THE DAILY PHŒNIX.

"Let our just Censures Attend the True Event."

BY J. A. SELBY. COLUMBIA, S. C., FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 4, 1873. VOL. IX—NO. 90.

Italy is afflicted with agitations. The King threatens to abdicate, the Ministry are in commotion, the people are disappointed that the Pope did not die, and now an earthquake has put in an appearance, shaking things to pieces at a fearful rate. A church at Tiletto, about thirty-four miles from Venice, was destroyed yesterday, and thirty-eight persons were killed. Fourteen persons were killed in other places, and a good deal of damage was done. In fact, old mother earth seems to have grown unusually restive under the rule of the present Italian Government.

Anxiety is beginning to be manifest in regard to the safety of whereabouts of Paul B. DuChaillu, who is reported missing. It appears that Mr. DuChaillu went early last winter to Sweden and Norway, with a view of exploring and describing the extreme North of Scandinavia in the depth of winter. He has not been heard from for several months, even by his most intimate friends and correspondents, all of whom evince much uneasiness at Mr. DuChaillu's mysterious absence and unaccountable silence.

A Chicago paper protests against the opening up of the questions as to who discovered America, while the great problem who is the author of "Betsey and I are Out" remains unsettled.

Prepare for the Fourth!
