Eoglish 'pick-pockets excel all others in the pitch of refinement to which they carry their art. In a church congress at Bath, during the discussion of the Rev. E. Garbett's paper on "The Life of Godiness," Archdcacon Emery, the permaneut secretary, roso and said that "some one in the garb of a clergyman was, yesterduy, found in that hall, with his hands in the pocket of a lady." He "feared that there must be some un-cody parson there." was, yesterday, found in that hall, with his hands in the porket of a lady." He "feared that there must be some un-godly person there."
