

Bir Samdel Baker is wife at Kharthoum, and reports that his expedition has accomplished all it sought, and more. A new province has been annexed to Egypt, and a connecting chain of posts has been formed reaching from Nubia to Nyanza. But the most astonishing fact in the record of the expedition is the discovery that Lakes Tanganyika and Albert Nyanza are one and the same sheet of water. It is a magnificent inland sea, 700 miles in length—the largest in the world.

The elevated railway is to be used in New York by the post office to transport the mails to and from the upper sections of the city. There are to be eighteen mails sent daily each way by this line, which, it is said, will considerably facilitate business. The transportation of the mails between the general post office and its outlying stations is greatly interfered with by the crowded streets, and consequent slow locomotion, which this plan will, to a great extent, relieve.

An Indianapolis woman recently threw her chignon out of the window when returning from a picnic because it made her head ache.
