, as vastly more productive of wealth than cotton culture-wool bringing forty cents per pound, while cotton did not command the half that amount. He was roundly applanded when be concluded his speech, which was eminently practical and impressive:

The committee to whom was referred the resolution on direct trade and im-migration beg leave to report: That the great importance of the subject referred to them calls for more time for the consideration of it in its several aspects. But looking to the influence which the action of Georgia will have on her sister States having a community of interest with her, and in friendly con-nection, beg leave to report the following resolutions for the immediate adop-tion of the convention, and also to ask

Resolved, That this convention, composed of delegates from different South-ern States, in addition to the State of Georgia, has heard with satisfaction that the Georgia Legislature have under consideration the subjects of direct trade and of immigration. This body considers measures of direct trade and immigration essential to the material advancement of the South. It expresses the hope that some wise measures will be adopted by the General Assembly of Georgia to that end. Should the present bills be disapproved, it trusts that other measures will be adopted that will secure the result in view. The South is making great efforts to rise from her late misfortunes, and we look with confidence to the General Assembly of Georgia to inaugurate measures which shall accelerate the return of prosperity; and which, acting with the force of example, shall, in the language of the lamented Maury, "embrace, by co-operation and combina-tion, all the States of the South." Resolved, That the committee suggest that a committee, consisting of one from each of the States here represented, be appointed by the President of this Association to draft a memorial to Congress in favor of the proposed canal system from the Mississippi River to the South Atlantic coast.

Mr. Trenholm explained that the object of the committee, in introducing the report, was that some sense of the convention should be elicited as to the sub-jects considerd to the consideration of the committee—two important bills upon which were pending action of the Legislature at Atlanta, and which had been made the special order for Thursday.
