LONDON, August 25.—It is said that the number of Americans now at Paris is very small, and that very few of those returning from Vienna are tarrying there, because of stories set afloat by the Swiss hotel-keepers, that the cholera is prevailing there.

ANTWERP, August 26.—A great conflagration was occasioned here last night by a stroke of lightning, which set fire to one of the largest warehouses in the city. This, with the surrounding buildings, was soon wrapped in flames, and the entire block was destroyed. The fire was still burning at 10 o'clock this morning.

PARIS, August 26.—The Government has decided to bring M. Rauf to trial on the 14th of September.

MADRID, August 26.—The report that the Carlists have left the vicinity of Berga is fully confirmed by later advices. The Ministers of War, of the Marine and Interior, and several generals of the army, threaten to resign, if the Government shall decide to commute or in any way fail to execute the death sentences which have been pronounced upon the Communist insurgents. The Carthagena insurgents have 300 pieces of cannon; they also have a large number of cattle and other supplies. 600 insurgents who escaped from Valencia succeeded in reaching Carthagena, reinforcing the insurgents there.

The village of Tortella has been entirely destroyed by the Carlists.

MADRID, August 27.—Lizarraga, with 3,000 men, is reported marching to reinforce the Carlist force besieging Estella, who now number 8,000. The latter were again defeated on Monday, with considerable loss, by the Republican force in Estella. The Republican loss was fifty.

Castellar was elected President of the Cortes. He said the troubles, difficulties and perils of the nation were increasing. The Republicans, while struggling to establish the republic, were united; but after they had achieved a victory, they were divided, because an ideal always exists. The present Government represents a solid reality, and the opposition represents an ideal. He brilliantly traced the history of Democracy, and declared that the death of the republic would be the sign of the death of liberty, and that the generation would be infamous which achieved its liberty and failed to preserve it. "I am a Federalist," he said; "but madness rends the Spanish nationality, while Italy and Germany are becoming more united." He reviewed the republic life of M. Thiers, which, he said, was a life of warfare. In conclusion, Senor Castellar invoked Divine protection to save the liberty and integrity of Spain.

ANTWERP, August 27.—The fire among the warehouses was extinguished, after a loss of $460,000.

Telegraphic-American Matters

HAVANA, August 24, via KEY WEST, August 26.—Bumors are again rife that disturbances are likely to take place at an early day. The Republican and Conservative clubs hold meetings nightly. The insurgents, 300 strong, have burned a small coffee estate in Brazo de Canto. There has been a very severe engagement between the insurgents and troops near Santiago de Cuba. The loss is heavy on both sides. The Spaniards admit having lost sixty killed. It is reported that the Spanish General Buriel, former Governor of Matanzas, is among the number.

WORCESTER, Mass., August 26.—General Butler opened the gubernatorial campaign to-night by a speech in Mechanics' Hall, which was filled to overflowing. When Butler appeared three cheers were faintly given and a volley of hisses, but the speech was attentively listened to and effective portions applauded. After two hours of mingled sarcasm and statistics, well woven in his own defence, he closed without interruption from any source.

WASHINGTON, August 26.—Several of the leading lights belonging to the colored element of the Radical party here have, in imitation of the colored people in Ohio, come to the conclusion that to carry out completely the principles of their party it is necessary that they shall cut themselves entirely aloof from their white brethren and put none but Africans on guard. The determination to inaugurate a black man's party causes a very disagreeable sensation in the Radical party, and is destined to make a very serious split, as it will not confine itself to a local character, but is certain to spread through the States.

NEW YORK, August 26.—The Inman steamship City of Limerick ran into the new stone pier near the battery, to-day, knocking in the massive masonry to the depth of three feet, and forcing the heavy blocks of granite from their places for several yards on each side of the point of contact. It is stated that the steamer was uninjured, but as a precautionary measure, no passengers will be taken on her return trip.

Governor Dix has addressed a letter to Mayor Havemeyer in reply to the request of the latter for rifles for the police, and says, even if the means of granting the request were at his disposal, he should decline; considering it very questionable whether public order or security would be promoted by the organization of armed military bodies, under the direction and control of municipal corporations, independent of the military authority of the State, and believing the existing modes of putting down resistance to the laws, by calling upon the militia on extraordinary occasions, is in all respects the wisest and safest.

The tunnel through which the trains of the New York Central and Hudson River, Hartford and New Haven, and New York, Harlem and Albany Railroads enter the city, fell in this morning, causing a temporary stoppage of all trains.

D. M. Jeffcoat, who was confined in Lexington jail awaiting trial for larceny, effected his escape on last Thursday night. It appears that Lexington jail is in a very unsafe condition.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chappell, of Newberry, died in Abbeville County, last week. She was over seventy years of age, and truly a "mother in Israel" is lost.

A little girl has described "happy" as a feeling as if you wanted to give all your things to your little sister.

THE COACH—A "MODEL" NEWSPAPER.—There is a "model" newspaper called The Coach, published in Central City, Colorado, for a late copy of which we are indebted to our friend, "Paul Fry."

In the number before us, we find the following "principles" of the editor, "warning" and resolutions:

OUR PRINCIPLES.—The Coach has neither politics nor religion. The driver will crack his whip over whoever he pleases.

The Coach has neither money nor credit, and doesn't need any. We have no list of exchanges, and don't expect any. If any one says anything mean about us, we desire a copy. If anything good, they can keep it to themselves.

Our stock of modesty is barely sufficient for our own use. We have none to sell, and don't know any one in these parts that wants to buy any.

WARNING.—The writing editor of the Coach carries his office in his hat, and will always be found at home.

The fighting editor has gone on the docks, but the Cardiff Giant takes his place, and will be around every Saturday evening, to settle all difficulties.

The financial editor who went to Vienna has resigned. B. Erlanger will settle the bills of all those who can find him.

RESOLUTIONS.—Resolved, That quotation marks are a nuisance. That we don't know nothing about grammar.

That we can't spell, and don't want to learn. That we never saw a rhetoric. That we won't do anything for nothing. Will never go back on a friend or let up on an enemy.

CARPET BAG STATE DEBTS.—It is a healthy sign that the press of the North is beginning to recognize and proclaim the fact that something must be done about the huge debts which have been saddled upon the Southern States by the carpet-bag governments which were created and sustained by the Federal reconstruction. The views of several leading journals on this subject, which we reproduce elsewhere, are full of interest for our people. The article from the New York Times, on the proposition that the General Government should help out the South by shouldering her debts, is especially note-worthy, and reads very much like a "feeler."

It is certainly a new thing to hear the Times discussing measures of mercy and moderation towards the "Southern rebels" in any other tone than that of the bitterest denunciation. In spite of the objections of the Times, there is an intrinsic equity in the proposed scheme. The great bulk of the carpet-bag debts were never authorized by the Southern people, in whose name they were contracted. They are debts for which no equivalent consideration has ever been received. If paid at all, they ought to be paid by the principal from whom the agents who contracted them derived their authority. That principal is none other than "the best Government the world ever saw."—Charleston News.

The Paris Figaro is a lively and funny paper, but it often publishes American news, of which even "the natives in the manner born" were not aware. Some time since it related a story, said to have been taken from the Journal of Vermont, about a band of assassins which infested the State of New Hampshire, and which was guilty of numerous crimes. Many dead bodies were found lying around loose, and all had the same mark—the section of the carotid artery. Once the police came suddenly upon the band, but the members hastily fled and ran through the town, passing a photographic gallery at full speed. The photographer had a streak of genius. He at once turned his machine upon the flying band, and had all of their portraits in a twinkling. When these were enlarged, the assassins were recognized as inhabitants of the district, and all were quietly arrested the next morning.

The Figaro has previously published some marvelous and amusing American stories. One of these is about a millionaire, who packed his dead father in a pork barrel in order to send him home as freight, and save the price of passage demanded for a corpse. We, of course, do not doubt the veracity of our sprightly contemporary of the French capital.

ALLIGATOR SUPPLIES.—Alligators frequently fill their stomachs with ducks. They find the spots in the marshes where the ducks huddle together at night, and make a descent upon them. Frequently, while flocks of great fat ducks are swimming in the deepest part of a river or lake, an alligator will glide under the ducks and select those that suit him best. They are drawn under the water so quietly that the flock is not startled for some time, and the alligator manages to secure a square meal before he is suspected. On summer nights, the alligator crawls to a chosen spot in the marshes. The air is filled with millions of mosquitoes. The monster opens his enormous mouth and keeps his jaws apart until the inside of his mouth is black with insects. Then he brings his jaws together with a snap, runs his tongue about the inside of his mouth, and swallows his winged visitors. He will keep this up until his appetite is satisfied.

In an editorial on the horse disease, the Congregationalist suggested that it might be well to sit at the feet of a horse and learn humility. "Just so," says the California News Letter; "sit down at the hind feet of a mule, and if he don't humiliate you, pull his tail and tickle the inside of his legs with a stable fork."

Deaths in Charleston for the week ending the 23d instant, 15—Whites 3; colored 12.

HOW WASHINGTON SWORE ON ONE OCCASION.—Mr. Parson quotes an incident in Washington's life, from which it appears that he could be passionate on occasions. He says, apropos of Guenet and his mission:

The President was no longer spared, either in prose or verse, and there was even a burlesque poem, in which he was represented as being brought to the guillotine. At one of these Cabinet meetings, irritated by Knox reminding him of this pasquinade, he lost his self-control for a moment. Voltaire wickedly remarks that Newton "consoled" mankind for his unapproachable supremacy in the realm of science by coming at last to write on the prophecies. George Washington occasionally solaced the self-love of his admiring friends by getting into a good, honest passion, like an ordinary mortal. Bursting into speech, he defied any man to produce a single act of his since he had been in the Government which was not done from the purest motives. He declared that he had never repented but once of having signed the moment of resigning his office, and that was every moment since.

"By G—d!" he exclaimed, using the familiar oath of the period, "I would rather be in my grave than in my present situation! I would rather be on my farm than be made Emperor of the world; and yet they are charging me with wanting to be a King!"

STUCK HIS KEY-NOTE.—The other day, a gawky youth from the rural districts stopped at a button-and-thread stand on Fifth street to view the wondrous there exposed for sale, and became interested in a month-organ. It was not a "Jews' harp," although an Israelite was the vendor thereof, but a fifteen-cent harmonicon. "Verdigris" placed it almost out of sight in his old-fashioned fire-place of a mouth, and breathed his soul out sweetly there. His eyes were almost closed, his head drooped to one side, his whole appearance showed he had surrendered to the power of music. How long he would have continued no man can say—probably until hunger or night had driven him to seek food or shelter; but the cruel turner of nimble pennies out short his dream by a demand for pay for his instrument.

"Verdi" laid fit down with a longing, lingering look, as though he thought, "Can such things be and overcome us like a summer dream," and bled him—i. e., he progressed in his cowhides on his way. There was a soul attuned to harmony in that chap. If any base citizen wants to enjoy a first class sensation, let him borrow that fellow for an evening and take him to the opera or a grand concert. His eyes would stick out beyond the lobster gauge, and doubtless could be removed without recalling him from the charmed realm of harmonious sounds.

The Japanese youths who have gone to learn the customs and languages of foreign nations, are in great danger of forgetting their own. An instance is recorded in Yokohama, where a Japanese who left his native country about eleven years ago, was examined by the French professors of the Kal Sei Gakko, and though they pronounced his conversational powers and pronunciation better than any pupil in the college, he was unable to answer questions in the various branches of study, such as are common-place in the lowest class. The young man had utterly forgotten his own language. The young man's prospects as a Japanese are not very brilliant. He cannot even become an interpreter, but must sit down to learn Japanese as a new language.

Since the last Presidential election, not a day has passed, not an event has occurred, not a Credit Mobilier scandal has arisen, not a third term image has been projected, nothing has taken place in our civil affairs which has not confirmed us in our vital faith that the Liberal movement of 1872, with Horace Greeley at its head, will go into history as the most beneficent incident of American politics since the abolition of American slavery.—Golden Age.

INDIGNANT.—How like a guerrilla chief it was to dash into a political party, secure a number of good positions for his friends, and then dash out again. It is now stated that Mosby will give his influence to Kemper, the Conservative candidate for Governor of Virginia. Is this bushwhacker to be allowed to do as he pleases in both political parties?

A wretched little town collector in Connecticut has stolen $3,000 of the tax-payers' money, and has run away. He is altogether unworthy of further notice. Such petty defalcations, in this era of "grand enterprises," can only be regarded as evidences of "emotional insanity."
