Motherhood.

My neighbor's house is not so high,
Nor half so nice as mine;
I often see the blind ajar,
And though the curtain's fine,
'Tie only mualin, and the steps
Are not of stone at all;
And yet I long for her small home,
To give mine, all in all.

Her lawn is nover left to grow—
The children tread it down;
And when the father comes at night,
I hear them clatter down
The gravel walk, and such a noise
Comes to my listening ears,
As my sad heart's been waiting for
So many silent years. So many eilent years.

Sometimes I peep to see them
Seize his coat and hand and knees,
All three so eager to be first,
And hear her call, "Don't teaso
Papa!" the baby springs;
And then the low brown door
Shuts out their happiness, and I
Sit wishing as before—

That my neighbor's little cottage
And the jewels ef her crown
Had been my own. My mansion,
With its front of freestone brown,
Its damask and its Honiton,
Its lawn so green and bright,
How gladly would I give them
For her motherhood to-night.

A Western editor quotes from memory in a recent editorial on the Indian ques-tion, and says:

"Lo, the poor Indian,
Whose, untutored mind
Clothes him before,
And leaves him bare behind."
