

CHOLERA DEATHS—FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENTS—FINANCIAL TROUBLES. LONDON, September 30.—A number of new cases of cholera have appeared on the ship which brought the disease to Liverpool. The vessel is closely quarantined. Several railroad accidents to-day, with loss of life. The most serious was on the Scotch road. Despatches from Berlin indicate financial trouble, and possible interference by the Government. Some stocks have fallen 20 per cent.

TELEGRAPHIC—AMERICAN MATTERS. DESTRUCTIVE FIRE IN CALIFORNIA—BRUTAL MURDERS—FOUL RIDING PUNISHED—DEATH OF A BEHEMOTH—YELLOW JACK IN SHREVEPORT AND ELSEWHERE—APPEAL FOR AID—THE FINANCIAL PANIC DEEPENING—CHILDREN KILLED BY STEERS IN THE STREET—DEATH OF PROMINENT MEN—OPENING OF THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE, &c. CHARLESTON, September 30.—Arrived—Schooner Myover, New York; steamships Manhattan, New York; Ashland, Philadelphia.

DRIVEN, COL., September 28.—Two-thirds of the flourishing mining town of Fairplay, Col., was destroyed by fire on Friday night. The fire originated in the Fairplay House, and spread rapidly in every direction. All the stores, the printing office, United States land office, post office, express office, hotels and other business places, with two or three exceptions, were burned. Many lost everything, except the clothes on their persons. Much suffering will result, as the season is too far advanced for rebuilding, and the weather is already extremely cold.

George M. Randall, Episcopal Bishop of Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming, died this morning, of pneumonia. SORANTON, September 28.—The bodies of Mrs. O'Mara, aged sixty-five, and her daughter, aged thirty, were found near Montrose Station, on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railway, this morning, but not mangled by the trains in any way. A coroner's jury elicited sufficient evidence to warrant the belief that they were murdered and placed on the track by Daniel O'Mara, the old lady's son, and his hired man, named Irving. Daniel O'Mara inherited some property, on condition that he would support the mother and daughter, the latter of whom was partially blind from her birth. The supposition is, that Daniel killed them to be relieved of the burden of supporting them. He and Irving are both held to answer.

NEW YORK, September 28.—At Prospect Park, yesterday, there were two races. The first race was for $1,000, mile heats. The first heat was won by Everett Ray, and second by Miss Miller, where a protest was ordered by a gentleman connected with the course, against the two apparent jockeying of the driver and the owner of the horse Hopful. The driver of the latter was then changed by the judges, and Hopful won the race in the three last heats. Time—2.26, 2.27, 2.25. The horse Hopful, his owner and driver were ruled, after the race, off all the tracks recognized by the National Association forever. The second race, mile heats, for $3,000, was won by Camer. Time—2.23 1/4, 2.22 1/4, 2.23 1/4.

PHILADELPHIA, September 30.—Baron's rhinoceros is dead. SHREVEPORT, LA., September 30.—Several most useful citizens are victims of the prevailing epidemic. The Howard Association have opened an orphan asylum, which feeds nearly two-thirds of the population. The fever, beyond question, the doctors say, was imported from Cuba. An appeal for relief from President L. E. Simmons, says 700 are sick. The peculiar character of the disease requires skillful attention and nursing. Hundreds are without means or employment. The destitution is as heart-rending as the disease itself. We feel that the great public heart will respond to this appeal, extorted by the most dire necessity. Our own resources are nearly exhausted, the wealthy are broken down, and the poor are threatened with actual starvation; the sick and dying are about to be deprived of the commonest comfort humanity can offer them. We appeal not to our fellow-countrymen, but to our fellow-men, for aid.

HANOVER, N. H., September 30.—Business is suspended in honor of the funeral of Dr. Dixie Crosby, aged seventy-three. He was Professor of Surgery in Dartmouth College for thirty-five years. LOUISVILLE, September 30.—The savings banks, recently closed, have been admitted into the clearing house—making twenty-two banks in the association. CINCINNATI, September 30.—In general markets, there is a better feeling manifest still; but little has yet been done to remove the dead lock in which matters have fallen. Orders are here, especially for provisions, but there is very little disposition to move under existing circumstances. Holders of stock are generally firm, hoping that something may soon transpire to set the wheels of commerce in motion.

NEW YORK, September 30.—Wild steers killed two children in the streets. The September statement will show an increase in debt; outlays have diminished one-half since the panic. Henry J. Brooks, leather maker, has failed. Admiral Winslow, who commanded the Kearsage in the fight with the Alabama, is dead. The Stock Exchange and vicinity is crowded with members, who pressed round the President's desk, waving hats and cheering. The President said: "We are met again, after a very momentous suspension, for the purpose of resuming business. Your action in the interim has met with universal approbation, and has been most satisfactory to yourselves. Business would be carried on under the rules adopted yesterday by the Governing Committee, [which he read, and appointed a committee to settle contracts of defaulting parties.] In conclusion," he added, "all I ask now is, that you help each other to bear the burden that has fallen upon us, and to so conduct business as to enable the Exchange to carry on its work successfully." Loud cheering greeted these remarks. The members then proceeded with business. Much better feeling appears to exist, and the opening prices of stocks show a feeling of confidence. A later despatch says there was considerable pressure to sell stocks, at a decline of one to three per cent. from the opening prices. Brokers are indisposed to operate for customers on margins, until affairs are more settled.

CHICAGO, September 30.—The Union National Bank has gone into liquidation. MEMPHIS, September 30.—At a large meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, this morning, to consider the financial situation, a resolution was received from the banks of this city, to the effect that they would not suspend, but would open, in addition to the usual business, an exchange account, to be paid in kind, for the purpose of moving cotton, which was unanimously adopted by the Chamber.

WASHINGTON, September 30.—At the Cabinet meeting to-day, the business was routine. Present, Fish, Cresswell, Williams and Richardson. Probabilities—For the South Atlantic States, increasing Northerly to Easterly winds, generally cloudy weather, and rain accompanying the disturbance on the Gulf, which will probably move North-eastward into the former. Application was made in the United States Circuit Court to-day for an order enjoining the Comptroller of the Currency and the Receiver of the Bank of the Commonwealth from proceeding further in the matters of the bank; also, for a citation to show cause why the receivership should not be vacated, and the appointment declared null and void, on the ground that the bank never refused to redeem any of its circulating notes. The citation was granted, and made returnable on the 7th of October.

The banks and banking houses associated to do nothing more than to certify checks, do but little business, while those not in the association have largely increased their business, paying all checks upon them as usual. Among the latter is Geo. Riggs, who, since Saturday, has refused to receive $500,000 on deposit, not caring to enlarge his business, and employ additional clerks. LEAVENWORTH, September 30.—There is great indignation among the stockholders and depositors of the First National Bank of this city, in consequence of the Vice-President ordering the bank suspended, and at the same time drawing from the bank nearly $100,000 in currency to sustain the credit of Scott & Co., brokers, of which firm Vice-President Scott is a partner.

LITTLE ROCK, September 30.—The Attorney-General yesterday withdrew the suit against Gov. Baxter, and the Governor issued his order disbanding the militia. NEW YORK, September 30.—The resumption of Smith & Savers was received with cheers at the Stock Board. The impression prevails that all the leading houses will pull through. CHARLESTON, September 30.—The Union Bank continues the payment of currency. Its deposits exceed its disbursements by $3,000 or $4,000. Cotton sales to-day for greenbacks, instead of exclusively for sterling, as has been the case since the crisis.

RAVAGES OF THE YELLOW FEVER IN MEMPHIS AND SHREVEPORT.—Private advices and the letters of correspondents from Memphis and Shreveport give a far more terrible account of the ravages of the yellow fever in those places than can be obtained from the meagre telegraphic details.

In Memphis, the disease first made its appearance in a locality, reeking with filth and degraded humanity, known as "Happy Hollow." The population of that place before the fever decimated them numbered, perhaps, 1,000 souls, and was composed of negroes and a low class of Irish. The district is situated on the river bank, and the habitations consist of rude hovels and shanties, in which goats and pigs struggled for the mastery of the place with their owners.

For several days previous to the 15th ult., the fever had been creating havoc in "Happy Hollow," although the fact was not generally known. On the night of the 13th, the presence of the pestilence was first made known publicly, and on the next morning, (Sunday,) the Board of Health officially declared its existence in the city. Up to Saturday night, thirty-nine deaths, it was announced, had occurred in and about "Happy Hollow." On Sunday, the death-roll was augmented by fourteen deaths which were reported, while of many others no notification was given. Many bodies, it is said, were thrown into the river.

The tidings of Sunday produced a widespread commotion in the city, which almost resembled a panic. People hurriedly packed up their clothing and left by boat and train. The streets were filled with backs, either bearing away the scores of refugees or doing service in funeral trains. On Tuesday, twenty more deaths occurred, although the telegraphic reported a smaller number, and on Wednesday the death list footed up seventeen, making, with those previously reported, ninety deaths. In the meantime, the people—those who could conveniently get away—were hastening from the city in crowds, and when, on Friday, the 19th, services were held in the leading Protestant churches, most of the church-goers were found to have left the town. On that day, the principal streets of the city were deserted and wore a mournful look, as, in obedience to the Mayor's proclamation, many of the places of business were closed.

For the twenty-four hours ending at 9 o'clock, on last Friday night, the deaths from fever numbered twenty-two. The pestilence had made its way from "Happy Hollow" and "Pinch," where it had previously prevailed, and had spread over every part of the city and in the suburbs. Shelby, a fashionable street, had its victims as well as "Happy Hollow." Hourly applications were made to the Howard Association for nurses, but in the majority of cases, although over eighty were in constant attendance upon the sick, this needed relief could not be obtained. The large wages of twelve dollars per day were offered for nurses, but without avail. The regular pay for permanent nurses is thirty-five dollars per week, with board and traveling expenses paid. A correspondent who visited "Happy Hollow" and "Pinch," saw at least twenty fever patients in the throes of dissolution. In one shanty could be seen the ghastly spectacle of the father of the family (an Irishman) sitting dead in his chair, with his head fallen upon his breast, while on a rude bed near by lay his wife dying. Two girls, daughters of the couple, were also sick in the same room. All four died during the night, and were buried in the Potter's Field. In other shanties, three bodies ready for burial were found, in others, one or two, and in others still, whole families were either dead or dying. The Board of Health vainly endeavored, by two or three devices, to stay the pestilence. They turned the water from the plugs into the dirty gutters, and for two or three nights in succession, the gas from the street lamps was permitted to escape all night as a disinfectant. By Saturday morning last, a number of the streets presented a funeral appearance, a majority of the houses occupied by the poorer classes being closed, and nearly all the corner groceries and meat-shops being shut up.

Passengers on a Shreveport steamer, which reached New Orleans on the 17th, describe the pestilence and destitution in that town as frightful beyond all telegraphic reports. Fully one-half of the 5,000 or 6,000 inhabitants had fled in every direction, many of them only to die on reaching a place of apparent refuge. The sickness was the Mexican vomito, and had been brought to the town by the Trans-Atlantic Circus, a strolling company from Vera Cruz, which had traveled along the line of the Texas Pacific Railway, and had left the seeds of the contagion along their route. Two other causes, in the opinion of the citizens, aided to intensify the malignant and fatal character of the pestilence, and these were the unhealthy condition of the town, arising from the removal of the Red River raft and the infected atmosphere, caused by the stench of dead cattle upon a sunken steamboat, the Ruby, which lies in the river near the town. While the circus was in Shreveport several of the member died of the disease, and after it left others of the company who remained also perished. So fatal is the fever that but few who are attacked recover. Three days is generally the longest limit of the sickness, and many die in forty-eight hours' time. The poorer classes were the first to suffer, but it has now spread through all ranks of society, and many prominent people have died. In some cases whole families have been swept away. The first case of vomito occurred on August 30, when a Mrs. Stoner died; then a gentleman who had nursed her was prostrated and died in his turn. Following these were the cases of three men who came to Shreveport from the raft in the Red River, where they had been working. They were all three taken sick with the vomito and died.

These deaths caused a panic, and the deaths followed thereafter with frightful rapidity. The negroes had generally escaped the pestilence, but the quadroon element had suffered. The town, with its deserted streets, wears a gloomy appearance, and so many have gone away that there are barely enough left to bury the dead. The blacks are frightened and demoralized, and it is difficult to hire them to nurse the patients. As a general rule, the digging of the graves is performed by the old men of the town.
